PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

Los Angeles, Cal.—Ruth Le Maire is beginning business at 406 South Hill street, operating Ye Hill Street Flower Shop.

Spokane, Wash.—The firm of Olsson & Bernson, wholesale florists, has been dissolved. H. L. Olsson continues the business.

Los Angeles, Cal.—The city council has passed an ordinance permitting the construction of greenhouses in the fire district. A change in the building ordinances, which prohibited any structure not of fireproof construction, was necessary.

NOTICE! WARNING!!

Florists at San Francisco and throughout the Pacific coast are warned against fake subscription agents claiming to take orders for The Review. The Review has no traveling subscription agents—its representatives are all well known residents of the communities in which they work. Don't pay money to strangers.

This warning is specially necessary at this time because certain florists in San Francisco recently have given the subscription fee for The Review to a petty swindler who uses a receipt blank of the National Grain Grower, scratching out that name and writing in the name of The Review. He signs himself illegibly, "J. B——." He should be turned over to the police.

AT THE ROSE FESTIVAL.

The accompanying illustration shows a section of the exhibit of the Portland Floral Society in the floral center of

YOU MAY discontinue our ad of Mums, as we are completely sold out. Review ads certainly are business-bringers. First order received within 24 hours after The Review came, and since then orders coming from as far south and east as Texas, Oklahoma, California and about everywhere. They are still coming, and we shall have to return several containing checks and money orders.

the rose festival, held in Portland June 9 to 11. The bed in the center was formed of potted Lady Gay and Tausendschon roses, with a border of geraniums, pyrethrums and alternantheras. It lay in the street between the two park blocks used as the floral center. The urns of hydrangeas came from the Martin & Forbes Co. Complete report of the floral center was given in the Portland news-letter in The Review for June 17.

LOS ANGELES.

The Market.

Although the market has been distinctly warm, business has held up well. In fact, several retailers say that their business is far ahead of that of last year. Several important weddings and the funeral of a well known pioneer of Los Angeles made a good demand for the best class of stock, which is seldom any too plentiful. Graduation bouquets, too, have called for a good many flowers. Besides the stock previously in the market, asters have made their appearance and are of fairly good quality. Centaureas are here in all the popular colors and make a pretty show. Dahlias are at their best. There is plenty of all kinds of outdoor stock, especially roses.

Various Notes.

E. M. Reasoner, of Reasoner Bros.' Royal Palm Nurseries, Oneco, Fla., has been visiting in this city after a trip to the exposition at San Diego. He was accompanied by his wife and son.

The Broadway Florist was exceedingly busy at the time of the arrival of Miss Geraldine Farrar, the noted prima donna. The firm sent men to meet the train at San Bernardino, where Miss Farrar's car was decorated with American Beauties and other flowers. A bouquet of orchids was presented to Miss Farrar. The Gillette funeral also provided a lot of work for this enterprising firm.

At the store of the Germain Seed & Plant Co. business keeps up fairly well for the season. The nursery and landscaping departments are busy, several good contracts helping out the usually dull time. This firm has been awarded the contract for planting the large grounds of the new Venice high school, one of the most important jobs of the season so far.

J. W. Wolters has returned from his trip to Honolulu, having added about twenty pounds to his weight. Hunter Graham, of this store, leaves for his vacation this week, taking in first the San Francisco exhibition.

Wolfskills' & Morris Goldenson had a great deal of good work for the Foster funeral last week.

Vincent Gorly, of Grimm & Gorly, St. Louis, is spending his vacation in this city. Mrs. Gorly accompanies him and he is staying with friends in the south side.

Richard Altman, formerly connected with the flower department at the Hamburger department store, and now manager of the Donofrio Floral Co., Phoenix, Ariz., is in town. He is going to San Francisco for the big show and will then return here before going back to Phoenix.

Vernon G. Childs, son of John Lewis Childs, of Floral Park, N. Y., is in town looking after his interests here.

On a recent busy day the Freeman-Lewis Co. had the decorations for the wedding of Miss Canfield. The affair was an important one in society here and called for some elegant work on the part of the florist. The living room was banked with lilies and American Beauty roses in tall gold vases. There were also several groups of cathedral candles, the holders being showered with lilies. C. Lewis is a well known artist, but he says himself he never before did such good work as in the bride's and bridesmaids' bouquets here. The former was of lily of the valley and odontoglossums; the latter were of valley and pink dendrobiums. The dining room was draped with valley and Adiantum Farleyense. On the Summer has arrived with more violence than was expected. Since Wednesday the official thermometer has shown maximums in the 90's and the volume of business which was handled the first of the week has been considerably reduced. The heat wave has cut down the demand from interior points. Indoor stock has suffered both in quality and quantity. There have been a number of social events which have used flowers and decorations. Outdoor flowers are being offered in larger quantities than the dealers can handle. There are no blooming plants to speak of and the call for foliage plants is light. The few lilies coming in are in demand for funeral work. Sweet peas are plentiful and cheap. In some localities the peas streets, Foreman Wadsworth was planting the last of his benches of chrysanthemums. He says there is still some demand for porch decorations and bedding stock. The firm used about twelve dozen tritomas in a decoration made for the Chamber of Commerce in honor of the visiting delegation of Chinese capitalists.

At the old Pfunder place, at East Forty-ninth and Alder streets, John Willius is picking a fine crop of tomatoes, which he markets in attractive cartons. He has one house filled with asters, which are just beginning to bloom. The improvement of East Forty-ninth street has necessitated the removal of one greenhouse, which extended over the sidewalk line.

F. A. Van Kirk has several benches of Herald carnations set in place. These were grown inside from January cuttings and have developed into fine plants. On some of his benches he has bottom and side boards which have been in use nine seasons and are still in serviceable condition. They are of Oregon pine, or Douglas fir, and have had no preservative except a cleaning and whitewashing when the beds were filled each year.

Martin & Forbes are showing some fine gladioli, grown outdoors.

John Zimmerman is marketing some good godetias of flesh-pink color.

O. E. Panzer has grown some statice which takes well with the dealers.

The Wilson & Crout Co. is ready to house carnations and will devote more space to them than last year. The company has put in more mums than usual, all of them being late varieties.

The pink variety of gypsophila now on the market is pretty, but is disagreeable to handle, on account of the sticky substance on the stems. S. W. W.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

A few good-sized weddings and funerals have kept things moving fairly well this week, and decorative work for exposition functions and the like is taking up a lot of stock all the time. Shipping business also is better than usual at this season, being mainly in roses and greens. Flowers, however, are too plentiful to permit good prices for anything but unusually fine stock. All kinds of outdoor stock are still offered freely and are sold in large quantities. Scabiosas are unusually fine and are popular. Poppies are more in evidence. The fashion of wearing small boutonnieres of cornflowers has taken a strong hold in some circles. Stocks are an important item and statice is everywhere. Coreopsis, gailardias, marigolds, marguerites and Shasta daisies all figure largely in the daily offerings. A lot of nice godetias appeared last week. A good many asters are expected in a couple of weeks. There are still some good sweet peas, but there is an abundance of trash, which keeps prices down in spite of a good demand.

Carnations are plentiful and cheap. Many fine varieties of gladioli are appearing in limited quantities and bring fair prices, but ordinary offerings can hardly be cleaned up. Large quantities are coming from Santa Cruz, but the best stock comes from local or northern San Mateo gardens. Cool weather still retards the dahlias a little, and they are not overplentiful; fine stock, indeed, is scarce. Mildew is uncomfortably common on the roses, but there is enough good stock for all requirements. Ophelia is more plentiful and shows excellent color; Taft seems to be giving way to it. Russell maintains its popularity and some fine Hadley is coming in. The cut of Irish Elegance is increasing. Lilies are still plentiful, and only first-class lots find much demand. The supply of valley is ample, but not excessive, and the quality is fair. There has been a good call for orchids this week. A good deal of red tritoma is coming in. Hydrangeas and cockseombs continue to sell freely.

Various Notes.

Mr. Motroni, who a year or so ago sold out a flower shop at Washington and Fillmore streets and has since been at Sacramento, has found life at the state capital too slow for his liking since the legislature adjourned and the hot weather came on, and decided to get back into the city trade. He has taken a store at 1806 Fillmore, above Sutter, adopting the trade name of Motroni's Art Floral Co. In the opening announcement it is said, "Established in 1888 and twelve years in the western addition." The store has been prettily fitted up, the interior woodwork being treated with cream enamel, with pergola and lattice effects and extensive use of mirrors on the walls. This makes three shops in the immediate vicinity of Sutter and Fillmore streets; H. Levin's is across the street at 1803, and the Anchor Floral Co. at 2001 Sutter, around the corner, and a lively scramble for the business is expected. The trade name chosen by Mr. Motroni, in view of the fact that an Art Floral Co. already has a well established business on Powell street, has aroused more or less comment in the trade.

Emile Serveau has taken a lot of orders for calla bulbs this season and will start shipping in a couple of weeks. He expects to have more available for shipment next year.

H. Levin, at 1803 Fillmore street, states that the exposition is undoubtedly helping business in that part of town and that there has so far been more life to the trade than last year.

The wide reputation of some of the San Francisco florists is indicated by the fact that Victor Podesta, of Podesta & Baldocchi, was called to Reno, Nev., last week to supervise decorations for a fashionable wedding. The event also furnished business for some of the other local houses, Pelicano, Rossi & Co. sending a bridal bouquet of phalaenopsis.

The American Express Co., which only recently invaded San Francisco, is furnishing a refrigerator car service that is a great convenience to wholesale florists, this being the first time that a refrigerator service on express schedule has been available. The E. W. McLellan Co. has lately been shipping a great deal of asparagus and maidenhair by this route to points throughout the middle west, where dealers quite generally are taking advantage of the opportunity to get these goods fresh from California. It is expected also that this service will be of great advantage in shipping violets during the fall.

Charles Stappenbeck, the American Florist of Polk street, is getting a magnificent cut of Ophelia roses and says the flowers and the crop are getting bigger every day. He is also showing some Francis King and America gladioli from nearby points that are away ahead of most of the stock received.

A. O. Stein is still busy with decorative work. A few days ago, on the occasion of a dinner dance in New York building at the exposition on the departure of Judge and Mrs. Lamar, he arranged the table for fifty-seven as an Italian sunken garden, with pink, blue and white hydrangeas. Another large decoration, with tables for about 180, for the Swedish commission dinner, was done in American Beauties, and a dinner for forty, in honor of the Honduras commission, was decorated with forty dozen red dahlias.

Frank & Parodi, on McAllister street, near Fillmore street, say things have quieted down a good deal lately, but report a highly satisfactory trade during the spring.

The E. W. McLellan Co. is bringing in a few Lady Alice Stanley roses. They look well, but it is too soon to tell much about them.

nished the pansies for the exposition, visited San Francisco last week. The pansies, which succeeded the tulips in a large part of the grounds, are still blossoming finely.

Lucien E. Rohlick has completed arrangements to engage in the flower business at Portersville, Cal., making his headquarters in the Mission Garage in that town, in which he has an interest. He is starting the construction of a greenhouse near his home. In the past considerable business at Portersville has gone to florists in Visalia and Fresno, but Mr. Rohlick will be in a position to take care of the business promptly.

There seems to be a growing sentiment in favor of a florists' picnic this summer, and from the interest taken in the matter it is expected that both florists and gardeners will support the event. Plans are still indefinite, some wanting to have it this month and others later. The question is expected to come up for discussion at the coming meeting of the Horticultural Society.

Forty-first annual meeting, Milwaukee, Wis., June 22 to 24, 1916.

THE T. C. Thurlow's Sons Co., Newburyport, Mass., is holding flower shows at various places in the state. For one week a show was held at the Chalifoux department store, in Lowell.

THE latest news-letter, No. 18, of the federal horticultural board is a list of the hosts on which pests have been found since the organization of the board, together with the names of the pests found thereon, the country of origin, and the number of times reported.

OFFICE employees of Chase Bros. Co., Rochester, N. Y., held an outing Saturday, June 26, which included a 15-mile ride on Lake Canandaigua. After dinner, at the Canandaigua hotel, the party, which numbered sixty-five, made a trip through Sonnenberg, the estate of Mrs. F. F. Thompson, and made use of the ball grounds there.

FRENCH APPLE SEED POOR.

It is stated that as a result of the present European war approximately half of the apple seed obtained from France this year has been of inferior quality. The scarcity of workmen, particularly of those experienced in handling the seed, is held to be the prime cause of the low grade of seed received this year. For instance, of the 700 employees of the firm handling most of the seed, 400 have been called to the front.

The seed is procured from crushed apples at the cider mills. If the seed is not extracted soon after the juice is pressed out of the apples, its vitality is impaired. It is thought that the shortage of men resulted in carelessness in regard to this matter.

Enough seed has been ordered, however, to enable the apple seedling growers of the Kaw valley, in Kansas, to produce enough seedlings to meet the present demand, and it is believed that there will be no shortage.

NEW ENGLAND QUARANTINE.

July 1 there went into effect the new regulations in regard to the quarantine established by the federal horticultural board on account of the gipsy and brown-tail moths. The quarantine covers about half of New England, and affects shipments of the various coniferous trees, such as spruce, fir, hemlock, pine, juniper and arbor-vitæ, generally designated as Christmas trees; plants, such as holly and laurel, described as Christmas greens; forest-plant products, which include various forms of drawn in a southwesterly direction across the middle of the state of Maine, from Houlton to Andover; west across the northern end of New Hampshire, through Dummer and Stratford; west in Vermont to Stannard, and thence east almost along the eastern boundary; south through the state of Massachusetts a few miles west of the Connecticut river; south in Connecticut to Hartford and along the Connecticut river to its mouth.

The territory quarantined for the gipsy moth is included between the Atlantic ocean and a line drawn from Mt. Desert, Me., northwest to Bangor, thence southwest parallel with the coast to Fryeburg and Brownfield; southwest across the center of New Hampshire to Hanover; barely crossing the state line into Vermont to Norwich and Hartford; thence along the boundary line of the two states; south in Massachusetts to Deerfield, thence east to Athol, and a little east of south to Sturbridge; south at the eastern end of Connecticut through Woodstock to Stonington and Groton. The town of Leyden, Mass., west of the line through that state is also quarantined.

Shipments from towns within the districts outlined are allowed to go to points outside the area only after being inspected by the United States Department of Agriculture and ascertained to be free from infestation by these moths. Expense of inspection is borne by the government; incidental expenses, such as those for storage, cartage and labor, must be paid by the shipper. Interstate movement of all classes of plants and plant products entirely within the quarantined area will be permitted without restrictions other than those imposed by state officials at points of destination.

Copies of the regulations in regard to the quarantine, known as No. 22, may be obtained from the Department of Agriculture.

Colorado Springs, Colo.—James Dougherty, aged 59, stated to be a florist of Pueblo, committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid June 25 at a lodging house. His wife and three children live at 1339 Route avenue, Pueblo. He came here about a year ago.

WINTER-FLOWERING ROSES

Specially Low Prices to Close Out Stocks Remaining Unsold.

We have a particularly fine stock of the newer and leading standard varieties in 3½ and 4-inch pots ready for immediate planting. The prices quoted below for 3½ and 4-inch stock are as low as the prices at which 2½-inch stock is usually sold. The demand for Ophelia is very heavy. If you want to plant this valuable new rose, do not delay placing order. While we have a nice stock of it at present, at the rate it is selling we are likely to become sold out before long.

Ophelia, Francis Scott Key, Mme. Edmond Rostand and Crimson Queen.....$20.00 per 100

Mrs. George Shawyer, Killarney Brilliant, Sunburst, Prince E. C. d'Arenberg, Lady Hillingdon, Mrs. Aaron Ward, Killarney Queen, Richmond and White Killarney.....$15.00 per 100

All of the above are strong grafted plants, with exception of Francis Scott Key, Mme. Edmond Rostand and Sunburst, which are own-root stock.

HYDRANGEAS

We have a magnificent lot of large plants grown in tubs and half-barrels for

JULY AND AUGUST FLOWERING

We have made a specialty of Hydrangeas for years, and our plants have never been finer than they are this year. They are well budded, and will be in perfection during July and August—when they are most in demand.

BALTIMORE.

The Market.

Business has continued to hold up fairly well, considering the warm weather. There is still a plentiful supply of stock, but none of it is of extra good quality, and as the demand is light, prices have been correspondingly low. Outdoor sweet peas are coming in and are fairly good. Gladioli have also made their appearance, but are not selling well, even at a low figure. Carnations generally are poor. Roses, especially Killarney, are hard to move; the street fakers offered them as low as 10 cents per dozen for fair stock. Asters are a little more plentiful and are pretty well taken up. The spring showers show their effect on dahlias, some of which are of really good quality for this season of the year. The retailers have settled down to their summer period of inactivity, and vacation thoughts are uppermost in the minds of many.

Various Notes.

J. J. Perry returned this week from a business trip to Philadelphia, where he also attended the directors' meeting of the Pennock-Meehan Co., for which firm he is local manager. The local branch announces that during the summer the store will close at 5 p. m. instead of 6, the usual hour.

G. A. Lotze began to cut the first lot of gladioli last week; 200,000 bulbs of these were planted at his Glenburnie farm this year, all for summer flowering. He can be rightly called the gladiolus king of this section.

Schroeder Bros. have purchased a new automobile for pleasure use.

F. A. Seidlich is cutting some good dahlias for the early crop, from his place at Woodlawn.

Do not forget the park inspection trip, July 12. The starting point will be University parkway and Wyman's park, at 2 p. m. It is intended to spend the entire afternoon in this manner and to wind up at the club rooms in time for the regular meeting. It is likely that only one meeting will be held this month, and final arrangements will be made at this meeting for the trip to Pen Mar and the western Maryland fruit belt. W. F. E.

The Market.

There is no change in market conditions. About the same quantity of stock is coming from the inside, and all of it is wonderfully good, the best ever seen at this season of the year. Beauties are fine, as good as in winter. Killarney roses and carnations are also good, and there are plenty of good lilies and valley to take care of the trade. Of course, there is much worthless stock, but that does not count. Wholesalers sell what they can and throw the rest away. The average price is fair on everything.

Various Notes.

All the employees are talking vacation, and many have already gone. Atlantic City, the lake trips and Canada are the favorites.

David Hill is spending some time in the Shenandoah valley and Washington, D. C.; Joe Gotti, at Detroit.

Ray Daschbach says his vacation will be spent at his Thornburg home, where there is a fine golf links; he is some golf and tennis player. Saturday, July 3, he pitched for the Rotary Baseball Club in its exhibition game for the babies, and won his game.

Mrs. E. A. Williams, with a party of friends, is making an automobile trip through the historic Shenandoah valley.

Wm. Usinger, of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., is "doing" the Great Lakes.

The regular monthly meeting of the Pittsburgh Florists' and Gardeners' Club was held Tuesday, July 6, in the Fort Pitt hotel, at 8 p. m. The subject for discussion was, "Roses and Outdoor Flowers." There will be no August meeting. Clarke.

NEW NEPHROLEPIS FERN—JOHN WANAMAKER

We will introduce the above new fern on August 1st, 1915. In presenting this fern to the trade, we feel confident that it will make a place for itself.

The John Wanamaker fern is a wonderful advance over all plain or wavy frond varieties. The side pinnae of the fronds are very fully undulated, giving the plants a very wavy appearance. It will make as many fronds as Teddy, Jr., plants in 4-inch pots having over sixty fronds. It is a beautifully formed plant, full and compact.

Orders will be filled strictly in rotation.

4 X 40 = 2400

G. S. RAMSBURG,

Problems in mathematics are not always easy, and this one seems especially complicated. These figures are connected with our famous Silver Pink Snapdragon Seedlings, and are explained below:

York Village, Me., June 29, 1915.
My Dear Mr. Ramsburg: Please send us one packet of seed of your Silver Pink. Our bed this year was better than ever, and we kept a record of the spikes cut to Memorial Day. Last year, you will remember, we told you we cut 1600 blooms from a bench 4 x 40 feet, and this year on the same bed we cut 2400 blooms and are still cutting hundreds of small spikes that we find use for every day. Wish we had room to grow more. Yours truly, W. G. MOULTON & SON.

Ponder these figures and see if you can equal them with anything. You cannot have any plant that will give so much pleasure and profit as a bunch of Silver Pink seedlings. July and August are the months to sow seed of this great snapdragon. Price per pkt., $1.00; 3 for $2.50; 7 for $5.00. Seed of other varieties: Nelrose, Yellow, White, Garnet, Buxton and Mixed, 35c per pkt.; 3 for $1.00. Free cultural directions. All orders cash or C. O. D. Plants for fall blooms as follows:

Silver Pink SEEDLINGS.....$4.00 per 100; $35.00 per 1000
Nelrose, Garnet and Yellow$5.00 per 100

We are gratified with the reception of SILVER QUEEN, our new orchid-flowered snapdragon. Orders the first week for over one hundred plants of this wonderful variety shows an appreciative public and the popularity of snapdragons in general. Not having space to propagate in great quantities, we decided to offer a limited number of plants in advance. Price, delivered by parcel post, $1.00 per plant; 6 for $5.00; 15 for $10.00. By express, $60.00 per 100. Growing snapdragons is our business. Make up your order, being sure to include a few Silver Queen. See recent ads.

Greenhouse Heating.

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the Editor of this Department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. But please do not ask The Review to make a choice of apparatus for you. The greenhouse heating equipment advertised in this paper is, we believe, the best for the trade to buy, and each article the best in the special field of its adaptation.

FOUR-INCH FLUES FOR PIPING.

Will you please tell me how to pipe my greenhouse, which is 20x50 feet? It has three feet of boards and sixteen inches of glass in each side wall. The north end is protected by an office and boiler shed. A temperature of 50 degrees is to be maintained when the outside temperature is 15 degrees below zero. Would 4-inch boiler flues be satisfactory as piping for this house?

H. M. G.—Ohio.

While the house can be heated by using two 4-inch boiler flues as flows under each of the side benches, with an equal number of returns, making eight 4-inch flues in all, I would prefer to use ten 3-inch flues, and even better results may be obtained by using a still smaller size. To distribute the heat evenly through the house, I would prefer to use a 2-inch wrought-iron flow pipe upon each plate and another about two feet below the ridge. With these connect nine 2-inch returns, arranged in three coils of three pipes each, either on the walls or under the benches. Three 2½-inch flows and ten 1½-inch returns would also give good results.

QUESTION IS NOT QUITE CLEAR.

Please inform us how much piping to use, and how to arrange it, to heat a greenhouse 20x125. The height of the house is about fifteen feet from ground to ridge. It runs east and west and has no glass in the north wall. We have a 12-horsepower boiler, which we intend to locate at the east end of the house. We wish to use 1½-inch pipe and to maintain a temperature of 60 degrees. The lowest outside temperature is about 20 degrees below zero. Is it necessary to have heat under the benches, or will it be just as satisfactory to have the pipes run along the walls? The house will be divided into two parts, one for carnations and the other for potted plants.

E. M. & S.—Ill.

While the statements regarding the house to be heated are clear and complete in most respects, in two important points the data are deficient and hence it is not possible to give as definite a reply as would be desirable. I am not able to determine whether steam or hot water will be used for heating the house. The size of pipe mentioned, which is the only clue, is rather large

 "THE BOILER OF GENUINE EFFICIENCY"

Our Boilers were installed to heat 2,304,450 sq. ft. glass in 1914 is making the most wonderful greenhouse heating record in the world. Florists who have used other makes are constantly giving the Kroeschell the highest praise.

The Kroeschell

10,788,000 sq. ft. of glass was equipped with the Kroeschell Boiler during the past five years.

The Kroeschell

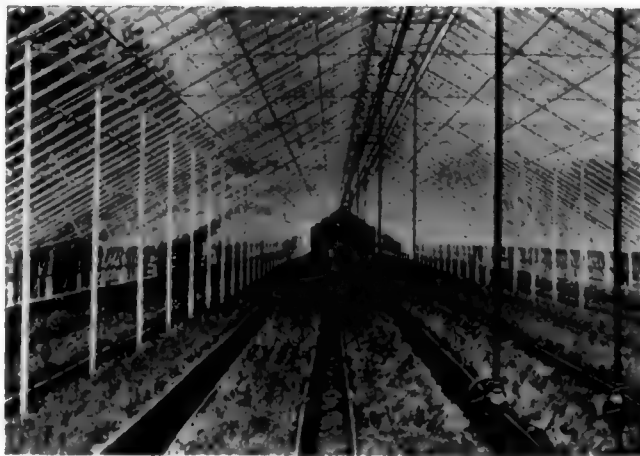

has replaced hundreds of cast iron boilers. In every case higher temperatures are secured with the Kroeschell with the same piping and with less fuel.

The Kroeschell is sold direct from our factory to users. This eliminates the unnecessary greenhouse builder's profit.

Florists in every State are using the Kroeschell Boiler, and mighty is their praise. The year of 1914 brought an enormous number of new customers who saw our boiler in operation at other places. We attribute the large sales of this season to the good work the Kroeschell Boiler is doing everywhere.

With our policy—"the customer's interest first"—perfection of construction—factory-to-user prices—honest and "true-blue" boiler ratings—you simply cannot lose.

A FAMOUS LONG ISLAND ESTABLISHMENT

During the last cold wave, 6 above zero with a 90-mile gale blowing, one end of the houses was as warm as the other, no variation at all, which speaks well for your heating plan.

There are no remarks or suggestions to make regarding your boilers, as we consider same the acme of perfection for greenhouse hot water heating in every way.

The steam boiler you furnished us last summer for pumping and heating purposes is certainly a "GEM." An easier, more effective as well as economical boiler as to fuel consumption I have not seen.

for steam in a small house, and is too small for use with hot water in a house over seventy-five feet in length, except when a pressure system is used. The letter states that there is no glass in the north wall, from which it may be inferred that there is glass in the south wall and perhaps in one end. The height of the walls also should be known.

greenhouse 20x125 can be heated to 60 degrees with steam by using one 2½-inch flow pipe, located about three feet below the ridge, and nine 1½-inch pipes as returns. Two or three of the returns may be upon each wall, but I would prefer to distribute the others under the benches, as the bottom heat thus provided will favor the growth of the plants. If preferred, a 2-inch flow pipe may be upon each plate and one less return will then be required.

If there is no glass in the side walls, one of the returns may be omitted.

For heating with hot water, I would use three 2½-inch flow pipes and twelve 2-inch returns, or two flows and thirteen returns, arranged about the same as for steam. One flow may be placed upon each plate, and if three are used the third pipe may be under the ridge. If the 1½-inch pipe is on hand, it may be substituted for the 2-inch as returns, provided a mercury or other pressure system is installed. In ordinary winter weather even the 1½-inch pipe will suffice to give the temperature desired and, since the water in the pipes can be raised even above the boiling point by placing it under pressure, there will be no difficulty about maintaining 60 degrees in the coldest weather. The radiation is figured at 60 degrees, as requested, although a temperature of 50 to 55 degrees is all that is required for growing carnations.

PIPING FOR CUCUMBER FRAMES.

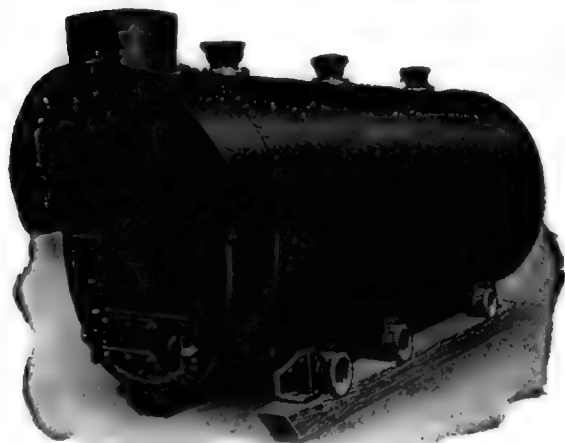

I have two frames, each 6x50 feet, eighteen inches high in front and thirty inches high at the back. They are used for growing early cucumbers. During the winter no heat is needed in the daytime, but frequently the temperature at night goes as low as 33 to 36 degrees. What hot water piping would be needed for the two frames, here in southern California, to keep them at the proper temperature? Should there be any piping underneath? There is a 3-foot walk between the frames.
W. J. M.—Cal.

If a little bottom heat can be provided for the frames, it will hasten the growth of the cucumbers. Under the conditions mentioned, I would run a 2-inch flow pipe on the back of the frames, about six inches below the glass, and connect this at the end of the beds with two 2-inch returns, the top of which should be about six inches below the surface of the soil. In case bottom heat is not desired, the necessary night temperature may be secured by running one 2-inch return pipe on the front wall of the beds.

He Says:

"The best thing that ever came out for greenhouses"

Federal Elastic Cement is not a new product—it had been used for years for waterproofing and airproofing before Florists found it and called our attention to its special value for greenhouse glazing, particularly for tightening the roofs of old houses.

B. L. Elliott, proprietor of the John Bader Co., Pittsburgh's largest plant grower, wrote, April 5, 1915:

"I would say anyone who has old houses and does not use this Cement is missing a good thing.

"We used Federal Elastic Cement on sixteen old houses in July, 1914. They were in pretty bad shape, but since then not one light of glass has blown out. Had it not stopped any leakage we would have been well paid in the saving of breakage. If we had to put it on every year we would do so, but it looks today the same as it did last fall. It is a little hard to put on, but we think it is the best thing that ever came out for greenhouses."

If you have a leaky gutter, fill the joint with Federal Elastic Cement. Fine for roofing.

Federal Elastic Cement never grows hard or disintegrates in the package; never crumbles or pulls loose on the roof; lasts at least five times as long as putty; water-tight; holds the glass firmly.

We make a special grade for greenhouse glazing—a thinner, short-fiber consistency that can be used in a putty bulb or mastic machine. Black is best, but almost any color can be furnished.

The price of Federal Elastic Cement, greenhouse grade, is:
Per barrel (550 lbs.) per pound, 8c
Per half-barrel (300 lbs.) per pound, 8c
Per keg (100 or 150 lbs.) per pound, 10c
Price on trial pails quoted on request. Special prices in quantities of a ton or over.

One pound goes as far as two to three pounds of putty. It therefore is the cheapest as well as "the best thing that ever came out for greenhouses."

The Market.

Summer dullness has settled on the market, with only an occasional party or wedding and a little funeral work to break the monotony. Prices are low. Carnation season is about over, and what is left of them bring about $1 per hundred. Roses are better than usual at this season, on account of the cool weather. During June the temperature was the lowest for the month since 1911. There were only six clear days during the month. The prevailing direction of the wind was northeast, while for June during the last four years the prevailing direction was southwest. This accounts for the unusually low temperature. The outdoor stock is suffering greatly from the long, heavy rains.

The month of June was quite a successful one from the florists' point of view. Stock was of unusually good quality and there was a large demand, which cleaned up the supply each week. Florists, generally, are now settling down for the midseason quiet, and not a few of them are renovating store and greenhouses in anticipation of the fall season.

Various Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lanternier, pioneer residents of this city and well known florists, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in an elaborate manner June 29. The celebration began with the marriage ceremony at St. Andrew's Catholic church at 8 o'clock in the morning. The church was handsomely decorated. The altar was massed with ferns and banked with deep yellow flowers, and the pews were hung with festoons of smilax and yellow roses, tied with golden tulle. The maids carried huge bouquets of Sunburst roses. The ceremony was followed by an elegant breakfast, served at the Lanternier home on Anthony boulevard. A large reception was held during the afternoon and evening.

G. W. Doswell & Son are busy renovating the greenhouses and planting the stock for fall. R. F.

BAYONNE, N. J.

John J. Johnson, 163 Broadway, reports that spring business this year was the best that he has had in the eighteen years that he has been in business. Besides considerable wedding and funeral work, there has been a large demand for cut flowers and a good seed trade. Mr. Johnson is well situated. His store faces a business street; behind this are his greenhouse and a good-sized yard, where vegetable and flower plants, privet, etc., for his trade are grown; forming an L with his greenhouse and facing on a fine residence street is Mr. Johnson's home.

G. A. Ripp, Jr., 751 Broadway, reports that business has been fair, but that collections are slow. He had considerable wedding work through June, one wedding the last week of the month being an unusually large one. There has been much funeral work of late.

Paul Stier, 1192 Boulevard, states that he has never seen such a demand for palms for decorations as there has been during the last few months. He has had a large number on hand. He has planted a large number of chrysanthemums for the fall trade.

F. W. O. Schroeter, 457 Avenue E, reports that business is fair.

The sun has at last shone for a whole week, and it seems as though summer is here, although July 4 it rained all day and spoiled many an outing.

The deaths of several well known old residents have kept everyone busy with funeral work, and have kept the usual summer dullness from settling on us.

A. W. Herre, of A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, was in town last week.

Miss Frances Robinson, of Henry Smith's force, is spending a few days at her home, and the store has been rushed with funeral work in her absence.

Arthur F. Crabb moved into his new store, at 13 Jefferson avenue, Saturday, July 3, although all his fixtures had not arrived. An increase in trade was noticeable the first day in the new place.

GROWERS!

When we tell you that Magic Manures are causing a lot of excitement among brother florists we are expressing it mildly. A big grower told us the other day that we "have succeeded in producing what he found to be the most satisfactory and most economical manure that was ever placed before the trade."

"Magic" combines all the elements of barnyard manure in scientific proportions without a single objectionable feature. IT gives you what YOU NEED NOW in preparing your soil and does away with weeds, insects and the unpleasant odors. Cheapness of application and the absolute certainty and definiteness of its Plant Food Contents is always known. It's not only safe, but improves the quality of the flowers as well as increases the number of crops.

BE the master of your own business. Don't gamble on the soil. It's bad business. Learn now to use commercial manures. Buy where you can Buy Best.

Magic Manure is the best for greenhouse soils. You will agree with us if you give "Magic" a trial, and thank us for bringing this advertisement to YOUR ATTENTION.

LANCASTER, PA.

The Market.

Official records in Lancaster city show the rainfall for June to have been 8.2 inches, which is most unusual for this section. Consequently, plant life is making vigorous growth. Early varieties of asters are making their appearance, and, judging by the size and good condition of the aster plantings in general this season, some of the growers will be driving 6-cylinder machines or be putting up iron-frame greenhouses with part of the profits by the time the season is over.

The outdoor gladiolus plantings look exceptionally well, and an occasional bud may be seen showing color. The indoor gladioli are rapidly drawing to a close.

Various Notes.

At Paradise, Pa., Irø Landis had some choice Klondyke gladioli recently, and at H. D. Rehner's some exceptional Princeps was seen.

Frank L. Kohr and B. F. Barr & Co. are cutting extra fine gladioli.

As previously stated, the Lancaster County florists will hold a dahlia show in connection with the Lancaster County Fair, in the latter part of September. The attendance at the fair often runs more than 100,000 per day, so that dahlias will certainly have a boost here. Albert M. Herr, chairman of the dahlia exhibit, has been issuing instructions to the amateurs through the local papers, as to the proper fertilization, disbudding, etc., in order to have the best possible blooms for the competitive classes.

When the old Liberty Bell passed through Lancaster, July 5, en route to the Panama exposition, the school children strewed garlands of flowers over the car. Mrs. Albert M. Herr was on the committee which assisted the children.

Harry A. Schroyer last week entertained Mayor Trout, Judge Hassler and a party of friends at a pea dinner, which he serves each year.

July 15 the annual picnic of the Lancaster county florists will be held at Rocky Springs park, which is a 20-minute trolley ride from Lancaster. For those desiring a picnic lunch at noon and dinner at 5 p. m., there will be a charge of $1. Tickets can be obtained from the committee at the dancing pavilion from 11 to 12 o'clock on that day. A program of sports has been arranged for the afternoon. A cordial invitation is extended to any florists and their friends from neighboring counties to attend. H. K. R.

TRICKS IN TRAINING MAMMOTH MUMS

Skill worthy of a prestidigitator, combined with toil and care in unlimited quantities, is required of the grower of 14-foot bush mums. But every florist will find the effort expended in training a plant of smaller size a profitable investment in an advertising way.

At the autumn shows in New York each year, the visitors view with admiration the splendid roses, carnations, orchids and exhibition mums, and look with interest upon the novelties in the various lines, but it is only when they come to the large bush chrysanthemums that they make any striking display of their appreciation. For the last several years the immense potted mums exhibited by the gardeners of the large estates in the vicinity of the eastern metropolis have been the big feature of the shows for the newspapers and the visiting public. There is something spectacular about them that moves the crowds gathered around them to outspoken and extravagant praise.

An Advertising Opportunity.

Of course, the time, labor and care, not to speak of the experience and skill, necessary to train a plant such as that shown in the illustration on this page, is beyond the ordinary commercial florist. But to win admiration of the public, it is not necessary to attain the size of the plants exhibited by John Canning, of Ardsley, N. Y., which measure more than fourteen feet in diameter and carry over 1,400 blooms; Mr. Canning's ambition is to beat the mikado's gardener, at Tokyo, who has set the mark of sixteen feet four inches. If a florist's shop exhibited a plant of no more than half that size, it would win speedy attention from the passing public. A plant of this size will, indeed, require a large expenditure of time and care, but the result in advertising would warrant the attempt by many florists.

No exhaustive treatment of the growing and training of bush mums can be given in the space available here. Every experienced chrysanthemum grower knows the underlying principles of culture. Therefore, the final potting and the method of training the plants only are treated here. These are outlined in Mr. Canning's own words as follows:

The Final Potting.

For the last potting, or tubbing, properly speaking, we use the standard plant tubs, measuring twenty-four inches in diameter. The final compost is as follows: Six parts of good, coarse loam, one and one-half parts coarse leaf-mold and two parts good, mellow cow manure, with a generous addition of both coarse and fine bone, a fair amount of Thomson's vine and plant manure, and soot, lime and sufficient charcoal, all thoroughly mixed with the soil. We prepare our tubs by placing large pieces of potsherds over the holes in the bottoms, then fill in with finer pieces. On this we use a few coarse leaves and a good layer of manure, topping this off with a good sprinkling of coarse bone.

After filling our tubs to within fifteen inches of the top, we select three of the best and most uniform plants, and place them in one of our tubs to form one specimen. We then fill in with soil about them, finishing in such a manner that we have three inches of space at the top for future top-dressing and water.

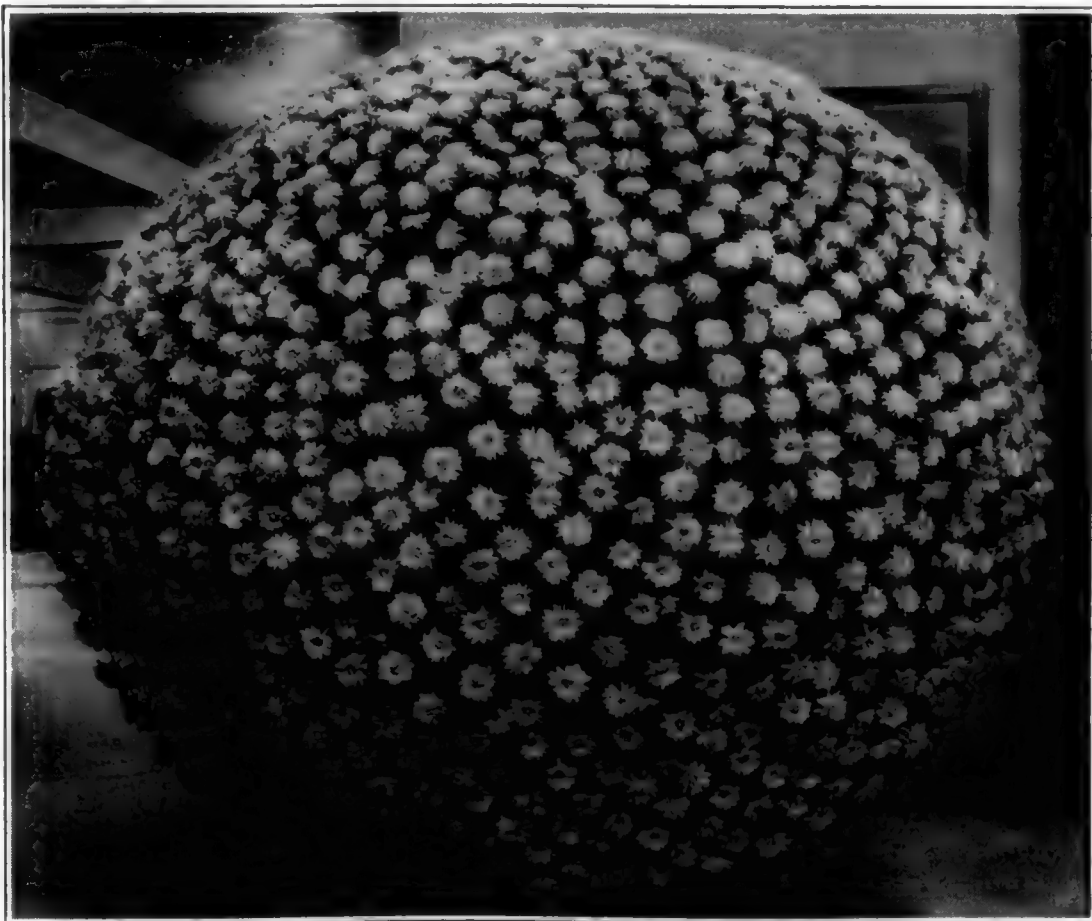

We place the plants in a temperature of 55 to 60 degrees at night. Soon we supply stakes about the edges of the tubs and tie raffia from one stake to another, to keep the increasing growth from falling over the tubs.

We now come to the period of first tying down or training. Our large house, void of benches, is prepared about May 1, and the plants are placed therein. The outside temperature being warmer, we carry our night temperature from then on at 50 degrees when possible.

Training the Plants.

Our first training consists of placing a strong stake in the center of the tub, leaving it four feet above the top of the tub when well driven into the soil. We next use four $\frac{3}{8}$ -inch round iron rods, cut to 10-foot lengths. These we place at right angles to one another on the top edge of the tub, their centers crossing at the center of the tub or about the stake at this point. These rods are then placed equidistant from one another at the edge of the tub, and fastened there with staples driven over them into the tub edge. Measuring the distance our plants will reach out when tied down, we place a circular ring of No. 8 galvanized wire at this point on the top of our heavy round rods, tying these together at each point of contact with florists' green twine. This gives us eight ties, and we now have the foundation of our framing and may enlarge on it as we need.

We take down

our plant on all sides, tying the longer growths to the frame evenly all around. The shorter ones we tie up a little higher toward the center on strings from the center stake to the frame wire, finishing each plant in a partly pyramidal fashion.

As each plant is finished and turns its growth upward again, we give it its second pinching, removing the tip of each shoot, except on those plants that heretofore have thrown terminal buds.

Soon we notice more growth, and taking the three strongest growths on each former one, we discard all others. We repeat our former method of tying down when about fifteen inches of new growth has been made, adding a larger circular wire and building a little higher near the center each time.

This method we repeat during the summer, pinching for the third time about July 15 to 30. This gives us sufficient wood to fill our specimens, and they now continue to finish their growth without more pinching, except when we find here and there a long growth. We never pinch later than the second week in August. The continued growth of our plants may require us to extend our foundation rods in order to carry a larger ring.

Our terminal buds begin to show from September 1 to 15, according to the variety. We then commence disbud-ding, and prepare to make up our frame of wire upon which to tie the buds.

Building the Wire Frame.

We first find the point on our foundation wire that the last growth of our plants will reach, and then cut a length of No. 8 wire that when bent into a perfect circular shape will form an outside ring at this point. This ring we tie to our foundation rods at each point of contact. This finished, we cut off all the ends of our foundation wires close to our circular wire.

Measuring the height at which we wish to train our plant in the center, we cut the stake at this point. We measure the approximate distance from the top of the stake to the outside point of the boundary ring, and cut four lengths of No. 8 wire double this measurement in length, allowing a little more for working with. These wires are then bent into a curving form and are placed over the plant, crossing the top of the stake at right angles, and their ends are tied to the ends of the foundation wire at both sides. We drill a small hole through the stake near the top, and pass a small wire through this hole for tying all wires at the top securely to the stake.

We also use smaller stakes placed equidistant from our center stake and the edge of the plant. These stakes are placed under the four longitudinal wires and driven into the soil. The wires are secured to these stakes with small staples. At this point we place another circular wire, tying at the point of contact with the smaller stakes. We next use No. 10 wire, starting at the bottom of the frame and placing every eight inches latitudinal wires over the whole frame. Again we run other smaller wires longitudinally, and fill in the intervals with longitudinal strings of silkaline. We have, when finished, a frame resembling a hemisphere, and now paint the whole foliage-green and prepare to tie.

The tying is done in the bud stage, the work being done from the outside inward, and the buds best adapted for different positions are used, attempting to keep them evenly distributed throughout, with the top of the buds two inches above the frame. After the tying is finished the buds will all turn up evenly to the light, and again we straighten any that require it. When they are about fully open, we again go over them with stemming wire, and inserting this in the base of the flowers, we are able, by twisting this about the stems, to place each flower in its proper position and thus gain a uniform effect.

CHICAGO FLORISTS' CLUB.

Flower Show Plans.

The meeting of the Chicago Florists' Club, July 8, was well attended by all branches of the trade, and everyone had some bit of valuable information to carry home with him and apply later in his every-day affairs. The first business of the evening was to hear George Asmus' report of the progress being made by the flower show committee. The result of the meeting of the joint executive committee of the Horticultural Society and the Florists' Club has already been reported in The Review. Mr. Asmus, who at that meeting was appointed chairman of the premium committee, selected as his aids August Poehlmann, Carl Cropp, C. W. Johnson, Frank Oechlin and W. E. Tricker. Together they have prepared a premium list that only awaits the sanction of the executive committee before publication.

The Geneva Horticultural Society, of Lake Geneva, Wis., has mailed its schedule to George Asmus with the suggestion that if it be accepted without alteration by the Chicago flower show committee, the society will cancel its show and exhibit here. The matter was put to vote and carried unanimously that the schedule be adopted as submitted. Mr. Asmus said that it would be possible to secure an option on the Coliseum for a spring show in 1917 without entailing any liability on the part of the club. The advantage urged in favor of having a spring show alternate with one in the fall lies in the fact it gives the exhibitors an opportunity to display an entirely different kind of stock and thus stimulate the interest of the public; and, further, it makes two shows serve for three years. It was suggested by the Horticultural Society and accepted by vote of the club that those contributing to the guarantee fund shall receive ten per cent of the profits, if there are any, of the show, the balance to be divided equally between the two organizations. In conformity with the action of the Horticultural Society, it was voted to draw a voucher on the club treasury for $250 to be added to a like amount appropriated by the society for the purpose of making a deposit of $500 on the rent for the Coliseum. All minor details of the show will be worked out by special committees. There are no developments in the arrangements for the club picnic other than those reported in The Review of July 8.

Miscellaneous Business.

The following were elected to membership: George C. Weiland, Evanston;

H. B. Kennicott, R. R. Brenton and Max Ringier, all of 165 North Wabash avenue; G. F. Sykes and James M. Brown, of Lord & Burnham Co.; Charles Mathes, Western Springs, Ill. Application for membership was made by Allie Zech, 30 East Randolph street; Morris Grossberg, 56 East Randolph street, and John Michal, 7045 Stony Island avenue. Before bringing the business session to a close, Guy French, chairman of the transportation committee, urged on all members the desirability of a larger representation at the San Francisco convention of the S. A. F. Mr. French is in receipt of several reservations from the east.

Business Efficiency.

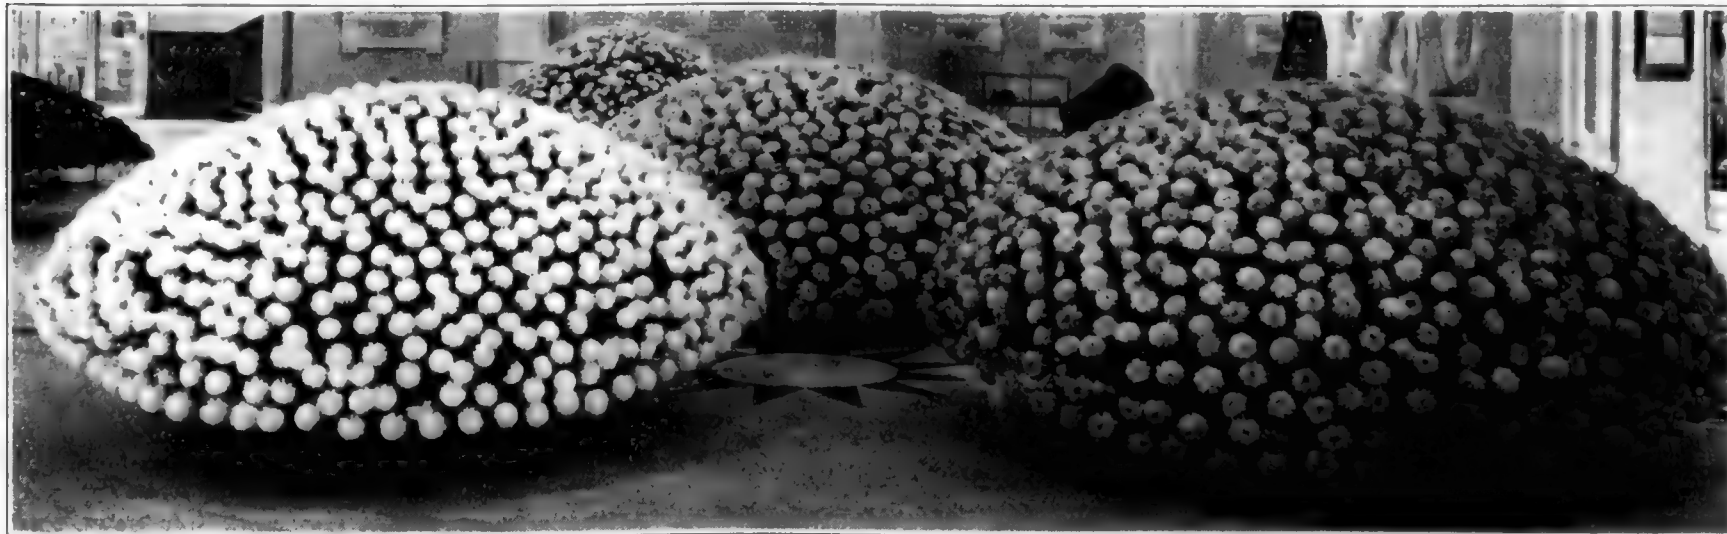

The feature of the evening was a talk on business efficiency by Harry Newman Tolles, of the Sheldon School of Salesmanship. Mr. Tolles laid particular stress on confidence and service as being prime factors in the building up of a commercial success. In the course of his talk, Mr. Tolles defined personality as being that positive element in one's make-up that inspires confidence. Confidence he in turn defined as the foundation on which is builded the superstructure of modern business. But service must be understood as the ground in which is imbedded the foundation of confidence. He urged upon all the fact that to have success you must have efficient coöperation; to have efficient coöperation you must have efficient employees, and to have these you must be efficient yourself. It is needless to say that the members of the florists' trade are always highly appreciative of every opportunity afforded them for advancement in business or trade methods, and showed their appreciation by securing from Mr. Tolles and his companion, Robert E. MacCarty, also of the Sheldon school, a promise of more talks at future meetings.

The Exhibits.

A splendid vase of Russell roses was exhibited by French & Salm, of Union Grove, Wis., and two large vases of Gold Medal hybrid delphinium were shown by Vaughan's Greenhouses, Western Springs, Ill. A. T. Pyfer exhibited a vase of new daisies, originated by Charles Gebhardt, of Lake Geneva, Wis.

Refreshments were served as usual and, judging from the innumerable expressions of pleasure and the late hour yourself? No special skill is needed to produce them. C. W.

SPOTTED GERANIUM FOLIAGE.

You will find enclosed two geranium leaves on which are red spots. Can you tell me what is the cause of these, and the remedy? R. B. P.—N. Y.

The plants, I should say, have been kept too dry at the root and have not had sufficient food. Give them a weak dose of nitrate of soda water, at the rate of one pound to twelve and one-half gallons of water. Repeat the dose ten days later. Soot water, made from soft coal soot, with some cow manure, will also tone them up. I do not believe the leaves have any disease on them. C. W.

PARASITE ON SALVIAS.

I am sending you under separate cover a yellow vine that appeared among my salvias. Can you tell me what it is? The vine lives on the plant when it is disconnected from the soil. The plant is strangled and the leaves drop. I have been fifty years in the florists' business, but never have seen it before. Please state your opinion. G. C.—Ohio.

This is one of the parasitic plants. There are many varieties of these, but I have not previously heard of, or seen, any case of salvias being attacked. Perhaps some other readers may have seen this parasite. It certainly made the salvia look sickly. I cannot suggest any remedy beyond pulling off and destroying the parasites, or, better still, destroying both parasites and salvias. C. W.

Geraniums

WHEN TO ROOT CUTTINGS.

When is the best time to pot geranium cuttings for spring blooming? What kind of soil should be used for growing them? Also, please give me the same information as to chrysanthemums and carnations. I have two small greenhouses and want to know when to start the plants. E. C.—Ohio.

Geranium cuttings can be put in from early September until the end of October. If you wait until the hottest weather has passed, fewer cuttings will damp off. Use pasture loam and sand for compost, but no manure. Do not give the cuttings any shade. If the cuttings are quite succulent, let them lie on the bench a few hours to dry.

Chrysanthemum cuttings for single-stem plants for benches can be put in from April 1 to June 1. Sometime in May would probably be sufficiently early for you. Carnations can be propagated from October to May, but December to February would be a good season for you to root what you need. C. W.

MAY BE CAESAR FRANCK.

I should like to know whether there is a good, double, dark red ivy-leaved geranium on the market and what its name is. I have a dark red geranium which I propagated from one among 20,000 of the coral-colored ivy-leaved sorts. I should like to know whether it is a new variety or what it is called. It is almost the same shade as Nutt. O. W. F.—Utah.

Possibly you may have the variety Caesar Franck, which is rich crimson in color and a fine sort. It is practically the same shade as S. A. Nutt. C. W.

A BRONZE-LEAVED GERANIUM.

I am enclosing a photograph of a seedling geranium. It has prettily shaded bronze leaves and scarlet flowers. The truss was four and one-half inches across. Please tell me if there are any bronze-leaved geraniums with red or scarlet blooms, as I should like to know if I have a new variety. S. P.—Ore.

There are several old bronze-leaved geraniums, such as the Shah and Marshal McMahon, which have red or scarlet flowers. These are termed golden bronzes. The flower trusses on these varieties are smaller than on yours. Your plant appears to be vigorous in habit and the truss is of good size. If this is a true bronze, it should prove valuable for bedding purposes. It is of different habit from the old varieties already named and should be worth propagating. I could judge better of its value if I could see a leaf and flower truss. C. W.

PLANTS GROWN AS STANDARDS.

Does any florist carry standard geraniums and heliotropes, and what are the best varieties for the purpose? W. B.—N. J.

Seedling heliotropes, which possess greater vigor than cuttings, are best adapted for standards. Almost any of the zonale geraniums make good standards. Those which naturally make a short-jointed growth make better heads than the more vigorous ones. I do not know of any firm that offers standard geraniums, but probably there are such. The W. W. Edgar Co., Waverley, Mass., grows standard heliotropes in quantity and undoubtedly there are others who do so. Why not start some standards

Peonies

LOOKING AHEAD.

While the flowering season for peonies has passed, it does not pay to neglect the plants. Give them a top-dressing of tankage, dried blood or nitrate of soda, scratching the soil about them after applying it. This will be found of special value for such as did not bloom satisfactorily this season. Food of this character applied now will wonderfully strengthen the plants and the number and quality of flowers in 1916 will show that the extra trouble has been well repaid.

A PEONY CATECHISM.

I am a beginner in peony growing, as you will perceive. In the following questions, when varieties are designated by the word old, it means that this spring was the second cutting season, and when the word new is used, that this spring was the first cutting season. A. J. P.—S. C.

Question—Pæonia edulis superba and Queen Victoria did poorly, both old and new; maxima, old, well and festiva maxima fairly well. Meissonier did fairly well, although it misses greatly in coming up. Mme. De Verneville, new, did not bloom much. The Queen Victoria plants last year were fine, large bushes, well budded, but this year they are little, low bushes, mostly without buds or with only a few small ones. Many of the plants of all varieties have little red buds which only dry up, as well as good-appearing buds which simply die with no visible reason for it. The Mme. De Verneville bushes were tiny and low last year and are still small. I have read that if the roots are planted too deeply the plants will not bloom. I planted my last lot deeper than the first, and the shallow-planted ones have not done so well. Those in the second planting averaged a depth of three and one-half inches, while the first lot averaged two and one-half inches. Last year the young plants retained their green color better than the older ones during the hot summer. The young plants had been fertilized earlier, as I did not fertilize the older ones until after blooming. Hence I thought that possibly the early fertilizing kept the plants greener, so this year I gave all an early application. I intended to use ground bone and potash, but the guano turned out to be blood and bone meal. The potash was added, of course. My land is poor and I am wondering whether that is the trouble with the plants. It is a sandy loam. This season I have large peas planted between the rows, and the peas are to be plowed under, green, about July 1.

Answer—I think your land is probably lacking in the necessary plant food for peonies. They are strong feeders and succeed best in a deep soil, well enriched with manure. Animal manures, especially cow manure, are the best. If you cannot secure these, use a high-grade potato fertilizer in the spring and work it well into the soil. As growth advances, a light top-dressing of nitrate of soda or dried blood will be found helpful. Remember that peonies are gross feeders, and the deeper your soil is trenched or plowed and the more liberally it is manured, the better will be your returns. Plants bloom sparsely the first and second seasons after being divided, particularly if the weather has been dry and the soil is not sufficiently rich. The crowns should be covered to a depth of two or two and one-half inches. If you can obtain well decayed manure, give a good fall mulch with it. After the blooms are all cut is a good time to give the land another top-dressing of, say, ground bone. Cover crops will furnish some humus if plowed in green, but you would get better results if the land had some preparation of this kind before the planting was done.

Q.—Should as much nitrate be used in fertilizer after plowing in green crops?

A.—No, the peas, cowpeas, clover, etc., all contain considerable nitrogen.

Q.—Would it be wise to plant a winter cover crop also between the rows?

A.—Only if your land is likely to waste badly.

Q.—Will the blood and bone meal injure the keeping quality of the blooms next year?

A.—There is no reason why it should.

Q.—When leaves come up below the earth, or on a level with it, would these indicate that the roots were planted too deeply?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Does rain cause the buds to open more quickly?

A.—Yes, if heat accompanies it. A moist atmosphere and comparatively cool conditions are what peonies like.

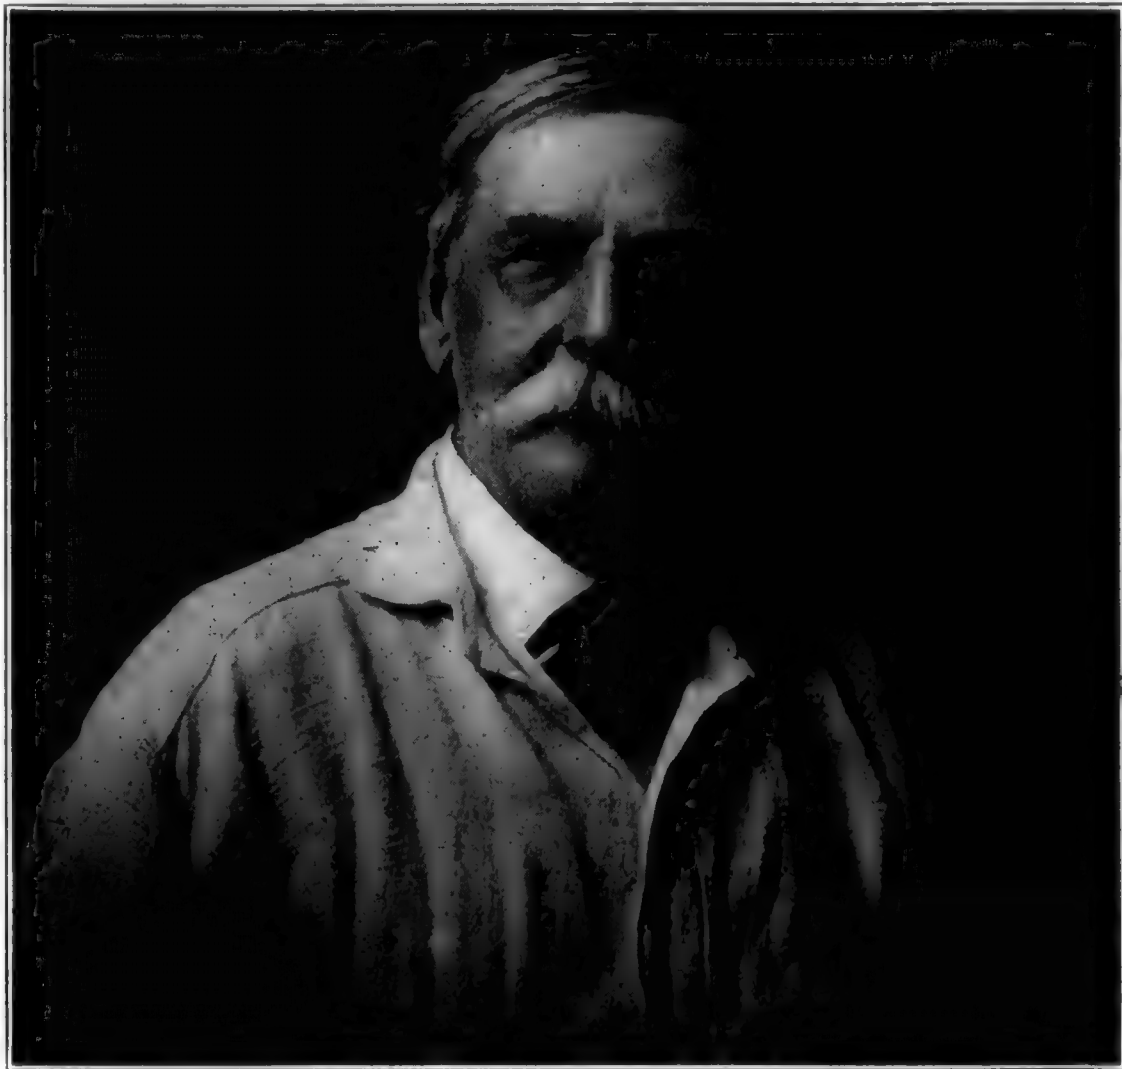

Q.—Are Queen Victoria and Edulis Superba less able to stand hot sunshine?

A.—They stand it fully as well as other sorts.

Q.—Do some varieties do well one year and poorly the next?

A.—If too much growth is cut away

WHO'S WHO IN THE TRADE—AND WHY

E. J. SHAYLOR.

NO, this is not the portrait of a painter who has for the moment laid aside his pallet, but of another artist of the brush, in the costume in which it is his wont to wield the camel's-hair. E. J. Shaylor has been growing peonies for a dozen years, at Auburndale, Mass., and has been a well known exhibitor at the Boston shows. After working up one of the largest collections of varieties in America he turned his attention to hybridizing and in the course of time became possessed of thousands of seedlings that will take a lifetime to test. Last season he sold to the Thurlows his entire stock except the seedlings and one plant of each named variety, at the same time agreeing not to sell peonies again until 1917. The intervening time is being devoted to work with his novelties.

or the season has been extremely dry, they will deteriorate.

Q.—What causes the red buds?

A.—Dryness at the root and lack of plant food.

Q.—What causes good buds to die when the plant appears healthy?

A.—Sometimes late frosts, sometimes dryness.

Q.—Should bushes with only a low spray or two on them be dug up and replaced by new roots?

A.—Yes.

Q.—What is a good spray for ants?

A.—Why spray for ants? They do the buds and flowers no harm; they are merely seeking the sweet juices exuded.

Q.—How can flies be kept from alighting on the buds?

A.—I do not know, unless some gauze covering can be placed over them. For green fly, spray with any good soap spray.

Q.—What strong white variety would bloom with Meissonier?

A.—Duchesse de Nemours (Calot), La Rosiere or Emily Hoste.

Q.—Is Meissonier a poor keeper? With me the petals drop off early, and before they are withered.

A.—Only a moderately good keeper.

Q.—Is it injurious to the growth of the following year if the stems are cut so as to leave only one leaf on the root stem portion?

A.—The more foliage left, the better will be the flower crop the following year. Many clumps are practically ruined by the removal of too much foliage.

PROPAGATING TRADESCANTIAS.

I should like to know how to handle the wandering Jew, or tradescantia, to make it increase. E. T.—Ill.

Wandering Jew, or tradescantia, is perhaps the most easily rooted greenhouse plant we have. It will root under a bench, in water, sand or soil. Give it plenty of moisture. The main trouble with this plant is that it propagates too easily and needs to be constantly cut back to prevent its overrunning everything in the houses. C. W.

CARRYING OVER ROSE PLANTS.

What is the best way to handle bench roses which are to be carried over for next spring's bedding? Would it be better to keep them in cold storage? If so, how should they be prepared for storage?
M. F. C.—Tenn.

The inquiry does not state for what length of time the bench roses are to be kept. I do not think rose plants could be kept successfully for any length of time in cold storage. If the plants are taken out of the benches at this time of the year, the best treatment for them would be to plant them outdoors and keep them growing till frost, when they can be taken up and set close together either in a coldframe or any other sheltered place, where they will winter with little protection.

FOR A BEGINNER IN ROSES.

As a beginner in roses, I should like to obtain some information through The Review. Is 2½-inch a good size for benching? How soon could blooms be cut from plants this size? Are two eyes enough to leave when cutting flowers? I should also like some information in regard to feeding. Is top-dressing or liquid manure the better?
A. J. P.—Iowa.

While it is the practice to grow young roses in pots to 3-inch or 4-inch before planting them in the bench, to save time and utilize the growing space as long as possible before replanting, it is not at all necessary to do so; 2½-inch rose plants will do just as well planted in benches as larger plants, only it will be a longer time before they will be large enough to cut flowers from. It usually takes from three to four months from the time of planting before the plants will produce good flowers on stems long enough to pay to cut for the market, though for home use flowers can be cut sooner, provided they are cut with short stems, leaving as much foliage as possible to support the plants.

In cutting the first crop of flowers from young plants, it is good policy to leave three or four eyes on all strong shoots and at least two full, perfect leaves of five petals. After the first crop, all flowers may be cut to the first full leaf, which is usually the second eye. About the time the first crop of blooms is developing, a light feeding should be given, which in hot weather should consist of half decayed stable manure, which will cover the soil and prevent it from baking in the hot sun. Later in the season, when the days are shorter, it is a good thing to give the plants liquid manure every two or three weeks, provided the plants are making good growth. The more the plants grow, the more food they will require and should accordingly be given.

VENTILATING A ROSE HOUSE.

Please inform me as fully as possible in regard to ventilating a rose house, 22x80 feet, with three side windows. Is it possible for the house to become too hot, and so crisp the leaves and stiffen them? Should the side ventilators be open as much as possible, according to the weather, in a house of this size? Please state the best way to ward off mildew, which is easy to get in so small a house. The ridge pole is about twenty feet high, and the ventilators are on the south side.
V. B. W.—Iowa.

Roses should be ventilated as much as possible from the ridge of the house. In extremely hot weather side ventilation may be used, but it is not practiced much, as it seems to cause mildew. Burning of the leaves in hot weather is usually caused by syringing the plants on bright, sunny days while the plants are suffering from dryness at the roots. As long as the plants are in good growing condition and receive plenty of water they will not burn, no matter how hot it is. To prevent mildew, keep air on the house at all times; see that the foliage is dry at night whenever possible; on cool nights have a little fire going, and keep some sulphur painted on the heating pipes. If there are signs of mildew around, dust some sulphur on the leaves on sunny days.

THE BAGATELLE ROSE TRIALS.

Despite the war, the annual judgment of new roses, planted in the grounds of Chateau de Bagatelle, in the Bois de Boulogne, near Paris, was given June 18. Owing to the circumstances of the war, foreign members of the jury sent their excuses, and the judges were all Frenchmen. All roses of German and Austrian origin had been discarded.

The following awards were distributed:

Gold medal, to a rose from a French raiser: Mme. Raymond Poincare, H. T., a superb rose, described as a glorified Mrs. Aaron Ward, raised by Jules Gravereaux, an amateur of l'Hay.

Gold medal, to a rose of foreign raiser: Mme. Marcel Delauney, H. T., of strong build and growth, a blush-colored, large rose, presented by Messrs. Leenders, of Steil Tegelen, Holland.

First certificate of Bagatelle: Queen Mary, H. T., from A. Dickson & Sons.

Second certificate of Bagatelle: Etincelante, H. T., an improved Gruss an Teplitz, presented by M. Chambard, of Lyon.

The rules also specify that one or two certificates may be distributed to climbers. Two were distributed as follows:

First: Louis Sauvage, a dark garnet red multiflora climber, from E. Turbat & Co., of Orleans.

Second: Gustave Bienvenu, a nice red Wichuraiana hybrid, from Auguste Nomin, of Chatillon.

The number of varieties competing was sixty.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS FOR SOUTHERN FLORISTS

PANDANUS IN THE SOUTH.

This decorative plant does exceedingly well in the south and grows rapidly. Old plants make lots of cuttings along their stems, but not all are good for making the kind of plant the trade requires. Reject all the rank, green cuttings, which never make nice plants, and select the short, nicely variegated ones, of which there are always plenty, and you will have the kind of plants that sell. The cuttings root readily at any time of the year, in a warm propagating bed in winter and in a shady house in summer. The leaves of strong cuttings will need to be loosely tied up before inserting in the propagating bed.

The potting soil should be good, with a third of rotten manure; if the soil is clayey, add a little clean sand. The best place for them in summer is on a table in a lath house. They can also be plunged out in a coldframe in the open, but if they are handled in this way the roots invariably find their way into the ground, where they develop enormously.

Although the pandanus is a stove plant, yet, when fully established in pots, it will stand greenhouse temperatures if kept well on the dry side. However, a night temperature a little over 60 degrees is always safe. In watering, care must be taken not to break down any of the leaves. Scale will give little trouble if the plants are not overcrowded and if they are sprayed properly. An occasional dipping in whale or seal oil soap is a good preventive.

In shipping these plants out of pots, I find it always necessary to keep them well on the dry side, even if for a long-distance shipment. If packed wet, they are almost certain to rot in transit. A nice cutting rooted in March, if properly cared for, will make a good standard 6-inch pot specimen for the holidays.

Sweet Peas

BOSTON SWEET PEA SHOW.

The annual sweet pea show in Horticultural hall, Boston, July 10 and 11, was smaller than usual and competitors were few. The exhibits, however, were of superb quality, the majority of the flowers being produced on disbudded plants. The recent torrential rains had ruined most of the local flowers; otherwise the exhibition would have been a grand one. In addition to sweet peas, there were large displays of hardy lilies, Japanese irises, herbaceous plants, hollyhocks, etc.

Awards in the principal sweet pea classes were as follows:

Twenty-five sprays, white—Edwin Jenkins, Lenox, Mass., first, with Constance Hinton; A. J. Dorward, gardener to Mrs. T. J. Emery, Newport, R. I., second, with Etta Dyke.

Twenty-five sprays, crimson or scarlet—E. Jenkins, first, with King Edward Spencer; A. J. Dorward, second, with Dobbie's Scarlet.

Twenty-five sprays, carmine—E. Jenkins, first, with Rosabelle; A. J. Dorward, second, with John Ingman.

Twenty-five sprays, yellow—E. Jenkins, first, with Dobbie's Cream; George Melvin, gardener to Col. Chas. Pfaff, second, with Primrose Spencer.

Twenty-five sprays, blue—E. Jenkins, first, with Leslie Imber; A. J. Dorward, second, with Alfred Watkins.

Twenty-five sprays, bluish—E. Jenkins, first, with Lady Evelyn Eyre; A. J. Dorward, second, with Mrs. Hugh Dickson.

Twenty-five sprays, deep pink—E. Jenkins, first, with magnificent Hercules with 20-inch stems; A. J. Dorward, second, with Margaret Atlee.

Twenty-five sprays, cream pink—A. J. Dorward, first and second, with Lady Miller and Harmony.

Twenty-five sprays, orange—E. Jenkins, first, with Mary Unwin; A. J. Dorward, second, with Inspector.

Twenty-five sprays, lavender—E. Jenkins, first, with Don Alvar; A. J. Dorward, second, with Lavender George Herbert, a decidedly more pleasing lavender shade than Don Alvar.

Twenty-five sprays, purple—E. Jenkins, first, with Royal Purple; George Melvin, second, with Royal Purple.

Twenty-five sprays, maroon—E. Jenkins, first, with Nubian; A. J. Dorward, second, with King Manoel.

Twenty-five sprays, picotee-edged—E. Jenkins, first, with Blue Picotee; A. J. Dorward, second, with Dobbie's Blue Picotee.

Twenty-five sprays, striped or flaked, red or rose—E. Jenkins, first.

Twenty-five sprays, any bicolor—E. Jenkins, first; A. J. Dorward, second.

Twenty-five sprays, striped or flaked, blue or purple—E. Jenkins, first; A. J. Dorward, second.

Best decoration of sweet peas—Penn the Florist, first; Boston Cut Flower Co., second. Each had pleasing arrangements over velvet.

Collection Japanese iris—Dr. Harris Kennedy, first; Henry Stewart, gardener to Miss Cornelia Warren, second and third.

In the amateur sweet pea classes the principal winners were F. P. Webber, Alice M. Hildreth and Miss T. H. Miller.

Collection native plants—L. D. Warren, first; Mrs. H. R. Hildreth, second; Mrs. F. C. Upham, third.

Among the miscellaneous exhibits were: Single Hollyhocks from Jackson Dawson; sweet peas from the Wells Beach Sweet Pea Farm; Oncidium flexuosum, hydrangeas, hemerocallis and veronicas from Henry Stewart; display of herbaceous plants from T. C. Thurlow's Sons Co., and a display of flowers from Mrs. E. M. Gill. Farquhar & Co. received a silver medal for an imposing collection of herbaceous plants. They also had a large table of the new Lilium regale, or myriophyllum, awarded honorable mention. Julius Heurlin received a first-class certificate for a new Lilium, L. Philadelphia x L. bulbiferum, spikes carrying twenty-four to thirty-two flowers and buds each.

Eastern Nurseries received a silver medal for their fine group of herbaceous plants. W. N. Craig was awarded a cultural certificate for Trachelium caeruleum. George Melvin received a silver medal for Odontoglossum laeve. There was a grand display of small fruits and vegetables. As showing how excellent competition was, there were no less than thirty-six entries for fifty pods of peas. J. O. Christensen won for the best collection of twelve varieties of vegetables. The Boston Mycological Club had a nice table of fungi.

The next prize exhibition occurs August 7 and 8. Special features will be gladioli, phlox, tuberous begonias, asters and annuals, with numerous fruits and vegetables.

DISEASE ON HARDY LILIES.

I am sending you under separate cover a specimen of our Madonna lily.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS

Bouvardias.

Bouvardias will now be making a good outdoor growth. They should have a pinching not later than July 20, and in the case of that finest of all varieties, B. Humboldtii, it is well to rub out a lot of the weaker shoots. All then remaining will run up to flower. The major portion of these weak shoots would come blind, anyway, and it is far better to rub them out. Keep the ground well cultivated about them and be sure to bench or pot the plants before the night temperatures fall below 40 degrees. It does not need actual freezing to kill the buds on bouvardias.

Genistas.

Genistas are now making rapid growth. If they are wanted of symmetrical form, the shears must be used on them once in two or three weeks. There is a tendency to grow these plants more naturally, and certainly such plants appeal more to critical buyers than the topiary-like, headed in

Our Madonna, umbellatum, rubrum and auratum lilies are in two beds, both of which are affected, but the other beds do not appear to have much, if anything, the matter with them. I have sprayed the lilies with Bordeaux mixture, but it does no good. If the bulbs were on gravel, would that cause the trouble, or would too much rain do it? We have not been troubled with this before. We shall greatly appreciate any information you can give as to the cause and the remedy. J. K.—Wis.

The shoots of Lilium candidum, or the Madonna lily, were badly diseased. It is not at all unusual to find this beautiful hardy white lily affected in this way. The trouble is due less to the soil than to atmospheric conditions. All lilies dislike a gravelly soil, and practically all prefer soil of good depth. Either peat or loam will grow them successfully and the addition of considerable sharp sand is a decided benefit. All like good drainage. L. candidum should be planted only four inches deep; other sorts, like speciosum, auratum, tigrinum, umbellatum, etc., do better if covered eight to twelve inches. The cooler and moister the roots are, the better they will do.

The disease on candidums, and to some extent on other lilies, is due usually to hot, damp and sunless weather, which is ideal for the development of fungoid diseases. It is of little use to spray after the disease has appeared, but if the plants are sprayed with Bordeaux once a week from the time they appear above ground until the flowering season, you can ward off the disease. This means considerable labor, but prevention is better than cure. I do not know whether you mulch your lilies or not. If not, do so, and note how much better they succeed. Rotted leaves, old manure and cocoanut fiber are all good for this purpose. C. W.

plants which are usually seen. Be sure the genistas are not allowed to suffer from drought; they enjoy syringing during hot weather.

Show Pelargoniums.

As the show pelargoniums pass out of flower, lay them on their sides outdoors. If the weather proves exceptionally hot and dry they may need a hosing over, but usually this is not necessary. They will become well ripened up toward the end of August, when they can be pruned back, and, after new growth has started, can be shaken out and repotted into much smaller pots.

Trachelium Caeruleum.

Trachelium caeruleum has proved to be a useful plant for summer flowering. It is best treated as a biennial. If seed is sown now and the plants are kept potted along, they will flower next June and July in 6-inch or 7-inch pots, or, if larger ones are desired, even small tubs may be used. The trache-liums, or throatworts, belong to the natural order campanulaceæ and are natives of the Mediterranean region. They produce large corymbs of violet-blue flowers, which are borne all along the stems and have a gypsophila-like or cloud-like effect. Where flowers are in demand during the last half of June and the first half of July, this is a desirable plant to grow. It succeeds well under cool greenhouse treatment, but can be advanced considerably in a warm, sunny house. In addition to propagation by means of seeds, cuttings in late summer can also be easily rooted.

Calceolarias and Cinerarias.

For an early batch of calceolarias and cinerarias, it is time to sow the seeds now. Drain the pans well and use mostly leaf-mold and fine sand for compost. Cover the seeds lightly and protect well from the sun. A cold-frame, where board shutters can be used until the seedlings show, is preferable to a greenhouse, as it can be kept cooler. When the seedlings appear watch them carefully, as there are always larvæ waiting to devour them. It is a safe plan to elevate the pans over trays of water to keep these pests away. In hot, moist weather there is danger of damping off, and great care must be taken to air freely and use water with caution.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS.

The Carl Hagenburger Co. and C. Merkel & Son, Mentor, O., will be strong on chrysanthemums. Business has been fully up to expectations.

The Baur Floral Co., Erie, Pa., has enough business to keep its two stores quite busy. Some fine specimens of boxwood adorn the fronts. The wholesale department reports big stocks of chrysanthemums, poinsettias and carnations in the field, in anticipation of the usual demand.

J. V. Laver, Erie, is steadily increasing the nursery branch. Part of the recently acquired farm will be planted to hardy stock.

William Honeysett, of the Massasauga Gardens, Erie, utilizes the floors of two big graperies by growing large numbers of vegetable plants, which are out of the way by the time the vines require the whole space.

Lawrence Cotter, of Lakeview Rose Gardens, Jamestown, N. Y., is taking the rest cure at Dr. Hay's sanitarium, Youngsville, Pa. His son, Charles, says entire recovery is promised in two or three weeks, which "Larry's" many friends will be glad to hear.

Daniel Offerlee, Warren, Pa., has decided to retire, after about forty years of strenuous work in the business, in which his good wife has taken an active part. The plant will be turned over to his son, Sheldon J., who has been associated several years with his parents. W. M.

AMERICAN ROSE SOCIETY.

The American Rose Society, at its annual meeting in Boston, endorsed the Cleveland flower show as its representative for a rose show this fall. The committee to represent this work was: Chairman, Guy Bate, Newton Falls, O.; L. L. Lamborn, Alliance, O., and E. B. George, Painesville, O. The report that comes back at the present time is that the exhibition of roses from the middle west will be of the first order. The list of premiums for the exhibition is quite liberal.

With this month of July the newly elected officers assume their places: President, S. S. Pennock, Philadelphia, succeeding Wallace R. Pierson, Cromwell, Conn.; vice-president, Louis J. Reuter, Westerly, R. I., succeeding Robert Pyle, West Grove, Pa. The holdovers are Treasurer Harry O. May, Summit, N. J., and Secretary Benj. Hammond, Beacon, N. Y. The executive committee for the ensuing year stands as follows: August F. Poehlmann, Morton Grove, Ill.; John H. Dunlop, Richmond Hill, Ont.; Robert Simpson, Clifton, N. J.; Eber Holmes, Montrose, Mass.; Wallace R. Pierson, Cromwell, Conn.; Robert Pyle, West Grove, Pa. An executive committee meeting will be held at the office of President Pennock, 1612 Ludlow street, Philadelphia, July 20. Consideration will be given to the coming national flower show in Philadelphia, also to the affiliation of local societies and the test gardens.

The paid membership of the American Rose Society is twenty more than we had at this time last year.

Indianapolis, Ind.

Battle Creek, Mich.—S. W. Coggan is erecting a greenhouse on South avenue, near his present range.

Speonk, N. Y.—The South Shore Floral Co. has given the contract for a house, 35x150 feet, to the King Construction Co., of North Tonawanda.

Chicago Heights, Ill.—G. A. Weberg, at Chicago and Main road, has outgrown his present greenhouse, and has material on the ground for a new one.

Irwin, Pa.—James A. Jacobs is building a greenhouse, 30x110 feet, in North Irwin. He started seven years ago with a 12x20 house, and now has sufficient business to devote his entire time to it.

Urbana, O.—R. H. Murphy's Sons have started an addition to the greenhouses on Oakland street. The new range will be the fourth, and will consist of six houses, 20x100 feet, and one house, 13x200 feet.

Hambleton, W. Va.—H. E. Hoefner will erect one house, 20x120 feet, this year, which he will use for chrysanthemums and afterwards for lettuce and other stock requiring about the same temperature. Trade in bedding stock was good; Mr. Hambleton sold out so completely that he will have to buy stock for next year.

Oelwein, Ia.—The Kemble Floral Co., which operates greenhouses in six other Iowa cities, has purchased three lots at the corner of South Frederick and Second streets, and the brick building on the corner. The company will build a greenhouse along Second street, next to the building, which will be improved by the installation of a show window facing the street.

Binghamton, N. Y.—H. S. Hopkins has obtained a permit to erect a $3,000 greenhouse at 12 Floral avenue.

Clinton, Ill.—Sylvester Grimsley is preparing plans for a greenhouse, 50x125 feet, on Madison street, to cost $5,000.

Columbus, O.—The contract for the greenhouse for Ohio State University has been awarded to Hitchings & Co., of Elizabeth, N. J.

Bay City, Mich.—Boehringer Bros. have given an order to the John C. Moninger Co., Chicago, for three new greenhouses each 20x150, of what is termed all-steel construction. The rafters are to be spaced sixteen feet eight inches, and these are said to be the first houses ever built with this spacing.

Salisbury, Md.—George H. Benedict is erecting a greenhouse, 60x150 feet, at River View Farm, which will be devoted to chrysanthemums. He will then have five greenhouses in this range, with a total of 25,000 feet of glass, in addition to the large house on Church street, which is Mr. Benedict's headquarters. His son, Herman Benedict, has charge of the range at River View Farm.

South Richmond, Va.—Ira L. Anderson & Son, proprietors of the Forest Hill Gardens, issued a well appearing announcement of the opening of their establishment. Cut flowers and plants will be their main lines; ornamental nursery stock will be handled, and landscape planting done. Charles F. Gillette is with the firm as landscape designer. They have just given an order to the Lord & Burnham Co. for a greenhouse.

MR. WELLS' ILLNESS.

Word came last week of the serious illness of W. Wells, of Merstham, England, who has many business connections in this country and who is known personally to quite a few members of the trade here through the exchange of visits. Mr. Wells underwent a serious operation June 23 and for a time there were slight hopes of his recovery, his advanced age being against him. But later advices indicate that his robust constitution will give him a good chance for recovery.

CHICAGO'S FLORAL FESTIVAL.

The Chicago fall flower show executive committee met at the city offices of Poehlmann Bros. Co., July 12, there being present A. Henderson, August Poehlmann, Arnold Ringier, George Asmus, E. A. Kanst, Edward Goldenstein, C. W. Johnson, W. J. Keimel, N. P. Miller, H. H. Wilkerson and M. Barker. The report of J. C. Vaughan on poster was presented and full power was given this committee to proceed as may seem best in the matter of securing a suitable design. Plans covering the trade space to be sold in the Coliseum and annex were discussed at length and arrangements made to issue a diagram and regulations. Appropriations aggregating approximately $1,000 were made in the gardeners' classes and the preliminary premium list was ordered printed. Chicago Grand Floral Festival was settled upon as the official name of the exhibition.

WE HOPE IT MAY BE TRUE.

May 14, 1914, The Review printed an article with regard to the efforts of a florist at Marion, Kan., to perfect a process for extracting hydrogen from water and employing it for heat and power. The florist is Fred Gowen, of the Marion Plant & Flower Co., and part of the description of his process was in his own words. Now comes a report from Marion that Mr. Gowen has sold his rights so far as they concern automobiles to a syndicate of nine manufacturers for $250,000 cash and a royalty of one per cent on the retail value of all the cars to be manufactured with the hydrogen motor, estimated at $100,000,000 per year. The rights for greenhouse heating have not yet been sold. Our informant adds that "this achievement, of course, means the ultimate destruction of the coal, gas and oil business, but in their place a greater industry will develop." It sounds like a pipe dream, but we hope it may prove true.

PESTS ON PANSIES.

Enclosed you will find a sample of what seems to be a variety of powder bugs, which appear suddenly in great numbers on my pansies in the spring. Are they likely to do much damage, and, if so, is there any remedy? I grow about half an acre of pansies, so I am anxious to know.

C. A. P.—Me.

I could not find in the package the "powder bug" referred to. I do not know of any leaf-eating insect by this name. If it is such, I would suggest giving the plants a spraying with arsenate of lead at the rate of one pound to fifteen gallons of water. This will slightly whiten the foliage, but will not damage it in the least. C. W.

PROPAGATING VINCAS.

I should like to know how to handle vinca vines to make them increase. I have some 3-inch stock on hand, with runners about eighteen inches long. Can I do anything with them? I have about fifty plants in all. How many 3-inch and 4-inch plants can I get from these by spring? E. T.—Ill.

Plant your vincas outdoors in good soil. Cut back the long shoots. They will develop much better outdoors than in pots. Lift and pot them early in October. The present is not a good time to propagate vincas. Wait until fall; then the young, soft growths will root readily in the propagating bench. Or, you can cut up the older and harder wood into short lengths and propagate in the same way. The latter method is the slower one. From fifty plants, if they are properly treated, you can easily get 500 or 1,000 plants by next May, in 3-inch or 4-inch pots. C. W.

TOLEDO, O.The Market.

Stock is good in certain lines, but in a general way most stock is scarce. The predominant flowers are gladioli, roses and daisies. There are some good carnations to be had, but the cut is not large. Roses are plentiful and florists throughout the city are having week-end sales on these. There have been a few dahlias on the market this week, but there is no demand for them as yet. There is little funeral work at this time.

At the July meeting of the Florists' Club a movement was launched to close all flower stores at noon on Sundays. The idea met with favor with the more broad-minded florists, but as usual there are a few who will not close.

Annual Outing.

The third annual outing under the auspices of the Florists' Club, held July 7, and which had been looked forward to for some time by the florists and their employees, was not as great a success as had been expected. The final arrangements had been carefully made by committees that had spent much time in perfecting the details and a grand auto parade had been planned. Early in the day black clouds hung over the city, but at 10 a. m. the parade formed with about forty machines in line, all decorated with flowers and the national colors. As the marshal gave the signal to start, down came the rain. Undaunted, the florists rode through every important business street of the town. When the park was reached a carefully prepared dinner was served under a large tent, the guests numbering close to 250. In the latter part of the day the rain was less steady and numerous games and races were enjoyed. Max Spanner, president of the club, had charge of all amusements at the park. Speeches were made by Pres. Spanner, Harry Heinel, S. N. Peck and Paul Timm.

Various Notes.

John Koelker, of Chas. Koelker & Sons, is spending two weeks in New York.

R. H. Blaque, of the Freeman store, is spending two weeks in northern Michigan.

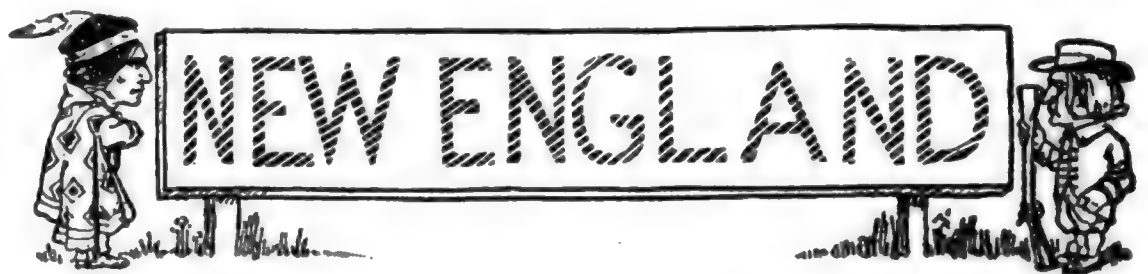

George Bayer has several thousand Bonaffon chrysanthemum plants in the field. They look fine and Mr. Bayer is well pleased with his experiment.

Wm. Krueger is riding around in a new Overland touring car. Mr. Krueger says he believes in patronizing home industry.

Miss Patten has returned from a ten days' trip in the east.

Harry Turvey, of West Toledo, has left to spend several weeks touring in his car through Indiana and Illinois.

Schramm Bros. are actively engaged in remodeling and rebuilding their range of houses. G. B. S.

Lawrence, Mass.—Workmen are busy on the greenhouses being erected for A. J. Wagland, on Broadway. They will be of iron-frame construction on a concrete foundation.

Lewiston, Me.—Work is progressing well on the greenhouse, 32x425 feet, which will replace one of the old ones at the Main street property of Ernest Saunders. It will be finished in August.

Rutland, Vt.—Negotiations are under way for the sale of a half interest in the Baker greenhouse business by Sidney A. Baker to George H. Baker. The latter has been for many years in the employ of the former.

Rockland, Mass.—Lyle I. Lothrop recently leased the greenhouses heretofore conducted by W. T. Wilson and feels that this puts him in a position to handle his steadily increasing trade in a satisfactory manner.

Lancaster, Mass.—J. E. Farnsworth has recently begun to grow asters and gladioli for the wholesale market.

Newburyport, Mass.—Wallace Bashaw, 6 Low street, who is entering business for himself here, was married to Miss Mary E. Kline, at Lynn, June 27.

Cootocook, N. H.—Clarence V. Thompson, who recently started in the greenhouse business with a small house, 12x24 feet, is planning to add one, 20x50 feet, this summer.

New Haven, Conn.—At the annual exhibition of roses under the auspices of the New Haven County Horticultural Society, the exhibit of A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, was most prominent. Walter Koella, of the local park department, had a good display. J. H. Slocombe, of New Haven, and H. P. Brooks, of West Haven, were also well represented.

ATLANTA, GA.

The Market.

Regular summer business is in line now and the demand for flowers has fallen off. The amateur flower growers are getting theirs now, selling on the streets fine bunches of sweet peas for a nickel, and fancy gladioli for 50 cents per dozen. Of course this has a tendency to cheapen the better class of commercial flowers, but I think it is not at all harmful to regular florists. As a rule the class of people who buy on the street ordinarily would not think of entering a first-class flower shop; they buy because cheapness appeals to them.

The vacation season is now in full swing and nearly everybody is planning a fishing trip to Florida, or quietness and rest in the mountains of North Carolina.

Various Notes.

The Hollingsworth Co. reports some large funeral orders. On one occasion it had enough work to keep all hands going all night long.

W. C. Lawrence, of the Lawrence Floral Co., has returned from a pleasure trip down to the Keys in Florida.

The Dahl Co. is making extensive preparations for the coming season. It has one of the finest ranges of modern houses in this locality.

The Nunnally Co. has had an unusually attractive window this week, consisting of dainty basket and rose effects, not overdone; just enough to attract an art lover's attention.

J. W.

BUSINESS EMBARRASMENTS.

Kalamazoo, Mich.—Garrett C. De Graff, proprietor of the Kalamazoo Floral Co., filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy July 6. His liabilities were scheduled as $1,170. His assets, all of which were claimed exempt, were placed at $785.69.

Atlanta, Ga.—P. C. McDuffie, attorney, has advised creditors of the Atlanta Floral Co., 97 Peachtree street, that the company finds it necessary to discontinue business on account of the present financial conditions. "It is appreciated," he says, "that a receivership would be not only disastrous, but would fail to secure for the creditors even a small part of their indebtedness. The writer has investigated their accounts and feels reasonably sure that by diligent effort sixty per cent, approximately, can be collected. As the accounts constitute the only asset of the company, we would like to be advised as to whether or not you would be willing to consider an adjustment of your account against them for 60 cents on the dollar, payable in cash within the next ninety days?" The heads of the Atlanta Floral Co. are A. Borg and Ivar Erikson.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

C. G. Anderson says that the business of the Minneapolis Floral Co., of which he recently took charge, has been about twenty-five per cent ahead of last year. Planting has been going on until now, as cold weather has been holding things back.

The Florists' Club expects to have a glorious picnic at Spring park, Minnetonka, July 20, at which everybody will be welcome.

OBITUARY

William Catanese.

William Catanese, a well known florist of Norristown, Pa., died July 9, of pleuropneumonia, after two months' illness. Mr. Catanese was proprietor of the Century Flower Show, of Norristown. He did a good business and was well liked in trade circles. He was about 35 years of age and is survived by a wife and three children. The funeral occurred July 12.

Mrs. Lula A. Macrae.

Mrs. Lula A. Macrae, wife of John A. Macrae, Providence, R. I., died July 4, after an extended illness. She was born in Leaksville, N. C., and was in her fifty-third year. She removed to Providence with her husband nearly a quarter of a century ago and settled on Smith street, where Mr. Macrae located his range of greenhouses. She was always an active helpmate for her husband in his work. She found time, however, to care for her four children—two sons and two daughters—and was active in social and religious work. Previous to living in Providence, Mr. and Mrs. Macrae were located at Anthony, R. I. W. H. M.

Harlan Sargeant.

Harlan Sargeant, the 19-year-old son of T. B. Sargeant, who purchased the greenhouse business of Walter S. Hall, at Osage, Ia., early this spring, was drowned in Cedar river, near Osage, June 30. The young man went in swimming in the afternoon with a companion. He got beyond his depth, and could not get back, being not a strong swimmer. The stream was swollen with spring rains and carried him down, beyond rescue by his companion. The body was found about two hours later, when there was no hope of resuscitation.

John N. Laurie.

John N. Laurie, one of the best known greenhouse builders in New England, died at his home, 245 Point street, Providence, R. I., July 7, after several weeks' illness. He was for several years in the employ of the Lord & Burnham Co., for whom he visited a number of the states to superintend the erection of greenhouses.

W. H. M.

Dickinson, N. D.—Mrs. E. H. Knapp has succeeded Mrs. R. L. Kennedy in the ownership of the Dickinson Floral Co. Mrs. Kennedy is leaving town.

Hannibal, Mo.—E. A. Hodge, who came here from Terre Haute, Ind., seven years ago and opened a small house, now has 2,600 feet of glass at 1126 Fulton avenue.

Clinton, Ill.—The business of the McKeown Flower Shop, in the Edmiston building, has been transferred to Earl McKeown's greenhouses, four blocks south of the hospital.

Muncie, Ind.—Wm. M. Treffenger, formerly grower for the Riverside Floral Co., has leased the Carnes Greenhouses, at 1126 South Jefferson street, which he is operating as the Southside Greenhouses.

Sterling, Ill.—Harry Bent has sold the Sterling Flower Shop, in the Randolph block, to Robert Lundstrom, of the Sterling Floral Co. Mr. Lundstrom will not run the store, but will close it and move the stock to his greenhouses. Mr. Bent is leaving for Iowa.

Kokomo, Ind.—W. W. Coles has been busy shipping out young rose stock. Bench roses are in fine shape. One house of Mrs. Russell is in prime condition, and the record of the cut showed up well. Hoosier Beauty has taken the place of Richmond. Ophelia is doing well.

Decatur, Ill.—Henry Gerstenkorn has purchased an interest in the Knight Station Nursery, on the St. Louis Bridge road. The concern, operated by Gerstenkorn & Klumpp, will grow hardy stock, perennials and greenhouse plants. Mr. Gerstenkorn expects also to enlarge his landscaping department.

Plymouth, Ind.—Good business in garden seeds and bedding and vegetable plants is reported by F. A. Forbes, the proprietor of Forbes' Seed Store. He has also done well with poultry supplies. Mr. Forbes expresses satisfaction with The Review's classified advertisers, especially in the matter of refunds for plants not found satisfactory.

Aurora, Ill.—A tall man, dressed completely in black and wiping tears from his eyes with a black-bordered handkerchief, entered the office of the Freeman Greenhouses not long ago, and told the clerk he wanted to buy a bouquet for a funeral. He picked out one costing $5 and tendered a check for $17.50 in payment. The clerk gave him $12.50 in change. The check came back marked forged. It was made payable to R. N. Morrison by the Aurora Brewing Co., per Herman Berthold, and drawn on the Merchants' National bank. The police say the weeping forger has taken in many others through the west.

Davenport, Ia.—The store of the Bills Floral Co., at Second and Brady streets, has been purchased from Harry M. Bills and his wife, Florence Bills, by Miss Mary A. Tierney, who has assisted Mrs. Bills in the management of the place heretofore. Miss Tierney will continue the business under the old name. Mr. and Mrs. Bills will continue to operate the greenhouses on Brown street under the firm name of H. M. Bills, from which Miss Tierney, under the terms of sale, is to purchase her stock as far as possible. The Bills Floral Co. was founded about thirty-five years ago by F. L. Bills, who disposed of it to his son when he moved to Florida several years ago.

Rudolph Kaiser's Greenhouses, at Annapolis, Md., After the Recent Hail Storm.

HAIL STORMS

Carrollton, Ill.—The recent hail storm broke almost all the glass in the greenhouse of J. C. McPherson. The loss is estimated at $500.

Avondale, Pa.—Nearly all the glass in the greenhouse of Odone Rosazza was broken by the recent hail storm. All the other ranges in this vicinity also suffered badly.

HAIL AT ANNAPOLIS.

Among the heaviest losers in the hail storm that visited Annapolis, Md., and vicinity June 22 was Rudolph Kaiser, 104 College avenue. The condition of his greenhouses after the storm had done its work is shown by the accompanying illustration. The storm is said to have been the worst that was ever experienced in that section. The size of the stones, too, was unusual; some measured from nine to twelve inches in circumference, it is reported, and weighed from eight to twelve ounces apiece.

CINCINNATI.

The Market.

Business is dull. The supply is extraordinarily large for this time of the year, while the demand is apparently much smaller than usual. The market is glutted with lilies and gladioli. In roses only a limited number of the best of the newer varieties find any ready sale. Asters are coming in much more heavily. Other seasonable flowers are plentiful, but also meet with a poor market.

Club Meeting.

Max Rudolph entertained the Cincinnati Florists' Society at its annual meeting, at his place at College Hill. The successful candidates for the respective offices are as follows: President, Max Rudolph; vice-president, C. E. Critchell; secretary, Alex Ostendarp; treasurer, J. Chas. Murphy; director, R. Witterstaetter.

A relief committee, consisting of Frank Deller, chairman; J. Chas. Murphy and Ray Murphy, was appointed. This committee is to look after the interests of those florists whose establishments were injured by the recent storm and who need help. The society headed a subscription list for their relief with an offering of $100.

After the meeting the club sat down to a bountiful repast, provided by Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph. The host and hostess were tendered a vote of thanks for their hospitality.

Everything at Mr. Rudolph's place looks exceptionally well. The young roses, carnations and chrysanthemums, as well as some old carnation stock from which he is still cutting, are particularly excellent.

The Storm of July 7.

The storm on the night of July 7 played havoc with some of the greenhouses around town.

Ed. Fries, at Fort Thomas, lost five houses, 25x150, as well as one of his boiler houses. The total damage was about $3,000.

At Henry Goetel's, two houses were completely shattered.

On West Price Hill, Mrs. Charles Witterstaetter lost completely five greenhouses and a barn, and her residence was damaged. Loss, about $2,500.

At William Taylor's place the wind took out the middle one of three houses and shattered the other two. His residence and barn were also damaged.

The wind turned over the power house at Deller & Witterstaetter's, ruined the machinery and the sprinkler system and blew in the west end of the range of greenhouses, besides ruining about 75 sashes. Damage, $800.

Arthur Kramer's greenhouses were shattered and his boiler room and dwelling were badly damaged. Loss, $500.

One of Herbert Greensmith's houses was entirely blown away, and his residence and barn were damaged.

All of these lost a substantial part, if not all, of their outdoor crops, in addition to the losses mentioned.

Various Notes.

The annual outing of the Cincinnati Florists' Society will be held on Wednesday, July 21, at Coney Island. C. E. Critchell, Max Rudolph, Henry Schwarz and William Sunderman, forming the committee in charge, have arranged an elaborate program of sports for the day and have appropriate prizes for the winners of the events.

E. G. Gillett and Clarence Ohmer expect to motor to Dayton and Springfield this week, on a business and social trip.

Frank & Sons, of Portland, Ind., have been sending some fine Ophelia, Hoosier Beauty, Double White Killarney and Maryland roses to L. H. Kyrk.

Nick Weber went to Louisville on Sunday, July 11, on a business mission.

L. Davis, of P. J. Olinger & Co.,

leaves this week for a month's visit to Memphis and Arkansas.

E. G. Gillett, on behalf of himself and C. E. Critchell as trustees of the Flower Market, is receiving bids for the painting of the market.

Recent visitors included Mrs. Gerlach, of Piqua, O.; Mrs. Schnell, of Roanoke, Va., and Mr. Thomas, of the E. G. Hill Co., Indianapolis.

C. H. H.

EVANSVILLE, IND.

The Market.

Business has held up well, but the usual dull season is at hand. The planting out season is over, but there have been some late calls for plants for baskets and boxes. Business houses downtown are taking to the window box for the improvement of their places more than ever. There are plenty of flowers of all kinds to be had. The continued wet season keeps stock in fine growing condition. There have been but few days with a temperature over 90 degrees, and the result is a fine growth of plants in window boxes, baskets and flower gardens.

Various Notes.

J. C. Elsperrmann is having a fine summer business. He has a large variety of stock in the field, and so he is well supplied with flowers. His gladioli are fine. The asters are growing well. The mums planted in the greenhouses are looking extra well.

The Blackman Floral Co. is cutting first-rate carnations from the field. Business is good with them.

Theodore Kuebler has received his new delivery car, and he is well pleased with it. It is a Vim.

Julius Niednagel & Sons are planting mums heavily this season. In one large house there are 16,000 plants and more will be planted in some of the other houses.

Mrs. M. L. Doerr has closed her place of business and retired.

Miss Nellie Goodge is cutting large quantities of good outdoor stock.

Royston & Fenton are cutting quite heavily of Ivory roses, which sell readily. It is a good summer rose.

E. L. F.

Youngstown, O.—George W. Kay and R. W. Dimond have merged their interests and formed the Kay-Dimond Co. For the present both stores, at 15 and 27 Phelps street, will be continued. The combination is expected to enable them to undertake decorations, etc., on a larger scale.

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS.

Incorporated by Act of Congress, March 4, 1901.

Officers for 1915: President, Patrick Welch, Boston; vice-president, Daniel MacRorie, San Francisco; secretary, John Young, 53 W. 28th St., New York City; treasurer, W. F. Kasting, Buffalo.

Thirty-first annual convention, San Francisco, Cal., August 17 to 20, 1915.

Results bring advertising.
The Review brings results.

W. H. TAPLIN, for many years with Charles D. Ball and later with Daille-douze Bros., has joined the staff of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., at Riverton, N. J.

THERE are reports from Canada that lily of the valley has gone out of favor there and that even the assurance that the pips were Danish is not enough to sell the flowers.

THE men who buy on price alone should remember that they are encouraging the production of low-grade stock to meet the low-price demand. It is too much to expect that quality improve if prices are forced down.

"WHY can't I get trade catalogues and trade prices?" writes a beginner in the business. The reason seems to be that the correspondence is on a lady's personal note paper; otherwise, no doubt, anyone would be glad to give trade prices on orders in trade quantities.

A SCHEDULE has been issued for the eighty-fourth annual exhibition of the American Institute of New York, to be held November 3 to 5, at the Engineering building, 25 West Thirty-ninth street. Copies may be had by addressing W. A. Eagleson, 324 West Twenty-third street, New York.

BIG business, in the nature of things, must be impersonal—the customer deals with the house instead of with its head. But the flower business in all its phases still is an individual affair, built on personality. The public does not expect personal attention in a department store, but is affronted by the impersonal method in a flower shop.

HONORABLE MENTION.

Not a few subscribers save themselves the bother of annual renewal by sending The Review $2, $3, or sometimes $5, instead of the dollar-bill that insures fifty-two visits of the paper. Among those who have this week enrolled themselves for more than one year in advance are:

FIVE YEARS.

Larson, P. L., Fort Dodge, Ia.

TWO YEARS.

Bolling, Chas. J., Jersey City, N. J.
Scholz, Henry A., Far Rockaway, N. Y.
Phelps, Henry, Remington, Ind.
Rleman, E. H., Indianapolis, Ind.
Whitbred, A. A., Altoona, Pa.
Paskins, H. M., & Co., Basil, O.
Culley, Samuel, Ogden, Utah.
Vanhaverbeke, L., Eureka, Kan.
Catto, James, San Jose, Cal.

The Review stops coming when the subscription runs out. The green notice with the last copy tells the story; no bills are run up; no duns sent.

WHAT'S THE ANSWER?

If you want a diagnosis of the situation in a majority of the older florists' clubs, read "Current Events" in the Philadelphia letter this week. While written with respect to the Florists' Club of Philadelphia, it is easily recognizable as a pen picture of the history and present position of many another old-time organization. What of the future?

LADIES' S. A. F.

Mrs. John Vallance, 81 Glen avenue, Oakland, Cal., has been appointed by Mrs. W. F. Gude, president, as chairman of the introduction committee for convention week at San Francisco, August 17 to 20.

The board of directors, Mrs. W. W. Coles, Kokomo, Ind., chairman, is recommending by a majority vote of letters, sent to the secretary, that the present officers and board be retained for 1916.

Mrs. Chas. H. Maynard, Sec'y.

DEPENDS ON THE BINDING.

At the meeting of the Texas State Florists' Association at Fort Worth last week one item that was brought out and "forcibly impressed upon those present," as the secretary puts it, "was the practice of some florists who use sheets from the trade paper to wrap plants or flowers going to their customers. It was pointed out that on these pieces of paper may be quoted prices of flowers, which, of course, are always wholesale prices and, if the consumers get in possession of these prices, they may expect the local florists to furnish flowers to them at the same price. It was pointed out that considerable confusion and annoyance may be caused by this practice."

The Review in years gone by frequently cautioned its subscribers against the thoughtless practice the Texans deplore, but in the last few months this danger has been removed by the new magazine binding; with the old pamphlet binding in use prior to last September the sheets easily came apart, but the present magazine binding used by The Review makes a much more solid and permanent book. It is not easily taken apart. Old copies of The Review are not likely to be used for any purpose not intended by the publisher, as was the case when the less desirable binding was used.

NEXT WEEK'S WEATHER.

Weekly weather forecast, issued by the U. S. Weather Bureau, Washington, D. C., for the week beginning Wednesday, July 14, 1915:

For the Region of the Great Lakes—A change to considerably cooler weather will overspread this region about July 17, which will be preceded by showers and followed by fair weather.

For the Upper Mississippi Valley and Plains States—Scattered thunder showers and moderately warm weather during the next two days will be followed by a change to considerably cooler weather during July 16 and 17, and fair weather thereafter.

For the Ohio Valley and Tennessee—Partly cloudy weather, with occasional thunder showers, is probable during the next three or four days. A change to considerably cooler and fair weather is probable following July 17.

For South Atlantic and East Gulf States—The week will be one of generally fair and warm weather, except that scattered thunder showers are probable.

For the West Gulf States—Fair and warm weather during the next several days will probably be followed by showery conditions after July 17.

BIG CROPS MEAN WEALTH.

This is sure to be a big crop year, according to the government report issued last week, notwithstanding the excess of rains within the last seven or eight weeks. Corn promises a bumper crop, although not a record one, the July forecast being for a yield of 2,814,000,000 bushels, as compared with a final yield in 1914 of 2,673,000,000 bushels. As expected, however, the condition was low in comparison with the previous year, being placed at only 81.2, as compared with 85.8 last year. The increase in the prospective yield is made up in the acreage, which shows 5.6 per cent more acres planted than last year. A return to normal summer conditions would make a vast improvement in the corn condition and greatly enhance the yield.

Winter wheat suffered a loss of only 8,000,000 bushels for the month, notwithstanding the interference of heavy rains with the harvest almost every day. The outturn of winter wheat is estimated now at 668,000,000 bushels. Spring wheat, however, is doing exceptionally well, and the estimate is for a yield of 15.3 bushels per acre, as against a final of 11.8 bushels last year. In addition, the acreage showed an increase of 9.8 per cent over last year, and the crop is estimated at 295,000,000 bushels, or a gain of 21,000,000 bushels for the month. The 1914 crop was only 206,000,000 bushels. This, therefore, promises the remarkable total of 963,000,000 bushels for the United States wheat crop for 1915.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

A review of the business conditions during the last week, while not calculated to arouse enthusiasm, should give rise to no dissatisfaction. Though there has been little real demand in the city, the shipping business continues without material abatement. True enough, prices average somewhat low, but the quantity handled is, for this week of the year, unprecedented. This fully compensates for the lower prices, if, in fact, it does not do more. The superabundance of supply is in the main attributable to the extremely favorable growing weather that has prevailed far into this month. So, with such heavy receipts and the sudden coming of hot weather, the wonder is, not that business is not better, but that the trade is able to move, with any profit at all, such a great volume of stock.

Beauties are enjoying a fair shipping demand, though whatever local demand there is must be considered as almost altogether artificial. Short Beauties, however, have the distinction of being the only thing that even approaches the short side of the market. Roses are in normal summer demand, but are in abnormal supply. The result is they are clearing only at a price. Considering the quantities, there is much good stock. The best of it, as a matter of course, finds its way into the shipping orders. This condition is the result, on the one hand, of a growing appreciation on the part of out-of-town retailers of the advantages attaching to a good display stock and a realization of the desirability of getting their orders in promptly, and on the other hand, to a tendency among city retailers to be lulled by the proximity of the market into a lack of appreciation of these two fundamentals. Russell, as usual, is the favorite. Killarney suffers most in the cheap sales to clean up.

Carnations are in large supply for this time of year and the quality is unusually good. The demand, however, is no greater than would be expected in the third week in July. Peonies, though not experiencing a rush, still find a place where carnations or asters would otherwise be used. Daisies are abundant. The Shastas are clearing nicely, but there is practically no call for the old varieties. Cattleyas are in fair supply, but the only demand for them is forced. Snapdragon has lost its charm, and gladioli, though moving, has ceased to attract special attention. Sweet peas are everywhere on the market, but no one seems to give them serious consideration. Coreopsis and valley are moving—more cannot be said of them. Gaillardias may be classed with them. Gypsophilas, however, are enjoying quite a frolic. Easter lily, the old utility flower, seems to have lost out for a time at least. And yet, in spite of the apparent apathy hanging over these different lines of stock, a record has been made for the third week in July in quantity of stock moved; and when the books are balanced, they will more than likely show an increase over last year in amount of money handled.

So far as local business is concerned, the most hopeful thing that has happened recently is the settlement of the carpenters' strike. Many thousands of men, idle since April, again are earning and spending money, and other thousands soon will feel the benefit.

Various Notes.

Word has been received at the office of the Albert F. Amling Co., Maywood, that Albert F. Amling and party have completed their tour of Yellowstone National park and are staying with relatives at North Yakima, Wash. They report their car is carrying them over the western hills and prairies in great Charles A. Hunt, who suffered a puncture of the right eyeball three weeks ago, is now able to be about his business. The eye was injured by the rebound of a brass screw, which penetrated deeply into the ball. The doctors entertain little hope of preserving its sight.

Frank Oechslein and wife left July 10 for California. They will visit both expositions, attend the S. A. F. convention and visit points of interest on the Pacific coast.

N. J. Wietor says he believes surplus field-grown carnation plants will be good property this season, so many growers having lost more or less of their stock through the vicissitudes of the weather.

Frank Kral, Jr., 1907 South Halsted street, and his family motored to Bluff Lake, Wis., July 8, for a few days' relaxation.

C. J. Michelsen, of the E. C. Amling Co., comments on the popularity of Milady as a summer rose. No red flower ever will be in large demand during the summer months, the psychologists tell us, but Mr. Michelsen says Milady sells far better than Richmond.

Felix Reichling reports that his brother, Emil, has decided to join the S. A. F. convention party, as replanting will be out of the way by that time. Benching the carnations is progressing rapidly, the season having been unusually favorable and the plants being in the pink of condition.

By way of a summer outing, David Hammer, 2014 West Division street, will go to New York city August 15 for a two weeks' visit with his sister.

Erne & Klingel comment on the greatly increased use of summer flowers. The retailers are making some fine effects with them. Larkspur and delphinium, because of their color, are in special request.

Arthur J. O'Keefe, who has charge of H. D. Sheldon's cut flower department, 912 West Madison street, has the sympathy of his friends on the market in the loss of his mother, Mrs. Jane O'Keefe, who died July 11. The funeral was at St. Patrick's church

A. F. convention in San Francisco next month.

John Fuhrmann, 3164 North Clark street, has had an unusually large amount of funeral trade lately, with quite a bit of decorative work to keep things moving.

The Lady Hillingdon rose has proved such good property for Bassett & Washburn that they will give it three times as much space on their benches this season as it occupied last season.

Heavy funeral work and an abundance of planting have kept all hands busy at the Lister Floral Shop, 1008 Belmont avenue, for the last two weeks.

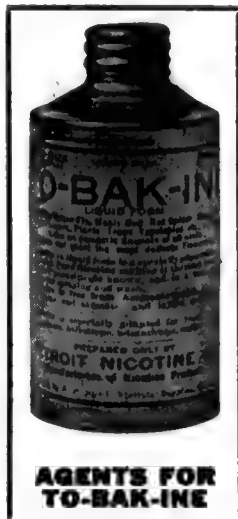

Frequent meetings of flower show committees are being held, many of them in the private office of John Poehlmann, of Poehlmann Bros. Co. The premium list is nearly ready for the printer and all details are well in hand.

If the Mrs. Russell rose continues to turn in the coin as well as it has in the few weeks French & Salm have been cutting, from their new place at Union Grove, the firm will be well satisfied with its decision to devote all its bench space to that variety. G. W. French says the results to date have exceeded their rather sanguine expectations.

Mrs. Fred Strail, who has been seriously ill for several weeks, is so far recovered that she will leave in a few days for a recuperative outing in Michigan. Mr. Strail has been unable to work for a year, but is getting back into form again and makes an occa-

David D. P. Roy, of A. Henderson & Co., is enjoying a two weeks' vacation. As Mr. Roy gets quite enough of travel in the course of business, he prefers to spend his days off at home. The Henderson office is being redecorated and its facilities improved.

There is no talk of hard times in the establishment of Joseph Ziska & Sons. They are too busy growing. A young lady has been installed in their Randolph street office with the care of the books and correspondence. Further, they have decided that the most satisfactory way of handling the basket problem is to make their own baskets. To this end they have employed some expert craftsmen and will soon have a large line of their own manufacture. John and Raymond Ziska motored to Starved Rock and Ottawa July 14.

John Michal, of Michal Bros., 7045 Stony Island avenue, has decided to purchase a touring car, as he believes it will be a material aid to an enjoyable summer.

J. S. Plodzien, 1508 North Oakley boulevard, reports a fair funeral trade and a good plant season, though not up to that of last year. He is now putting in mums, Golden Glow and Bonaffon being the leaders.

There is nothing like taking advantage of a breathing spell to brush up, according to Fred Schramm, Park Ridge, a director of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association. He is busy repainting his greenhouses and making general repairs.

Don't forget the thirtieth annual picnic of the Chicago Florists' Club, to be held in St. Paul park, Morton Grove, Sunday, July 25.

John Kruchten, president of the John Kruchten Co., in speaking of vacations and summer resorts, said the city was good enough for him during the dog days, though it is possible he may wear out a few sets of tires on the country roads about Chicago.

George Gobel, of Kennicott Bros. Co., will go to Paw Paw Lake, Mich., July 19 for a two weeks' vacation.

BALTIMORE.

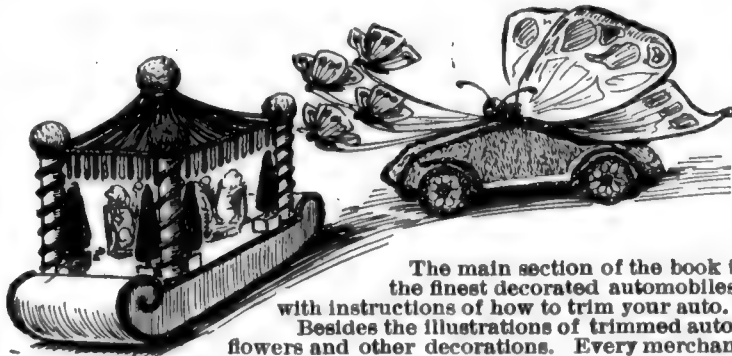

The Market.

The midsummer dull season set in last week in earnest and market conditions were draggy. There is still a most abundant supply of stock, of only medium quality. It is only to be moved with effort, and with low prices as an added inducement. The variety of stock is limited, but ample enough for all demands. Roses are overplentiful and cheap, but there are none of first-class quality. Carnations are practically over; the few that find their way in are poor. Peas are of medium quality and plentiful, but are slow movers. Gladioli, both local and southern stock, are to be seen in large quantities, but are not finding a ready sale. Asters are coming in a little more heavily, but are still of poor quality; the later crop promises to be abundant and of good quality.

Club Meeting.

About sixty members of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club in automobiles made a tour of the city parks and surrounding territory July 12. The start was made from Wyman's park, headed by the city park board and Supt. Manning, and the tour ended in Clifton park, where President Hamilton complimented the city officials on the neat and well kept condition of the parks. Geo. W. Williams, president of the park board, responded and Supt. Manning, R. Vincent, Jr., and others made some remarks on the subject.

A little later the majority of the members attended the meeting of the club in its rooms. Prof. Symonds spoke of the enjoyable afternoon and offered a resolution of thanks to the park board and city officials for the courtesies shown, and commending their work. It was adopted. He also spoke of the summer meeting of the Maryland Horticultural Society, to be held at Pen Mar July 29 and 30, and urged all who can to attend. The entertainment committee reported that the annual outing of the club will be held at Miller's park, August 11. Treasurer Burger read the quarterly statement and showed a good balance in the bank. The committee in charge of the fall show, consisting of Messrs. Feast, Graham, Boone, Moss, Halliday and Morrison, were reappointed, after which the question box was taken up.

The main section of the book is given over to illustrations of some of the finest decorated automobiles. All size machines are shown, along with instructions of how to trim your auto.

Besides the illustrations of trimmed automobiles there are many illustrations of flowers and other decorations. Every merchant and Window Display Man should get this book now so he can start at once to make a study of what is best for him to plan out for the store's use when local celebrations occur. This will be a big year for street decorations on account of Panama Fair, Prosperity Week, etc. ALL THESE HUNDREDS OF IDEAS ARE FREE. Our decorations are well made. Colors are dainty and show up to perfection. Baumann's decorations will help you win prizes. L. BAUMANN & CO., 357-359 W. Chicago Avenue, Chicago.

The Market.

There is not enough business to consume the moderate supply of flowers offered and not nearly enough to keep the wholesalers or retailers busy. The growers have their hands full of cultural work, but that is not the subject of this report. The gladiolus is the leading flower of the day. The stock mostly comes from the south. It is generally well grown and when it arrives is in excellent condition for shipping. America is the principal variety, with a smaller quantity of Augusta and Mrs. Francis King. There are a few good roses; eastern Beauties, local Kaiserin, Russell, Mock, Maryland and others. The short-stemmed stock, indicative of a cessation in pinching, is far too abundant. In carnations Mrs. C. W. Ward, White Perfection and Boston Market are the hot weather sorts. Some of them are still good enough for long trips. Asters are more abundant; good flowers, with stems rather abbreviated; dark and light pink are most seen. Whites are not always perfect. Cattleyas, mostly Gaskelliana, are nice and are offered at reasonable figures; so are valley and Easter lilies. The outdoor flowers deserve mention. They are excellent and, alas, far exceed the demand: Candytuft, feverfew, achillea, coreopsis, gaillardia. New York still

Current Events.

It is a significant fact that the Florists' Club at its meeting July 6 decided to omit the August meeting. This is the first time in the history of the club that a resolution has been passed to omit a monthly meeting. Two reasons appear for this unusual action: the absence of any special feature of interest, and the far-distant convention of the S. A. F. The failure of the essay committee to provide a speaker always affects the attendance. Unless there is something on the card, the members naturally think there is nothing doing and they don't come. The decision of the S. A. F. to meet in San Francisco next month practically bars a delegation from this city. It would take an enthusiastic leader, of the caliber of John Westcott, to make possible a delegation that would cross the continent together. There is no such leader in sight.

There is another cause for the omission of the August meeting of the Florists' Club that is deeper than either of the other two, a cause that is significant of the times. It is the change in sentiment toward this club. The club was formed and has been run by men who were wholly self-made. To them and to their efforts is due the high standing of the profession today. Their brains and industry have lifted their chosen calling from a humble to a respected position in this community. The clubroom was their place for relaxation. They threw themselves with zest into everything; the debates, the games, whatever was foremost at the moment. Now all that is changed. The club leaders of yesterday are scattered. Some come rarely; some have lost interest; some have joined the great majority. The new leaders, the leaders of today, have other interests. They will come and crowd the clubrooms with their friends on occasion, but they come for a purpose, not as a regular duty pleasant to perform. There are other things that give them more enjoyment than spending hot, midsummer nights in a city basement rolling tenpins and joining in fiery debate. The seashore places were not then in the lives of our members what they are now—Waretown had just been discovered; Ocean City and Wildwood were almost unknown. A member's greatest joy outside of his profession was to roll a higher score than D. T. Connor, or to listen to a burst of eloquence from John Burton, or witty repartee from William K. Harris. Those days have gone, never to return. To many of us they were an inspiration that did much to make us better florists and better men.

Various Notes.

A select little party of two, J. D. Eisele and Charles H. McKubbin, carefully examined and planned the improvement of the plot of ground on one side of Convention hall, where the next national flower show will be held in this city. The Dreer forces were set to work. This ground was put in order, grass sown and beds laid out to beautify this space, 45x90. One bed is of tall and dwarf cannas, edged with pennisetums; the other of double fringed petunias and between them an immense specimen Phoenix rupicola. The growth of the plants in these beds, and of those of the Henry F. Michell Co. on the other side of the hall, will be watched with interest by thousands of Philadelphians.

B. Eschner writes to Raymond Brunswick that Banff, Canada, is more beautiful than he had believed possible.

The baseball team of the Henry F.

Michell Co. met the team of Narberth, at Narberth, Pa., July 10, and was defeated after an exciting game, by a score of 15 to 16.

H. Bayersdorfer and Mrs. Bayersdorfer sailed from Yokohama, Japan, July 10, bound for San Francisco, thence home.

Recent visitors include Harry Rubel, of Fleischman's, Chicago; Miss Lizzie Buck and A. Jamieson, Washington Court House, O., and D. Goldenberger and Mrs. Goldenberger, Bethlehem, Pa.

Paul Berkowitz is summering at a prominent beach front hotel at Atlantic City, where he gets a little relaxation from affairs of state. Mr. Berkowitz's happy smile when mentioning this fact leads to the belief that he indorses the claim that the two most delightful places in all the world are Paris and Atlantic City.

It is understood that Mrs. Kruger wishes to dispose of the lease of the Reading Terminal flower shop.

The Robert Craig Co. is propagating chrysanthemums heavily. There are something like 40,000 coming on. So far the demand has taken them as soon as they were ready.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

The "good old summertime" was much in evidence last week in the New York wholesale cut flower market. In fact, until Saturday there was no market, and accumulations were disposed of at about any figure the purchaser felt inclined to offer. Lessening of shipments of roses and carnations was noticeable as the week ended, and the present week gives evidence already of the usual July shortening of supplies. There is little life in the retail department of the business, an occasional wedding and the usual funeral requirements being the only departures from summer stagnation.

In roses, special American Beauties sold last week as low as $5 per hundred. There has been no shortage in any variety of the rose family. At times there was no way of ridding the market of its accumulations other than disposing of the boxes of roses as they arrived, as low as $1 per box being accepted. A few of the selects of the newer varieties, of course, preserved the dignity of the market. Russell, Hadley, Mock, Ophelia and the best of the Killarneys are always able to find an outlet.

Few carnations sold last week at over 50 cents per hundred. Even the selects were largely disposed of at that figure. For the ordinary stock 25 cents was the limit in quantity.

There seems to be no end to the depression in the orchid market. It is hard to raise values after the experience of the month of June. The best of them last week seldom sold above 15 cents. The shipments do not decrease.

Lilies are still abundant, and large shipments continue. Few sell above $2 per hundred. Valley also is in surplus, and prices are unsteady, with but slight demand. The coming flood is gladioli; already there are signs of it. Cold storage peonies seem to be closing their career. Sweet peas are largely of mediocre quality. Asters are arriving in larger daily shipments. The other seasonable flowers are on exhibition as usual—daisies, sweet williams, feverfew, coreopsis, delphiniums, etc.—and that is as far as they seem to go. Their mission seems to be to make attractive wholesale windows.

Walter Mott, of Newburgh, representing Benjamin Hammond, of Beacon, N. Y., is making his summer canvass of New Jersey and Long Island, with Brooklyn as his headquarters.

The Grand Army veteran, L. J. Kervan, last week enjoyed the annual outing of his post, at Albany.

Walter Singleman, of the Growers' Cut Flower Co., left for a two weeks' vacation at ocean resorts Saturday, July 10. Foreman Van Ryper will begin his fishing outing the last week in July, and Miss M. McCabe, the book-keeper, will enjoy her holidays at Asbury Park, N. J.

Mrs. E. Garrity, for three years book-keeper for Jos. Trepel at his Lewis avenue store, in Brooklyn, has commenced her trip to the Panama-Pacific exposition and will not return until September.

Mr. Russin, of Russin & Hanfling, returned July 12 from the Adirondacks. Mr. Hanfling and family remain in the mountains until August. Louis Hanfling, the firm's traveling salesman, and Uriel Goldberg, manager, join them the last week in July.

Philip Ditzenberger, foreman for H. E. Froment, left July 12 for a three weeks' vacation at Long Island resorts.

Because the Kervan Co. was unable to lease the buildings on either side of its present store, at 119 West Twenty-eighth street, the firm has done the next best thing, and rented the property at 115 West Twenty-eighth street for ten years. It is a 4-story building on a lot 20x100. The company will spend about $15,000 in altering the structure to meet its needs. The concern will continue at its present location.

PAGES OF RETAILERS' CARDS

This department for the cards of Leading Retail Florists—those florists who have the facilities for filling the orders sent them by other florists—has made possible the recent rapid development of this branch of the business, a branch of the trade now established for all time and so helpful that its volume will keep on increasing for many years.

Are you sending and receiving your share of these orders? You can send your share (and make 20 per cent profit without effort) if you let your customers know you can perform this service for them. To receive your share—well, The Review's department for Retailers' cards remains the one way of getting prompt action on the order in hand.

To be represented costs only 70 cents per week on a yearly order. This is for one-inch space. Other spaces in proportion.

Why not send your order today—now—before you forget it?

Gentlemen:-

During the SIX MONTHS from March 4 to September 4 I have received from other Florists, by mail, telegraph or cable, orders to the amount of $513.25 as a result of my advertisement in the Retailers' department of The Review. With the allowance to senders the record for SIX MONTHS is:

Value of orders received-----	$513.25
Less 30% allowed senders-----	103.60
Net value of orders for SIX MONTHS--	410.65

It should be noted that this showing covers the DULL SUMMER MONTHS, when any addition to a Florist's business is decidedly welcome.

Retail Florists not advertising in The Review should profit by this letter.

Respectfully,

F. H. Weber

The Market.

In speaking of the local wholesale market, I hardly know what to say, except to repeat that a big glut of all seasonable flowers is on. The demand has greatly fallen off of late. From the reports of the retailers, business is dull; even funeral work is not up to the usual mark. To say everything is plentiful, is putting it mildly. There was an abundance of good roses in all varieties in the market last week. The majority, however, were badly mildewed, on account of the continuous rains. Carnations, too, are abundant, but of poor quality, with only a small percentage of first grade stock. The great glut of gladioli is here. The demand for these is fairly good, but the trade cannot consume the large daily consignments. First-class stock brings only $1.50 per hundred and $7.50 in thousand lots. Asters are beginning to come in and these, too, are booked for heavy consignments. Sweet peas and lilies have but little demand at present. An abundance of outdoor stock is coming in, including extra good dahlias.

Club Meeting.

The Florists' Club held its monthly meeting, July 8, in Odd Fellows' hall. The strong and appealing notices sent out by the secretary brought out the largest attendance of the year. It was also one of the most interesting meetings the club has held.

Flowers Delivered to Any Part of the World

mittee having charge of the arrangements for the coming convention of the American Carnation Society, read a letter from Secretary Baur, in which it was stated that the headquarters for the meeting and exhibition will be at the Planters' hotel. The dates fixed are January 26 and 27, 1916. All plans reported by this committee were accepted and approved.

Chairman Rowe, of the trustees, reported everything in readiness for the annual picnic, July 22, and that the program is in the hands of the printer. Applications for membership were presented by A. H. Burkemper, of the Grasselli Chemical Co., and S. O. Vandevine, gardener at the Samuel C. Davis estate.

The secretary was instructed to send letters of condolence to the families of C. Bergstermann and E. Schray.

Joseph Hauser invited the club to hold its next meeting, August 12, at his place in Webster Groves, Mo. The invitation was accepted with thanks. E. W. Guy then started a discussion of the nine questions sent out with the usual monthly notices. He was followed by Messrs. Ammann, Fillmore, Wells, Windler and others. These questions made things interesting for over an hour. Mr. Ammann and the secretary were given a rising vote of thanks.

Nomination of officers took place, which resulted in the following: President, Jules Bourdet; vice-president, W. S. Wells, David Geddis and W. E. Rowe; secretary, Wm. Ossick and J. J. Bencke; treasurer, W. C. Smith and J. J. Windler. For a 3-year term of trusteeship, the nominees were W. W. Ohlweiler, Geo. H. Pring and Walter E. Ogle. Nominations are open until the next meeting, when the election will be held.

The report of Treasurer Smith showed the club in a healthy financial condition.

Various Notes.

closing of retail stores has found its way into the waste basket, as nothing has been heard of it for some time.

Wm. C. Young, who has been sick for some time, says he and Mrs. Young will leave next week for a month's stay at Atlantic City, N. J. The trip should be of great benefit to both.

Horace Lloyd, head of the Shackelford Nursery Co., in St. Louis county, says they have installed the Skinner irrigation system, but so far have not used it on account of the many rainy days. A few thousand dollars would have been saved if they had this system last season.

Charles C. Young, president of the Retail Florists' Association, says they will soon be ready with the credit system, on which a committee has been working hard for some time.

Edwin Denker, the well known St. Charles florist, was a visitor here July 8. Mr. Denker says the great storm last week, which did so much damage in the neighborhood, did not strike his place at all.

Max Pelletier recently ran a rusty nail through his right hand. It was feared for some time that he would lose his arm, as blood poison set in, but he is now on the road to recovery and says he will be on hand to lead his band at the picnic.

Grimm & Gorly, Mullanphy and the Riessen Floral Co., the leading downtown florists, say they have experienced good business since the supposedly dull season set in. Several large funerals helped them keep busy.

All the local florists, as well as those in near-by towns, should remember the annual picnic of the Florists' Club, to be held next week, July 22, at Romona park. All florists, regardless of membership, are invited to attend, with their families, without cost to any. The list of games is attractive for both old and young, and each has a prize.

The following suburban florists were in town, July 8, attending the club's meeting: E. W. Guy and Walter Ogle, of Belleville; Edwin Denker, of St. Charles; J. F. Ammann, of Edwards-

The St. Louis County Growers' Association held its monthly meeting July 1, at the Eleven Mile House. According to Secretary Joseph Deutschmann, the meeting was well attended and quite a number of interesting discussions came up, which took up the greater part of the evening. The next meeting will take place August 4.

J. J. B.

MADISON, N. J.

Charles H. Totty, Ridgedale avenue, reports that the plant trade was good last season, but that the cut flower trade was comparatively quiet. The war was given as one of the causes of the quietness in cut flowers. When the transatlantic liners were running on schedule large quantities of flowers were sent to travelers departing for Europe in bon voyage bouquets, but this trade has practically disappeared and the loss is felt by growers as well as retailers. Mr. Totty did a good business in roses and carnations, however. The Ophelia rose was popular. Mr. Totty is trying out the 1916-17 varieties from Dickson's. During the coming season he will introduce for the first time in this country two of Dickson's recent varieties, Gorgeous, which has a bronze yellow flower, and H. P. Pinkerton, which is a clear rose pink. He has fifteen seedlings from Dickson's, which are under number and are being tested. Mr. Totty also has a large number of seedling mums from Australia, which are still under number.

David Shannon, 112 Central avenue, states that the spring and early summer business was good. He grows principally roses for the New York market. As Madison has increased in population, there has grown up a considerable local trade, and to supply this Mr. Shannon grows a general line of flowers.

T. W. Stemmler, Central avenue, who makes a specialty of Bride roses, has found business fair this year.

Warren H. Barton, rose grower, at 156 Central avenue, states that business has been fair but not rushing during last season. He is painting and repairing his greenhouses preparatory to planting his new stock.

George Parcell, formerly at 60 Garfield street, is no longer in business.

Ernest Wagner has moved from 49 Prospect street to the greenhouses formerly occupied by Thuro Wallin, at 14 Keep street, where he will grow a general line of plants for the retail trade. He is repairing the greenhouses preparatory to planting for the fall and winter trade.

Frank Abramson, who grows roses, geraniums and callas, at 261 Rosedale avenue, reports business rather quiet.

Thomas H. Keefe, 19 Keep street, had a fair spring trade and collections have been about as usual. He sold out most of his stock. He will reduce the number of varieties of roses next season. He is putting in new benches.

Frank Eskensen, Main street, who grows ferns, reports a good spring business. He is now potting his plants for the fall trade.

John Jones, of Convent Station, has had several large weddings and considerable funeral work. He has had much decoration work for social affairs, also. Mr. Jones specializes in orchids, but grows other plants as well.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Market.

Business last week was far from satisfactory, for it was impossible to move more than one-third of the stock. There is a superabundance of everything, as the cool weather has kept the stock coming along in fine shape. Thousands of gladioli are to be had for little money and these are being used in quantities for window displays. There has been no let-up in the supply of roses, and some of the shippers will be lucky to receive even express charges. Carnations are going off crop. The sale of dahlias has been much larger than expected, for they are ahead of time and are therefore something of a novelty. Sweet peas, usually burnt up during the latter part of June, are offered in quantities and are of good quality. Less than ten per cent of the Easter lilies find buyers.

at its meeting last week at 1214 F street, northwest, and extended an invitation to the members to participate in the show soon to be held by the American Dahlia Society, of which he is president. In speaking of the beautification of the city by means of window boxes, he criticised the poor taste shown by certain of the hotels and other establishments, in endeavoring to fill their own window boxes instead of leaving the work for a competent florist to do.

William F. Gude presented a schedule showing stop-overs, cost of transportation and other information bearing on the proposed trip to the Panama-Pacific exposition and the S. A. F. convention. Mr. Gude has been studying the various routes and made a report for the benefit of those desiring to go. In view of the great distance, it is doubtful if more than six Washingtonians will attend.

Edward S. Schmid announced that he would give his annual crab feast in connection with the September meeting of the club and an invitation is to be sent to the members of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club of Baltimore, Md., to join the local florists on that night.

After a discussion of the outing of the club, to be held July 21, a buffet luncheon was served.

Various Notes.

Only 300 tickets are to be issued for the outing of the club, to be held at Great Falls, Va., and none of these are to be sold to other than florists, their families and intimate friends. The event of the day will be the baseball game between the storemen and the boys from the market district. There will also be the usual run of sports, dancing and a special motion picture show. Music is to be provided by a real Virginia ducky band. Prizes will be awarded in all events. The large pavilions, where refreshments will be served to all wearing a club badge, are to be decorated to represent huge grottoes. A number of circus stunts have been arranged for.

The Market.

There is little to report from the cut flower market except that business is down to its usual low midsummer ebb.
Up to the present the demand from mountain and shore resorts has been light, and it is not expected that there will be any lavish entertaining there this season. Outside of funeral work there is practically nothing doing, and there is likely to be little business before the middle of September. On the whole, however, the season has not been bad; it has been vastly better than we could have hoped for last fall.

Roses for the season continue of fine quality. There is a fair call for Beauties. Some select flowers reach $15 to $20, but the majority go at $10 to $12.
Ophelia continues good. The best flowers make $8 to $12. There are still some good Russell, Miller, Taft and Richmond. The glut of short-stemmed flowers is less, due to the lack of strong heat so far. Carnations show no improvement in sales. Sweet peas, owing to drenching rains, have been poor.
Good flowers are in demand. Gladioli are cheap and hard to sell; Mrs. Francis King is the best seller thus far. Sweet sultans and blue cornflowers sell fairly well. Marguerites are nearly over.

Lilies are not selling well; neither is valley. The demand for orchids is low;
the same is true of gardenias.

Various Notes.

John F. Briry, of Braman, Dow &
Co., well known to many in the trade, is enjoying a vacation at Black Point, Nova Scotia. July 3 he wrote that the double white narcissi were in flower and Paeonia officinalis just opening.

The statement recently made in one of the trade papers that W. C. Ward, of East Milton, had retired from business is utterly devoid of foundation.
Mr. Ward has no intention of getting out of business; he is marketing some excellent sweet peas and is busy with plans for the coming season.

The garden committee of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society visited the estate of George E. Barnard, Ipswich, July 9. They found that many improvements had been made there. A fine rock garden had been developed, and the show of herbaceous plants was extensive. Some 30,000 herbaceous plants and 50,000 annuals had been set out this season.

Boston, up to July 8, had a precipitation of over eight inches this month, beating all previous records for a similar period. To show how abnormal the conditions were with some growers,
I might mention that Axel Magnuson, at Manchester, Mass., was picking sweet peas dressed in a bathing suit in his garden July 2, in three feet of water. A stream which flows through his gardens overflowed its banks and submerged all annuals except the tops of the sweet pea rows.

Julius H. Zinn had a charming window July 10. Baskets of nymphæas, gypsophilas and adiantum were pretty, and there was a splendid assortment of orchids.

About all the leading flower stores now close at 6 p. m. They might well close at 5 p. m., for all the business done during the hot months, and all day on holidays. Employees in flower stores need a half holiday per week as much as those in the dry goods stores.

Hitchings & Co. started work on the new carnation house for Thomas Capers, of Wellesley Hills, last week.

Patrick Welch announces a fare of $104.20 for the round trip to and from San Francisco, leaving Boston August 4 and arriving back September 2. Lower berth for full round trip costs $37. Early applications should be made, as there will be a heavy transcontinental traffic in August. It looks now as though there would be a fair-sized party to accompany President Welch.

Samuel Wax is having fine success salmon fishing at Grand Lake Stream, Me., and sent a box of six splendid fish home last week.

George Hamer, the assistant manager at the Boston Flower Exchange, is able to resume his duties after his late painful accident.

The Houghton-Gorney Co. had one window July 10 filled with crotons. Hardy perennials and annuals were attractively featured in another window.

Visitors last week included Andrew J. Dorward, Newport, R. I.; A. J. Jennings, representing Bobbink & Atkins, Rutherford, N. J.; Maurice Fuld, representing Knight & Struck Co., New York.

Louis Golub, the well known florist at Houghton & Dutton's, has the sympathy of many friends in the death of his 6-month-old baby, which was instantly killed when an automobile struck the little carriage in which Mrs. Golub was wheeling it.

The sports committee of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club has a fine list of features for the annual picnic at Cunningham park, East Milton, July 22. Fine weather only is needed to bring out a bumper attendance. Any members who have not yet sent in their contributions toward the prize fund should send the same to P. M. Miller at once.

Frank P. Putnam, of North Tewksbury, one of our most successful carnation growers, has his plants, some 30,000 in number, all in the benches for the coming season.

I regret to report the serious illness of Mrs. William Rosenthal, of the Boston Cut Flower Co., with typhoid fever. Mrs. Rosenthal is at the Peter Bent Brigham hospital. Her many friends in the trade wish her a speedy recovery.

BUFFALO.

The Market.

The weather last week was cool for midsummer. Trade is dull. Even special sales have failed to attract buyers. Carnations are holding up well, both in quantity and quality. Candidum and Harrisii lilies are abundant, but the demand for them is light. Sweet peas have come into bloom quickly and are flooding the market. Needless to say, they are going at low figures. Roses in general are good, but some varieties are not opening well and are partly blasted. Key, Ward, Russell, Taft, Hadley and White Killarney are the best.
Beauties are fine, but the prices are low for the quality offered. Valley and orchids are plentiful. Garden flowers are in demand. Gladioli, larkspurs, gaillardias, Shasta daisies, cornflowers, etc., are plentiful. There are few flowering plants at present. Native hardy ferns have arrived and all greens are plentiful.

Various Notes.

J. H. Rebstock had a unique cactus display last week. The entire window was given over to cacti of different varieties. A few vases of flowers gave color to the gray plants. The floor of the window was covered with red paper. Several night-blooming cereus made the window attractive by night, for they were in full bloom for several evenings.

F. J. Keller, of Rochester, was in town last week. The firm of J. B. Keller Sons has orders for several large out-of-town weddings, to occur the latter part of this month.

Miss Anna Louise Faul is having a two weeks' vacation.

The Buffalo Florists' Club's outing takes place at the Bedell House, Grand Island, July 15.

S. A. Anderson had an elaborate decoration for a silver-wedding dinner at the Hotel Iroquois, July 8. Pink and white flowers were arranged in baskets and tied with silver ribbons.
Corsages of white sweet peas and valley, also tied with silver ribbons, were placed at the plate of each lady guest.
The affair was a pretty one. Mr.
Anderson spent several days on a fish-lilies arranged in a star-shaped group.

Vases of roses in long hangers, and lilies in tall, flaring vases, filled the background of the window. At the greenhouses in Lancaster the rose crop is superb. Russell of unusual stems and

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

President, John M. Lupton, Mattituck, L. I.;
Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

SEED crops throughout the north central states are generally quite backward because of the excessive rains.

ON account of anomalous weather conditions, it is impossible to make any definite statements as to seed crop prospects.

UNDER the influence of the high prices paid for farm produce, nowhere in the world except in America does the acreage under seed crops equal that of previous years.

THE T. J. Grey Co., Boston, has removed to much better quarters at 29 South Market street, with a warehouse nearby, at 82 South Market, for heavy seeds, fertilizers, garden tools, etc.

THE British casualty lists record the death in the Mediterranean of Lieut. H. G. Simpson, of the First Inniskilling Fusiliers. He was the only son of H. Simpson, secretary of Cooper, Taber & Co., London.

THE radish seed crop in Michigan is practically a failure. At least fifty per cent of it will be plowed up, and as the French seed will, in all probability, be short, the trade faces a general scarcity of radish seed.

ARTICLES of incorporation for the Arthur T. Boddington Co., New York, were filed July 9. Capitalized at $100,000, the incorporators named are A. T. Boddington, of Yonkers; C. W. Scott, of Whitestone, and Remsen S. Mills, of Brooklyn.

J. M. CLARK, of the Leonard Seed Co., Chicago, has returned from a trip through the seed districts of Michigan and Wisconsin. The company, so far from crying hard times, has enough faith in the future to put six additional salesmen on the road.

REPORTS from Holland indicate continued uncertainty with regard to the fall business. It is stated that conditions have prevented the usual auction sales of growing crops and that prices are unsteady as well as low, in spite of growth conditions that indicate an indifferent yield of tulips and hyacinths, but a good crop of narcissi. Lifting the crops began earlier this year than usual, in spite of the wet spring.

THIRTY travelers for Northrup, King & Co., Minneapolis, started out July 6 to cover that part of the United States from the Great Lakes to the coast and from Canada to the gulf. There is scarcely a hamlet in all that section that is not visited. As an experiment, six of the young men were equipped with roadsters of the Little Henry coinage, with a view to testing their adaptability to the work.

WHILE some operators seem to be expecting a bumper crop of onion sets, others take the opposite view and look for an unusually short crop, but of choice quality. If there should be a large crop, the indications are that the sets will be quite inferior in both shape and size. Nothing definite, though, can be known as yet, as the crops at Chicago are still making rapid top growth as a result of the heavy rains and it is problematical whether or not they will bulb out and ripen down in good form.

THE business of A. & L. Bremond Freres, Ollioules, France, is to be pushed in America, according to Jacques Courtine, who has been placed in charge since the two sons of Louis Bremond were called to the colors. Mr. Courtine is well acquainted with the trade in the United States through many trips here as a bulb salesman.

FIELD'S BUSINESS YEAR.

The postage bill of the Henry Field Seed Co. is of itself more than enough to make Shenandoah a first-class post-office and exceeds the total postal revenue at such Iowa cities as Creston, Red Oak, Marysville, Centerville or Nebraska City. Its postage bill this year was $42,338.71, an increase over last year of $10,599.61. Not all of this was purchased at home, as $7,568.86 worth of stamps were received in the mail in payment of orders, leaving $34,769.85 purchased at the local postoffice.

These figures were made known at the annual meeting of the company July 6, when it also was shown that the sales for the season amounted to approximately $313,000, against $227,000 last year. The number of orders was a little over 105,000, against 82,600 last year. This was an increase of over twenty-six per cent in number of orders and about thirty-three per cent in volume of business. The number of people employed at the busiest time was about 160 and the pay roll amounted to $42,815.45.

At the meeting the usual eight per cent dividend was declared, the balance of the year's profit being turned over to the surplus fund. The old officers and directors were reelected, as follows: President, Henry Field; vice-president, A. L. P. Thompson; secretary and treasurer, F. E. Tunnicliff; directors, Henry Field, A. L. P. Thompson, D. S. Lake, E. S. Welch, E. A. Read, G. C. Mitchell, A. M. Eldridge; assistant manager, A. M. Eldridge; manager garden seed department, W. W. Pitzer; office manager, Mrs. G. C. Mitchell; manager of printing, Roscoe Allison; manager nursery department, J. E. Carothers.

KRELAGE ON BULBS AND WAR.

E. H. Krelage, of Haarlem, head of the Bulb Growers' Association of the Netherlands, a few weeks ago discussed with a representative of the Associated Press the effect of the war as related to the Holland bulb industry. The interview has just reached the newspapers, members of the association, and is in part as follows:

"Everything in the bulb trade was ready for the export season, which starts in the first week of August, when the war broke out," said Mr. Krelage, as his motor whirled the correspondent through gorgeous fields, planted in checkerboards of scarlet, purple, yellow, white and parti-colored tulips and hyacinths, the odor of which hung heavy above the sandy fields. first impression then was that exportation would be impossible and that the whole season would be lost. But the results were really better than we anticipated. Exportation was found possible to the United States without interruption; also to England, Sweden, Norway and Denmark, Germany and Austria, France and even Russia. Many orders, however, were canceled or cut down. Domestic readjustments made necessary by the departure of so many millions of men for the battlefields of Europe caused the abandoning of much of the garden beautifying which is annually planned in the fall. For this reason there came to be an enormous surplus stock on the hands of the Dutch bulb growers, especially of hyacinths, which had already been somewhat too plentiful even before the war.

"Enormous quantities of bulbs, also, seem to have been sent to public auctions in several foreign countries, to be sold in that way at exceedingly low prices—which did not help the Dutch bulb business. At the end of the export season tulips and narcissi proved to be practically all sold, while there still remained an important stock of hyacinths in the warehouses, which had to be thrown away in the end.

"The prices of most kinds of bulbs went down in August. Hyacinths could be had at any figure; tulips in cases for half the normal price. The official export statistics show only a slight decrease compared with the record year of 1913, but these figures are deceptive. They can be accounted for by the large size and greater weight of the bulbs, and also by the large quantities sold at auction, upon which there was little if any profit to the venders or the bulb growers.

"The financial losses to the bulb growers, although not perhaps so bad as anticipated last August, have been serious. But they depend to a certain extent upon the character of the trade supplied by the individual grower. Firms dealing only with the United States have not irreparably suffered, while those exporting chiefly to Russia had an extremely bad year.

the bulb firms of Holland have traveled as usual to take orders and make collections for former supplies. They report, generally, that payments, even in the countries at war, are coming in far better than expected. They are, however, booking their new orders, as a rule, without definite arrangements as to prices, as many large buyers of bulbs prefer to wait until later before confirming their orders. PRINCESS

20—The New Upright Pansy

This strain is entirely distinct from all others. It is absolutely compact, upright growing, and extremely weather-proof, enduring many storms without damage to its flower. The flowers are mostly blotched and frilled like the Masterpiece, of good form and heavy velvety texture, on heavy stems carried well above the foliage. Attractive by the brilliancy of its colors.
500 Seeds 20c; 1000 Seeds 35c; 1/4 oz. $1.00; 1/2 oz. $2.00; 1 oz. $7.50.

- 24—Kenilworth Show—A fine strain.
- 38—Mme. Perret—Red and wine shades.
- 40—Zebra—Fine striped mixture.
- 42—Adonis—Light blue, white center.
- 44—Black—Almost coal black.
- 46—Black with bronze center.
- 48—Lord Beaconsfield—Purple shaded white.
- 50—Bronze—Beautiful bronze.
- 52—Bronze with yellow center.
- 54—Velvet Brown with yellow center.
- 56—Havana Brown.
- 58—Havana Brown with yellow center.
- 60—Cardinal—Curled, bright red, dark blotch.

The KENILWORTH Giant Pansy

seeds are all grown by myself and are offered in the following mixtures and separate colors:

- 22—KENILWORTH STRAIN—The flowers are of perfect form and substance; many of the immense flowers are from 3 1/4 to 4 inches; it is a striking collection of beautiful colors and markings rich with shades of red, brown, bronze, mahogany and many others too numerous to mention. Light, Medium or Dark Mixtures.
- 26—KENILWORTH CUT FLOWER MIXTURE—Is a distinct class by itself, surpassing all other strains as a cut flower or for exhibition purposes, for inside or outside growing; the large flowers are carried erect above the foliage on heavy stems, 7 or 8 inches long, in the most graceful manner, and stand the hot, dry weather well.
- 28—MASTERPIECE—A remarkable type; the curled, wavy petals giving the flower a double appearance, large flowers of great substance, on long, strong stems.
- 30—GIANT THREE AND FIVE BLOTCHED PANSIES—A superb mixture. Flowers large and of circular form and of great substance. The display of coloring is unsurpassed. A combination of almost every shade of rich velvety colors, reds are particularly conspicuous; the petals being distinctly marked with three or five large dark blotches.
- 32—GIANT PARISIAN—The flowers are of enormous size, and beautifully marked, mostly five dark blotches on white and yellow ground. An unusually showy mixture.

NEW SEED NOW READY

All sorts and mixtures, except the new Pansy Princess, are $5.00 per oz.; $1.25 per 1/4 oz.; 5000 seeds, $1.00; trade packet of 1000 seeds, 25c; any 5 pkts., $1.00. Please order by number.

- 62—Cecily—Steel blue, margined white.
- 64—Goliath—Large curled yellow, blotched.
- 66—Hero—Curled, deep blue shaded white.
- 68—Emp. William—Ultramarine blue, violet eye.

spring, of course many of these orders will be lost, and the plight of the Dutch bulb growers will be worse than ever."

It is the smaller bulb growers who suffer most. The small bulb grower must sell to the large wholesaler, who has the facilities for storing the bulbs and can afford to do so. One large wholesaler at Hillegom recently stated that he received over 1,000,000 bulbs at his warehouses, of which he had been able to dispose of only 150,000. These bulbs came from the small growers. The tulip bulbs are as a rule sold while yet in flower, in the case of the small grower by auction, held on the ground by local notaries, who make a good thing out of it, whether the growers do or not.

WORLD'S TRADE AND CONGRESS.

"The seed business is of rather limited dimensions as an industry, but world-wide in its scope," said President Lester L. Morse in opening the San Francisco convention of the A. S. T. A., "and on the whole it is a wonderfully interesting business. Every season brings its full share of trials and anxieties, but there is usually enough of success mixed up with failure to keep us fairly happy.

"As most of you probably know, it was the ambition of the California seedsmen to have the 1915 convention a world's congress of seed growers and seed dealers, and, acting on our suggestion, the convention two years ago passed a resolution inviting the seed trade of the world to meet with us this year.

"The seed trade is essentially a world's business and the dealer gathers his stocks from the four corners of the earth. No one section of the earth produces, or can produce, more than a few items of the long list of varieties a seedsman carries in his stock, and the seed dealer is generally quite as familiar through correspondence with the foreign growers as he is with the American. It is a misfortune that we could not have had the proposed congress, for many of us would have met people with whose names we are familiar, but whose faces we have never seen. Let us all hope when the war is over, it will be possible sometime and in some place to have the international gathering we have missed this time."

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

Bloomington, Cal.—A. C. Howell, who is now in the citrus nursery business, is changing to the growing of flowers and ornamentals.

Hillsboro, Ore.—Three parades July 4 and 5 furnished considerable business for the Hillsboro Plant & Flower Garden. The decorated baby buggy that took first prize was trimmed with flowers from this firm. W. H. Morton looks forward to a good year, as crops in this section look well.

WALLER GOT MEDAL.

L. D. Waller, manager of the Guadalupe seed growing company that bears his name, calls attention that The Review has failed to chronicle the fact that his exhibit was awarded a medal at the recent sweet pea show at San Francisco. The official report says: "The L. D. Waller Seed Co., Guadalupe, Cal., put up a fine exhibit. In spite of the long distance which the flowers had to travel, they arrived at the show in fine condition, thanks to excellent packing. Mr. Waller was present in person to set them up, and the flowers in arrangement did him every credit. The silver gilt medal awarded was well deserved." Mr. Waller adds: "As subscribers to your paper, we consider we should receive acknowledgment of our award through your medium. These displays are put up at great expense and to have our company ignored is annoying."

LOS ANGELES.

The Market.

Last week was an excellent one for business and the coming of the Elks next week should also help. Besides several good wedding decorations, there has been an unusually large amount of good funeral work. Outdoor roses are still good. Some fine Mrs. J. Laing are most attractive; Ulrich Brunner is always a favorite and both are splendid keepers. Asters are improving and some excellent stock is shown. Dahlias continue to make a good show. There is an abundance of good carnations and centaureas. Orchids from the north are meeting with a good demand; so, also, is valley. Greens are plentiful, but plants are scarce.

Various Notes.

Thomas Chisholm, the well known nurseryman of Pasadena, has purchased a splendid new automobile, a 1916 Flanders.

The monthly meeting of the Los Angeles Horticultural Society was held at Kruckeberg's hall July 6. The lecturer for the evening was Frank Lewin, of Hawthorne, and his subject was roses. He gave a short history of the rose, followed by an excellent practical paper on rose culture as it should be practiced in California. He went carefully into the details of planting, pruning, feeding and watering. His remarks were closely followed by the exceptionally large audience. A list of roses suitable for growing as bushes, climbers and ramblers was also given. Mr. Lewin's

YOU MAY discontinue our ad of Mums, as we are completely sold out. Review ads certainly are business-bringers. First order received within 24 hours after The Review came, and since then orders coming from as far south and east as Texas, Oklahoma, California and about everywhere. They are still coming, and we shall have to return several containing checks and money orders.

BAKER FLORAL & SEED CO.

Baker, Ore., June 7, 1915.

address was followed by an interesting discussion and the nature of the questions asked showed the deep interest taken in the queen of flowers. The speaker for the August meeting will be P. D. Barnhart and his subject will be "Trials of a Gardener."

Two magnificent palls and a number of other fine pieces were among the funeral work turned out by Wolfskills' & Morris Goldenson one morning last week. Some splendid Ulrich Brunner roses from J. B. Menasco adorn the store.

A receiver's sale was held at the Claremont Nurseries, Claremont, last week. The bidding on stock was not particularly brisk.

Fred Howard, of Howard & Smith, has just returned from Ventura. He reports his business as bigger than ever this season, notwithstanding the depression in some lines.

The Pioneer Nursery Co., Monrovia, has built a new greenhouse and sales-room in town, for the convenience of retail patrons. The nursery, while always attractive, is too far from the center of town to be easily reached, except by an automobile, and the opening of the retail department looks like a good move. It will be in charge of the widow of the driver who was lately in the employ of Mr. Foster and whose death was reported in this column.

H. W. Turner has only just finished one large new house, but it is already filled and the posts and gutters are up for another pair. The replanting is practically finished in the large range and the young stock looks fine. Hoosier Beauty is being largely planted this year for red.

Walter Armacost & Co. are building two more houses and intend to try out a number of the new roses this year.

G. Newman, of S. Murata & Co., has returned from a visit to the Murrietta hot springs. He says the waters there have been quite beneficial to him, in their effects on his rheumatism. The store force reports big business.

C. Gutting, of the Superior Nursery Co., has a fern which will probably make a stir at the S. A. F. convention. Mrs. Gutting is in San Francisco, seeing the sights.

Frank Lichtenberg has obtained the flower concession in the new Broadway department store and will run it as a high-class establishment.

Polder & Groen are putting in a new reservoir at their Montebello nursery. The pink cyanus being sent in by this firm is novel and attractive.

H. R. Richards.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

The last week was the least active for some time, though many florists still say business is better than normal for the season. Offerings in the market have been even larger than before, with the result that stock of most kinds fails to clean up even at easy prices. Practically all seasonable varieties of outdoor stock are offered in large quantities. No asters and few zinnias have yet appeared. Carnations have been overplentiful and ordinary stock is practically given away. Sweet peas are not doing much better. Gladioli continue plentiful, with better demand and higher average quality, and extra fine stock continues to bring high prices. Some particularly fine dahlias have appeared, but these are not overabundant. Some nice indoor pink snapdragon finds ready sale. Roses move slowly and the average quality is not good; the flowers are good enough, but the foliage is mildewed. Good, long-stemmed Russell still finds an active demand and Ophelia is steadily gaining in popularity. Cecile Brunner is less plentiful, with the demand holding fairly well. Offerings of lilies and valley are sufficient for all requirements, the call being limited. Orchids also are quiet; the market is well supplied with good cattleyas. Tritoma, both cut and potted, is seen in many shops. Potted hydrangeas of several kinds, including a good many blue-flowered sorts, are still fairly popular.

Various Notes.

Owing to the holiday, and the fact that a good many members wished to get out of town for the week end, the monthly meeting of the Pacific Coast Horticultural Society, scheduled for July 3, was postponed for a week.

The local Ladies' Auxiliary of the S. A. F. held a well attended meeting on the evening of June 30, at which the entertainment of visiting ladies at the convention was discussed and the principal details were decided on. Another meeting and reception were held on the evening of July 14, at the home of Mrs. J. A. Axell.

M. MacRorie, of South Orange, N. J., has been in San Francisco for the last fortnight, visiting his son, Daniel MacRorie, of the MacRorie-McLaren Co. Walter Hofinghoff, of this company, spent the week end at his ranch in Sonoma county.

E. C. Jaeger, of the Fairmont Floral Co., has returned from southern California.

H. M. Earl, representing W. Atlee Burpee & Co., has been calling on the local trade.

The United Flower & Supply Co., on Bush street, which handles the product of most of the Japanese chrysanthemum growers, now has things pretty well lined up for the coming season and expects to do a big business, both here and in the shipping trade. According to this company, the planting of chrysanthemums has been much larger than last year, and the early varieties, such as Monrovia, Golden Glow and October Frost, are certain to be considerably ahead of the normal season.

Mr. Kooyman, of the Hogan-Kooyman Co., says he is still getting many large orders for freesia bulbs and expects to clean up his available supply soon.

The local trade is now well supplied with vases and pottery from the Peters & Reed Pottery Co., Zanesville, O., as about two carloads of these have just been received by the florists' supply houses.

Chas. F. Shellgrain, of the house of J. B. Boland, says that while trade is keeping up better than usual, he looks for comparatively quiet times the rest of July. With a lot of big conventions coming here in August, however, he counts on a brisk revival at that time.

F. Schlotzhauer, of the Francis Floral Co., at Powell and Sutter streets, showed a windowful of nice gloxinias one day last week, and sold them out in short order. He says they are proving quite satisfactory as a summer-flowering plant, coming when there is not much else of attractive quality on the market. He is also showing a fine lot of new hybrid zinnias, about the first to appear, and is getting out some pretty baskets to harmonize with them. Mr. Schlotzhauer is preparing to paint the front of his store and have everything in fine order for convention time, and believes visiting florists will find something to interest them if they call at his store during their stay here.

Mrs. R. E. Darbee says the new refrigerator car service of the American Express Co. will probably cause a material increase of shipments from San Francisco, making it possible to ship small parcels under refrigeration. One car has been put on direct to New York, in addition to the service throughout the west. Mrs. Darbee says this will be of great assistance in getting violets to the eastern trade in first-class condition. While things are a little quiet just now, Mrs. Darbee has recently taken on additional help at the store on Hyde street.

The planting of tuberous begonias in the Netherlands gardens at the exposition is now coming into bloom. In one of the exhibit beds there is a fine showing of godetias, and the gladiolus collections of the Metzner Floral Co., Mountain View, are excellent, with stalks nearly six feet tall. The cannas are making a brave effort to bloom, but look uncomfortable in the cool wind.

The Market.

Business has been dull during the last week. Social events and funerals have been scarce. Counter trade has not taken much stock.

Carnations of unusually good quality for this time of year are coming in faster than the market can handle them. Some of the stores offer them at cut prices. Some good roses cut from newly set stock are shown; Kaiserin, Mrs. Russell, Ophelia and Hadley. The first asters have made their appearance.

Outdoor stock of all kinds and asparagus greens are in oversupply. The sweet pea show has directed special attention to that flower and has kept the market up. Outdoor gladioli of splendid quality are shown in all the window displays. Mrs. King is one of the favorite varieties.

Sweet Pea Show.

A well attended show was held by the Oregon Sweet Pea Society July 9 and 10. Non-competitive exhibits were entered by nearly all the large flower stores, by the Portland Floral Society, the Portland Union Stockyards, the Swiss Floral Co., Mrs. Harriet Hendee, Capt. Geo. Pope and Zimmerman Bros.

In the competitive exhibits Mrs. Etta M. Marshall, of Kent, Wash., won the grand prizes for amateurs and for exhibits from outside this county. The exhibit of Capt. Pope attracted the greatest interest. He showed twenty new varieties of his own creation. The committee on awards recommended that he be given a special trophy for his efforts in improving sweet peas. The Portland Union Stockyards, through Manager O. M. Plummer, distributed a large number of bunches of sweet peas free to visitors.

Henry Pegney won first prize for exhibits by private gardeners.

Florists' Picnic.

Sunday, July 4, was a red-letter day in the history of the Portland Floral Society, for on it was held the best attended and most successful picnic the society has ever given. Downtown stores were closed all day, and the greenhouses were deserted. All hands, with their families and friends, went to the picnic given by the society at Schnoerr's park, near Oregon City, an eighteen-mile ride by electric car from Portland. The day was partly cloudy and cool, just perfect for outdoor enjoyment. All sorts of amusement contrivances were found at the park and the river was handy for those who wanted to take a plunge. An ample quantity of refreshments was furnished by the society and everything on the grounds was free.

Committeemen Scott and Zitzewitz had a variety of contests and games on the program, and there was something of interest going on every minute. Among the prize-winners were: Ben Van Kirk, in the married men's race; Carl Rahn, in boys' race; August Zitzewitz, in fat men's race; "Stub" Smith, in sack race; Van Kirk and Langstaff, in three-legged race; Mrs. Mann, in married women's race; Mrs. Robinson, in fat women's race, and Mrs. Mann, in string-winding race.

"Judge" F. A. Van Kirk levied fines totaling $7.40 at his Kangaroo court.

The Society of the Yellow Dog held an almost continuous session. About forty new members were initiated. As this is a secret order, special quarters had to be provided, safe from intrusion, and the candidates for admission were divided into a number of classes. The Supreme Canine and his aides must have handled at least eight classes. This was a strenuous day's work for them, and proves their loyalty and devotion to the sacred cause of the society.

A graphophone and piano furnished music for dancing at the pavilion. There were no restrictions on shooting firecrackers and some members of the older generation had as much fun with them as did the young people.

Coral Van Kirk and Julius Dorsche led in much of the fun-making.

When last seen, Secretary Niklas was bound for the river.

Howard Earle, of W. Atlee Burpee & Co., came to the picnic with J. J. Butzer. On the way he bought the entire stock of firecrackers of a country store and so was prepared to celebrate. He was initiated into the Society of the Yellow Dog.

According to the number of badges given out by the committee, about 250 attended the picnic.

Mr. Rahn showed his agility on the flying rings.

Sam Roake was an efficient worker in the interests of the S. Y. D.

Various Notes.

G. Teufel is busy putting in new carnation plants. He says his old plants were in fine condition, almost too good to take out.

Mr. Youell reports that space for trade displays at the exhibition is being taken rapidly. He states that the prize schedule is the largest and best ever, and expects the exhibition to be describable in the same terms.

Roseacres, Miss.—S. W. Crowell, of the United States Nursery Co., says the demand for field-grown rose plants for several years has been ahead of the supply. The company is increasing its planting of roses as rapidly as possible and now has 2,000,000 in the field for next season's market. Mr. Crowell feels that, judging by the inquiries and orders of the last few years, it will be difficult to create an oversupply.

W. C. STEPHENS, a farmer near Hazen, N. D., has started a small nursery, which is developing rapidly.

THE Illinois State Horticultural Society will hold its third annual summer meeting July 27 and 28, at Champaign.

THE Brand Nursery Co., of Faribault, Minn., made a clean sweep of the prizes for peony seedlings at the annual show of the Minnesota State Horticultural Society recently.

At the annual meeting of the Texas State Horticultural Society, August 2 and 3, at the A. & M. College, College Station, J. R. Arbenz, of Sarita, will preside as president, and M. Falkner, of Waco, will deliver the response to the address of welcome.

C. G. CURTIS INCORPORATES.

The nursery business of Chas. G. Curtis, at Callicoon, N. Y., since July 1 has been known as the Chas. G. Curtis Co., having incorporated with a capital stock of $10,000. Mr. Curtis has for the last fourteen years conducted a successful business in collecting and growing native plants and trees, making a specialty of Rhododendron maximum. The business has been increasing rapidly for several years.

A new member of the firm is Miss Elizabeth Metzger, who has been in Mr. Curtis's office for several years.

The purpose of the new company is to enlarge the business. One of the main objects is to transplant and grow native plants and trees for the wholesale trade; it will also handle all classes of nursery stock, including bulbs, foreign and domestic. The company is erecting a large office building on Bridge street, with yard and packing shed at the west end of the building.

LOW PRICES.

Who Is Responsible for Them?

In his address on, "Deal Direct—the Catalogue Way," at the A. A. N. convention at Detroit, W. J. Maloney, secretary and treasurer of Maloney Bros. & Wells Co., Dansville, N. Y., touched upon a question that every nurseryman has given much thought to, the cause of low prices for nursery stock. There are many sides to the subject, and The Review would be glad to have its readers present their views, no matter which of the many sides they deal with. Mr. Maloney's statements in this regard were:

"It is said many of our brother nurserymen engaged in the agency business are antagonistic to the mail order houses. If so, is it simply because we sell direct by mail to the consumer and are doing a legitimate business, or because of cut rate prices? I think the latter. If the former, I personally cannot conceive why this should be, as the field affords plenty of opportunity for all. Through the catalogue we reach the intelligent farmer and the dweller in small towns and hamlets, that the agent does not frequent. "Several nurserymen have criticised some Dansville wholesale people for selling at low prices. Has it ever occurred to you that you, practically speaking, are responsible for it? Our ten or twelve years doctors, lawyers, merchants, farmers, or anyone who could raise the price, and some who couldn't, have been planting. Many of those people do not know any more about growing trees right than you or I about an airship.

"You come out there to buy trees. What do you do? Dig out and hunt up some of those farmers who are no better posted on the market of trees than we are on what caused the great European war.

"If cherries are worth 15 cents, you offer 10 cents, and get them. If you can't secure all you want of him, you may come to a legitimate nurseryman. If he won't sell at the farmer's price, you hunt up a shoe dealer or some other cut-rate fellow, buy your needs and go back to your friends and say, 'I bought cherries for 10 cents,' and tell how you did it. Thus by your actions you have encouraged many to engage in this business who should never be there, until what they grow aggregates many thousands of trees, and you absolutely force the legitimate nurserymen to meet prices which are in many instances below cost of production, and then you wonder why low-priced circulars are sent from Dansville. This also compels the retailer who grows his trees to meet the price of the retailer who buys his needs from the fence-corner nurseryman.

"Dansville is a great factor in the nursery game. There is no place where God permits the sun to shine that grows more or better trees than little Dansville. She goes a long way towards establishing the market price on trees in the United States. Then why in heaven's name do you compel her nurserymen by your actions to quote prices that tend to annihilate the market?

"Gentlemen, what right has a dry goods man, clothier or dentist to engage in our business? If they are desirous of helping some young fellow along, let the clothier rent a store next to his and start him up, or the dentist open an office next to his and start him in business. No, they won't do it. But you people will go there and buy trees grown by such fellows, who are not depending on the product for their livelihood. I want to say to you, we welcome anyone who desires to engage in the business as his business.

"I don't speak of this from a selfish motive, but because it is annihilating the business. These men are not making any money, and it forces legitimate nurserymen to meet their prices and send out low-priced circulars that you fellows detest. You are responsible for it, and no one else. Think it over, gentlemen."

Hudson Heights, N. J.—McMillan & Sons announce that they are going out of the florists' business.

PITTSBURGH.

The Market.

Pittsburgh continues to get an unusual amount of rain, but the temperature is more seasonable; if it continues, the vacationists will have real summer weather. Business seems to have dropped out of sight. While there are still plenty of good flowers, the demand for them seems to get less each day. Beauties, gladioli, asters and lilies are the most substantial flowers, but there are also other good roses, valley and cattleyas. There has been too much rain for sweet peas.

Samuel McClements has his whole force busy putting his greenhouses in shape for fall. He is strong for white paint and cleanliness. The store will receive attention later in the season.

Mrs. E. A. Williams, owing to the change of grade on Penn avenue to bring it above flood level, is raising the store floor about two feet. They are taking care of their trade, but under difficulties.

A. W. Smith, Jr., is finding his landscape department is going to keep the force busy all summer. Other trade is about as usual.

Paul S. Randolph, Jr., provided the Florists' Club with lunch at its last meeting, as he is the latest benedict.

Fred H. Riegelmeier, the south side florist, while out auto riding Friday evening, July 9, was involved in a collision in which every person in both machines was injured, one fatally. Mr. Riegelmeier was badly shaken up, but not seriously injured. Mrs. Riegelmeier's hip was broken and she was otherwise injured. Their little girl was badly cut by broken glass. A young lady who was with them died from the shock and a young man was badly injured. All of the occupants of the other machine were more or less hurt and went to the hospital. It appears that the driver of the other machine was at fault.

C. L. Corbin, of Barnesville, O., and Mr. and Mrs. Muegel, of Latrobe, Pa., were visitors last week. Martin Reukauf, on his way to the coast, accompanied by Mrs. Reukauf, stopped to pick up his orders here. Clarke.

The Market.

Business during the first part of last week was quite good. Funeral work constituted the heaviest demand, with a few weddings. During the latter part of the week there was a slump in the market, and the temperature rose to midsummer heat.

The heat has had telling effect on the cut flower stock. Roses are somewhat scarce at present. Shawyer, My Maryland, Sunburst and Russell are holding out well. Killarneys are poor. Carnations are good, considering the lateness of the season. The summer flowers are as good as could be expected after the heavy rains we have had. Easter lilies are of splendid quality. Gladioli are fine and meet with much favor, commanding good prices. Dahlias are exceptionally fine this year. There are few asters to be seen on the market, and these are of small proportions. Outdoor sweet peas are good in spite of the adverse weather conditions.

Various Notes.

Several houses are being planted with Shawyer roses at the Flick Floral Co.'s greenhouses. Sunburst will be grown in great numbers the coming season.

At the Ankenbruck-Nussbaum wedding, July 7, beautiful decorations were carried out in summer flowers by Herbert Zur Muhlen. Many ferns and palms, together with cut flowers, decorated the altars at St. Mary's church, where the wedding took place. Lilies of the valley and white roses formed the bride's arm bouquet, while the maids carried Russell roses. R. F.

NEWPORT, R. I.

J. G. Leikens, Inc., has just purchased a handsome new delivery car.

James Ritchie, the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Ritchie, was recently married to Miss Viola Hathaway. He is associated with his father and brother in the florists' business.

John Garlarte, a Portuguese, for the last eighteen years employed by Samuel Smith, at Jamestown, has suddenly become independently rich. He received notice from Brazil of the death of an uncle there, the letter stating that the uncle had bequeathed his entire estate, said to be worth $400,000, to Mr. Garlarte, who, it appears, was a favorite nephew. He has arranged to go to Brazil at once. He is about 40 years of age and unmarried. It is his intention to visit his mother at Fayal, Azores, after he has attended to the settlement of his uncle's estate.

WINTER-FLOWERING ROSES

Specially Low Prices to Close Out Stocks Remaining Unsold.

We have a particularly fine stock of the newer and leading standard varieties in 3½ and 4-inch pots ready for immediate planting. The prices quoted below for 3½ and 4-inch stock are as low as the prices at which 2½-inch stock is usually sold. The demand for Ophelia is very heavy. If you want to plant this valuable new rose, do not delay placing order. While we have a nice stock of it at present, at the rate it is selling we are likely to become sold out before long.

NEW NEPHROLEPIS FERN—JOHN WANAMAKER

We will introduce the above new fern on August 1st, 1915. In presenting this fern to the trade, we feel confident that it will make a place for itself.

The John Wanamaker fern is a wonderful advance over all plain or wavy frond varieties. The side pinnae of the fronds are very fully undulated, giving the plants a very wavy appearance. It will make as many fronds as Teddy, Jr., plants in 4-inch pots having over sixty fronds. It is a beautifully formed plant, full and compact.

Orders will be filled strictly in rotation.

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the Editor of this Department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. But please do not ask The Review to make a choice of apparatus for you. The greenhouse heating equipment advertised in this paper is, we believe, the best for the trade to buy, and each article the best in the special field of its adaptation.

CHICAGO COAL MARKET.

According to the Black Diamond, the Chicago fuel market has a better tone, everything considered, than it has had for a year. There are still some weak spots in the market, but it is generally true that operators are more hopeful. Prices are better today than they have been for a long while, although a good many florists are turning from West Virginia to Illinois and Indiana coals to save freight. Smokeless coals still are the growers' favorite, but the smokeless trade is still a little slow. Sales agents have been trying to get the large buyers to take in coal while it is plentiful and while transportation is easy. Retail dealers are not interested, largely because the real estate agents have not yet begun to buy. Mine run is kept firm in the meantime by being withheld from the market. The circular price is still $1.25 and is being maintained.

CIRCULATION IS SLUGGISH.

I send you herewith a sketch showing the layout of one of my greenhouses, in which I wish to change the heating system. I have been heating with 4-inch flues under the side benches, but this is unsatisfactory, as the flow is too sluggish. What would be the best way to heat this house? How many feet of pipe would be required in the shape of coils? Would it not be better to place the coils on the walls instead of under the benches? If placed under the benches, the pipes would be too close to the soil; this would hinder the heat from getting out into the house and would cause excessive drying out of the plants. A circulator is attached to the boiler. I grow geraniums in this house, and want a temperature that will suit them. The temperature outside is about the same as in Chicago. H. K.—III.

The sketch shows a house 13x23 feet, built against a dwelling, in the basement of which the heater, with a rating of 875 square feet, is located. The heater supplies 260 square feet of radiation in the dwelling. The walls of the greenhouse extend two feet above the ground level, and are of concrete, banked to the top with earth.

A temperature of 60 degrees can be maintained by running a 2½-inch flow pipe under the ridge and connecting it at the farther end of the greenhouse with coils on the walls, each containing

QUICKEST WATER HEATER IN THE WORLD

The immense amount of direct self-cleaning heating surface, the thin vertical waterways and the long effective fire travel, cause the Kroeschell type of boiler construction to heat water quicker than any other form of boiler.

Expressions From Men Who Know BoilersTHE LEADING GROWER IN VERMONT.

I have the Kroeschell Boiler six years; it is heating 17,000 sq. ft. glass. No other but a Plate Boiler for me.

THE PLANT KING OF THE WEST.

I have used Kroeschell Boilers ever since I built my first greenhouse. They have always given me the very best satisfaction and I believe them as good boilers as money can buy.
(Signed) F. OECHSLIN,
CHICAGO, ILL.

OHIO'S CELEBRATED CYCLAMEN SPECIALIST.

After using your No. 12 Kroeschell Boiler I came to the conclusion that had I to install more boilers it would be the Kroeschell and no other. It really is a pleasure to heat, no trouble to get the desired heat in a very short time.
(Signed) CHRIST. WINTERICH, DEFIANCE, OHIO.

THE QUALITY PLACE OF BOSTON.

Regarding the Kroeschell it is the best we have ever had and satisfactory beyond our expectations. It heats up especially quick and has saved us considerably already in the price of fuel. When we are in need of another boiler we will give the Kroeschell the first consideration.
(Signed) WM. W. EDGAR CO.,
WAVERLEY, MASS.

A BIG MAN IN THE FLORICULTURAL WORLD.

The Kroeschell Boiler I installed last year usually runs from 10 p. m. to 6 a. m. without attention. I do not have the least trouble to keep temperatures in the coldest weather. The boiler has given entire satisfaction.
The Kroeschell is the best boiler we have ever handled.
(Signed) CHARLES TOTTY,

A FAMOUS ILLINOIS ROSE RANGE.

In speaking of the Kroeschell Boiler as an economical greenhouse boiler I cannot say too much. Personally I have had the pleasure or misfortune to fire nearly every make of G. H. Boiler on the market and I can safely say the Kroeschell is the best of them all.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST MUSHROOM PLANT.

We spent $100,000 in building and equipping the largest modern mushroom plant in the world. We purchased in every instance the best of everything we could get, and the fact that we installed a Kroeschell Boiler to furnish our heat is sufficient evidence of our opinion of same.
Since installing this boiler and operating it we have never had any reason to change our opinion.

A WELL KNOWN CARNATION PRIZE WINNER.

The carnation range of Mr. Nic Zweifel, of North Milwaukee, consists of nearly 70,000 sq. ft. glass and the water plant is heated by a No. 14 and No. 15 Kroeschell Boiler and Kroeschell Generator. The product of the plant is known throughout the West for its fine quality. Mr. Z. has used different kinds of boilers. As for the Kroeschell, he says: "I think the Kroeschell Boilers are the best boilers a florist can buy."

is a large quantity of cheap stuff. Some growers have already stopped cutting carnations, and others are about to do so. Outdoor sweet peas are arriving in large quantities; there are some greenhouse sweet peas still in the market. Gladioli continue of excellent quality and sell for a medium price. Considerable candytuft is seen in the stores. Daisies are offered for sale by some of the florists. The demand for roses, as for other flowers, has fallen off, though the aggregate sale is still large.

Various Notes.

J. H. Harvey, 406 Broad street, spent July 4 and 5 at Asbury Park with his family. He states that business has been good right up to the present. He had more big weddings during June than in any other June for many years. He had little graduation work, because the principals of the schools nearest to him have forbidden the presentation of flowers during graduation exercises. Formerly his graduation trade was quite profitable.

Trauth the Florist, 475 Orange street, is going to build three greenhouses this summer at Orange street and Sixth avenue, four or five blocks from his store. One of the greenhouses will be 23x100 feet, and the other two will be 18x100 feet each.

Harry I. Stein, proprietor of the flower department of Hahne's department store, on Broad street, spent several days around July 4 in the Catskill mountains.

The Newark Flower Shop, on New street, has been closed. R. B. M.

CATALOGUES RECEIVED.

H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.—A supplementary catalogue of florists' supplies. "In this supplement," says the firm, "we are presenting new models of basketry of original designs made in our own factory, with many other novelties and articles of use to the florist which are not listed in our former issue of the Silent Salesman." An attached leaflet announces a necessary advance in the prices of galvanized vases. For similar reasons, an increase in the prices of tin foil is also indicated.

H. J. Hastings Co., Atlanta, Ga.—A 56-page, illustrated catalogue of seeds, bulbs, field-grown roses, strawberry plants, vegetable roots, insecticides, etc. Flower seeds are listed, but by far the greatest amount of space is devoted to vegetable and farm seeds, with oats and forage crops as specialties.

The Market.

The summer season is with us and nobody seems to talk business, possibly because there is almost no business to talk of. Vacations and outings are the order and almost every establishment is without some of its force.

Stock in general is plentiful. Orders may be taken almost at random, with certainty of filling them. Clean-up sales at dry goods houses are disposing of large quantities of stock at extremely low prices. Carnations are good for this time of year, and will continue good for some time if the cool nights remain with us. Roses are coming in heavily and are also in good shape. They are not bringing what they are worth, but in this are no exception to the other stock. Sweet peas are a glut. Outdoor flowers are holding on longer than usual and are good for this time of year. Southern gladioli are commencing to come in and are of fairly good quality, but it is hard to tell what the demand will be.

Various Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Pollworth, with several guests, are making an extended tour of the state in their automobile. As the roads are in fairly good shape, this makes an ideal outing.

H. V. Hunkel has taken a cottage at Nagawicka lake and has moved his family out there for the summer. Four of the Holton & Hunkel Co. force are away this week, recruiting their strength after a year's hard work.

H. J. S.

The Edlefsen-Leidiger Co. has asked for an injunction to restrain Margaret Kroseberg, nee Edlefsen, and her husband, Herman C. Kroseberg, from conducting a florists' business under the name of the Maggie Edlefsen Co. Her father sold his interest in the Edlefsen-Leidiger Co., which says it is losing much business to her.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

At the beginning of July business took a downward leap and it has stayed there since, with a slim chance of any improvement for a long time. There is a great glut of about all kinds of flowers, both from indoors and outdoors, and they seem to be practically given away. Not only has counter trade been poor, but little is noticed in the way of weddings or funerals. There is a choice assortment of flowers, considering the time of year. Big consignments of roses arrive daily and they are good, but a large number of them go to waste. Practically the same can be said of carnations and only the lighter shades are called for. White and purple candytuft can be seen everywhere. The aster season has commenced and a fair quantity of whites are on the market. Sweet peas are in profusion, in all shades. Easter lilies are plentiful, but do not sell fast. Valley is in good condition, but softens quickly. Gypsophilas are being used extensively. Coreopsis, gaillardias, snapdragons, calendulas, larkspurs, Shasta daisies and mignonette complete the stock. There is a moderate supply of all kinds of greens.

Various Notes.

Chas. W. Curtis has started the aster season by bringing to market some fine whites, which are quite large.

George B. Hart, George Cramer, Charles H. Vick and T. Burk have left the city for a few days' fishing at Conesus lake, Conesus, N. Y. Quiet business affords them a good opportunity to get away.

Paul Campas left July 6 for a two weeks' trip to Cleveland. On his return he will call at Detroit and Toronto.

A pretty window display was shown by H. E. Wilson for the week end. It was composed of a number of baskets filled with pink rambler roses, and in the center was a long brown window basket filled with gypsophilas and rambler roses. The floor of the window was gracefully covered with pink mats.

Miss Ethel May Foster, of Geo. B. Hart's, is away on her vacation, visiting her friends in Macedon, N. Y.

A special train, whose passengers were all Rotary Club members and their wives, on their way from New York to San Francisco, made a short stop at the station here Thursday evening, July 8, when over sixty long-

Charles E. Sharp, of the Rochester Floral Co., has been on vacation during the last week.

Harry Merritt, of Irondequoit, N. Y., has removed all his carnations from under glass and has planted them outdoors. The greenhouse is undergoing general repairs and he is preparing his benches with good, rich soil for his new plants. His asters promise to come along in good shape.

An interesting article, written by John Dunbar, assistant superintendent of parks, is found in the July bulletin of the New York State Forestry Association, on "The City Parks of Rochester." The article states that the park system was inaugurated in 1889 and the present area of the park lands is 1,603 acres. It was in 1900 that the planting of rhododendrons, azaleas and other ericaceous plants was commenced.

MORRISTOWN, N. J.

Hugh C. Holmes, Main and Pine streets, reports that while there has been no great rush during the season just closed, business has about come up to that of last year. Had general business conditions been good, he would have gone ahead of last year. He is now painting and repairing his greenhouses.

John S. Green, Mt. Kemble avenue, has torn down his greenhouses and is now principally engaged in the truck gardening business, though he grows some sweet peas, dahlias, etc., outdoors.

Robert A. Elliott, 18 Pine street, had a good season and sold out his stock well. He had many calls for pink geraniums. Besides carrying a general line of plants and flowers, he specializes in carnations and chrysanthemums. He has planted his mums for the fall trade.

E. A. Holton, 120 South street, reports a good business for the closing season. The usual summer lull has now appeared.

John R. McIntyre, 325 South street, has found that while business was a little slower than usual during the spring and early summer, in the aggregate it was nearly normal.

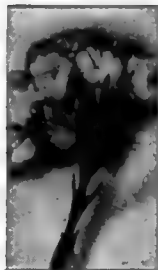

John M. Barker, Pear and South streets, who makes a specialty of sweet peas and chrysanthemums, did a good spring business in sweet peas. He has some late sweet peas in a greenhouse which was put up last winter, which are doing well. He is picking 7,000 sweet peas from this house every other day. He has added one and one-half acres to his property.

Marcus L. Forse reports that his spring and early summer business was unusually good, being far ahead of usual. If it had not been for the Easter Saturday blizzard, the season would have been the best in many years with him. Collections have been fairly good. R. B. M.

KANSAS CITY, MO.

G. K. Parker, of the George M. Kellogg Flower & Plant Co., who also is president of the Kansas City Florists' Club, is hard at work on arrangements for the club's second annual picnic, to be held July 28, at the nursery of Holsinger Bros., Rosedale, Kan. Last year, at the first picnic, which was a great success, there were nearly 200 in attendance. This year they expect a larger attendance than at the first picnic. The florists' stores will all close for the occasion, so that employees as well as employers can attend. They are arranging a program of contests for the afternoon, for which prizes will be awarded, and a number of houses have already given generously for this purpose.

Alden, N. Y.—J. B. Miller has purchased his partner's interest in the firm of Miller & Stroh, and will continue the business under his own name.

AFTER

Looking on All Sides

Of The Question

AMONG our customers are some of the biggest cranks in the business.

Leastwise that's what a lot of their fellow growers tell us.

But, strange as it may seem, we have not found them to be cranks at all. Simply because a man has pronounced ideas and wants them carried out, doesn't make him a crank.

It proves he is a thinker. And when a man does a lot of good, hard thinking, he grows. And the man who is growing, you know well enough, makes the best kind of a grower.

We build our houses according to specifications.

That's exactly what our specifications are for.

It's why our specifications are so much more specific than the general run.

When these so-called cranks buy their houses of us and drive a close bargain, we don't blame them. We are doing the same thing with everything we buy. We have to, or we couldn't sell houses to these close buyers and make a cent. And surely we are not in business for the fun of it, any more than they are.

So, looking at it from all sides of the question, it seems as if our entire organization was trained right along the crank lines, which puts us in a position to surely satisfy the most cranky to satisfy.

As we understand it, you are a bit of a crank yourself about some things.

Then let's get together and do business. It's plain to be seen that "we belong to the same lodge."

You know now, better than ever, why it is you can depend on depending on Hitchings.

And remember we go anywhere for business.

Or to talk business.

Pecky Cypress

We are prepared to supply our customers with Pecky Cypress material for benches, cut to fit so that it can be quickly erected; or we can furnish the lumber just as it comes from the mill.

The Market.

The market is pretty well supplied with everything in season. Roses, however, are the most sought after flower. The most popular rose and that of the best quality just at present is Ophelia. This beautiful rose seems always to fill the demand, no matter what color may be called for. Carnations are smaller since the advent of the hot weather of the last few days, the first really hot weather of the season. Some fine sweet peas are available, with stems nearly a foot long. Such flowers as calendulas, bachelor's buttons, coreopsis, gladioli, poppies, etc., are always in demand, and sell readily when properly displayed.

Various Notes.

Fred. Gerhardt had what was no doubt the largest order of its kind in this city, the filling of nearly 500 feet of self-watering window boxes for a large furniture house. The boxes used were a metal box made by the Success Mfg. Co., of Gloucester, Mass.

During July and August the Michigan Cut Flower Exchange will close at 5 p. m. daily except Saturdays, when they will remain open until 6 p. m. Sundays and holidays they will open at 8 a. m. and close at 10:30 a. m., eastern standard time.

Robert Rahaley may now be seen driving about town in a 6-cylinder Paige car. H. S.

PROGRAM OF INDIANA OUTING.

Wednesday and Thursday, July 21 and 22, are the days set for the annual outing of the State Florists' Association of Indiana, at Winona Lake, Ind. The committee, composed of Harry White, A. F. J. Baur and Fred King, has arranged for a big time. The program will be as follows:

WEDNESDAY, JULY 21.

2:30 P. M. Rake's hall. Short business session and novelty cut flower exhibition.
4:45 P. M. Boat ride on Winona lake, free to association members and friends.
6:00 P. M. Banquet at Winona hotel, $1 per plate.
8:00 P. M. Lecture on electricity, by Montraville Wood. Seats reserved without charge for florists at the Auditorium.

THURSDAY, JULY 22.

9:00 A. M. Baseball game between Indianapolis florists, A. F. J. Baur, captain, and Indiana florists outside of Indianapolis, Harry White, captain. Also games for ladies and children. The tennis and croquet courts have been chartered.
2:30 P. M. Grand concert. Signor Pallaria and his band. Seats reserved for florists at Auditorium, without charge to association members.

Indianapolis florists will leave Wednesday, July 21, at 7:20 a. m., via Big Four.

Gentlemen: The greenhouses you built for me last summer and with which I am so well pleased, received several severe tests within the last few days. During one cold spell of 30 degrees below, I easily maintained the desired temperature in the greenhouses.

I am well pleased with the material and also your pleasant business methods and am convinced that I have the finest greenhouses in Nebraska.

The Market.

The weather is muggy and disagreeable and business is sluggish. There is no demand for even the stock that is coming into the market, and of this much is extremely poor in quality. Carnations are on the wane. Roses are off with a majority of the growers and prices are all knocked to pieces.

Various Notes.

Philip Lavery, of James B. Canning's, is enjoying a vacation at Coney Island and New York.

O. H. Williams benched nearly 2,000 carnation plants last week, including some of the new varieties. He is anticipating an early cut.

F. McCarthy, of T. O'Connor's, is in New York on a vacation trip for a couple of weeks.

W. A. Bower, for several years with Macnair, became the owner of the flower department at Dimond's last week.

The flower show of the Greystone Horticultural Society has been postponed a couple of weeks on account of weather conditions.

Joseph Foster, of Alonzo Vose's, at Cumberland Hill, and a companion, started a few days ago on a daring canoe trip to Harwich Port, Mass. They intend to rough it and expect to be gone about three weeks.

Charles Hunt has purchased a 7-passenger Pierce-Arrow touring car for pleasure purposes.

Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter, who conduct the flower stand at the Union station, are leaving in a few days on a several weeks' trip to Alberta, Can.

Mr. Ennis, of the Hampden Meadows Greenhouses, reports that 5,000 panes of glass were broken in his range by the recent hail storm.

Fry Bros. have commenced the erection of another greenhouse, 25x83, on Radcliffe street.

John J. Kelley is preparing to rebuild his greenhouse at Valley Falls.

Charles H. Greateon, Joseph E. C. Farnham and Eugene McCarron were drawn last week by the aldermen for petit jury duty.

Superintendent James Warren, of the North Burial Grounds, has been granted permission by the city council to attend the annual convention of cemetery superintendents at Minneapolis next month and an appropriation of $150 has been made for the purpose.

Paul A. Schwartz, of Pascoag, went to Penacook, N. H., last week on a visit to relatives.

The Rhode Island Horticultural Society has suspended its meetings until September.

Charles Evans, formerly with Albert Holscher, was married last week and is enjoying his honeymoon in New Hampshire.

Louis Wax, of the Flower Shop Greenhouses, North Attleboro, was married last week to Miss Bertha Jordan, of Philadelphia. W. H. M.

Two Men Tell of the Advantages of Using The Skinner System for Asters

Mr. W. T. Funnell, of Huntington, L. I., writes that "with our asters we see a marked improvement in four ways since we installed the Skinner System of Irrigation. The plants are more vigorous, the stems are longer, the flowers are larger and more of them.

"Being a surface rooter, they are greatly damaged by dry weather and consequently we formerly lost nearly half our crop by drought."

Walter Scott, of LaGrange, Ill., says: "No one grows better asters than I do since installing the Skinner System. The Skinner System watered asters were at least 30% better than those watered with a hose. Last year I would have lost my crop except for your system."

THE Skinner System of Irrigation turns the uncertainty of your crop into a certainty. It's one of the cheapest kinds of crop insurance. It generally pays for itself the first year. To convince yourself, why not order one of our 50-foot Complete Portable Lines for $11.75? It will water 2500 square feet. Send for new Bulletin.

CLEVELAND.

The Market.

Early asters have made their appearance, also Pink Beauty gladioli from outside stock. Carnations and roses are in midsummer form; that is, there is much inferior stock. Sweet peas are plentiful and valley is in good demand, of good quality and abundant. Easter lilies were never seen in better condition than this season. They have fine long stems, some carrying from three to six blooms. The demand for these is fair.

Various Notes.

Final picnic arrangements have been made. At Willoughbeach park, Friday, July 23, there will be a ball game, races and other outdoor sports. Several new stunts are promised by the committee, which consists of Chas. Bastian, Carl Hagenburger and Walter Priest, so look out for an excellent program. Come early and bring your lunch. All stores and greenhouses will close at noon. As usual, the club will supply tickets free to members, good for anything on the grounds. See the committee for yours.

Doves of peace, being raised in the window of a downtown flower store, are the newest sight on Euclid avenue. A monster wire globe trimmed with red, white and blue ribbon and topped off with peace flags, adorns the window of the James Eadie Co. Two pure white doves were placed on the middle of the globe, which represents the world at peace. They immediately nested and are now sitting contentedly on a pair of pure white eggs, doing their best to promote peace.

The premium committee of the flower show announces an item of interest to all growers. The sum of $250 has been set aside to be distributed as special prizes of $5 in gold each, to go to the growers, the section man, the man behind the hose, who raises stock that wins a sweepstake or special prize for his employer. These prizes will be distributed through the premium list and will be awarded on chrysanthemums, roses, carnations, orchids, ferns and all other miscellaneous stock, so as to give all growers a chance for them. Fifty prizes of $5 each are well worth trying for.

So far as is now known, George W. Smith, of the Cleveland Florists' Exchange; Frank Ritzenthaler, with Noble Bros., and George Schaab, with the James Eadie Co., will be the Cleveland representatives at the S. A. F. convention on the coast. They will leave about August 1. F. A. F.

Racine Puttyless Window Co.,
Racine, Wis.

Gentlemen:-

In reply to your inquiry of the 1st instant, we take pleasure in stating that we purchased two of your hotbed sash last fall and used them on our Frost House. We found them quite satisfactory, and have had no trouble with them. The woodwork appears to be good quality and constructed carefully. The puttyless glazing holds the glass perfectly.

This spring we purchased 25 more, 15 double and 10 single glass, and are using them on our propagating frames. So far they are entirely satisfactory.

Yours very truly,
SWAIN NELSON & SONS CO.

SWEET PEAS AT SOCIETY'S CENTER

Seventh annual exhibition of American Sweet Pea Society, held at Newport, R. I., July 15 and 16, was much the best yet, but anticipated social success was not achieved, owing to a conflicting garden fete that proved a superior attraction for the elite.

T

HE seventh annual exhibition and convention of the American Sweet Pea Society, held in the Casino at Newport, R. I., July 15 and 16, set a new high water mark for this society. The exhibits were more numerous than ever before and the quality has never been equaled. It is a difficult matter to set a date for a sweet pea show in so variable a climate as that of America, and when such an exhibition is held, exhibits can only come from within a somewhat limited radius, owing to hot weather. This season torrential rains and persistent fogs destroyed many fine flowers in Newport and elsewhere, but no one looking at the superb flowers staged would have imagined that there had been any unfavorable climatic conditions. Flowers came in fine shape from Bar Harbor, Me., a journey of 400 miles, and many of the leading premiums went to exhibitors from Lenox, Mass., 225 miles away.

The attractiveness of Newport as a beautiful and fashionable summer resort brought more visitors from a distance than had ever previously been seen at a sweet pea exhibition.

Notable Exhibits.

A noteworthy feature of the show was the remarkable display of sweet peas growing in tubs on the broad piazza of the Casino. Nothing like these had ever before been seen at a national sweet pea show. There were dozens of them, varying from six to eight feet in height, and of proportionate width, some tied on wire frames, others with birch brush supports, ear-rying hundreds of flowers each, all in the most perfect health.

The finest flowers in the vase classes were all grown on disbudded plants. Such plants are set out singly and given ample room apart. The main stem only is allowed to grow and all side shoots removed. On such plants massive stems, fifteen to twenty inches long, are produced, all carrying four flowers each, and at future sweet pea shows the winning flowers will more and more be produced in this way, which has been adopted in Great Britain for years. Such flowers as these should bring $3 per hundred at wholesale easily, as compared with a maximum of 50 cents for the best commercial peas now seen in summer.

Business Session.

At the annual meeting of the society, in the absence of President Lester L. Morse, in California, and the illness of Vice-president Kirby, ex-President William Sim, of Cliftondale, Mass., was elected temporary chairman. An address of welcome, on behalf of the Newport Garden Association, was made by Wm. P. Sheffield, following which President William MacKay, of the Newport Horticultural Society, made a further address of welcome.

President Morse's address was read by Secretary Bunyard. It is printed in full in this issue. Prof. A. C. Beal gave a talk on the sixty forcing varieties, seventy new and seventy old outdoor sweet peas tested at the Cornell trial grounds. He thought it would prove interesting in future years to compare some of these old varieties with the newer creations of the hybridists. Prof. Beal said he hopes the seed houses will help with contributions of seeds and Arthur T. Boddington, Stumpp & Walter Co., and W. A. Burpee & Co. all pledged supplies of needed varieties.

The treasurer's report showed a small cash balance. The $347 of uncollected dues seemed large for a small society and plans to collect these back dues were discussed. A suggestion made, which seemed to be favorably received, was that at future shows members of the Sweet Pea Society only be allowed to compete. This, it was thought, might add new members and help to keep the dues better paid up.

Secretary Bunyard said that W. Atlee Burpee & Co. and Peter Henderson & Co. had each given a guarantee of $50 toward the Newport show; also, that this was the first show held at which an admission fee was charged. Of the receipts, one-half went to the Casino management. The American Sweet Pea Society and the Newport Horticultural Society divided the balance equally. The admission fee was 50 cents, except that members of gardeners' and florists' clubs and horticultural societies were admitted for 25 cents on showing their badges.

The Election.

New officers were nominated and elected as follows:

President—William Gray, Newport, R. I.

Vice-president—George W. Kerr, Doylestown, Pa.

Secretary—Harry A. Bunyard, New York.

Recording Secretary—J. H. Pepper, New York.

Treasurer—Arthur T. Boddington, New York.

W. Atlee Burpee was elected to succeed himself as a member of the executive committee for three years.

Mr. Gray, the new president, tried to decline election, but the members present insisted upon it. In accepting the office he said:

"It is with a deep sense of the honor you have conferred upon me, and the responsibility as well, that I accept the office of president of the American Sweet Pea Society. Although the exhibitions of our society from a horticultural standpoint are getting to be greater successes every year, I am sorry that the financial end of it is not so bright, and I strongly appeal to the florists, gardeners and amateurs to help the good work along by becoming members of the society. Much can be accomplished by the private gardeners in arousing the interest of the amateurs. In every community the gardener can enthrall someone over growing sweet peas by giving freely of his advice, and in this way an interest would be aroused in the society and its doings. It would be in line with the chief aim of the horticultural societies' work, the promotion of horticulture. Some of our seed firms are not alive to the possibilities of this movement, and should give freely of their support to help the good work along.

"By all working together the society could be put upon a basis where it would not be compelled to accept an invitation from another horticultural body to hold joint exhibitions. The convention should be composed of delegates (members of the Sweet Pea Society) from the different horticultural societies, duly appointed and instructed by a vote of their society as to the best place and date to hold the exhibition. In this way a time and place could be set that would be satisfactory to the majority.

"I promise to do all I can to help the good work and thank you for the honor you have conferred upon me."

Mr. Gray, who is superintendent for Mrs. W. B. Leeds, in Newport, is a noted grower of sweet peas and set a high-water mark at the exhibitions of the society in Boston and elsewhere, which fairly took members' breaths away. With so level-headed, thoughtful and practical a man at its head, the society need have no fear of any slump in its popularity.

Bar Harbor Next.

Invitations were forthcoming from J. H. Stalford, on behalf of Bar Harbor, Me., and Arthur T. Boddington, for Lenox, Mass. It developed that Bar Harbor had asked for the show in 1915 and gracefully stepped aside in favor of Newport, so after a vigorous talk from A. E. Thatcher on behalf of Bar Harbor, it was voted unanimously to meet there next year. The Bar Harbor members all said they would take their flowers to Lenox in 1917, or any other place selected.

Secretary Bunyard, however, thinks that the society will have an exhibition in New York also next year and possibly extend the work to other cities, if it can work up enough enthusiasm and get people to act in different cities. The Sweet Pea Society's exhibitions must always be more or less local. President Gray also said he had felt for some time that in a country so vast as America a national sweet pea society could do more good by starting and developing sectional shows than in attempting a single show.

Papers Read.

Although it was difficult to hold an audience for the purpose, time was found for the reading of two papers. George W. Kerr, of the Burpee staff, presented an essay entitled "Sweet Peas for the Amateur," though most of his hearers were professional growers, the amateurs not attending in the hoped-for numbers. J. H. Dick, of New York, read an interesting "Address on the Sweet Pea," in which he covered pretty much the whole subject, from origin to cultivation, from the literature of the sweet pea to its diseases and its future.

Oscar Schultz, Newport, R. I., certificate of merit for Japanese iris.

Mr. Robinson, cultural certificate for vase of Ophelia roses.

Miscellaneous Exhibits.

W. Atlee Burpee & Co., Philadelphia, were the only exhibitors for the trade collection, but their display of over 150 varieties was a most impressive one. Finely staged and running the full length of the hall, some fine novelties were included. One of these was the sensational new scarlet, Fiery Cross, unquestionably the best scarlet yet introduced. Other bamboos were filled with imposing displays of Robert Sydenham, King White, Primrose Spencer, Irish Belle, Illuminator, Nubian, Hercules and Helen Grosvenor. Other fine sorts in this collection were Royal Purple, Mrs. Warren, Mrs. Heslington, Mrs. Routzahn, May Atlee, King Manoel, Elfrida Pearson, Orchid, Princess Mary, George Herbert and Lady Evelyn Eyre.

Henry A. Dreer, Inc., had a fine stand of sweet peas not for competition. Some of the finest vases were Mrs. Hallam, Margaret Madison, Wedgwood, Irish Belle, Dobbie's Cream, Royal Purple, Illuminator, Barbara, Constance Hinton, Margaret Atlee, King White and Elfrida Pearson. The same firm had a nice display of the newer nymphæas.

Bobbink & Atkins had a table of herbaceous perennials, roses, etc. W. A. Manda had stove and greenhouse plants and the Miltonia Conservatories, Providence, R. I., cut cattleyas. Farquhar & Co., Boston, had an extensive display on the stage of the new Lilium myriophyllum, or regale.

PRESIDENT MORSE'S ADDRESS.

[Although unable to make the trip across the continent, from San Francisco to Newport, to attend the meeting of the American Sweet Pea Society, President Lester L. Morse sent the following address.]

When I was elected president of the American Sweet Pea Society, a year ago, I hoped that the members and friends throughout the eastern states could be present with us for the regular annual convention. However, since Mr. Bunyard found it impossible to be present himself, and as it seemed impossible to get a quorum of members present, we decided to have a separate meeting in conjunction with our exhibit.

The San Francisco Show.

June 11 this exhibit was held in the Palace of Horticulture at the San Francisco exposition, and was a grand success. There were some thirty entries, representing amateurs, professional gardeners and seed growers. There were some 1,200 vases displayed; in fact, nearly every new variety of Spencer was represented.

The exposition officials recognized the day by sending their special commissioner, who presented me, as president, with a bronze tablet in memory of the event, and designated June 11 on all of their programs as Sweet Pea day. They also furnished Cassasa's band, one of the best in the city, and composed of forty pieces, and we had a beautiful concert in connection with the exhibition.

We had expected to have the flowers exhibited only one day, but so great was the demand for more time that we allowed the exhibition to stand three days, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, and kept the room open until 10 o'clock at night, although the building is usually closed at 6 o'clock.

It was impossible to estimate the number of visitors, but there were literally thousands upon thousands present, and all seemed amazed at an exhibit of such beautiful and magnificent flowers. We allowed nothing to be displayed but sweet peas.

California Sweet Pea Seed.

Although California grows fully ninety-five per cent of all the sweet pea seed used in the world, flower shows and exhibitions are seldom given.

Sweet peas first began to be grown for seed about 1886, when there were only about seven varieties. The acreage has steadily increased, until for the last five years there have been no less than 2,000 acres planted for sweet pea seed alone, and all in what is known as the coast valleys, from San Francisco south to Los Angeles. It is safe to say that no less than 1,000,000 pounds a year is the average yield of the California seed farms, and these farms are represented by some ten or twelve large seed growers.

A great many new varieties have been originated in California, but as the growers are largely wholesale dealers only, the novelties are introduced by seed dealers in other parts of the country. While probably one-half of the acreage is devoted to Spencer varieties, the other half is made up largely of grandiflora named varieties and mixtures. These latter are still popular for large planters.

Sweet pea seed in California is usually planted in December and January, and the fields are in full bloom in June. Harvest begins about August 1. A great deal of development work is still being done and the large seed farms operate large areas of what they call "workshops," where selections made from crosses and hybrids are being tried out.

A great deal of time is now being spent on the development of the early-flowering or Christmas Spencer types. As these are shy seeders, they are not handled much as yet in a wholesale way.

I estimate that fully fifty per cent of all the California sweet pea seed crop goes to Great Britain; some ten per cent goes to Germany and France and other European countries, and about forty per cent is consumed at home.

Sweet Peas at Exposition.

My firm has quite an elaborate exhibition at the exposition grounds, where we are growing sweet peas on the cordon system, or the British exhibition plan. These plants were started in pots in the fall; the ground was prepared in the fall and by disbudding and proper feeding we have been able to grow some enormous blossoms, quite equal to any I have ever seen in Great Britain. Needless to say, they are creating a great deal of interest.

We are hoping that the exhibition given last month is but the beginning of an annual sweet pea exhibit, which will be held as one of the features of the American Sweet Pea Society, and will be held under its auspices. All members of the Sweet Pea Society are cordially invited to visit the seed farms should they ever be in California during the blossoming period, which begins about May 15 and ends July 1.

THE NEW PRESIDENT.

William Gray, the new president of the American Sweet Pea Society, was born on the Arbuthnot estate, Mavis Bank, near Edinburgh, Scotland, April 20, 1874, his father being head gardener there at that time. On his father's side, the profession of gardening has been followed from father to son through several generations. Mr. Gray came to America with his parents in 1883. They settled at Middletown, N. Y., the head of the family having secured the situation of head gardener at the state hospital there. After leaving school, the young man served an apprenticeship under his father and followed this up with an assistant gardener's experience on several private places around New York and in Newport. Having become master of his profession, he served for five years as head gardener for Horace Russell, Southampton, L. I., and has for five years been in his present position as head gardener for Mrs. William B. Leeds, at Newport, where he has established an enviable reputation.

NOTES ON VARIETIES.

Culture Counts.

New varieties of sweet peas continue to come out in large numbers each year and anyone, in order to be at all up-to-date, must secure some of these new things. At the Newport show of the American Sweet Pea Society a small proportion only of the prize-winners in the more important classes had been introduced five years and the latest novelties in some cases showed decided improvements over the standard varieties. Under the disbudded plan of growing prize flowers, even the old sorts are so improved as to be almost unrecognizable. I doubt if this will ever be a paying proposition commercially, but such flowers would easily command a fancy price, especially at this season, when sweet peas are probably the most popular flowers on the market. The extraordinary success of Edwin Jenkins, of Lenox, and of his near-by neighbors, S. W. Carlquist, of Lenox, and Arthur N. Edwards, of Pittsfield, showed what remarkable flowers can be produced in the high altitude of the Berkshire hills, under the disbudded system.

The Best Whites.

In pure whites, Constance Hinton was easily the leader and decidedly ahead of King White, its nearest competitor. Some nice vases of Nora Unwin and White Spencer were shown, but they could not compare with Constance Hinton.

King Edward came out a little ahead in the scarlet and crimson classes, but Scarlet Emperor, lighter in color, was good. Fiery Cross, in Burpee's collection, was the sensation in this color. It is the best pure scarlet yet seen and I look to see it in the forefront next year.

Robert Sydenham, in the salmon-orange class, was beaten by May Unwin. Both are beautiful varieties, but the first named, as shown in one or two collections, was decidedly the better of its shade. May Unwin is a fine pure salmon, ahead of Thomas Stevenson. Of course this color must be shaded to show its true color; it burns more easily than any other color.

Rose and Pink.

Rosabelle is a wonderful new rose and easily distanced such older sorts as John Ingman. The light pinks were more largely shown than the deep pinks. They are so much more beautiful that it is really surprising that commercial growers continue to favor the deeper shades. Elfrida Pearson stood well ahead of all the light pinks. Mrs. Hugh Dickson was still good, however. Hercules, which is a glorified Countess Spencer, was easily at the head of the deep pink class. Countess Spencer was its nearest competitor.

Blue and Lavender.

Blue is not a particularly attractive color in sweet peas. There are many shades of it. The new May Farquhar proved the best, but its color is less pleasing than that of Wedgwood or even Blue Jacket. Coming to the lavenders, Don Alvar, a 1915 variety which beat all others of its shade, is not nearly so good and pure a lavender as Florence Nightingale. The purest lavender I noted was the older Mrs. Heslington, as shown by Burpee.

In the primrose class some grand flowers were shown. Sutton's Primrose, from Daniel Hay, was a purer primrose than Dobbie's Cream, which latter was to be seen in almost every prize collection. Leslie Imber, a new variety, was decidedly the best mauve, and well ahead of Orchid.

Maroon or purple is not an attractive class as a rule, but the new Royal Purple is fine for those liking purple shades. King Manoel is the best of the maroons.

The Mixed Colors.

The picotee-edged class was really quite attractive and Blue Picotee is a variety which should sell moderately with florists; it is certainly a fine thing.

The striped or flaked blue and purple shades made a good showing and the flowers showed remarkable size. While this color would not sell except in a moderate way, the varieties Bertie Asher and Loyalty possess great vigor, are floriferous and are worthy of a place in any collection. Many fine varieties are not named in this review, but the foregoing seemed to the writer to be the leaders in their respective colors.

MORSE'S EXPOSITION GARDEN.

The present summer garden of C. C. Morse & Co., San Francisco, at the Panama-Pacific exposition, is both striking and beautiful, and is winning much attention from professional gardeners and florists.

The garden, a view of which is shown on this page, consists entirely of annuals, practically all of them in full bloom. Snapdragons are a feature just now, rivaling even the splendid showings of gladioli in full bloom in other gardens at the exposition. Several beds of snapdragons in the C. C. Morse & Co. garden are of particular interest. One of these consists of Amber Queen, White Queen and Golden Morn, with Coccinea in the middle, interplanted with Delphinium Azure Fairy. Another bed is a combination of Carmine Queen snapdragon and heliotrope. A four-bed snapdragon design is worked out with Yellow Queen, Cottage Maid and Scarlet King combined with Amber Queen, and White Queen combined with Golden Morn. The snapdragons are entirely free from rust and are doing finely.

In the center of the garden is a bed of blue shades, anchusas, Salvia patens, lupines, delphiniums, lobelias and brachycome. About this are grouped many other beds, including a bed of godetias edged with Snowball lobelia; a bed of selected pentstemons interplanted with Gilia tricolor, Clarkias Vesuvius, Queen Mary, Orange King and Carmine Queen; a bed of hollyhocks, lupines and larkspurs; a bed of five varieties of salvia, edged with lobelias; a bed of Mimulus Queen's Prize and prize strain pansies; a bed of Salpiglossis New Emperor and Nemesia Blue Gem, with Nemesia compacta Triumph, Gypsophila elegans and clarkias in the center; a bed of Godetia Schwaminii, lupines, stocks and verbenas; some good beds of petunias; a bed of four varieties of annual chrysanthemums, four varieties of calliopsis and sunflowers; a bed of four varieties of zinnias, four varieties of marigolds, Iceland poppy and kaulfussia, and a bed of seven varieties of phlox with Arctotis grandis.

The garden is edged with sweet peas, which were up to a height of ten feet, were then laid down, and are now growing up again.

BUFFALO CLUB'S OUTING.

July 15 was the day set for the annual outing of Buffalo florists and again the Bedell House, Grand Island, was the spot selected, with that fine ride on the Niagara river. The day opened threatening and those who feared rain remained at home or at business, but those who joined the crowd certainly had an excellent afternoon's enjoyment. The sports were well arranged and opened with a ball game that resulted: Growers, 6; Storemen, 4. The other events were won in the order the names are given, as follows:

Boys' race, under 15—Chauncey Neubeck, Elmer Neubeck, Jos. Streit, Jr.

Girls' race—Louise Kelsner, Fanny Prelsach, Julia Pelka.

Boys' race, over 18—Louis Neubeck, Jr., Al Hammond, Theo. Stratmeier.

Hundred-yard dash—J. Brennen, Ed Stroh, Jacob Meyer.

Old men's race—W. Warring, E. C. Brucker, Ed Slattery.

Three-legged race—Neubeck's team, Grever's team, Kasting's team.

Hop, skip and jump—David Scott, Wm. Grever, J. Brennen.

Tag-of-war—Growers.

Ladies' race—Miss Flx, Miss Stroh, Miss Gearing.

Everybody's race—Ed Stroh, Jacob Meyer, Delaney, Brennen, L. Neubeck.

Special race—Adams vs. Meyer, Adams winner.

After the sports, all gathered to the banquet hall of the Bedell House, in which there were 128 seated. The evening was spent in dancing, bowling and other amusements.

AMERICAN GLADIOLUS SOCIETY.

Atlantic City Show.

The eastern exhibition of the American Gladiolus Society will be held at the Royal Palace Casino, Atlantic City, which is situated on the Boardwalk and faces the ocean on three sides, so that the hall is as cool as one could wish for. The dates are August 26 to 29. The exhibition will be from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. Admission will be charged as follows: From 10 a. m. until 6 p. m., 15 cents; from 6 p. m. until 10 p. m., 25 cents.

Each afternoon of the first three days

The Convention Program

THE PROGRAM for the thirty-first annual convention of the Society of American Florists, to be held at San Francisco, has been planned to cover three days, August 17 to 19, the customary entertainment features of the fourth day having been omitted in view of the fact that Friday, August 20, has been designated S. A. F. day at the exposition. In fact, the idea of the program makers has been to allow the visiting florists as large a proportion of their time as possible for visiting the exposition. To this end, the reading of essays has been omitted; the few that have been arranged for will be printed in the proceedings of the convention.

Hotel headquarters will be at the St. Francis, at Geary and Powell streets. The convention sessions will be at the Civic Center Auditorium, at Hayes and Larkin streets. Here, too, will be the secretary's office. At present the secretary's address is, care of Daniel MacRorie, 430 Phelan building, San Francisco.

FIRST DAY, TUESDAY, AUGUST 17.

Opening Session.

2 P. M.—Opening exercises in Halls H, I and J, east side fourth floor, Civic Center Auditorium.

a lecture will be given: "How to Arrange Flowers Artistically," by Max Schling, New York; "The Varieties of Gladioli," by Arthur Cowee, Berlin, N. Y.; "How Best to Grow Gladioli by the Amateur," by Maurice Fuld, New York. The fourth day being Sunday, the lecture has been omitted. Every evening from 8 to 10 selections will be rendered by Schwab's orchestra, the best in Atlantic City.

The hall has been divided into spaces, each measuring 6x20 feet, which constitute the exhibition space. Every exhibitor must try to break away from the old methods of exhibiting, and show his flowers in an original and artistic way, so that the entire show will be a thing of beauty. Exhibitors are charged rental of $20 for each space, but the committee pledges itself to refund this amount if the returns from the show warrant it. A number of spaces are unengaged, and applications should be made at once, to Maurice Fuld, 1 Madison avenue, New York.

The committee is confident that if the weather conditions are favorable, our show will draw an attendance of 100,000 people during the four days, so that the exhibitors have a splendid opportunity of making their exhibits profitable. The committee from the first has planned this exhibition for the exclusive benefit of the American growers and dealers, and they will encourage all exhibitors to book as much business as they possibly can. Applications from foreign firms, both for exhibition space and for advertising space in the souvenir bulletin, have been refused.

A special souvenir bulletin and program is in the course of construction, and the committee is glad to announce that the advertising space in this bulletin has been completely covered, and that further applications must be refused. The bulletin will contain as contributors the names of every prominent gladiolus grower, and 10,000 copies will be published, which will be sold at the exhibition at 10 cents each.

The entire week will be known in Atlantic City as gladiolus week. This has been originated by the publicity bureau and the Hotelmen's Association of Atlantic City, who are coöperating with our committee to make our show a tremendous success. The growers from all over the country will contribute in the neighborhood of 100,000 spikes of cut gladioli, which will be furnished free of charge to all the beach front hotels, who will use them to decorate their dining rooms. In return the hotels will prominently advertise our show on their daily menus.

In a further advertising campaign the newspapers of Atlantic City will help us, and lithograph signs will be prominent in the lobbies of the hotels and in all the shop windows along the Boardwalk.

The committee will gladly help to arrange hotel accommodations for those attending the show.

For the benefit of those who are rather handicapped in the knowledge of arranging flowers artistically, an artist has been engaged who will help every exhibitor to accomplish what he is after. The hall will be open the day previous to the show, and a carpenter and sign painter will be on hand to be of further assistance.

BUSINESS EMBARRASSMENTS.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The Johnson Seed Co., 217 Market street, was adjudged an involuntary bankrupt in the United States District court here July 19. The petitioners and the amounts claimed are: Ida Neff Johnson, $2,197.75; Henry F. Michell Co., $53.80; W. Atlee Burpee & Co., $442.46. Frank A. Harrigan, attorney for the petitioners, was appointed receiver with authority to continue the business for thirty days and more if need be. Receiver Harrigan places the liabilities at $18,000, of which $3,000 is for rent. The assets, according to the books, are $28,000. There is no real estate.

The business is one of the oldest in the trade, having existed in one form or another for forty-five years. For twenty-five years it was a partnership between Herbert W. Johnson and Walter P. Stokes, trading as Johnson & Stokes. When this partnership expired by limitation, July 1, 1906, the business occupied a double store at 217 and 219 Market street and was continued as two separate concerns, the store being divided, the one at 219 Market street being known as Stokes Seed Store and the one at 217 Market street as the Johnson Seed Co. At that time Herbert W. Johnson was president and Clifford Phillip secretary and treasurer. Associated with them were Wm. J. Sherry and Joseph W. Bradley, all having for eighteen years been with Johnson & Stokes. Many changes have occurred since then. Ill health overtook Herbert W. Johnson, who had been one of the active men of the trade, being elected president of the American Seed Trade Association in 1889, and for a number of years the business has been in charge of his two sons. The present officers of the company are: President, Herbert W. Johnson; treasurer, Herbert W. Johnson, Jr.; secretary, Neff S. Johnson.

Chatham, N. J.—Samuel Lum, of Main street, against whom involuntary bankruptcy proceedings were recently started, has filed a schedule of his assets and liabilities with Referee Atwood L. De Coster. According to this schedule, his assets are $96,428, and his liabilities are $65,975. The assets consist principally of real estate, which is valued at $96,129. Liens amounting to $23,000 are held against the property by creditors. Of this amount, $21,666 is for secured liabilities. Although his schedule would indicate that Mr. Lum is solvent, he has not contested the involuntary bankruptcy proceedings started against him.

R. B. M.

St. Paul, Minn.—Frank Gustafson, conducting the St. Paul Floral Co., at Dale street and Como avenue, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy July 13 in the United States District Court. He scheduled liabilities amounting to $4,099.53 and assets of $2,692.42, listing $350 as exempt.

LIGHTENING THE LABOR.

At this season of the year, when so many carnation growers are perspiring as they work the soil out of the benches and in again, the accompanying illustration will be specially timely as showing how the operation of grinding soil and manure is performed at the greenhouses of Herman Bros. Co., Council Bluffs, Ia. It is a home invention, but the machine has interested so many visitors that O. H. Herman has built many of them for other growers. Their first soil grinder was designed four years ago. The present one is power driven, but hand machines also have been built. The machine has two styles of grinders, one consisting of a cylinder equipped with teeth four inches long passing between a row of stationary teeth held in place by a balance weight. The other grinder has 2-inch knife blades instead of teeth. Should a rock or any other substance too hard for the grinders get into the machine, the balance weight releases it and prevents damage. The machine is mounted on a set of low iron wheels for easy movement. In practice, the Hermans stack their soil close to the ends of the greenhouses, just as practically all other growers do. When it comes time to refill the benches the machine is rolled into position so that the conveyor drops the compost in a handy place near the door through which the wheelbarrows take it.

A PANSY SEED GROWER.

Growing pansy seed is an interesting business, is one's conclusion after visiting Charles Frost, grower of the Kenilworth strain of giant pansy seed, at Kenilworth, N. J. But the visitor is also impressed with the fact that it is no sinecure. After seeing the tens of thousands of plants and the scores of plots of different varieties, one can readily realize the great amount of care required, not simply in growing the flowers, but in keeping the varieties true to name—gathering the seed, drying it, threshing and cleaning it, and preparing it for shipment without mixing any of the varieties.

In growing pansy seed there is danger of cross fertilization of varieties near one another, unless great care is exercised. Because of this, the plots containing different varieties are separated by wide paths, and in some cases by several rows of privet, sweet peas, or other high plants.

The section shown in the accompanying illustration is only a small part of the land under cultivation by Mr. Frost in the growing of his pansy seed. All of the land so under cultivation is divided into plots, each variety being in a plot by itself. These plots are in rows, and each row and plot is numbered on a map of the grounds which Mr. Frost has in his office. He thus keeps a record of each plot, with the name of the variety grown there, etc. If, when the flowers begin to come, any plants are found to bear flowers that are not true to name, such plants are immediately pulled up and thrown away, unless the flower gives promise of developing into a new variety, or a pleasing variation of the same variety, in which case it is given special culture and marked by a stake, so that the seeds can be kept separate from those of other plants in the plot. The next year these seeds are tested out more thoroughly, to find whether it is worth while to grow them.

Picking pansy seed is a tedious job, and good pickers are scarce. Mr. Frost has three men engaged all the season in picking seed. As the seed pods from a plot are picked they are put in a muslin bag which bears a tag on which is the number of the row and the plot in which the seed grew. The tags used are of different colors, to designate the different sections under cultivation.

This prevents mixing the varieties during the drying, threshing and cleaning.

After the seeds have been picked, the muslin bags containing them are hung on a line to dry. The seeds are allowed to dry from four to seven days, according to the weather, and then they are threshed, cleaned and put up for shipment.

Mr. Frost is always trying out new varieties from this country and Europe. American-grown pansy seed is found to produce larger blossoms than European seed if given the proper care.

The entire week will be known in Atlantic City as gladiolus week. This has been originated by the publicity bureau and the Hotelmen's Association of Atlantic City, who are coöperating with our committee to make our show a tremendous success. The growers from all over the country will contribute in the neighborhood of 100,000 spikes of cut gladioli, which will be furnished free of charge to all the beach front hotels, who will use them to decorate their dining rooms. In return the hotels will prominently advertise our show on their daily menus.

In a further advertising campaign the newspapers of Atlantic City will help us, and lithograph signs will be prominent in the lobbies of the hotels and in all the shop windows along the Boardwalk.

The committee will gladly help to arrange hotel accommodations for those attending the show.

For the benefit of those who are rather handicapped in the knowledge of arranging flowers artistically, an artist has been engaged who will help every exhibitor to accomplish what he wishes after. The hall will be open the day previous to the show, and a carpenter and sign painter will be on hand to do any further assistance.

BUSINESS EMBARRASSMENTS.

Philadelphia, Pa. The Johnson Seed Co., 217 Market street, was adjudged an involuntary bankrupt in the United States District court here July 19. The petitioners and the amounts claimed are: Ida Neff Johnson, $2,197.75; Henry F. Michell Co., $53.80; W. Atlee Burpee & Co., $442.46. Frank A. Harrigan, attorney for the petitioners, was appointed receiver with authority to continue the business for thirty days and more if need be. Receiver Harrigan places the liabilities at $18,000, of which $3,000 is for rent. The assets, according to the books, are $28,600. There is no real estate.

The business is one of the oldest in the trade, having existed in one form or another for forty-five years. For twenty-five years it was a partnership between Herbert W. Johnson and Walter P. Stokes, trading as Johnson & Stokes. When this partnership expired by limitation, July 1, 1906, the business occupied a double store at 217 and 219 Market street and was continued as two separate concerns, the store being divided, the one at 219 Market street being known as Stokes Seed Store and the one at 217 Market street as the Johnson Seed Co. At that time Herbert W. Johnson was president and Clifford Phillip secretary and treasurer. Associated with them were Wm. J. Sherry and Joseph W. Bradley, who having for eighteen years been with Johnson & Stokes. Many changes have occurred since then. Ill health overtook Herbert W. Johnson, who had been one of the active men of the trade, being elected president of the American Seed Trade Association in 1889, and for a number of years the business has been in charge of his two sons. The present officers of the company are: President Herbert W. Johnson; treasurer, Herbert W. Johnson, Jr.; secretary, Scott S. Johnson.

Chatham, N. J. Samuel Lamm, 10 Main street, against whom a voluntary bankruptcy proceedings were recently started, has filed a schedule of his assets and liabilities with Referee Atwood L. De Coster. According to this schedule, his assets are $96,428, and his liabilities are $65,975. The assets consist principally of real estate, which is valued at $96,429. Liens amounting to $23,000 are held against the property by creditors. Of this amount, $21,660 is for secured liabilities. Although his schedule would indicate that Mr. Lamm solvent, he has not contested the involuntary bankruptcy proceedings started against him. R. B. M.

St. Paul, Minn. Frank Gustafson, conducting the St. Paul Floral Co., at Dale street and Como avenue, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy July 13 in the United States District Court. He scheduled liabilities amounting to $1,099.53 and assets of $2,692.42, listing $350 as exempt.

LIGHTENING THE LABOR.

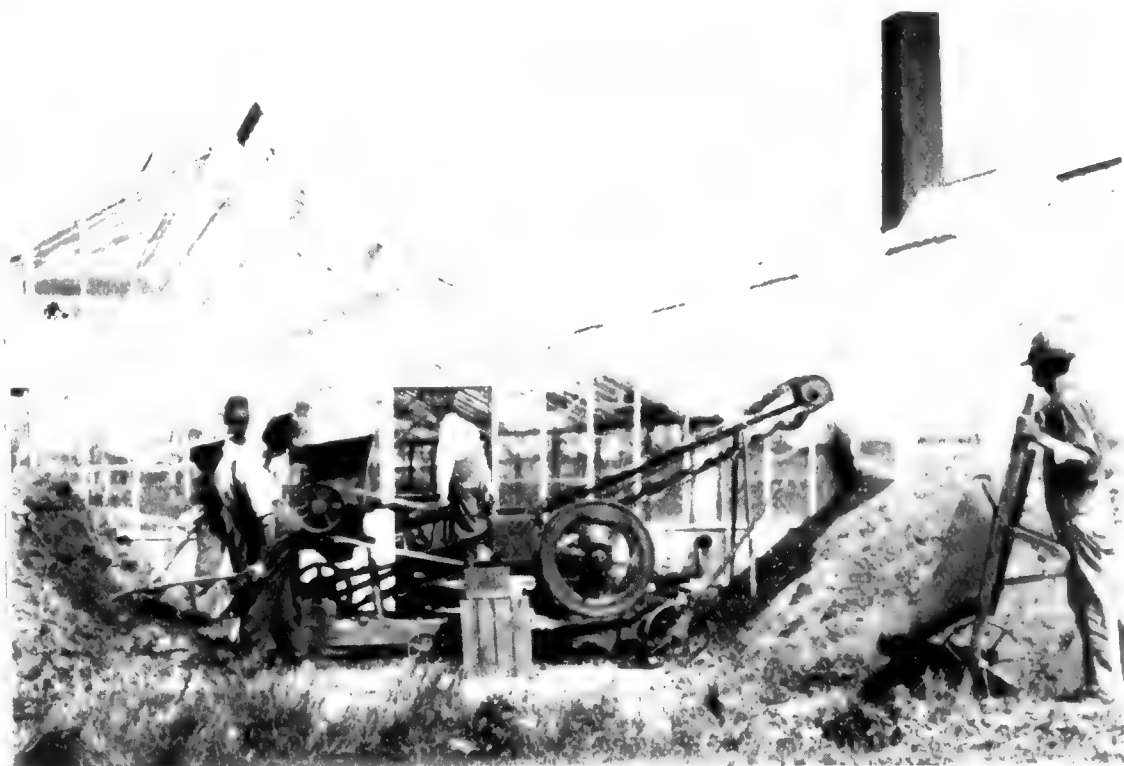

At this season of the year, when so many carnation growers are perspiring as they work the soil out of the benches and in again, the accompanying illustration will be specially timely as showing how the operation of grinding soil and manure is performed at the greenhouses of Herman Bros. Co., Council Bluffs, Ia. It is a home invention, but the machine has interested so many visitors that O. H. Herman has built many of them for other growers. Their first soil grinder was designed four years ago. The present one is power driven, but hand machines also have been built. The machine has two styles of grinders, one consisting of a cylinder equipped with teeth four inches long passing between a row of stationary teeth held in place by a balance weight. The other grinder has 2-inch knife blades instead of teeth. Should a rock or any other substance too hard for the grinders get into the machine, the balance weight releases it and prevents damage. The machine is mounted on a set of low iron wheels for easy movement. In practice, the Hermans stack their soil close to the ends of the greenhouses, just as practically all other growers do. When it comes time to refill the benches the machine is rolled into position so that the conveyor drops the compost in a handy place near the door through which the wheelbarrows take it.

A PANSY SEED GROWER.

Growing pansy seed is an interesting business, is one's conclusion after visiting Charles Frost, grower of the Kenilworth strain of giant pansy seed, at Kenilworth, N. J. But the visitor is also impressed with the fact that it is no sinecure. After seeing the tens of thousands of plants and the scores of plots of different varieties, one can readily realize the great amount of care required, not simply in growing the flowers, but in keeping the varieties true to name, gathering the seed, drying it, threshing and cleaning it, and preparing it for shipment without mixing any of the varieties.

In growing pansy seed there is danger of cross fertilization of varieties near one another, unless great care is exercised. Because of this, the plots containing different varieties are separated by wide paths, and in some cases by several rows of privet, sweet peas, or other high plants.

The section shown in the accompanying illustration is only a small part of the land under cultivation by Mr. Frost in the growing of his pansy seed. All of the land so under cultivation is divided into plots, each variety being in a plot by itself. These plots are in rows, and each row and plot is numbered on a map of the grounds which Mr. Frost has in his office. He thus keeps a record of each plot, with the name of the variety grown there, etc. If, when the flowers begin to come, any plants are found to bear flowers that are not true to name, such plants are immediately pulled up and thrown away, unless the flower gives promise of developing into a new variety, or a pleasing variation of the same variety, in which case it is given special culture and marked by a stake, so that the seeds can be kept separate from those of other plants in the plot. The next year these seeds are tested out more thoroughly, to find whether it is worth while to grow them.

Picking pansy seed is a tedious job, and good pickers are scarce. Mr. Frost has three men engaged all the season in picking seed. As the seed pods from a plot are picked they are put in a muslin bag which bears a tag on which is the number of the row and the plot in which the seed grew. The tags used are of different colors, to designate the different sections under cultivation.

This prevents mixing the varieties during the drying, threshing and cleaning.

After the seeds have been picked, the muslin bags containing them are hung on a line to dry. The seeds are allowed to dry from four to seven days, according to the weather, and then they are threshed, cleaned and put up for shipment.

Mr. Frost is always trying out new varieties from this country and Europe. American-grown pansy seed is found to produce larger blossoms than European seed if given the proper care.

REFILLING THE BEDS.

Comes Before Repairing.

If you have not begun refilling your carnation beds, you should lose no time in getting at it. After the roses and mums have been benched, there is really no reason for deferring the preparations for housing the carnations. Formerly, it was customary to do what repairing or painting was needed on the houses before the carnations were planted, but that procedure has been reversed, and the carnations are housed first, and the repairing and painting done later, while the plants are becoming established.

The growing season has been fine near Indianapolis. There has been an abundance of rain and the plants have made excellent growth, being large enough to bench earlier than usual. We are finishing our last house this week, except the cut-back stock, fully three weeks earlier than we have ever finished before. We like to use the later propagated plants for cut-back, housed about the middle of August. It may be merely a fancy, but we think these plants give us a nicer lot of cuttings than the earlier ones.

Lightening the Work.

You will need no pointers on the best method for emptying and refilling the beds. Every place seems to have facilities peculiarly its own. Our beds are built so that wheelbarrows can be used to the best advantage, and we have found nothing better. We find it pays to put on what shading is needed for the new plants before commencing to empty the beds. The men appreciate anything you do to make the work lighter, and what grower does not know that the summer work in the greenhouse will stand a great deal of lightening? If your beds are raised, wash them off clean and whitewash with hot lime before refilling. Allow them to get thoroughly dry before putting in the new soil. We find it advisable to refill at least a whole house at one time, following the same plan in the planting. It enables one to give the plants the proper care and conditions during the period of reestablishment. Of course you will make the necessary repairs to insure the bench lasting through the next season, and here again is where we gain with our solid beds. We use red cedar posts and pecky cypress sides, and we have the first set of boards in our oldest house, built in 1905. There is practically no repairing and no time lost in getting the beds refilled and planted, and absolutely no danger of benches breaking down in the middle of the season.

Manure Serves Two Purposes.

We put about an inch of long stable manure on the bottom. This serves two purposes. After the plants have become established and the roots begin to search for additional food, they are in condition to assimilate the food found there. Then next summer when emptying the beds, you will find this layer of manure has kept the soil from sticking to the cinders, and no trouble is experienced in separating the two.

When filling in the soil, be sure you pulverize it well. The carnation is more sensitive about this than the chrysanthemum or some other plants. We do not approve of screening it, but break up with the flat side of the shovel any lumps you may find. Especially does this apply if there is a considerable proportion of clay in the soil. Four inches of soil is enough to grow the finest carnations. Be sure to level it off well and see that the beds are filled evenly along the edges, so that when it is pressed down firmly at planting time it can be watered evenly.

Some growers advocate tramping the soil before planting, but we have never found it advisable with our soil. It might be an advantage where the soil is extremely light. Our soil is heavy enough to settle down from the watering in the course of time. Every grower must be guided by his own conditions, however.

Remember Field Plants.

Do not neglect the plants in the field while you are getting ready to house them. Cultivating and topping should be looked after right along. To allow a hard crust to form on top from repeated rains will cause the loss of much of the lower foliage and injury to the roots. It is surprising how much hotter the soil will get when the sun is beating down on a hard crust than when there is a mulch of loose soil on top. It is a mistake to allow shoots to advance to the budding stage and to remove them at planting time. The replanting is in itself a severe check for the plant, and to remove a large amount of growth at the same time is subjecting it to that much more. It is all the more wrong because it is unnecessary. Better go over them a week before they are to be lifted, if you have neglected them, and top the plants that need it. You will find the breaks will come stronger on a plant that was in active growth at the time the shoots were topped. To leave a shoot with a bud showing at the time of replanting is entirely wrong, as the bud will never develop into a first-class flower. A. F. J. Baur.

USING THE SALT SPRAYER.

We have just purchased a salt sprayer from the John A. Evans Co. Please tell us whether this is the proper way to use it: We use coarse salt, better known as cattle salt, and break it up so it will fit into the machine. In spraying the plants, we hit the foliage and buds from all directions with a fine spray. Then we take off the salt machine and water the plants overhead. Will the salt injure the foliage when used in this way? Will the spider be checked if we use the sprayer about once a week, or will more frequent sprayings be needed? S. B.—N. Y.

If you mean rock salt when you say cattle salt, then you are using the right kind. We do not wash it off with clear water, as you suggest, but merely spray it on in the form of a fine spray. It does not injure either foliage or flower. We find that one spraying each week will keep the place free from spider, but it can be used oftener if found necessary. Carnations relish salt; should a little of the spray get on the soil, no harm would be done.

Pansies, Myosotis and Daisies.

It is as yet too early to plant seeds of pansies, forget-me-nots and daisies, except it may be some of the two first named for winter blooming. A comparatively limited number are grown in this way. For carrying over winter in frames or outdoors, if seeds are sown now the plants will become of unwieldy dimensions and will not winter as well as those of more moderate size.

Time to Make Repairs.

The greenhouses contain less stock on the average retail establishment during July and August than at any other season of the year, and this is the time to overhaul boilers, piping, benches and greenhouse roofs. Push any necessary painting and glazing while the weather is pleasant; during stormy periods there will be an abundance of bench-building and other work to do. Now is the time to push this work ahead and not when freezing weather has arrived.

Empty Flower Pots.

Too often we find empty flower pots littered here and there about commercial establishments, on and below benches, as well as outdoors. Gather these together and sort them into their various sizes. Take the opportunity in wet weather to wash all these leftovers; it does not pay to pot any plants in dirty pots. If a convenient rack is built for the several sizes, it will be found a great convenience.

NEW YORK CLUB OUTING.

The New York Florists' Club's annual outing, July 14, was, as usual, a success. An attendance of over 200 by boat and many by trains and automobiles enjoyed every feature of the holiday, the dinners, the games, the music, the swimming and the dancing. The weather was perfect and the return by boat in the cool of the evening was a happy ending to the day.

The president and several others were obliged to leave early for the Newport convention.

All the games were enjoyed with much enthusiasm. The ladies' races and bowling excited the greatest interest. The prizes for bowling were won by Mrs. Schuman, Mrs. Jos. Manda, Mrs. R. J. Irwin and Mrs. Whitman in the order named.

In the men's bowling contest the winners were F. Grumbach, E. Holt, Jos. Manda and A. J. Guttman, in the order named.

The bachelors defeated the married men at baseball 3 to 2. Lorenz and E. Manda were the umpires. The teams were: Married men—Bogert, Scott, Hildenbrand, F. Manker, P. Manker, Demeusy, Donato, Rigo, Peterson and Handel; single men—Pleban, Hauck, Holsman, G. Walter, Shabot, W. Bogert, Grumbach, W. Manda and P. Walter.

The other prize-winners were:

Girls' race, under 5 years—Viola Greer, first, only entry.
Boys' race, under 5 years—A. J. Handel, first; R. Swartz, second.
Boys' race, 5 to 7 years—Harry Grumbach, first; Jerome Trepel, second; John McCarthy, third.
Girls' race, 7 to 9 years—Irene Mustow, first; Mary Smith, second; Martha Schmutz, third.
Boys' race, 7 to 9 years—Howard Brown, first; Carl Giesler, second.

Girls' race, 9 to 11 years—Carrie Peterson, first; Mary O'Connor, second; Frances Esch, third.

Boys' race, 9 to 11 years—Robert Hildenbrand, first; August Waibel, second; Francis Smith, third.

Boys' race, 11 to 13 years—Joseph Walter, first; Cornelius Begerow, second; Robert Maver, third.

Girls' race, 13 to 15 years—Eloise Schmutz, first; Ida Grumbach, second; Mary Walter, third.

Girls' race, 15 to 17 years—Selmi Guttman, first; Jennie Marrutsch, second; Lillian Schwake, third.

Boys' race, 15 to 17 years—George Walter, first; Wm. Wright, second.

Young men's race, 17 to 20 years—Harry Walter, first; Wm. Bogert, second; Wm. Manda, third.

Young ladies' race, over 17 years—Christine Neilson, first; Olive Iler, second; Minnie Weise, third.

Married ladies' race, 20 years and over—Mrs. A. G. Handel, first; Mrs. L. T. Rodman, second; Mrs. Schwartz, third.

Men's race, members only—Edward Manda, first; N. B. Irwin, second; Alfred Demeusy, third.

Potato race, for ladies—Lillian Schwake, first; Jennie Mamitch, second.

Growers' race, over 50 years—P. J. Wright, first; Alfred Zeller, second; J. M. Kemper, third.

Growers' race, under 50 years—Edward Manda, first; E. W. Houseman, second; Philip Manker, third.

Fat men's race, over 200 pounds—Joseph Manda, first; J. A. Kennedy, second; Emil Schloss, third.

Sack race—B. Hauck, first; E. Manda, second.

Standing broad jump, boys under 18 years—A. Rigo, first; George Marshall, second; C. Begerow, third; C. Manker, fourth.

Standing broad jump, members only—N. B. Irwin, first; A. Demeusy, second; L. T. Rodman, third; A. Scott, fourth.

Ladies' race, wives of members—Mrs. J. Daley, first; Mrs. George Mustoe, second.

Thousands sold last week at $5 to $10 per thousand, said one of the leading wholesalers. Valley is arriving in great profusion.

Gladioli have had a wonderful season for early development, and are here already in unusable quantity. There will be no end of asters soon. There are the usual quantities of sweet peas, daisies and all the seasonable flowers.

Various Notes.

Miss Susan Maltz, bookkeeper for H. M. Robinson & Co., began her vacation Monday, July 12, at seashore resorts.

Miss J. McManny, bookkeeper for Charles Millang, will begin her vacation August 8 in the Adirondacks.

July 28 the New York Bowling Club will journey to Barnegat bay, N. J., for a two days' outing. President Fenrich, whose summer home is not far distant, will have charge.

Woodrow & Marketos have the contract for a permanent decoration of the Hotel Bossert, Brooklyn.

Meyer Otile, of Badgley, Riedel & Meyer, Inc., will be home August 1 from a month's vacation at Tannersville, N. Y. H. C. Riedel will holiday next month in Canada and at Long Island fishing resorts, and W. G. Badgley has a perpetual holiday at Chatham, N. J. W. M. Bishop, bookkeeper for this firm, leaves for the mountains August 7, and John Egenbrod, head salesman, is already there.

Messrs. Hanft, Golsner, Cantillion and Radice, of the Moore, Hentz & Nash force, are all back from their vacations. Jonathan Nash and family will have their holiday during August, in the mountains.

J. H. Walter, of the Stumpp & Walter Co., is enjoying his vacation with his family in Maine. Of the firm's numerous employees, A. Christison, the vegetable seed manager, goes to the mountains August 16; J. Trivett, flower seed manager, goes August 2, and T. Kearney, September 15.

A. Ferdman, of Gunther Bros., with his family, is at Far Rockaway for the summer. John Gunther and family are at Midland Beach, Staten island.

A meeting of the trustees and directors of the National Association of Gardeners was held in New York, at the Martinique hotel, July 14. The leading gardeners of this section will join the American Association of Park Superintendents on its trip to San Francisco, leaving New York August 7 and arriving there August 16.

Frank H. Traendly returned from the Newport sweet pea convention Saturday, July 17, and is at his country home at Rowayton, Conn., with his family. Charles Schenck and family are at Far Rockaway for the summer. Thomas Martin, head salesman for the firm, leaves Saturday, July 24, for several weeks' rest in the Adirondacks.

Siebrecht & Son, of New Rochelle, are still busy with landscape work. At the nurseries the annual trimming of the specimen evergreens is in progress, under the direction of Charles Siebrecht.

Scott Bros. have had a successful season. They report larger sales of mums than in all the years they have been in business combined. Their thirty acres grow daily in value. In 1925 they estimate their real estate alone will be worth over $100,000.

The number of florists who will attend the S. A. F. convention from New York grows less, according to R. J. Irwin, of the transportation committee, the anticipated carload now being reduced to four.

Eugene Dailedouze was again chosen president and all other last year's officers were reelected at the annual meeting of the New York Cut Flower Co., July 12. J. Austin Shaw.

Fall River, Mass.—George E. Lindeman, of Pleasant street, is at his home recovering from an operation.

DAYTON, O.

The Market.

Business seems to have settled down to a midsummer lethargy, with little doing in any line. Florists are complaining of the business stagnation, but no improvement is noticeable at present. The overabundance of gladioli, dahlias, snapdragons, sweet peas, etc., still exists, and only a small amount is moving. Sweet peas are exceptionally fine for this section, owing, in part, to the plentiful rain. Carnations have nearly all succumbed to the extremely hot weather, and roses are not being bragged about. Asters are now putting in their appearance, and, so far, promise a fine crop this year. Field carnations are doing well.

Various Notes.

C. O'Brien, of Greenville, O., left last week for a trip to the Panama-Pacific exposition.

The Gem City Floral Shop has closed its city store on West Third street.

Roy Ewing, his sister, Miss Amy

Ewing, and John Boehner are on a sight-seeing tour of Chicago, Aurora and Elgin, Ill.

While visiting Fred Ehrhardt, of Eaton, O., I was shown tomatoes weighing two pounds. Mr. Ehrhardt specializes in cucumbers and tomatoes under glass.

Fred Lempke, of W. W. Barnard Co., made a short business stay here last week. He reported business quiet all over Ohio and Kentucky. Another visitor was Henry Ehrhardt, of Sidney, O., looking for a marine boiler. G. W. B.

Both Elmer Jenkins and the Furst Floral Co. have been bringing in fine gladioli, in Halley, Lily Lehmann and America.

Saturday, July 10, a notice appeared in a window of the Gem City Flower Shop stating that Mrs. J. C. Ewing, the proprietor, and Miss Bonnie A. Ewing, the manager, have discontinued the store in order to give their entire time to prohibition work. These ladies have been quite active in temperance work and have many times been threatened with boycott. B. E.

Newsy Items from All Over

Centerdale, O.—Jonas Brooks has closed his place of business and retired.

Harvey, La.—Addor & Meckel is the name of a new firm of florists and nurserymen, doing a wholesale and retail business in cut flowers and pot and bedding plants.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Fire early in the morning of June 25 caused about $250 damage at the Court Square Floral Shop, at 11 Court Square. The cause of the fire could not be ascertained.

Cleveland, O.—The Gasser Building Co., an allied enterprise of the J. M. Gasser Co., has taken over a 99-year lease on the Prentice property on Huron road, southeast, on which it will erect a 3-story brick building.

Norfolk, Va.—The grounds and buildings of the Newton Floral Co. were sold at auction by F. T. Briggs for R. H. Baker, trustee. The property comprises eleven acres of land. The purchaser was S. T. Snellings, and the price paid was $9,250.

Cleveland, O.—The third annual flower show of the Garden Club of Cleveland was held in the ball room of the Country Club Thursday afternoon, June 17. The judges were F. C. W. Brown, of the J. M. Gasser Co.; Henry Kohankie, of Painesville, and H. D. Knoble, president of the Cleveland Florists' Club.

Minneapolis, Minn.—At the flower show of the Minnesota State Horticultural Society, at University Farm, June 22, A. M. Brand, of Faribault, took all the prizes for seedling peonies. D. W. C. Ruff, of St. Paul, took all the other peony prizes except that for the best red, which went to J. E. Stryker, of St. Paul.

Upper Sandusky, O.—The new greenhouse of Constien Bros. is ready for occupancy.

Shenandoah, Ia.—The first prize for decorated automobiles in the Independence day parade was won by O. B. Stevens. Mrs. J. W. Ratekin took third prize.

Meadville, Pa.—Geo. W. Haas & Son had the decoration for the centennial commencement of Alleghany College, the biggest thing, they say, Meadville ever had. They report that they have had a better season than they expected to have.

Salem, O.—Disregarding notice of an injunction issued by Paul J. Jones, referee in bankruptcy at Youngstown, against the sale of the Cowgill greenhouses, J. E. McNeelan, former receiver, proceeded with the sale of the property June 16. J. E. Bonsall, the only bidder, secured the property at $5,000.

Punxsutawney, Pa.—V. E. Carr, proprietor of the East End Greenhouse, has sold his property at 308 Woodland avenue, and purchased four lots, giving a frontage of 200 feet, on Greenwood avenue. On the new tract he has started the erection of a case brick dwelling and will later build a greenhouse 25x150 feet and about 200 feet of cold-frames. The location is about a half mile from Circle Hill and Greenwood cemeteries, and promises a good future for the business. Mr. Carr started about six years ago with a small house, 9x18 feet, and in 1913 bought the East End Greenhouse, formerly owned by Harry Gibson and C. M. Stoops. After he had built a house 20x40 and added between fifty and sixty feet of cold-frames, business increased to such an extent that the present enlargement became necessary.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Market.

The intense heat of last week had its effect upon the business of the national capital. The sale of flowers is almost confined to those used in funeral designs. Funeral work during the week was heavy. Smaller quantities of carnations are being received, but there seems to have been no let-up in roses.

Less than twenty-five per cent of the stock finding its way into this market is sold. Excellent gladioli go begging. Roses are generally small in size, and their movement is slow. Sweet peas are of medium quality and plentiful. Aster shipments are increasing in size, but last week were not of the best quality. Plenty of good gardenias are to be had, but these, like orchids, fail to find purchasers.

Various Notes.

Otto Bauer, manager of the local store of the S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co., has been spending the last two weeks with his family at the cottage recently opened by them at North Beach, Md.

Mrs. George C. Shaffer and her young son will leave early next week for Atlantic City, N. J., where they will spend several weeks. Mr. Shaffer will join them later for a few days, and will thereafter make week-end trips to that resort.

The sympathy of the entire trade is with Mr. and Mrs. John Gutman, of Alabama avenue, Anacostia, D. C., who last week met with the loss of their 18-year-old daughter, Anna E. Gutman. She had been ill but a short time with typhoid fever.

George W. Hess, superintendent of the United States Botanic Gardens, has sailed from New York for New Orleans, to spend his vacation at the home of Senator Robert Broussard, at New Iberia, La.

Considerable difficulty is being experienced in getting the glass-topped violet pins, which are imported from Germany, and information received here from other sections of the country indicates that the supply is quite short.

Frederick T. Leapley, of the firm of Leapley & Meyer, spent a short vacation in Montgomery county, Md., with his family. Fred W. Meyer, the other member of the firm, has returned from a vacation spent at North Beach, Md.

Donald Malcolm, with Gude Bros. Co., has just returned from a vacation spent at Honeoye Falls, N. Y. Harry Kennelly, also with that firm, expects to spend his vacation at Wildwood, N. J. Hardy Pritchard leaves town at the end of the week.

Among the visitors of the week were T. A. Warne, of the Floral Nurseries, Bristol, Pa., and William Tricker, of Arlington, N. J. C. L. L.

Toledo, O.—Judges of the flower show at the Art Museum July 18 were J. L. Schiller, William F. Krueger, Max Spanner, W. H. Steffens and Thomas Magee.

Washington, N. J.—Alonzo J. Bryan says his sport of King Humbert canna has met with even greater success than expected. A number of those who bought small quantities reordered in larger quantity. This is a yellow flowered variety and, although it has green foliage, Mr. Bryan is sure it is a sport from Humbert.

OBITUARY

James C. Wallace.

James C. Wallace, a pioneer nurseryman of Los Angeles county, California, and a conspicuous figure in the development of the rich San Gabriel valley, died at his home at Alhambra July 12, at the advanced age of 85 years. He was a native of Zanesville, O., and removed to California in 1871, when there was no building between his home and Los Angeles except the old Three-mile roadhouse. The Wallace Nurseries, which he founded and of which he was the head for many years, supplied most of the citrus and deciduous fruits in the older orchards in the valley. He is survived by his wife, five sons and two daughters, as well as fourteen grandchildren. H. R. R.

Julius Theodore Wagner.

Julius Theodore Wagner, a retired grower, of Chatham, N. J., aged 73 years, died July 13 of heart disease at Overlook hospital, Summit, N. J. He was taken to the hospital July 8 with faint hopes for his recovery, having been in failing health for six years. The funeral was held July 15 at the home, on Watchung avenue. Burial was in Cypress Hills cemetery, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Born in Brooklyn May 22, 1842, Mr. Wagner was educated in the public schools of that city. After finishing his high school course, he was a clerk with the Market Fire Insurance Co. for about fifteen years, until it disbanded because of heavy losses sustained in the great Chicago fire. Subsequently Mr. Wagner entered the hardware business in Brooklyn.

Thirty-five years ago he moved with his family to Chatham and commuted to his business in Brooklyn. Eighteen years ago he embarked as a florist at Chatham. He conducted the business until six years ago, when ill health compelled him to retire.

When Chatham was incorporated as a village Mr. Wagner was one of its trustees. He served several terms as a member of the board of education and upon one occasion filled the position of district clerk of the board.

Mr. Wagner married Miss Caroline Wurster, of Brooklyn, September 14, 1871, by whom he is survived. He is also survived by four daughters, Mrs. James Adams, of Passaic; Mrs. Thomas Collins, of Chatham; Mrs. Clarence Norcom, of Brooklyn, and Miss Rena Wagner, who lives at home, and by two sons, James W. and J. Homer Wagner, both of Chatham.

Oliver Crissman.

Oliver Crissman, of Punxsutawney, Pa., met with a frightful death on Sunday, July 4. He was on his way, as was his custom, to the Lutheran Sunday school, with his hands full of flowers, and while waiting on the tracks for a switch engine to pass he was run down by a through freight train. He was born at Sinking Valley, Pa., February 23, 1845. He spent his early years teaching school. Later he took up landscape gardening and continued in the business until his death. Meantime he also established and, with the help of his children, built up the Crissman Greenhouse Co., of Punxsutawney. He was married January 1, 1869, to Miss Mary J. Robinson, who died eight years ago. Mr. Crissman was a delightful character and greatly respected. He was a charter member and an officer of the English Lutheran church of Punxsutawney, where he had lived for the last thirty-five years. He is survived by his son, George, and by four daughters, Mrs. T. J. Fenton, of Conneaut Lake, and Misses Elizabeth, Edith and Maggie, at home. The funeral services were held in the Lutheran church. Clarke.

N. P. Husted.

N. P. Husted, head of the firm of N. P. Husted & Co., Lowell, Mich., died last week, at the age of 79. The concern has a large nursery business locally and operates a tract of over 100 acres.

Mrs. Jerome J. Soper.

Mrs. Jerome J. Soper died July 13 at her residence, 2317 West State street, Rockford, Ill. Her death was due to apoplexy. She experienced a stroke three years ago, from which she never fully recovered. Thursday morning, July 8, she suffered a second stroke, and from then on her decline was rapid.

Mary Best was born June 15, 1862. She was united in marriage to Jerome J. Soper October 12, 1892, at Rockford. Until she experienced the first stroke of paralysis she was associated with her husband in the florists' business at 120 North Church street.

She is survived by her husband and four children, who were born to her by a former marriage. They are Mrs. Birdena H. McHatton and Reuben F. Day, of Bowman, N. D., and Ralph and Lorena Day, of Rockford.

She was a member of Court Street M. E. church and the Mystic Workers of the World, Rockford lodge No. 175.

Funeral services were held at the home Thursday afternoon, July 15. Interment was in West Side cemetery.

Mrs. Sabina L. Mallon.

Mrs. Sabina L. Mallon died last week at her home, 155 Sixth avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. She was 64 years old, and was one of the founders of the Immaculate Conception day nursery. The funeral was held Monday, July 19.

Bangor, Mich.—Dr. E. L. Morrison, who owns a general farm near here, is engaging in the market gardening business.

Kenosha, Wis.—The creditors of the United Refrigerator & Ice Machine Co. have received a first dividend of six per cent. The affairs of the corporation are being wound up. Before it got into financial difficulties the company did a considerable business with florists, its apparatus being well adapted to the needs of the trade.

Colorado Springs, Colo.—The whipping hail storm of Sunday, July 18, played havoc with the greenhouses of the Pikes Peak Floral Co. All the glass on the north and west exposures of the greenhouses was completely demolished, but the south fronts were only slightly damaged. The stock suffered severely, but not sufficiently to hamper the supply for present demands. The field carnations also were badly cut up.

Results bring advertising.
The Review brings results.

Now is the time to advertise your field-grown carnation plants; the larger buyers do not wait until everyone else is planted up.

THE Missouri Botanical Garden says the interest in garden roses in St. Louis is increasing rapidly and devotes the June bulletin to a discussion of cultural methods, with lists of recommended varieties.

WHEN one buys a 15-dollar suit one knows what kind of cloth and tailoring to expect; there is no complaint because it is not of 25-dollar quality. Why, then, complain because the plants offered at the cheapest price are worth no more than is asked?

ONE of the results of the war is that, both in Europe and America, novelties are being withheld to await a more auspicious moment for their introduction. The signing of the peace treaty will be the signal for many interesting announcements in the horticultural world.

WHEN the committee of women who received the $1,300 from the benefit exhibition of Admiral Aaron Ward's rose garden at Willowmere, Roslyn, L. I., wished to name for the admiral the automobile ambulance they had purchased for operation on the French frontier, he requested that instead it be named for Claude Pernet, the son of the famous French rose raiser, who was killed at the front last winter. The admiral's formation of his famous rose collection brought him the acquaintance of the French rosarian, and led to friendship between the families.

HONORABLE MENTION.

Not a few subscribers save themselves the bother of annual renewal by sending The Review $2, $3, or sometimes $5, instead of the dollar bill that insures fifty-two visits of the paper. Among those who have this week enrolled themselves for more than one year in advance are:

TWO YEARS.

Phelps, W. S., Lexington, Mass.
Nicholson, Robert, Dallas, Tex.
Wilson's Flower Shop, Painesville, O.
Goldthwait, Mrs. E., Elkhart, Ind.
Forder, Alfred, Cincinnati, O.
Anderson, Mrs. A. C., Missoula, Mont.
Weller, M. E., Milan, Mich.

The Review stops coming when the subscription runs out. The green notice with the last copy tells the story; no bills are run up; no duns are sent.

GENERAL BUSINESS.

As business is in other lines, so it is with florists and the trade will be interested in reports on general business conditions as observed by the Simmons Hardware Co., of St. Louis; Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co., Sears, Roebuck & Co., and Montgomery Ward & Co., of Chicago, summarized as follows:

Middle Atlantic Coast.—Activity slowly gaining, but collections poor. Railroad earnings will increase on account of war materials and tonnage.

New England States.—Collections poor and textile and shoe markets quiet; warm weather needed to start business.

Southern States and South Atlantic Seaboard.—Steady gains in movements of nearly all lines of goods, encouraged by better cotton markets. Collections better and money conditions stronger than any time since the war began.

Central West.—Increasing confidence in all lines of manufacture, with prospect of heavy railroad tonnage.

Western States.—Crop prospects make confident tone and jobbers are doing a rushing business.

SMILE.

You cannot treat all customers the same. To some customers you must smile, to others you may speak freely. A firm, fixed rule cannot be laid down for selling. One thing is certain—all customers are attracted by a face that does not frown.—The Silent Partner.

STILL THERE ARE A FEW WHO DO.

Please credit me two years' subscription in return for the enclosed remittance. How could I miss so good a paper!—Peter A. Freeman, Aurora, Ill.

One by one the members of the trade have come to realize that in The Review they get big value for their money—although there still are a few, a very few, florists who do not use the paper. In most trades a paper of the size and quality of The Review could only be purchased at from $3 to $5 per year, but it has been the policy of the publishers of The Review to keep its subscription price as low as possible, in order that the paper might be within the reach of every member of the trade.

The circulation of The Review no longer increases rapidly—for some time it has been so large there was little room for growth except as the trade grows. Consequently there is no reason for the sample copy editions that are so common with publications that do not have large regular editions.

The growth in The Review's circulation now comes through old subscribers recommending the paper to beginners in the business.

NEXT WEEK'S WEATHER.

Weekly weather forecast, issued by the U. S. Weather Bureau, Washington, D. C., for the week beginning Wednesday, July 21, 1915:

For the Region of the Great Lakes—Generally fair weather and moderate temperatures probable until near the end of the week, when warm weather is probable.

For the Upper Mississippi Valley and Plains States—Moderate temperatures and generally fair weather the first half of the week. The latter half will be warmer and generally fair, except that widely scattered thunder showers are probable.

For the Ohio Valley and Tennessee—Generally fair weather and moderate temperatures are probable during the next several days; warmer weather is indicated for the latter part of the week.

For the West Gulf States—Overcast weather, occasional showers and moderate temperature are probable in this district during the next several days. The latter part of the week will probably be fair and warm.

PARCEL POST AMENDED.

Orders have been issued by the postmaster-general increasing the parcel post size limit and providing for the issuance of a receipt for articles mailed by parcel post. The first order becomes effective at once, while the other will go into effect September 1. Section 454 of the postal laws and regulations is so amended as to increase the size limit from seventy-two to eighty-four inches in length and girth combined.

The new regulation regarding receipts amends section 458½. On payment of 1 cent, the postmaster at the mailing office may give a receipt to the sender of an ordinary parcel of fourth-class mail. A postage stamp to cover the charge for the receipt will be affixed to the parcel, and the name and address of the addressee must be written on the receipt by the sender. The receipt will constitute evidence of the mailing of the parcel. C. L. L.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

The only appreciable difference between existing market conditions and those of a week ago is in the matter of supply, and even here the variation is by no means startling. To be sure, the receipts are falling off, but even yet they are considerably in excess of the demand. But, after all, the principal sufferers are those who have limited their spheres of activities to the city trade. They, as a matter of course, find themselves under the necessity of hunting some sort of an outlet for large quantities of stock, as the city retailers are only buying enough to supply their immediate wants. Quite differently circumstanced are those who have built up a regular out-of-town patronage. For the out-of-town retailer must necessarily keep a sufficient quantity of stock on hand to meet possible demands. Hence, even in the slackest season of the year, he must order regularly first-class stock in respectable quantities. As a result of this necessity, no serious complaints are heard from those doing a shipping business.

An unprecedentedly large volume of stock for this time of the year is still being handled, and prices are low in proportion. Roses never averaged so poorly as in the last two weeks. If it were not for the shipping demand the probabilities are that many Beauties would find their way, with little ceremony, into the waste barrel. All roses still are more plentiful than in any previous summer, although there now is some reduction in the supply. Quality retrograded as the result of a few hot days, Mrs. Russell showing the effect worse than any other rose; the outer petals scalded to a degree that rendered a large part of the stock positively unsalable, which proved quite a shock to some of the growers who have plunged on this variety.

Gladioli have given the growers and wholesalers something of a jolt; prices already have fallen to the level usually not reached until well along in August, and some of the shipments from a little distance are bringing little more than express charges. Pink Beauty is almost as plentiful as America this year. There is some call for white, as Augusta has not yet appeared in quantity.

Carnations are rapidly passing off the stage for this season, as most of the growers are replanting. The stock received is soft and the flowers are small. Asters, on the other hand, are on the up grade; considerable good stock is seen, although stems are short and prices below what the early cut usually brings. It is said many plants have died because of wet weather and that the early varieties will not give the usual results this year.

Peonies still find a market, but by no means an enthusiastic one. Only two important lots now remain in storage, but these will hold out till August, at least. Feverfew, candytuft, larkspurs, daisies, coreopsis, gaillardias and gypsophilas are much in evidence, but, generally speaking, no more can be said of them. Cattleyas, while not abundant, nevertheless are difficult to sell, and are bringing only low prices.

In spite of these apparently disagreeable features, however, this is a healthy, if a somewhat plethoric, market, and when florists compare notes with one another and with friends in other trades they are not in the slightest inclined to cry bad business.

Club Doings.

The thirtieth annual picnic of the Chicago Florists' Club is to be held in St. Paul park, Morton Grove, Sunday, July 25. Trains leave the Union depot, Chicago, at 9:30 a. m. and 12:40, 2:05, 3:05 and 5:15 p. m. A splendid program has been arranged by the committee in charge and an enjoyable time is assured. All florists and their friends are invited.

The Chicago Florists' Club has made arrangements to entertain all florists visiting Chicago August 12 en route to the convention at San Francisco. The entertainment will consist of an automobile ride through the parks and to other points of interest in the city. This will be followed by a dinner in the Bismarck Gardens at 6 o'clock. After

Various Notes.

W. J. Keimel, president of the Chicago Florists' Club, gives it as his opinion that the unusually large production of good flowers has been responsible for the recent low level of wholesale prices; he believes that normal production would have resulted in nearly normal prices, in spite of war, strikes and other depressing factors.

of the plant pleases him immensely and the color speaks for a robust constitution.

Miss Gertrude Powers, formerly with Thomas Young, of New York city, is now with Fred Ronsley, at his store in the Westminster building.

Among those who do not believe in following the crowd in the matter of window display is Ernest Oechslin, Madison street and Gale avenue. His window is carpeted with fresh, green lawn, with here and there a well filled cemetery vase stuck in the grass. The effect is pleasing and quite unique.

C. L. Washburn sends word from San Francisco that he and Mrs. Washburn are having a most enjoyable time. He writes that O. P. Bassett and wife left Pasadena in their automobile en route to Chicago. They expect to arrive here about September 1. Miss Schrieber, with Bassett & Washburn, is taking a two weeks' vacation at Williams Bay, Wis.

To balance the general trend of August travel, Henry Dunn, with William Schofield, 734 North State street, will leave for the east August 1. He will visit home folks in Boston for a short time, then put in the rest of the month fishing in the Maine woods.

The trade is represented in the First regiment, I. N. G., escorting Mayor Thompson to the California expositions, by H. P. Gardner, who is a member of the regimental band. Mr. Gardner is with A. T. Pyfer & Co. He will be away three weeks.

J. C. Craig had charge of the flowers at Mt. Carmel July 15 for the funeral of Archbishop Quigley, when the decoration was one of the finest seen here in years. Peter Reinberg was one of the honorary pallbearers and among the 20,000 people at the cemetery were numbers of north end florists.

Pyfer & Olsem, Wilmette, say they have had an excellent season with young rose stock, all the plants not needed for their own benches having been sold.

Miss Isabel Vega, with A. Henderson & Co., has returned from her two weeks' vacation.

August Poehlmann says there is no use going to a summer resort when you have one at home. Mr. Poehlmann has just finished a summer garden on the roof of the south wing of his residence at Morton Grove. While in the full enjoyment of hammocks, easy chairs, awnings and the little things that make a hot afternoon bearable, it is not an easy thing to lure him to the ground. In contrast to this, his two sons, Earl and Roland, are spending a large part of their vacation in overalls, working about the greenhouses and overhauling the automobiles. Mr. Poehlmann says he believes in having them know the meaning of hard work. Tony Gobel says he finished planting the last of eight houses of mums, July 14. The palm department, according to H. M. Oeser, has expanded until it now occupies eight houses.

On page 2 of the Tribune, July 20, was a scare head which read: "Extra! German Submarine Attacks Lautenschlager." If it was Fred Lautenschlager, of the Kroeschell Bros. Co., the submarine had better watch out or it may be rammed with a greenhouse boiler.

H. W. Rogers, of Weiland & Risch, is back from his vacation at Spring Lake, Mich. Joe Pfeffer, of this firm, has gone to Silver Lake, Wis., for a two weeks' outing with his family.

CLEVELAND FLOWER SHOW.

The Cleveland flower show exhibition committee, composed of Frank A. Friedley, chairman; Herbert Bate, L. Utzinger and Carl Hagenberger, announce that they will have several of the large bush chrysanthemum plants grown by John Canning, Ardsley, N. Y., illustrated in last week's issue of The Review, at the Cleveland flower show.

Mr. Canning is figuring with the express companies for a specially built car to hold these large plants, which measure about fourteen feet in diameter. This feature of the Cleveland show will prove a big drawing card for the general public, and at the same time will be of great interest to many of the smaller growers, both commercial and private, who are expected to attend this big event, scheduled for November 10 to 14.

The retail display committee, made up of Frank Ritzenthaler, of Knoble Bros., C. M. Wagner and C. E. Russell, of the Jones-Russell Co., chairman, have held several meetings during the last week, planning details for featuring exhibits of the retail florists.

The plan they submitted to the general committee is to allot an equal amount of floor space to each of the retailers who desire to exhibit in the show. Each one will have sufficient room to show a decorated table and a

The Market.

Business in general seems to be somewhat better than it was last summer. All kinds of stock are abundant, but there have been some good orders during the last few weeks. The last two days of last week showed a slump in the market, but stock was kept moving fairly well.

Carnations are beginning to show the effects of the hot weather and the quality is steadily getting poorer. They are coming in plentifully and are being moved only at rock-bottom prices. Roses are also plentiful and there are lots of fancy varieties on the market. This stock is in good shape and has been selling well, despite the abundant supply. Gladioli, though of good quality, are not moving well on account of the large supply of other stock. Lilies are suffering with the rest of the stock because of the heavy supply. Valley is good, but is not keeping well in the heat and the sales are slow. There are some fine outdoor sweet peas, but they are not bringing as much as they should.

The Holton & Hunkel Picnic.

The annual picnic of the Holton & Hunkel Co. took place Sunday, July 18, at Ehler's grove, near the Brown Deer range. Although the day started inauspiciously, being cold and rainy, the sun finally made its appearance and the affair was a huge success. There were "eats" galore, with plenty of ice cream and crackerjack for the kiddies. In fact, there was so much to eat and drink that there was still enough left to feed a large party when the affair reached its finish.

The big feature of the day was a ball game between the Milwaukee and Brown Deer contingents. The game was a close one and exciting in every inning. The Brown Deer boys won in the ninth inning, with a score of 13 to 12. Albert Hare was the dispenser of decisions.

variety, the trip was a pleasant one. An outing such as this is surely a pleasure and is looked forward to eagerly by all the employees.

Various Notes.

E. Oestreicher has just returned from a week's visit to Detroit and Mount Clemens, Mich. He was formerly employed in the latter city and consequently had a great time during his stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller, of the Racine Floral Co., were in town last week, making the trip in their automobile. They stayed only a few hours, but they took time to look up their friends here.

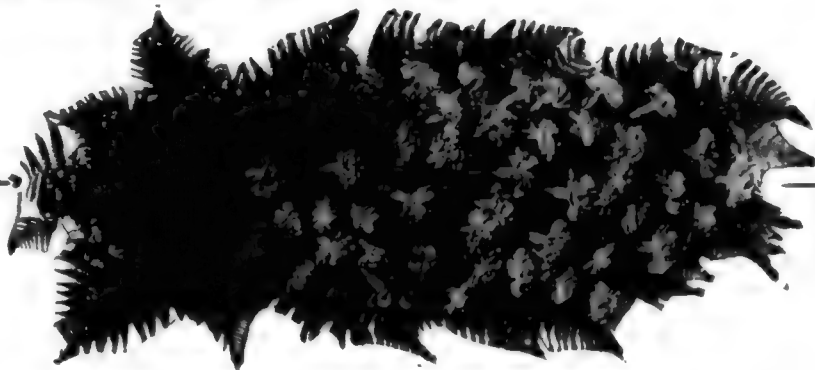

N. Zweifel, who recently sold his greenhouses at North Milwaukee to the Greenwood Carnation Co., left July 22 for the west. He will be away about a month and will visit the exposition and attend the florists' convention in August.

W. C. Zimmermann will start for the west with the Eagles soon and will make a protracted stay. He will be at the convention and will then gradually return home, seeing the sights on the way.

Gertrude Sommers, with J. M. Fox & Son, left July 18 for a three weeks' vacation. She goes to Iowa, where she

The Market.

The fine outdoor flowers are the feature of the market. Unfortunately, the business is not so good as such stock deserves. Nothing like the really splendid gladioli has ever been seen here. America is the best and most plentiful, but all the varieties are excellent. There are far, far more than the market can consume, even at low prices. Asters, too, are coming now faster than they go out, even when pushed hard. The asters have improved in flower and in stem and they show a good range of color. There are still some good carnations. Roses are not so plentiful in the better grades, but shorts are overabundant. Valley is in oversupply. The consensus of opinion is that business is below normal for the third week in July.

Hail.

A severe hail storm visited a portion of Montgomery county on the evening of July 13. The Florex Gardens lost about 5,000 panes of glass, chiefly on the north sides of houses No. 1 and No. 2, the big rose houses. Most of the glass was only cracked and did not cut up the growing stock beneath. The loss on the glass put in the 24-inch way did not appear greater than on the glass set the 16-inch way.

Campbell Bros., at Penllyn, lost 200 panes of glass and the field stock was damaged.

John Savage, at Gwynedd Valley, suffered the loss of 1,000 panes of glass, but his snapdragons were uninjured.

M. Henry Lynch thinks that his estimate of 6,000 panes as the Dingee & Conard Co. loss in the hail storm at West Grove, Pa., June 22, was too low. Mr. Lynch says, however, that the storm came at the close of an exceedingly successful season, when the houses were bare of stock, and the shippers are doing good work as glaziers, repairing the damage.

Current Events.

A quantity buyer was chatting on market conditions. He said he had bought on the day before 1,800 roses for $2.50. Not much left for growing the flowers after deducting commission and expressage, was there? Someone said it must be a satisfaction to feel that no one else was able to buy cheaper. The buyer shook his head at this and assured his listeners that plenty of others did better. He gave one instance, a sale of 1,000 roses for 75 cents. No matter how short the stems and poor the flowers, this will hardly seem to most of us like a sale. This is merely one of the stories told on the street. It may not be absolutely correct; let us hope that it is not. Where there is smoke, look out for fire. The object in giving the story is to suggest the thought that it might be well to prepare for next fall instead of continuing longer to produce many flowers in July.

There is a marked contrast between the stores on the south side of Market street below Thirty-ninth street and those in the square above. For, whereas the stores below Thirty-ninth street exhibit marked signs of dejection, those above Thirty-ninth street have a general air of prosperity. The most prosperous looking of the whole bunch is that of M. J. Callahan, with its handsome interior visible from the street through a large show window that seems to say quite distinctly, yet in a perfectly well-bred tone, "What will you have today?" It was a hot afternoon in July, just the hour and temperature for the siesta; the sort of afternoon when writers floricultural in retail circles like to bring in references to the cooler and the palm leaf. Yet inside that prosperous looking flower shop on that hot July afternoon there was a scene of activity. M. J. Callahan was on one side of the counter, doing his best. Opposite him Herman Schoenfeld was putting the finishing touches on an expression of heartfelt sympathy. Mr. Callahan balanced the season by placing this unfavorable holiday weather and curtailment of entertainments on one side and the unusually low prices for ordinary flowers on the other, and thought the net result fair. Mr. Callahan's idea was that the use of whatever chanced to be in oversupply saved money. Just then a lady entered and sank languidly on an ottoman near the door. Mr. Callahan was standing by her side in a moment, with that air of respectful attention that is so gratifying to every customer because of its tacit assurance that no effort will be spared to please.

by the Chalfont Cut Flower Co., is the second half of a house begun last season. This gives the company two houses 35x250 feet each. They will contain 21,000 carnation plants when filled—Mrs. C. W. Ward, Enchantress, White Enchantress and some Beacon.

Victor Groshens, of Hillside, Pa., is cutting some nice early Beauties. He is also sending good Russell and Hadley to the Leo Niessen Co.

Recent visitors of note include Clayton Weaver, of Emaus, Pa.; J. M. Carey, of Detroit, Mich.; J. Cunningham, of Newport News, Va., and C. C. Jarvis, the president of the Hayman Greenhouse Co., Clarksburg, W. Va.

A meeting of the American Rose Society was held in this city July 20. It is expected that Benjamin Hammond, of Beacon, N. Y., and Robert Pyle, of West Grove, Pa., will represent the society at the S. A. F. meeting in San Francisco.

Berger Bros. report heavy receipts of well grown gladioli, far in excess of previous seasons.

H. H. Battles is making improvements in the art vase shop that will keep the unique enterprise in touch with all that is good, modern and ancient, at home and abroad. A setting worthy of genius is the aim.

July 13 at Atlantic City was the greatest fishing exploit ever achieved by Isaac M. Bayersdorfer and Paul Berkowitz. They caught so many fine fish that the bait gave out and they had to return in half a day instead of staying out all day as planned. It was a day to make up many times over for other days when the fish would not bite, and was highly enjoyed by both these good sports and their friends.

are open all day on Sunday; the latter statement is true of a number of them throughout the winter.

Despite the heat, roses are holding up well and the different varieties are good in color, with the exception of Key and Milady, which have been much paler in the last few weeks. Wards are good. Carnations are still in good condition and are of good size, considering the warm weather. They are almost a drug on the market and go for a song. Harrisii and calla lilies are plentiful and of good quality. Sweet peas have been spoiled to a certain degree by the recent rains, and the stems are short. The supply is large, however, and soon the quality will be fine again. Gladioli, achilleas, swainsonas and bachelor's buttons are plentiful and sell well. Asparagus and smilax are good and the supply is abundant.

Various Notes.

Business at the Raeker Flower Shop has been good. Funeral and wedding orders are coming in even in July, Mrs. Raeker reports.

J. Benson Stafford is much pleased with summer trade and has found business in July much better than in June. Last week he had an attractive window display of pink ramblers and larkspurs, artistically arranged in Japanese and Italian flower holders.

Jerry Brookins is cutting his summer crop of outdoor orchid sweet peas and they are just as fine as his indoor ones were two months ago. His carnations are getting small and weak.

F. J. Nieman is cutting a fine crop of hardy candytuft and is wholesaling it to the downtown florists. He sold several thousand geraniums earlier in the season.

S. A. Anderson has begun closing his store at 7 p. m. every day except Saturday, when it is open until 9 o'clock. His new store front has been improved considerably by window boxes filled with Boston ferns and Sprengerii. The boxes are placed in every window on the three floors, making about eighteen in all. He returned from a Canadian fishing trip with a big catch last week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Armbrust are spending their vacation at Ocean Grove, N. J., and will stop off at Elizabeth en route.

he is enjoying his vacation at Old Forge, in the Adirondacks.

The downtown florists are supplying the summer theaters with fir balsam branches, which are put into the ventilators of the playhouses and then the fans waft sweet breezes of the balsam woods through the audience.

Edward Walthers is having a two weeks' vacation. He is not taking an extended trip, but is motoring and making frequent trips to the beach.

W. J. Palmer & Son are making a specialty of summer corsage bouquets, pleasing combinations of cornflowers and roses, sweet peas and daisies, Ward roses and yellow marguerites, etc. They are also selling dainty little baskets and jars filled with Cecile Brunner roses and tied prettily with ribbon. BALTIMORE.

The Market.

Business last week was poor. There is still an overabundant supply of stock and it is a perplexing problem how to dispose of it. Gladioli are to be had in unlimited quantities, with few buyers at any figure. It is doubtful, judging from the present prices, whether gladiolus growing is a profitable business. Some fine ones, along with many poor ones, are coming in, and while the bulk of the best ones are taken, even some of these find their way to the rubbish pile. Carnations of fairly good quality are seen, but are practically ignored. Asters are increasing in quantity, but are still of only fair quality. Roses, too, are only fair, and the large supply makes prices low; the street boys are selling twenty-five in a bunch as low as 10 cents. Lilies are plentiful and are moving slowly even at the low prices. Peas are on the down grade, on account of the hot weather, and are also decreasing rapidly in quantity.

Various Notes.

The second hail storm in three weeks passed over this city July 13, and while not as heavy as the previous one, it inflicted heavy damage on all outdoor crops. The florists suffered somewhat, but many, even in the path of the storm, were fortunate enough to escape serious damage. E. Van Reuth and Charles Hochstedt, at Hamilton, were

Wm. E. McKissick and E. Stevenson returned July 14 from a fishing trip on the Potomac river.

The summer meeting of the Maryland Horticultural Society will be held at Pen Mar July 29 and 30. Prof. T. B. Symons is desirous of knowing how many members are thinking of going and requests all those who are so inclined to notify him as soon as possible, for if a sufficient number intend to go a special train will be secured, to leave this city about 3 p. m. July 29, arriving at Pen Mar in time for dinner that evening. A business meeting will be held later. On the following day the society will be entertained by the Washington County Fruit Growers' Association with an auto trip through the mountain orchards of that section. This will be both an instructive and interesting trip.

The next club meeting will be held July 26. W. F. E.

The Market.

Business is rather poor. The demand is up to that of other years, which, for this month, is not saying much for the general call for stock. The supply, however, is greater in every way, and is causing a weak market. Prices are almost strictly buyers' prices.

The rose cut continues large and comprises some fine offerings. The gladiolus market is glutted and does not clean up at any price. The lily cut, including Easter lilies, auratums and rubrums, is entirely too large for present needs. Asters up to this time have been finding a pretty fair market, and seem to be about the only flower selling at all, but they have been offered only in moderate quantities. The chances are that before the end of this week their supply will be quite heavy, and they will suffer the same general depression that the other flowers in the market are feeling.

Various Notes.

C. E. Critchell was first in the market with new leucothoe this summer.

John Pommert, at Amelia, has been sending some fine early asters to E. G. Gillett.

Wm. Gear is remodeling the store room in the building at 1419 Vine street. He owns the building and expects to remove his store there sometime during this month.

Geo. Tromey is spending the current fortnight at Martinsville, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Olinger and their children, Rose and Robert, left July 20 to spend a few days at Newcastle, Ind. From there Mrs. Olinger and the children will go to Evanston, Ill., to visit her folks.

P. O. Coblentz, of New Madison, O., has begun to ship his fine gladioli into the market.

PAGES OF RETAILERS' CARDS

This department for the cards of Leading Retail Florists—those florists who have the facilities for filling the orders sent them by other florists—has made possible the recent rapid development of this branch of the business, a branch of the trade now established for all time and so helpful that its volume will keep on increasing for many years.

Are you sending and receiving your share of these orders? You can send your share (and make 20 per cent profit without effort) if you let your customers know you can perform this service for them. To receive your share—well, The Review's department for Retailers' cards remains the one way of getting prompt action on the order in hand.

To be represented costs only 70 cents per week on a yearly order. This is for one-inch space. Other spaces in proportion.

Why not send your order today—now—before you forget it?

Gentlemen:-

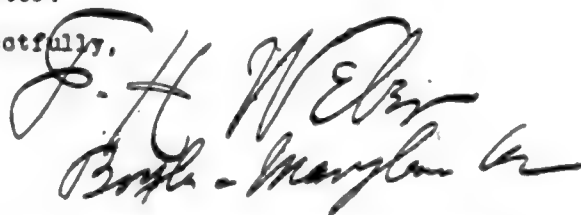

During the SIX MONTHS from March 4 to September 4 I have received from other Florists, by mail, telegraph or cable, orders to the amount of $513.25 as a result of my advertisement in the Retailers' department of The Review. With the allowance to senders the record for SIX MONTHS is:

Value of orders received-----	$513.25
Less 20% allowed senders-----	102.60
Net value of orders for SIX MONTHS--	410.65

It should be noted that this showing covers the DULL SUMMER MONTHS, when any addition to a Florist's business is decidedly welcome.

Retail Florists not advertising in The Review should profit by this letter.

Respectfully,

The Market.

We have had our first really hot wave of the summer, accompanied by an excess of humidity. This seems to have completely extinguished all life remaining in the cut flower business. July 16 and 17 were excessively dull, and no improvement is noticeable during the present week. Sweet peas are the most popular flowers at present. Their quality is not of the best, but good flowers move more readily than roses or carnations. Roses are in reduced supply, but are of good quality for summer, with a feeble demand. Ophelia is one rose which always sells out clean. Reds have moved fairly well; so have Russell, Taft and Mock. Carnations are nearing the end; flowers are getting small and spidery, and the prices are low.

Gypsophila elegans and paniculata are in oversupply. The double form of paniculata sells much the better. The trade in valley and lilies is at a low ebb, and there are few calls for catleyas or gardenias. Gladioli are druggery, and bachelor's buttons and sweet sultans are harder to move. A variety of other flowers arrive, but there is practically no call for them.

Field Day at Newport.

The Gardeners' and Florists' Club held a field day at Newport, R. I., July 15, the opening day of the sweet pea show. There were 126 passengers who made the trip from Boston on two special coaches; some twenty-five others made the journey of seventy miles from Boston and other near-by points by auto. On arrival, a delegation from the Newport Horticultural Society met the party and conducted them to special electric cars, which carried them to the beach, where nearly all partook of a fine shore dinner. Those who do not like such dinners got something more to their taste. After the inner man had been satisfied, automobiles and coaches were boarded and a long ride taken along the famous ocean drive. Many of Newport's most famous gardens were passed and a few of the more important were inspected.

After the drive the sweet pea exhibition was visited, and later some of the party returned to the beach and had a dip in the briny deep, while others looked up additional places of horticultural interest. All the estates looked fresh and inviting after recent copious rains. The privet hedges were as trim as ever and lawns and flower gardens were in beautiful condition. A few stayed over in Newport, but the majority took the 7:10 train back the same evening, all arriving in Boston safe and sound after a pleasant outing. A few members were reported indisposed July 16, due probably to the heat and an abnormal consumption of clams.

Various Notes.

Peter Jensen is now managing Mac-Mulkin's old greenhouses, at Norfolk Downs, for a corporation. There are a good many orchids on the place, and, in addition, chrysanthemums, carnations, cyclamens, azaleas and bulbous flowers will be specialized in.

The leading attraction of the present week is the picnic of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club at Cunningham park, East Milton, July 22. It is years since so much enthusiasm has been shown. W. J. Kennedy is ringmaster; P. M. Miller, starter; W. N. Craig, clerk. The judges are James Methven, W. K. Rogers, D. Finlayson, Frank Allison, J. G. Duguid, Geo. M. Anderson, Peter Fisher, M. A. James Wheeler, of Natick, is growing 20,000 chrysanthemums this season, chiefly early varieties. He has finished housing his carnations, 18,000 in all. Alice is the only new sort being tried. Of the older sorts, Matchless, White Wonder, Beacon, Benora, Pink Delight and a few Enchantress Supreme are being grown. One bed is already planted with yellow marguerites. Others will be planted after mums.

Seymour Grose, of Carbone's, is spending his vacation at Newport and other seaside resorts.

Charles E. Evans, of Watertown, is marketing some nice white swainsona and double gypsophila. The last named sells when the single variety can hardly be moved at any price.

Duncan A. Robertson, of Penn's force, left July 17 to spend his vacation in a camp at Marlboro, Mass. E. Daniels went to Lake Winnepesaukee, N. H., for his vacation.

Adolph E. E. Koch, of Nobscot, has been enjoying a vacation at Chicago visiting friends, and reports a most delightful visit.

Penn's duck farm has been a potent attraction the last few days. About 100 ducklings splashing in the pools or sunning themselves on the moss-covered banks made a delightfully cool picture with the thermometer in the eighties and nineties.

W. J. Thurston, manager of the Flower Exchange, has been spending a vacation at Holliston and Sherburn, Mass.

spring show in Boston next year in favor of one in May. The change meets with scant favor. May exhibitions have never proved popular in Boston, nor have they ever proved financial successes. Both private gardeners and florists are too busy in May to give much attention to flower shows, and the public does not care to visit such shows when there is a far more beautiful floral display in the parks, gardens and arboretum.

Frank J. Wheeler, salesman for James Wheeler, is enjoying a vacation at Baker's Island, Me., with his wife.

The Budlong Rose Co. finds Ophelia still the best selling rose, with Mock, Stanley and reds next in favor.

M. F. Ruane, of Waltham, has a fine new 6-cylinder Buick touring car.

Raymond W. Swett, of Saxonville, who specializes in gladioli, has sent me samples of Darwin tulips grown there, which are of excellent quality. Darwin tulips can be successfully grown and will produce as fine bulbs as in Holland, but I doubt if we can grow them as cheaply. Darwin tulips do not run out as do the early bedding tulips, a fact not yet properly appreciated.

I was interested in Phil's remarks regarding the Philadelphia Florists' Club in last week's Review. I think the decision to cut out the August meeting is sensible. Our own club in Boston never holds any meetings in July and August, and I believe all other clubs would do well to close up meetings during the two hot months. We have not found it necessary here to have bowling or even a canteen to get out a good number of members. Our average attendance for several years has varied from 150 to 175. It rarely falls as low as 100, and has passed the 300 mark. Like other clubs, we have noted the gradual passing of some of the local leaders in the trade, but the places of these members are always filled by younger and active members, who can give more time to the club's work and attend more promptly than those who were a force years ago. The great difficulty at club meetings is to secure speakers who can hold and interest the members, especially where so many branches of horticulture are represented. Ladies' nights and other social features all help to keep clubs virile and prevent meetings from becoming too dry and tedious. Visitors last week included J. H. Stalford and A. E. Thatcher, Bar Harbor, Me., and Ernest Weld, Madison, N. J. W. N. C.

ST. LOUIS.

The Market.

The weather last week had a depressing effect on the wholesale market and the retail trade. It was the hottest of the season, averaging 90 degrees. The retailers say there is hardly anything doing outside of funeral work, and the wholesalers find it hard to dispose of the large consignments that come in daily, at anything like a price. This is especially true of gladioli, and it seems as though our local growers have tried to see who could grow the most of this stock. The lowest price on gladioli was $4 per thousand for mixed colors; extra select stock hardly went over $10 per thousand. America, Mrs. F. King and Augusta are classed as the best sellers.

Asters are beginning to come in quite heavily, and promise to crowd the market still more by the end of the week. The single, everblooming tuberose stalks are beginning to arrive, and these, too, will give the wholesalers some trouble in the next week or ten days. Few of the extra fancy roses are coming in now, but there are plenty of the first and second grades. Kaiserin is the best of the white roses that come in. Beauties, too, are enough for the demand. The bulk of the stock is made up of Killarneys. Carnations are small; the extra select are limited to a few hundred, while the other grades are plentiful; there is a slow demand for them. Sweet peas are not so plentiful now. Lilies and valley are slow in demand. Good smilax, adiantum and asparagus are in quite good supply.

Various Notes.

D. I. Bushnell, one of our largest local seedsmen, was elected president of the St. Louis branch of the Navy League of the United States last week.

The Windler Wholesale Floral Co. and the Schoenle Floral Co., near neighbors at Grand and Shenandoah avenues, are keeping up their pretty window displays these hot summer months. Gladioli in the various colors are the principal flowers used. The Shenandoah theater, which is between them, draws large crowds each night, and the pretty windows attract many of the people.

Oscar Kuehn, head of the wire shop of the W. C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co., will leave Saturday, July 24, with his wife and son to pay a visit to his mother, in Milwaukee. He will also visit his old home in Detroit before returning September 1.

I do not hear of any of our local florists who will attend the S. A. F. convention at San Francisco next month. Our state vice-president, R. J.
Windler, now a resident of Chicago, has not yet made known whether anything has been done regarding the trip, should some make up their minds to go at the last moment.

Most of the west end florists are in the midst of cleaning up for the summer months, with their show houses cleared out for a fresh coat of paint, and redecorating the interior of the stores so as to be ready for an early fall season, which generally opens with the return of the summer vacationists.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

No material change in business took place last week. Trade was bad, and the near future promises no improvement. The market is glutted with all kinds of flowers, and, consequently, much stock was thrown away. Buyers are cautious, even at extremely low prices. The quality of the stock, on the whole, is fair, but owing to the oppressive weather, it has softened up considerably. Roses are more plentiful than required. Fine Sunburst,
Ward, Maryland and Double White Killarney are seen. There is a large supply of short-stemmed stock with good blooms. American Beauties are plentiful in all grades. Sweet peas are overabundant and cheap. Most are outdoor grown. The darker shades are not good sellers. This can also be said of carnations, which are sold at ridiculous prices, sometimes as low as 40 cents per hundred. Gypsophila is plentiful and popular for basket work and bouquets. There is a large supply of white and lavender candytuft, which sells fairly well. Gladioli in pink, red and white move quickly at fair prices.
White asters are fine and sell well.
The call for snapdragons is not large.
Plenty of outdoor stock is seen, with some especially fine larkspur, hollyhocks, coreopsis and mignonette. Gloxinias, hardy hydrangeas, primulas and fuchsias are about all the potted plants.
Bedding stock is still moving.

Various Notes.

lavender sweet peas, with a cluster of Ward roses tied with Ward ribbon, was made by H. E. Wilson for the Kirk funeral. Other beautiful pieces were also sent by this firm.

J. Clinton Kellogg, chairman of the city beautiful scheme, reports highly satisfactory progress. He says that more exterior decorations are appearing daily. This is Rochester's first year under such a scheme and the success so far is gratifying to the committee.
Within three years, Mr. Kellogg says, their aim will be accomplished, and outdoor decoration will be a permanent thing of our city. Needless to say, our growers have been much benefited by this scheme.

George T. Boucher reports business dull. Store trade is quiet. He has had a few decorations of late, but they have been on a small scale.

The Rochester Floral Co. had a dainty window display last week. Black and white check mats are arranged at the bottom of the window, with a quantity of miniature vases of pink and white sweet peas. Large basket vases of Mrs. Francis King gladioli are placed at the sides, with a background of palms.

Most of the florists are closing at 6 p. m. Saturdays, during July and August, while the wholesale house is open Sunday from 7 to 8 a. m., during July, August and September.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Wilson returned from the New England states Tuesday night, July 13, after a two weeks' trip.
Mr. and Mrs. William L. Keller have left for Sodus Point, and expect to be away for about a month.

PITTSBURGH.

The Market.

Pittsburgh has been experiencing the hottest weather of the year. Of course we have not neglected to have a shower about every twenty-four hours.
Stock of all kinds has been a burden, especially gladioli. Someone said that all of the gladioli are coming to Pittsburgh and no one denied it. Asters are coming in and carnations are still plentiful and fairly good. Business at the retail stores looks exceedingly summer-like. In fact, things have been so quiet that it looks as if business were dead and buried.

NEWARK, N. J.

The Market.

China asters appeared in the local flower shops last week; they are of excellent quality and the prices are reasonable for the beginning of the season. While there are still some fine carnations in the market, they are generally of inferior quality. Fair prices are received for the best flowers, but considerable quantities of medium-quality flowers are sold for next to nothing.
Peddlers have lately been selling carnations for 1 cent each. It is said that they buy the left-overs in the New York markets for 25 cents per hundred.
Gladioli continue to sell well, and sweet peas figure prominently in almost all window displays. Ox-eye daisies continue to meet with favor. Peonies have almost passed. Larkspur, coreopsis, sweet william, candytuft, snapdragon, phlox and other seasonable flowers are abundant. Most of the better stores still carry a supply of Easter lilies, which are of good quality. Dorothy Perkins and Crimson Ramblers are beginning to pass. Orchids of good quality are still seen.

Business is quiet, as is to be expected at this time of the year, but many do not find trade much below normal, though some other lines still feel the financial depression.

Various Notes.

Charles Witheridge had some graduation trade this year, but it was only a small fraction of what this business was a few years ago, before the school

H. C. Strobell & Co. report that business has settled down to its usual summer pace and that little live business can be expected until fall.

Peter Penek reports that business at present is quiet. He had a good spring and early summer trade.

More than 100 panes of glass in the greenhouses of Fred Nason, at Murray Hill, were broken by hail July 14 and smaller quantities in other places. The storm was especially severe in Madison and Chatham, where florists suffered varying losses. At the greenhouses of M. L. Force, Convent Station, more than 600 panes of glass were broken. At Westfield the greenhouses of Herder Bros. were completely wrecked and the contents were torn up and crushed. A dwelling which is in course of erection on the property of the Jakobsen Floral Co., in Springfield, was hit by lightning. The bolt split one of the columns of the building and did other damage to woodwork. The greenhouses which are being erected in the rear were uninjured. Several barns were destroyed by lightning and a number of houses hit.

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, John M. Lupton, Mattituck, L. I.;
Secretary-Treasurer, O. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

H. G. PEDRICK, of George R. Pedrick & Son, accompanied by Mrs. Pedrick, was a Chicago visitor last week, returning from California.

D. I. BUSHNELL, of D. I. Bushnell & Co., St. Louis, was last week elected president of the St. Louis branch of the Navy League of the United States.

THE bankruptcy proceedings in the case of the Johnson Seed Co., Philadelphia, are reported under the head Business Embarrassments in this issue.

THE Young-Randolph Seed Co., at Owosso, Mich., has purchased land on which to build a warehouse this summer. The company has been doing business in Owosso a little over a year, occupying rented quarters.

THE shortage of sugar beet seed resulting from the stopping of shipments from Germany may be obviated by the importation of Russian seed. It is asserted that enough to supply all the needs of the United States may be obtained from Russia.

S. M. ISBELL & Co., Jackson, Mich., grow a large acreage of radish seed in the northern part of Michigan. "We have noticed," they say, "reports to the effect that radish crops in Michigan would be almost total failures. We are glad to say that, although forced to plow up one or two small fields, the prospects are that we will harvest a fair crop at least."

THE Zeller Seed Co., at Jefferson, Ia., has secured a new location, on the Northwestern tracks, and will erect a seed house immediately. The building committee has returned from a tour of seed houses of Iowa and Illinois, and will equip the establishment in the most modern way. The building will be 44x80 feet, two stories high, and of fireproof construction.

AT the annual meeting of the stockholders of the A. A. Berry Seed Co., Clarinda, Ia., held upon Mr. Berry's return from the seedsmen's convention at San Francisco, the following officers were elected: President, A. A. Berry; secretary, J. F. Sinn, and treasurer, A. F. Galloway. The company recently increased its capital stock from $75,000 to $150,000, which is fully paid up. It has also a surplus in reserve, which gives a working capital of over $200,000. The company does a wholesale and mail-order business.

IMPLIED WARRANTY.

The other day, the Supreme Court of California handed down an opinion holding that a sale of seed at "a sound price warrants a sound article," and that this implied warranty of reasonable germinating qualities cannot be avoided by inserting in the invoice or bill of lading covering the shipment a disclaimer of warranty. There is nothing in the opinion, however, contrary to the well recognized rule of law that a disclaimer of warranty may be made a part of the terms of a contract of sale; it is merely decided that the disclaimer is too late when first asserted in the invoice or bill of lad-ing—that is, after the terms of sale have been agreed upon and an implied warranty of reasonable quality has been raised by sale of the goods at a sound price. The decision was announced in the case of Sanders vs. D. Landreth Seed Co., 84 Southeastern Reporter 880, a lawsuit which grew out of a sale of seed potatoes, which plaintiff buyer claimed were defective.

LANDRETH'S LITTLE LECTURE.

On the Troubles of the Seedsman.

In its 1915 general catalogue, the D. Landreth Seed Co., Bristol, Pa., devotes nearly two pages to a story of seed supply. Designed for lay consumption, there may not be much in it that is new to a well informed seedsman, but it is easy reading and is here quoted in part:

"For its seed supplies the whole world is now drawn upon by cultivators of gardens for table vegetables and ornamental flowers. This autumn of 1914 the European war has resulted in the absolute destruction in some parts of the unharvested seed crops of 1914 and the burning up or waste of seeds already saved, this being an irreparable loss so far as seeds are concerned.

"As to following crop of 1915, there has been a neglect to sow seeds and to cultivate them in fields where they have been sown to produce biennial plants, as cabbage, beet, turnip, carrot and other similar things to make seed a year hence. Really, the shortage in biennial seeds a year hence will be more seriously felt when the time comes to purchase seed for 1916 than at present, for the reason that other seed-producing districts have not prepared for the emergency.

"Everything in the list of most desirable garden table vegetables can be grown somewhere in the United States, but it is not so with the seed of many things, for, while the plants can be grown to an edible stage, the seed, on the other hand, cannot be entirely developed to a profitable degree—that is, commercially profitable. For instance, take the cauliflower head as used on the table and its seed: two distinct processes of development, the seed production subsequent to the edible product requiring peculiar climatic and soil conditions to complete its later and perfect development. This most delicious vegetable can be grown to perfection in some parts of nearly all countries, but the seed, as to large quantities, taking a world-wide view, is grown principally in the vicinity of the Baltic and North seas; a little elsewhere, but uncertain of development and profit.

"To illustrate the world-wide spreading out of the seed-growing interests we will refer to the 150,000 pounds or more of onion seed annually grown in the Canary Islands off the coast of Africa, produced almost exclusively for the American market; also to the immense quantities of garden peas grown

THE THIRD EDITION

OF THE

Album of Designs

(A Book Every Retailer Needs)

THE original Album of Designs was published in response to many requests from florists who felt the need for an up-to-date book that could be used in taking orders for Funeral Designs, Wedding Decorations and Bouquets, Table Decorations and all cut flower work where it was not practicable to show the customer the finished article as it would be when ready for use. With the publication of this album it became possible to show the finished work in beautifully printed pictures. The first edition sold like hot cakes, and a second edition went quickly. Now a third edition is off the press. Everything is in it—all the standard designs and many new and heretofore unpublished pieces.

96 pages, nearly 300 designs and decorations, beautifully printed on heavy glazed paper, handsomely bound in a cover that will stand wear in Australia and New Zealand for the markets of Europe; to the most rapid development of garden peas growing in the valleys of Montana, Utah and Idaho, where snow-capped mountains look down all summer upon thousands of acres of most delicate pea vines, and to the almost fabulous cultures of sweet peas in California to furnish seed for the ornamental gardens of the entire world.

"Such being the world-wide distribution of seed-producing districts, it can readily be perceived that all leading seed merchants to a large degree are assemblers of seeds, they or the still larger seedsmen from whom they purchase drawing from all parts of the world, just as the large dry-goods merchant sells the products of the mills of many countries. It is just here why the seeds sold by different seed merchants vary so greatly. Most seed merchants are all the time intensely straining to get the cheapest seeds, so that they can sell cheaply, overlooking or ignoring the fact that cheap seeds at once indicate inferiority. The expression 'cheap and nasty' applies to seeds more than to any other commodity.

"Years ago, when a merchant or storekeeper selling seeds obtained the larger quantity of his seeds from neighboring farmer seed growers or market gardeners in his vicinity, he could know something of the quality, he could visit the seed fields, he could know something of the character of the men who grew the seeds, but not now. That local source of supply is, as a rule, a thing of the past. Radish seed, generally obtained from second or even fourth hand from the actual farmer, now is grown 4,000 miles east in Europe, or 4,000 miles west in California; peas are grown probably in the valleys of the Rocky mountains, possibly away off in New Zealand or in Argentina, and just so with other things. He has to rely upon the honesty of several parties not known to him—men passing the seed along at various intervals through the chain of supplies—all making a profit in the transaction.

"Even the highest prices do not assure the best seeds, as there are Shyllocks and grafters all along the line. Quality can only be partially assured by getting supplies from experts possessing a reputation for honesty; but often experts may themselves be deceived, for why should conditions governing the grade of seeds, which pass through many hands before getting into the hands of the planter, be in a different category from drugs, of which everyone knows there are many grades? Using inferior drugs, the sick man is in his grave saying nothing; but using inferior seeds, the planter six months after purchase may privately give way to more or less profanity every time he looks at his crops, and he cannot be blamed.

"Few seed merchants have the knowledge from which countries to get the best, and then, when the country or district is determined upon, from what firms of seed growers there to get the best, for the 'cheap johns' are there too. Some curious errors have been presented to us in the purchase of seeds, as, for instance, so-called European seed has, when the bags were emptied out, exposed California labels, and the reverse—California seed when

Your Winter Spencer or Butterfly Sweet Pea Seed is Ready for You Today

Our entire seed department force is giving the florists its undivided attention. Those progressive florists who foresee the certainty of a heavy demand for Sweet Peas during the coming fall festivals and early holiday trade are buying now. May we have your order TODAY, to insure your full delivery?

Winter Countess Spencer is undoubtedly the finest sweet pea in existence; it is extremely early and blooms profusely all winter and spring; during the darkest days it still radiates the gorgeous pink shade, as though still kissed by the sun; in no other variety have we noticed so prominently the delightful fragrance that exists in these mammoth blooms. Truly the sweet pea of the day. The seed is worth double what we ask; but to introduce everywhere, our price is, oz., $8.00; 2 oz., $15.00; ¼ lb., $28.00; lb., $110.00.

Winter Red Spencer; large wavy bronze red, most valuable for winter cutting, oz., $4.50; 2 oz., $8.00; ¼ lb., $15.00; lb., $50.00.

Winter White Spencer (black seeded, which makes it especially easy to germinate), mammoth wavy double-like flowers, very prolific and undoubtedly the finest white in existence, oz., $6.50; 2 oz., $12.00; ¼ lb., $23.00.

Winter Lavender Unwin, the best winter lavender in cultivation; mammoth flower—truly a gem, oz., $2.50; ¼ lb., $8.00; lb., $30.00.

Winter Duplex Pink Spencer; true Spencerian or Orchid type of a shell pink color, oz., $3.50; 2 oz., $6.50; ¼ lb., $12.00.

Popularity Spencer No. 11 is made up of two shades of the most exquisite pink; they bunch perfectly together, and in this the florist receives the two popular shades of the highest Spencer perfection; oz., $7.00; 2 oz., $13.00; ¼ lb., $25.00; lb., $90.00.

Wm. L. Rock Spencer. This winter blooming butterfly has developed into one of the grandest varieties of the day. Mr. Rock himself declares it to be the king of all Spencers. It is a very shy seeder, and for this reason we have had to turn down hundreds of customers, our supply having been exhausted shortly after harvest; this year we can spare just 100 ounces; so be early. Oz., $8.00; 2 oz., $15.00; ¼ lb., $28.00; lb., $110.00. The above unavoidably contains some of our Winter Blushing Bride Spencer, but as it is equally as valuable as Rock and bunches well with it, we believe this will be agreeable news.

Ayres' Orchid Spencer Mixture contains the most celebrated of our winter flowering originations; those who do not care to spend very much money and yet desire colors that will bunch beautifully, should by all means purchase some of these. Oz., $2.50; ¼ lb., $8.00; lb., $30.00.

MORE SWEET PEAS

Yes, you will also want us to send some of these good, old, true varieties. They are all the Ayres' Perfection Brand, so you are assured absolute protection against inferior quality.

Snowbird, the earliest and most prolific white in cultivation, oz., 25c; ¼ lb., 75c; lb., $2.00.

Christmas Pink, a genuine favorite, oz., 15c; ¼ lb., 50c; lb., $1.50.

Christmas White, a good white, oz., 15c; ¼ lb., 50c; lb., $1.50.

Christmas Blue, violet blue, a good seller, oz., 25c; ¼ lb., 75c; lb., $2.00.

Mrs. Alex. Wallace, most beautiful lavender, a good bloomer, oz., 25c; ¼ lb., 75c; lb., $2.00.

Mrs. Wm. Sim, salmon pink and a winner, often producing stems 20 inches long, oz., 25c; ¼ lb., 75c; lb., $2.00.

Mrs. Wilde, carmine, oz., 25c; ¼ lb., 75c; lb., $2.00.

J. F. Hannan, carmine, oz., 25c; ¼ lb., 75c; lb., $2.00.

Mrs. F. J. Dolansky, exquisite daybreak pink, the best all-round sweet pea, oz., 25c; ¼ lb., 75c; lb., $2.00.

Mrs. C. H. Totty, sky blue or lavender, oz., 15c; ¼ lb., 50c; lb., $1.50.

Canary, yellow, oz., 25c; ¼ lb., 75c; lb., $2.00.

Christmas Primrose, primrose, oz., 15c; ¼ lb., 50c; lb., $1.50.

JULY AND AUGUST FOR DOLLARS

Of course you will have a bench of snaps next winter. Some of us will have three or four benches, as we have learned where the profit is. It is no longer a question whether we shall ask a big price and make few sales or a moderate price and make more sales. The "high-price" man is losing ground. If you grow some, you will have to get a big price for the few spikes they produce to make your space pay, and thus you will be rated in the unpopular "high-price" class. Our Silver Pink SEEDLINGS solve the problem. Producing three to five blooms more to the plant than any other snapdragon in existence makes it both profitable and popular. See recent ads for figures.

Note the following postscript on a repeat order received today: "Your Silver Pink is the best snapdragon I have ever had. My plants are the talk of the summer colony."—F. M. Van Name, Fisher's Island, N. Y.

For a long flowering season sow seed in JULY and AUGUST. New crop seed of my original Silver Pink Snapdragon at $1.00 per pkt.; 3 for $2.50; 7 for $5.00. Seed of the following varieties: Nelrose, Garnet, Yellow, White, Buxton, Mixed, 35c per pkt.; 3 for $1.00.

Plants now ready: SILVER PINK SEEDLINGS, $4.00 per 100; $35.00 per 1000. Nelrose and Yellow, $5.00 per 100. Other colors ready in August.

Our one business is snapdragon. Nothing else to sell. Make up your order, being sure to include a few Silver Queen, the new orchid-flowered type mentioned in recent ads.

dumped out has exposed European labels. No one seedsman has the bulge on all the rest, as the most insignificant may have the best tomato or sweet pea, but it is not likely to be so, as those other seedsman of broader views whose horizon is earthwide are, as a rule, most likely to have the best things, especially to have the most reliable all-around stocks. Certainly, they are likely to have in their heads a more valuable store of technical information. The old saw, 'Don't send a boy to the mill,' applies in the seed trade as well as in some other lines of business.

"Where seed-growing and seed-selling conditions are understood, they represent a greater degree of technical information than is represented in most other lines of business, and, in addition, it is a business full of disappointments consequent upon failure of development of perfect plants and after that the failure of the plants to shoot to seed or to perfect their seed, due to influences of soil or climatic conditions. There is no end to the disappointments consequent upon too much moisture or too little rain, too much heat or too much cold, hail, insects, fungi, outdoor circumstances beyond the control of the seed seller, especially as with the product of seed from esculent vegetables the seasons of risks from the injurious influences named as pertains to the development of the perfect vegetable as produced by the private or market gardener are just doubled in the case of seed production, for the reason that only after the full growth of the perfected vegetable follows another or distinct era in the life of the otherwise perfected vegetable—a period still more critical because after reaching its full growth the vigor of the plant is weakened and it is still more likely to be injuriously influenced by both natural and unnatural causes—all resulting in diminished seed harvest and inability to fill orders."

The Cream of American and European Pansies in Consolidation Mammoth Mixture

It contains the most beautiful and rare shades of the Pansy Universe; the blooms are enormous in size, borne on stems consistently long; they have been grown and reselected until now they show a most remarkable hardiness by withstanding the cold weather of the north, with little or no protection, and even showing blooms many times during the winter. On account of an unusually large crop we are able to make this unusually low price.

1 oz., $3.00; 2 ozs., $5.50; 1/4 lb., $10.00

NOTE—One ounce of Consolidation Mixture will produce easily 20,000 plants, and figuring an extremely low price of 1c each in the spring, you have a profit of $197.00 on just one ounce; enough seed for 80,000 plants costs you only $10.00; if you wish to sell, say one-half your plants this fall at about $3.00 per 1000—a Review ad will do the work—leaving you a nice little profit and with $400.00 worth of plants for spring sales. The KENILWORTH Giant Pansy seeds are all grown by myself and are offered in the following mixtures and separate colors:

22—KENILWORTH STRAIN—The flowers are of perfect form and substance; many of the immense flowers are from 3½ to 4 inches; it is a striking collection of beautiful colors and markings rich with shades of red, brown, bronze, mahogany and many others too numerous to mention. Light, Medium or Dark Mixtures.

26—KENILWORTH CUT FLOWER MIXTURE—Is a distinct class by itself, surpassing all other strains as a cut flower or for exhibition purposes, for inside or outside growing; the large flowers are carried erect above the foliage on heavy stems, 7 or 8 inches long, in the most graceful manner, and stand the hot, dry weather well.

28—MASTERPIECE—A remarkable type; the curled, wavy petals giving the flower a double appearance, large flowers of great substance, on long, strong stems.

30—GIANT THREE AND FIVE BLOTCHED PANSIES—A superb mixture. Flowers large and of circular form and of great substance. The display of coloring is unsurpassed. A combination of almost every shade of rich velvety colors, reds are particularly conspicuous; the petals being distinctly marked with three or five large dark blotches.

32—GIANT PARISIAN—The flowers are of enormous size, and beautifully marked, mostly five dark blotches on white and yellow ground. An unusually showy mixture.

Vegetable Forcing

THE SOIL IN SUMMER.

The Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, Wooster, O., recently issued Bulletin 281, "Summer Treatment of Greenhouse Soil," dealing with the work of the grower of vegetables under glass. The conclusions are as follows:

1. The common greenhouse crops of Ohio, tomato, cucumber and lettuce, require different soil conditions for maximum yields.

2. Lettuce can be grown continuously with safety on unrenewed manured soils.

3. Tomatoes and cucumbers are sensitive to conditions found in old soils and yields are quickly affected, demanding treatment or renewal of soils after two or three seasons' use.

4. The drying of the soil during the idle summer period seems to adversely affect the soil conditions for tomatoes but not for lettuce.

5. Summer manure mulch is recommended to check adverse soil conditions for tomatoes and cucumbers.

6. Summer mulch may not obviate the necessity of soil sterilization, but, in part, it appears to answer that purpose.

LARVÆ IN CABBAGE PLANTS.

We have several rows of late cabbage plants and find that small white maggots have been eating the roots. Will you kindly inform us how we can rid the plants of these pests?

W. E. K. C.—N. Y.

These maggots are the larvæ of a small fly. They eat into the crown and roots of young cabbages, cauliflower, turnips, etc. This is a hard pest to control. You can bore a hole four or five inches away from each transplanted cabbage and pour in a scant teaspoonful of carbon bisulphide, at once closing up the hole. The gas generated suffocates the grubs. The carbolic acid emulsion is used a good deal for maggots. Dissolve one pound of any hard soap in a gallon of boiling water; add one pint of carbolic acid; agitate to emulsify well. Use one part of this to thirty parts of water and apply to the roots of cabbages, either transplanted or in the seed beds. Two or three applications, sometimes more, are necessary to clear out the maggots. I would suggest liming your land well in the fall as a protection against maggots and other soil pests. It will not keep all away, but will greatly diminish their numbers.

Bailey's Standard Cyclopaedia of Horticulture.

First, second and third volumes now ready. Remaining volumes will be issued as soon as possible. The following are a few of the features to be found in this new work:

KEY TO IDENTIFICATION OF PLANTS.

This is a device to enable one to find the name of a plant. The name thus found is quickly referred to under its alphabetical location, where full information will be found in regard to it.

SYNOPSIS OF PLANT KINGDOM.

This is one of the most important features of the new edition. It constitutes a general running account of the classes, orders and groups of plants, with a brief sketch or characterization of 215 of the leading families comprising those that yield practically all the cultivated plants. These family descriptions give the botanical characters and the number of genera and species and the ranges.

THE GLOSSARY.

This is an analysis of all technical terms that are used in the work and in similar works.

TRANSLATION AND PRONUNCIATION OF LATIN NAMES.

In Volume I is inserted a list of between 2,000 and 3,000 Latin words used as species—names of plants, giving the English equivalent or translation and the pronunciation.

ILLUSTRATIONS.

There are 24 colored plates, 96 full-page sepia halftones, and more than 4,000 engravings which serve as guides in the text.

CLASS ARTICLES.

Special effort has been made to secure the best cultural advices for the plants requiring peculiar or particular handling.

GENERAL INDEX.

The final volume will contain a complete index to the entire work, enabling the reader to locate volume and page of any subject he has in mind. With the Index, Key, Synopsis and alphabetical arrangement of the Cyclopaedia, any reasonable question asked by the consultant will receive a ready answer.

This work consists of six large quarto volumes, more than 3,600 pages, 500 collaborators, approximately 4,000 genera, 15,000 species and 40,000 plant names. Price, $6.00 per volume; $36.00 per set. Can be paid for one volume at a time.

...THE... Chrysanthemum

By Arthur Herrington

Formerly president Chrysanthemum Society of America.

The most complete and comprehensive work on the cultivation of the chrysanthemum that has yet been published in America. Its scope and character may be gleaned from the list of contents, which comprises chapters on composts; planting; benches, boxes or pots; general cultural details; crown and terminal buds; feeding, its object and application; care of the buds; exhibition and judging; specimen plants, plants in pots; raising from seed and hybridizing; sports; hardy chrysanthemums; chrysanthemums for south and west; insect pests and diseases; classification and selection of varieties for special purposes; history of the chrysanthemum, etc. The book will be welcomed for the lucid, comprehensive, as well as the practical character of its contents. Handsomely illustrated. 168 pages, 5x7 inches. Price 50c postpaid.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

LOS ANGELES.

The Market.

The call during the week has been for purple and white for the Elks' decorations and floats. Asters and statice have been in great demand. In addition there has been enough funeral work to keep things humming. Altogether, the first half of July has been away above the average, and, although a few people around the stores are talking of vacations, most of them are sticking close to work as yet. Gladioli are now at their best and are plentiful, with a good demand. Dahlias are showy, but are unsalable in large quantities, except in a week like the present, when large decorations are plentiful.

A noticeable feature has been the big demand for orchids and their comparative scarcity. Cattleya Gaskelliana and a few late Mossiae form the principal offerings and C. gigas is coming in slowly. Valley is poor in quality as a rule, though some good local-grown stock is shown. Greens are in big demand.

B. P. O. E.

These letters have been written large on Los Angeles this week. Probably some florists know their meaning. Here the general idea is: "Best People On Earth." In some of the smaller towns around here they said that "Blind Pigs Opened Easily" was the meaning, but the Pasadena brethren denied this. At any rate, the visitors met with a true California welcome, and everyone, from New York or Maine to Alaska, had beaming smiles. The town was lavishly decorated and the floats in the various parades were well up to the usual standard for Los Angeles. The parade of floats and decorated automobiles on Wednesday took over two hours to pass a given point and on Thursday even longer. There was a delightfully cool breeze on both days, which made sight-seers more comfortable than usual, considering the crowded condition of the streets.

Howard & Smith had the decoration for the Elks' float on Thursday and turned out a wonderful and beautiful piece of work, which was greatly admired.

Staiger & Mundwiler were awarded first prize for the best decorated float.

The Germain Seed & Plant Co. sold thousands of pampas plumes, dyed Elks' purple.

O. C. Saakes' fine figure and military bearing were much admired in the parade.

Various Notes.

Mrs. Wilton, principal decorator and buyer for C. H. Kollé, El Paso, Tex., is here on a buying trip and also staying over for several days to see the city and surroundings.

One of the finest of the florists' decorations put up for the Elks was that by Wolfskills' & Morris Goldenson, an elegant display of flowers with Elks' pennants and mats of purple.

Albert V. Amet was hurriedly married July 11 to Miss Schoene Amalya Sands, at San Pedro, and they left at once on the boat for San Francisco on their honeymoon trip. Mr. Amet is the proprietor of the Mountain View Nurseries, of Santa Monica. The reason for hurry seems to have been that the boat was ready to sail.

James C. Wallace, a pioneer nurseryman of Alhambra, Los Angeles county, died July 12. Further particulars will be found in this week's obituary column.

H. W. Turner says his business up to mid-July was ahead of the whole month last year.

Geo. W. Smith is a busy man these days and hard to locate. He has several good landscape contracts in hand.

H. R. Richards.

Tassano Bros. supplied a large quantity of greens and other decorative material for the floral parade during the Elks' convention. The Tropico California float, which won the first prize of $250, was decorated with asparagus and gypsophila from this firm. It also furnished the purple decorations for the Redondo Floral Co. float, which was one of the prize-winners.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

A new system of marketing carnations was put into effect here July 12 and is meeting with the hearty approval of the trade. The growers have arranged to pool their crops. Formerly each grower acted independently, with the result that good stock was often left until late and then sold cheap to street venders, enabling them to offer excellent carnations at cut prices. Though this method cleared the icebox of the wholesaler, it curtailed the opportunity of the retailer to move even the small amounts which he tried to handle, kept prices down to bed rock, and made it impossible for either growers or retailers to make much money. Now the retailers take most of the good stock and are able to get better prices. At the flower market the offerings are arranged in five grades under the supervision of a committee representing the growers. Special selects were quoted last week at 50 cents per bunch; No. 1, three bunches for $1; No. 2, 25 cents; No. 3, 15 cents; No. 4, 10 cents. Terms are strictly cash.

Business, taken as a whole, is rather quiet, but the general tone is better on account of the improved condition in the carnation market. Most stock is plentiful. The market is well supplied with many varieties of gladioli, and the offerings for the most part are fine. Prices are holding fairly steady. Dahlias show improvement both in quality and quantity, but most of the stock is not yet extra fine. Many kinds of statice are appearing, and much of it is being sold. There are large offerings of gailardias and gypsophilas, and an ample supply of calliopsis, but they are selling fairly well. The offerings of mignonette, marguerites and Shasta daisies show good quality and are in good demand. A few asters are appearing and find a ready market, though the quality is not especially good. The supply of sweet peas has dropped off considerably, but the quality is holding up well, the average being better than usual for this time of the year. Some ornamental varieties of sunflowers find ready sale for decorative work. A slight improvement is noted in the rose market, the offerings being a little lighter and the quality on the whole a little better. Cecile Brunner is still plentiful and is doing well. A large supply of large cut hydrangeas is appearing, especially blue-flowered, and is easily sold. Offer-

Horticultural Society Meeting.

The Pacific Coast Horticultural Society held its regular monthly meeting July 10. The name of Henry Herr was proposed for membership, and Mr. Mitchell, who joined some time ago, was initiated. H. Plath discussed preparations for the fall flower show and said that considerable interest was being shown, the prize list being in much demand. A letter from the secretary of the National Association of Gardeners was read, saying they will convene in San Francisco August 16 to 24, but that the size of the attendance is still largely a matter of conjecture. The convention will be held about the same time as that of the S. A. F., and it was proposed that a joint entertainment be arranged. The suggestion met with favor. W. A. Hoffinghoff reported progress in the organization of the Ladies' California Floral Society, and extended an invitation to the members of the Pacific Coast Horticultural Society and their wives to attend a meeting of the newly organized Ladies' Auxiliary at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Axel July 14. F. Pelicano reported on behalf of the picnic committee, which was appointed at the last meeting, and recommended that the outing be held in September, probably at Grand Canyon park. With regard to field day, Mr. Raymond extended an invitation on behalf of Messrs. James, Plath and Fotheringham, present jury of garden exhibits at the exposition, to visit the grounds Saturday afternoons while their work is in progress. Mr. Plath reported on the S. A. F. convention, saying that the committee had been working hard on the program, and that everything would probably be ready at the time of the next meeting. The souvenir program goes to press in a few days. Many entertainment features are being arranged.

The evening's exhibits made a splendid showing. They included six pots of a sport of Primula obconica from H. Plath. This exhibit took 90 points. F. Pelicano had a large showing of Mrs. Francis King gladioli, which was rated at 90 points. An exhibit of statice from J. Gill took 80 points, and E. Shillig's showing of vegetables was rated at 70 points.

Various Notes.

With reference to the notice of the secretary of the Ladies' S. A. F. on the editorial page of The Review of July 8, it is admitted that unwarranted liberty was perhaps taken in referring to the new organization as the Ladies' S. A. F., the confusion arising from the fact that the principal object of the local society was for the ladies connected with the local trade to extend the hospitality of the San Francisco women to the ladies attending the S. A. F. convention. Nobody here had any intention to give offense, and it is greatly regretted if reference to the organization has caused any animosity. The organization here is now known officially as the Ladies' California Floral Society.

The Hogan-Kooyman Co., which has conducted a wholesale flower and supply business in San Francisco and a retail flower shop in Oakland, has dissolved. C. Kooyman has taken over the wholesale division and Geo. E. Hogan and Albert E. Evers the retail. The severing of the partnership brings no vital change, as Mr. Kooyman has had full charge of the store at 27 St. Ann street, San Francisco, while the Oakland store, at 1454 Broadway, has been under the management of Messrs. Hogan and Evers. Hereafter the San Francisco business will be operated under the name of C. Kooyman, and the firm name will no doubt be changed in Oakland also.

The Market.

The weather man has lost control of the weather. For the last ten days his daily order for "fair and warmer" has been followed by a clouded sky, cool air and showers. This perverse condition has been confined to the Willamette and lower Columbia valleys. The quality of indoor flowers has improved and the season for some of the outdoor varieties has been prolonged.

Thousands of Shriners have stopped on the way to and from their convention at Seattle and their entertainment has cleaned up the surplus stock. There is a normal demand for decorative plants and the call for funeral work is better than last week. A heavy supply of splendid outdoor flowers is coming in and is being cleaned up fairly well at prices which yield a profit. Outdoor gladioli are abundant and good. Indoor roses from newly benched stock are improved in length of stem and quality of bloom. Carnations are less plentiful, as most of the largest growers have set their new plants and but few benches are carried over.

Various Notes.

Zimmerman Bros. have added to their varieties of perennials until they have over 300 sorts. They intend to devote their entire establishment to perennials, for which they find a good demand.

Thomas Pollock, of the store force of the Routledge Seed & Floral Co., was married last week to Miss Rowena Russell. The wedding tour included a visit to Mr. Pollock's parents, at Denver. The couple will return here to reside.

Geo. M. Letherman, of the Holmes-Letherman Seed Co., Canton, O., stopped on his way back from the fair and visited the local seed growers.

E. J. Steele, the pansy grower, has just finished mailing his summer catalogue and reports a rush of advance orders already received. He was present at the seed trade convention held in Frisco and says he is much pleased with the sentiment of the convention, which strongly encouraged the production of seeds in the United States. This movement is of special interest to the Pacific northwest, where, Mr. Steele says, the soil and climate are favorable for growing many varieties of seeds.

At the recent annual meeting of the Oregon Sweet Pea Society, J. H. Dundore was reflected president, and Mrs. Harriet Hendee, secretary-treasurer. The society reports a membership of over 100.

Karl P. Baum, of Chas. L. Baum, Knoxville, Tenn., called on the florists here, accompanied by Mrs. Baum. He was with a party of Shriners.

The Floral Studio reports business spotted, but averaging fairly well. A feature of their window display recently was an auratum lily which contained over fifty blooms. The upper part of the stalk was flat and about three and one-half inches broad.

Martin & Forbes donated the flowers used at the breakfast given to the delegation of Philadelphia officials accompanying the Liberty Bell. This firm has on display some fine Hoosier Beauty roses, and some Ophelia with stems over thirty inches long. These were cut from young stock.

C. Tonseth cut his vacation short on account of the illness of his mother. She is now out of serious danger, but, as her sickness is due to old age, there is but little hope for her permanent recovery.

Clark's Flower Shop, on Upper Washington street, reports that business, until the arrival of summer conditions, was better than expected.

W. C. Hoffman grew the good callas now on display at R. C. Cook's store.

The Nippon Floral Co. is cutting some fine auratum lilies.

The wet condition of the soil has delayed the taking up of carnation plants grown outdoors. At the carnation ranges of H. F. Richards and W. E. Dungey part of the benches have been filled with soil, but the plants will not be set until they dry out. Both of their families are away, enjoying summer vacations.

Clarke Bros. arranged a window display in honor of the visiting Shriners. There was a background of coleus,

I sold all the Mum cuttings advertised, and you will not hear from me again until I can get some more stock ready. Shall root 100,000 Carnation cuttings for next season, as I know The Review will sell them for me.—Frank Wilhelm, Los Angeles, Cal.

Please cut out of our advertisement in The Review the cyclamen seedlings. We sold all our surplus cyclamen seedlings as a direct result of our advertisement in your paper.—Spokane Greenhouses (Inc.), Spokane, Wash.

We want to say that our last advertisement in The Review brought us orders from both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. We had, strangely enough, on following days, orders from Salem, Ore., and from Salem, Mass.—State Floral Co., North Yakima, Wash.

We are well pleased with the results obtained by advertising in the Pacific Coast Department of The Review. We sold out clean and refused many orders. The Review surely gives results.—Van Slyke & Seamons, Tacoma, Wash.

The Market.

Owing to the thousands of Shriners attending their convention here, and other visitors going to and from the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco, business shows some improvement. Because of the hot weather in the latter part of June, outdoor flowers, such as sweet peas, gladioli, etc., are plentiful, so that there is no shortage on the market. The bedding season, now practically over, was more extensive than usual, owing to the planting of window boxes along the buildings and about the lamp posts in the downtown district. The boxes make a creditable showing.

Various Notes.

The monthly meeting of the Florists' Club, held July 13, was a great success. There was a large attendance and several new members were admitted. The principal topic of discussion was the entertainment of the members of the S. A. F., who will be our guests a short time next month while on their way to the convention and fair at San Francisco.

Mrs. L. W. McCoy has been unusually busy, owing to having the planting of the window boxes of the Standard Furniture Co. She did this job in first-class style. She also reports a fairly good counter trade.

Rosaia Bros. did the chief decorating for the Shriners' headquarters.

The Hollywood Gardens have a specially attractive window, containing a pond, pond lilies and young ducks. Mr. Sullivan, the manager, reports a good June business, owing to the university exercises and several good funerals.

A. D. Risdon, the cucumber grower at Brighton Beach, has leased his greenhouses to R. D. Richardson, who intends to plant chrysanthemums and carnations.

John Holze, of the Queen City Floral Co., entertained several Tacoma florists on Saturday, July 10. They took a spin on the boulevard in Mr. Holze's automobile, calling at J. J. Bonnell's nursery and at the range of the Washington Floral Co., and finishing their trip at a bowling alley, where Mr. Holze claims a big victory for himself.

The Madison Park Floral Co. is cutting some excellent gladioli.

Pullman, Wash.—Neill's Greenhouses are busy planting. The outside gardens under the Skinner system are looking well.

Moscow, Idaho.—Scott Bros. are practically through benching carnations and chrysanthemums, and, owing to the cool summer, stock is looking well. They have just installed a section of Skinner irrigation system for garden purposes. Edwin G. Scott, formerly a member of the firm, has sold out and bought a place at Marshfield, Ore.

NURSERY NEWS.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF NURSEYMEN.

President, E. S. Welch, Shenandoah, Ia.; Vice-president, John Watson, Newark, N. Y.; Secretary, John Hall, Rochester, N. Y.; Treasurer, Peter Youngers, Geneva, Neb.
Forty-first annual meeting, Milwaukee, Wis., June 22 to 24, 1916.

THIS week's obituary column contains a report of the death of James C. Wallace, a pioneer nurseryman of Alhambra, Los Angeles county, California.

N. P. HUSTED, head of the nursery concern of N. P. Husted & Co., which operates over 100 acres at Lowell, Mich., died there last week at the age of 79.

CARL L. SEWELL, formerly manager of the La Grange Nursery Co., at La Grange, Ill., and later at Lima, O., is embarking in the landscape business at Hiawatha, Kan. He will grow perennials also.

THE thirty-fourth biennial session of the American Pomological Society will be held at Berkeley, Cal., August 23 to 25. Henry W. Kruckeberg, of Los Angeles, is California vice-president, and George C. Roeding, of Fresno, Cal., is a member of the executive committee.

AUGUST 12 to 14 are the dates set for the thirteenth annual convention of the Pacific Coast Association of Nurserymen and the fifth annual meeting of the California Association of Nurserymen, both at San Francisco. Monday, August 16, is Nurserymen's day at the exposition.

THE Farmer Seed & Nursery Co., of Faribault, Minn., has closed the branch which it operated on Hennepin avenue, Minneapolis, during the spring months. The success met by this venture in this, its first year, has decided the company to make it an annual affair. The branch was in charge of E. J. Kiekenapp and O. V. Sherpy, both members of the firm.

GEORGE WEINSHANK, of Whittier, Cal., one of the largest growers of grafted walnut nursery stock in the state, has purchased twenty-nine acres in North Whittier Heights, at a given consideration of $23,698. Twenty-three acres is set to 1 and 2-year-old grafted soft shell walnuts of the Placencia Perfection variety. Mr. Weinshank will grow walnut nursery stock between the rows of orchard trees while they are coming into bearing.

THE William H. Moon Co., Morrisville, Pa., has leased for a term of years a tract of land adjoining the Gedney Farm hotel, at White Plains, N. Y., from the Gedney Farm Co. The Moons are evidently going after business in the Empire state strongly, for it was only two weeks ago that this column carried notice of the incorporation of the Moon Nursery Co., New York, for the purpose of selling the products of the Morrisville concern in that state.

DAVID HILL, head of the D. Hill Nursery Co., Dundee, Ill., had a narrow escape from serious injury when the tongue of a large wagon struck his automobile and shattered the steering gear. Mr. Hill was coming down the street in his new Buick and did not notice the wagon moving at a rapid pace across the street until almost upon it. He attempted to pass ahead of it, but the driver of the team could not stop in time to avoid the collision.

to business. Routine matters will occupy the morning and afternoon sessions; the evening will be taken up with stereopticon lectures and papers. Samuel Hill, president of the Pacific Highway Association, will deliver his illustrated lecture on "Good Roads." E. D. De Groot, director of physical education, San Francisco, will have for his topic "The Drift of Organized Recreation." L. P. Jensen, of St. Louis, will present a paper on "Public Parks as Preservers of Native Plants." J. H. Prost, of Chicago, and Ernest Strehle, of St. Louis, will also speak.

Thursday, August 19, will be given up to a steamer trip around San Francisco bay in the morning, an automobile tour of Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley in the afternoon, and a smoker for men at the Elks' Club and a theater party for the women in the evening. Friday will be occupied by an all-day tour of the parks, playgrounds and boulevards of San Francisco; the evening will be spent on the Zone at the exposition. Saturday is left open for inspection of the exposition, and Sunday morning a party will leave for the San Diego exposition.

A special train will leave Chicago Sunday evening, August 8, and arrive at San Francisco August 16. The Chicago park commissions have a full day of entertainment planned for August 8, and local park departments have made similar preparations at the cities where stop-overs are provided for. A 12-hour stop will allow a visit to the interior of Glacier National park and a steamer trip on St. Mary's lake. Stop-overs on the return will be made along the central route. The train will consist of baggage car, diners, sleepers and observation car, and will be available for members of the kindred organizations who hold their conventions at San Francisco at the same time. Arrangements are in the charge of Hermann W. Merkel, Zoölogical park, New York. The itinerary is as follows:

Leave Chicago (C. M. & St. P.) 6:30 p. m., Sunday, August 8.
 Arrive Minneapolis 8:00 a. m., Monday, August 9.
 Leave Minneapolis (G. N. Ry.) 10:45 p. m., Monday, August 9.
 Arrive Glacier National park 8:00 a. m., Wednesday, August 11.
 Leave Glacier National park 8:00 p. m., Wednesday, August 11.

Club Picnic.

The annual picnic of the Lancaster County Florists' Club was held July 15 at Rocky Springs park. There were over 200 florists and their friends in attendance. At noon luncheon was served, and at 5 p. m. Caterer Griffiths provided dinner. The tables were garlanded with smilax and decorated with vases of gladioli, asters, snapdragons and roses. Progressive 500 was indulged in by a large number, and prizes were awarded.

At 3 p. m. the program of sports was held along the river front. S. S. Pennock, of Philadelphia, and James Brown, of Coatesville, acted as referees. President B. F. Barr was the starter, and L. S. Landis was official timekeeper. The winners were:

Boys' potato race—Edward E. Rohrer, first.
Girls' potato race—Anna Myers, first; Katharine Sierbers, second.
Men's potato race—D. J. Keohane, Philadelphia, first; E. S. Rutt, Elizabethtown, second.
Egg race—Elizabeth Kohr, first; Anna Myers, second.
Three-legged race—Martin Good and Frank Bare, first.
50-yard dash for men—Lloyd Weaver, first.
50-yard dash for boys—Paul Weaver, first; David Shultz, Jr., second.
25-yard dash for girls—Ruth Bare, first.
25-yard dash for young ladies—Miss Ida Miller, first.

Possibly the most exciting contest on the program was the fat men's race. Our club is proud of its fat men, but when it comes to running they are not in it with T. J. Nolan.

One of the most pleasant features of the picnic is the annual visit of our Chester county brethren; some of those who motored over were: Mr. and Mrs. Swayne, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Marshall and party, Percy Bernard and Mr. Ludwig, all of Kennett Square; Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, Jr., of Coatesville. Other visitors were Edward Koplitz, of Madison, N. J., D. J. Keohane and Mr. Price, of Philadelphia, and S. S. Pennock and party, who motored here in his new Chalmers car.

The committee in charge of the picnic consists of Elmer J. Weaver, Ronks, Pa., Frank L. Kohr and H. K. Rohrer.

Members are now looking forward to the outing in August, when Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Barr will entertain the club at their country home, Avondale Farms.

The Market.

Business last week suffered a marked falling off because of the excessive heat. Otherwise, business conditions remained unchanged, there being a superabundance of all kinds of stock, but nothing fancy in sight.

Current rumor has it that a wholesale market is to be established here in October. It is said that such a movement would be viewed with approval by all. A wholesale market is Atlanta's greatest need.

Various Notes.

At the greenhouses of J. Coursey everything looks spick-and-span. Mr. Coursey expects a large crop of carnations. His fern house contains some extra fine Boston ferns.

A. Borg, of the Atlanta Floral Co., will devote most of his time in the future to the greenhouse plant. He predicts some exceptional stock.

John Wilson has booked several large out-of-town wedding orders.

Among visitors last week was L. A. Woodward, of Philadelphia, representing the Lord & Burnham Co.

Out at College Park, W. N. Vary has some extra fine field-grown flowers, particularly asters and gladioli. The greenhouses are well stocked with potted plants.

At J. R. Frank's place there is a wide assortment of stock, all well grown. J. W.

CLEVELAND.

Various Notes.

Everything is in readiness for the florists' picnic, to be held July 23 at Willoughbeach park. Indoor baseball, races, tug of war, etc., will be on the program, as usual.

The new Lord & Burnham house at the Newton Falls range of the Cleveland Cut Flower Co. is fast nearing completion. A force of glaziers is at work on it this week.

One-fifth of the space for the trade display at the flower show has been sold, and this is considered good progress at this date. The Coliseum has been spaced off to show just where the various competitive exhibits will be staged. In this way space for the trade display may be secured near the retail display, the private gardeners' section or the commercial section. Thus the tradesmen will be able to obtain the maximum amount of good from their space, by being stationed close to the exhibits of the men to whom they mostly cater. F. A. F.

WINTER-FLOWERING ROSES

Specially Low Prices to Close Out Stocks Remaining Unsold.

We have a particularly fine stock of the newer and leading standard varieties in 3 $\frac{1}{2}$ and 4-inch pots ready for immediate planting. The prices quoted below for 3 $\frac{1}{2}$ and 4-inch stock are as low as the prices at which 2 $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch stock is usually sold. The demand for Ophelia is very heavy. If you want to plant this valuable new rose, do not delay placing order. While we have a nice stock of it at present, at the rate it is selling we are likely to become sold out before long.

JULY AND AUGUST FLOWERING

We have made a specialty of Hydrangeas for years, and our plants have never been finer than they are this year. They are well budded, and will be in perfection during July and August—when they are most in demand.

Hydrangea Otaksa, the standard pink variety, and the new French Hydrangeas—Avalanche, Fraicheur, La Lorraine, Mme. Maurice Hamar, Mme. E. Mouillere and Mlle. Renee Gaillard. Strong plants in tubs, $2.00 and $3.00 each—according to size.

Otaksa, very large specimens in half barrels, $7.50, $10.00 and $12.50 each—according to size.

NEW NEPHROLEPIS FERN—JOHN WANAMAKER

We will introduce the above new fern on August 1st, 1915. In presenting this fern to the trade, we feel confident that it will make a place for itself.

The John Wanamaker fern is a wonderful advance over all plain or wavy frond varieties. The side pinnae of the fronds are very fully undulated, giving the plants a very wavy appearance. It will make as many fronds as Teddy, Jr., plants in 4-inch pots having over sixty fronds. It is a beautifully formed plant, full and compact.

Orders will be filled strictly in rotation.

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the Editor of this Department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. But please do not ask The Review to make a choice of apparatus for you. The greenhouse heating equipment advertised in this paper is, we believe, the best for the trade to buy, and each article the best in the special field of its adaptation.

THE COAL MARKET.

The coal men are hopeful, though not enthusiastic, in their opinions of the present situation in the trade. There is no decided, clearly marked improvement, they say, but such slight changes as are visible are in most cases changes for the better. A Chicago correspondent for the Black Diamond prefaces his report with this reserved, dispassionate little bit of philosophy: "There is some more buying of pretty nearly every grade of coal, and sentiment in favor of better prices and bigger business seems to be solidifying. At the same time the actual transfer from sentiment to fact is a little slow."

Florists will be especially interested in the Chicago reporter's statement that the most obvious enlivenment of business is in the department of smokeless coal. He even intimates a possibility of a future shortage of smokeless, with an unsatisfactory market for the purchaser. "Some of the retailers," he says, "have signed up their contracts for the full amounts stipulated in previous years and are now taking coal on contract. Others have contracted for only a part of their requirements. Others have not contracted at all so far. As this indicates, the mine run business is firm, but a little slow. If there is any shortage of coal later, which some people now anticipate, the market situation will be far from satisfactory for the buyer a little later. In the meantime the spot buying is a trifle heavier, because some retailers are taking advantage of the last discount month, prices advancing on mine run August 1. Smokeless, lump and egg, is firm at the new circular of $2; in fact, where any coal is available it can readily be sold at a premium of 10 to 15 cents." Mine run smokeless is $1.25 at the mines.

THE INQUIRY IS INDEFINITE.

Will you kindly tell me how much pipe, and of what size, will be needed for a greenhouse 25x75, for hot water heat? State, also, how to pipe a 3-room residence which is located fifty feet from the boiler. H. G. B.—Iowa.

The amount of radiation required for heating a greenhouse depends, first, on the amount of exposed glass; second, on the temperature desired, and, third, on the character of the construction of the house and the nature of the exposure, including the minimum win-

A Greenhouse Boiler that fairly shot into fame

Here is the boiler that is making the most wonderful greenhouse heating record in the world. Florists and gardeners who have used other makes are constantly giving the Kroeschell Greenhouse Boiler the highest praise.

QUICKEST WATER HEATER IN THE WORLD

The large combustion chamber in the Kroeschell Boiler enables the gases to expand and fully ignite before reaching the tubes or flues. This feature is entirely lacking in firebox boilers and cast iron sectional boilers.

Unlike Cast Iron Boilers, which cannot be depended upon to carry their ratings even when crowded with hard coal, "the Kroeschell" again excels because—every Kroeschell Boiler is honestly rated and guaranteed to carry the glass and pipe capacities stated in our catalogue to 60 degrees at 15 below zero. Any kind of fuel can be used. Our ratings are easily maintained with the cheapest grades of coal.

OVER 1500 CAST IRON BOILERS were replaced by the Kroeschell Hot Water Boiler during the past six years. It is a common occurrence for a Kroeschell Hot Water Boiler to replace two to four cast iron boilers at a single place; this is the CENTRAL HEATING SYSTEM PLAN, and has saved many florists hundreds of dollars per season in fuel alone, besides a big saving in labor.

KROESCHELL VERSUS CAST IRONNo More Cast Iron Boilers

I have used several different makes of boilers but none I like as well as yours.

The Kroeschell is easier to fire, takes less coal and water, circulates quicker than any other boiler.

I have used two different makes of sectional boilers—no more cast iron boilers for us.

E. H. Steele, Manager.

Farmington, Mich., June 30, 1913.

Kroeschell Replaces Cast Iron

Your No. 12 Kroeschell Boiler which I purchased last fall is heating 38,000 sq. ft. of glass. I have no trouble in the least to keep 60 to 70 degrees in the greenhouses in the coldest weather.

Your boiler is doing the work for which I formerly used three cast iron sectional boilers, but I would recommend the Kroeschell to anyone wanting to heat their greenhouses with the least trouble.

(Signed) FANNIE D. WHITE.

Lexington, Ky., June 27, 1913.

Kroeschell Best of All

The Kroeschell Boiler I installed last year usually runs from 10 p. m. to 6 a. m. without attention. I do not have the least trouble to keep temperatures in the coldest weather. The boiler has given entire satisfaction.

The Kroeschell is the best boiler we have ever handled.

Madison, N. J., June 30, 1913.

(Signed) CHARLES TOTTY.

Kroeschell Replaces Cast Iron

I am heating between 17,000 and 18,000 sq. ft. of glass with the No. 12 Kroeschell, maintaining 50 to 54 degrees in the greenhouses.

I have night fireman and we fire about every hour in extreme cold weather, but in ordinary weather every two or three hours, leaving the boiler run five to six hours at the last firing.

Have had three different makes of sectional cast iron boilers, but would not return to the sectional boiler under any consideration.

(Signed) FREDERICK CAREY.

Kennett Square, Pa., July 3, 1913.

Kroeschell Replaces Cast Iron

We are heating 8000 sq. ft. of glass with the Kroeschell House Boiler you furnished last fall, and we think it can take care of more.

We maintain a temperature of 60 degrees in the greenhouses and have no trouble keeping temperatures, even in the coldest weather.

The boiler does not require attention after 9:00 p. m., except in the coldest weather, when we bank at 11:00 p. m.

The boiler has given entire satisfaction. We doubt if your boiler could be improved upon, it is by far the best we have ever used, and we've been using heating systems for the past 30 years.

te temperature likely to be recorded in the average year. None of these points is furnished in the letter of inquiry.

The amount of exposed glass in a house 25x75 will vary considerably with the pitch of the roof, as well as with the amount of glass in the side walls and ends of the house. If there is no glass in the walls, if only one end of the house has exposed glass and if the roof has an average pitch, about 600 square feet of radiation will be needed to heat a house 25x75 to 50 degrees when the temperature is 10 degrees below zero outside. If a temperature of 60 degrees is desired, 750 square feet of radiation will be needed.

The amount of glass, as well as the size of the rooms, in the residence should be known in order to make an accurate estimate of the radiation desired in the residence, but 2½-inch pipe

The Market.

The weather last week was the hottest this summer and business has suffered materially from the extremely high temperature. Stock has been more than sufficient to meet demands. Shipping business has been good. The great surplus of stock is attributed to the unusually fine growing weather.

Lilies and gladioli are overabundant. Roses are being sent to the market in great quantities and the quality keeps up unusually well. Short Beauties are in good supply. Carnations will soon be a thing of the past, as they cannot stand the ravages of the heat under glass much longer. The field-grown stock is in fine shape and will soon be ready to be planted in the houses. Asters are arriving in much larger quantities, but there is little or no improvement in their size. The market has been extremely quiet. Funeral work constitutes the chief demand, as social events are few. Vacations are being planned on all sides.

Various Notes.

Ralph Tinkham, of the Bradley Flower Shop, has left for the west and the exposition in California, along with the Davisson party, with whom he traveled on the European continent last summer. Miss Marjory Bradley, of the same firm, is planning a visit to Lansing, Mich., and other points in that state. Mrs. C. D. Bradley will spend several weeks at the Illinois lake resorts.

Doswell & Son are having a good summer business. They have a fine supply of gladioli and all kinds of outdoor stock.

A. J. Lanternier & Sons have been busy with funeral work and an occasional wedding. Their chrysanthemums in the houses and their carnations in the field are in excellent condition.

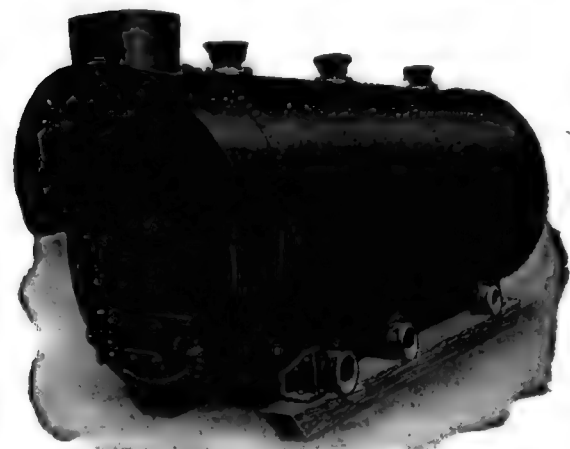

J. Bitner has some splendid gladioli this year.

The Flick Floral Co. executed an attractive table decoration for an announcement dinner, July 15. French bisque vases and baskets, with the French figures and Cupids, were filled with a combination of Ophelia and Shawyer roses, while the announcement was painted on a single rose petal, hidden in a Shawyer rose at each place. Covers were laid for thirty. Miss C. B. Flick is planning a trip to the Panama exposition in August. Misses Margaret and Mildred Flick are spending their vacations in Cleveland and Fostoria, O. R. The Market.

Business is quiet, though it has been fairly active for July. The cut flower trade is holding up well. Unusually fine gladioli and sweet peas can be had now.

Various Notes.

Richard Nofftz has closed his store, on Williams street, and is conducting business from his greenhouses, on Kempton street.

Cards have been received from Samuel Rusitzky, who is on a three months' vacation in Kentucky.

H. V. Sowle reports business quiet. He has installed a large refrigerator, which enhances the attractiveness of the shop.

Fred Reynolds has been spending his vacation in Vermont.

Joseph V. Pierce has been on a few days' vacation.

Post & Gray took George Borden and Edward Enos, their employees, on a day's outing to attend the show of the American Sweet Pea Society, at the Casino, Newport, R. I.

S. E. Shaw, of Kempton street, has a large house of early mums. They are in excellent condition and promise a good crop. Mr. Shaw attended the sweet pea show at Newport.

W. P. Pierce is enjoying active business and reports good trade for this time of the year.

The New Bedford Horticultural Society held its regular monthly meeting in the Library building, Monday, July 12. President Roy presided. The show committee reported the two shows given in June highly successful. After a short discussion of the plans for the dahlia show, to be held in the early fall, the meeting adjourned.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

The Market.

Occasional days of funeral work relieve the monotony of the summer dullness. Flowers of all kinds are plentiful and Easter lilies are of fine quality. Although the bedding season is over, there are still a few boxes and baskets being filled. Most of the growers are busy planting chrysanthemums and getting the benches ready for carnations. The opening of a new bank building used a good number of flowers on Saturday.

Various Notes.

Bruin Slot & Sons report their mum stock all benched. They also report a good demand for tomatoes, of which they are picking heavily.

Crabb & Hunter displayed a summer bride in their window last week.

Eli Cross is taking advantage of the dullness to get his new store in shape. He has had an attractive new window back built in, and everything about the store looks spick-and-span.

Arthur F. Crabb was exceedingly busy with funeral work at the end of the week, and also on Monday, July 19.

GLEN COVE, N. Y.

The regular monthly meeting of the Nassau county Horticultural Society was held at Pembroke hall Wednesday, July 14, with President Westlake in the chair. A. Mackenzie, J. Adler and G. Hutton were appointed judges for the evening and their awards were as follows: Dish of raspberries—Jas. Holloway, first; dish of red currants—W. D. Robertson, first; six peaches—B. Jones, first; President Westlake's special prize for three vases of sweet peas—H. Jones, first. Jas. Holloway was awarded a cultural certificate for a collection of outdoor fruit. An invitation was received from the Oyster Bay Horticultural Society to join them in their annual outing August 17. Further particulars of this event will be given at a later date. Exhibits at our next meeting will be twelve spikes of gladioli, six ears of sweet corn and twelve mixed asters.

At the sweet pea show held in the Glen Cove Neighborhood building some fine exhibits were staged. The following were among the successful exhibitors: W. Noonin, gardener to Mrs. C. F. Cartledge; F. Hitchman, gardener to Ralph Pulitzer; J. McDonald, gardener to Mrs. J. H. Ottley, and A. Walker, gardener to H. C. Smith.

Various Notes.

Alexander H. Johnson, of George Johnson & Son, has been in camp with the Rhode Island National Guard, in which he holds the rank of major, at Fort Greble during the last week.

William E. Chappell, secretary of the Florists' and Gardeners' Club of Rhode Island, is taking a vacation trip by water to Jacksonville, Fla.

William A. Forbes is erecting a small greenhouse, 20x50 feet, on Meadow street, Pawtucket.

Alonzo W. Vose, of Cumberland, has been drawn for petit jury duty in the Superior court.

The flower department in Kresge's 5 and 10-cent store, Westminster street, has been closed until fall.

William Dickson, superintendent and landscape gardener at Sea Lands, Little Compton, the estate of John E. McGowan, of New York, has resigned.

The trade in this vicinity received a business call last week from Mr. Tyler, representing Joseph Breck & Sons, Boston.

Nathan S. Davis has bagged about 1,600 clusters of grapes of choice varieties at his vineyard near Tiverton and anticipates a large crop this year.

COLUMBUS, O.

The Market.

Trade is quiet here. There is a small amount of funeral work on hand, but not sufficient to clean up the large stocks coming in. Gladioli are plentiful, and the quality is superior to anything we have seen this early in the season. The price is exceptionally low for such a fine grade, but they are hard to move at any price. Good roses are appearing, but as the quantity is not large, the demand keeps the situation well in hand. Carnations are still to be had, but the quality is falling daily. Sweet peas are good, but the demand is feeble. Valley has been scarce. Potted plants find practically no sale, and the only plants to be seen are used as store decorations.

Various Notes.

The Riverside Floral Co. suffered severely from the recent flood, all its carnations and stocks being inundated. For a time, it was feared that the high-water mark would exceed that of 1913, and hundreds of families fled the west side district. The Scioto river, however, was able to take care of its swollen tributaries, and possibly prevented a repetition of the 1913 flood.

Sherman Stephens is convalescing, but it will take some time before he fully recovers. J. M.

ELYRIA, O.

The Lorain County Florists' Club was organized at a meeting at the Elyria Flower Store, Cheapside, July 9.

James McLaughlin was elected president, and Fred Gunton, secretary and treasurer. L. C. Hecock was named as chairman of the committee on by-laws and Leo Smallwood as chairman of the committee on membership.

The new organization has been formed for the purpose of promoting a larger degree of cooperation between the florists of the county. It has an initial membership of about forty-five, including the florists, the stockholders in the different companies, and private gardeners of Elyria, Lorain, Wellington, Oberlin and Amherst. It is expected to hold monthly meetings, at which matters pertaining to their interests will be discussed.

The Market.

Business has surpassed all expectations for this time of year, though there has been more funeral work than anything else. Some of the florists report business better than in some of the winter months. The market is pretty well cleaned out. The gladioli are the leading flowers. They are all home-grown and the best that have ever been seen in this market. America is the principal variety, with a smaller quantity of Mrs. Francis King, Augusta and some new varieties. Lilies are plentiful, but the demand for them is small, on account of the large quantities of gladioli. The Colorado carnations are arriving in fair quantities and are exceptionally fine, with large blooms. Roses are still plentiful, and fine stock is obtained at a low price. Sweet peas also are plentiful.

Various Notes.

The Florists' Club will hold its second annual picnic July 28, at the nursery of Holsinger Bros. A great many prizes will be offered in the different athletic contests. Last year's picnic was a grand success, but it is expected that this year's will beat it. All the florists will close their places of business for the occasion.

The S. Bryson Ayres Co. lost 1,000 feet of glass by a hail storm on Monday, July 12. Outside stock was greatly damaged by the wind, especially the gladioli and sweet peas.

H. Worden suffered heavily from the hail. It broke practically all the glass in his greenhouses. All of the tomato plants in the houses were ruined by falling glass.

Henry Kusik & Co. report business quite satisfactory for this time of year. They are selling large quantities of gladioli and carnations. The latter are from Colorado and are fine. They had to increase the wire department by adding two wire workers, so as to be able to fill orders.

The W. L. Rock Flower Co. has finished planting carnations. The chrysanthemums are in excellent shape, being from two to three feet high, and other stock is in fine condition.

R. S. Brown & Son have planted practically all their chrysanthemums at both places. They report business as highly satisfactory.

T. J. Noll & Co. last week received some of the best stock ever seen in this city in July. Their Russell roses are hard to beat. The demand is so heavy that it keeps their stock well cleaned up. They are handling a large quantity of home-grown gladioli.

J. Austin has a fine lot of young begonias and cyclamens.

Arthur Newell reports a heavy week in funeral work. He says business has never before been so good at this season.

Mr. Chandler, of Rosedale, Kan., is sending in some exceptionally fine gladioli. He says the only trouble is that they are all coming in at once.

W. J. Barnes is making preparations to tear down all of his wooden benches and will replace them with concrete ones. All will be raised benches. He has tried the one-piece table bench, is well satisfied with results and will continue to use this style of bench.

W. J. B.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS.

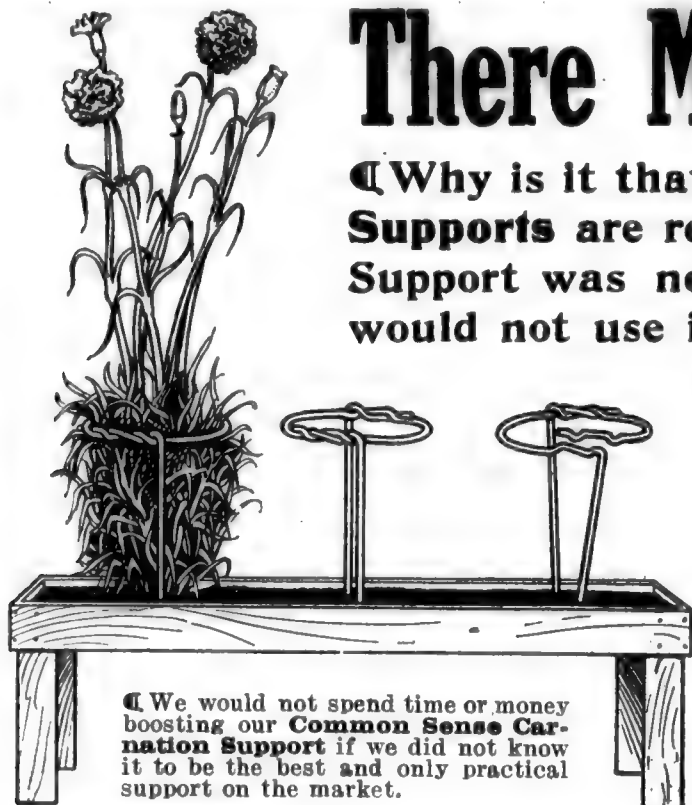

Frank Friedley, Cleveland, O., pointed out the advantages of a publicity committee. For example, when Henry Penn, of Boston, recently passed through the city in a party of seventy persons, the rooms, both in the hotel and state-rooms, were lavishly decorated by the local craftsmen. The show in November is being boosted by posters in every greenhouse. The Carnation Society will add its quota in the endeavor to enlarge the success. For the bowlers a handsome silver cup is among the many prizes.

Adam Graham and Herman Hart, Cleveland, will spend about two weeks among the Gardens of Eden, as judges. John Boddy, park superintendent, will accompany them to see that no forbidden fruit is eaten. This annual judging of school gardens has become quite a task, as the competition, in many cases, is keen. The whole country, beginning at the nursery of the Storrs & Harrison Co., at Painesville, and continuing into Cleveland, is one glorious riot of color. Lovers of old-fashioned gardens can feast their eyes, for it is one constant delight at this time.

Manager Williams, of the Cleveland Cut Flower Co., Cleveland, says they never handled finer peonies than this season. Business generally is holding up well.

PLASTIC FLOORS PLEASE FLORISTS

New type of floors introduced to Review readers a year ago wins favor of retailers. Adaptability to florists' needs and pocketbooks, and excellent architectural appearance count strongly for them. Store owners are giving them attention as the remodeling months come 'round again.

HOUGH the weather might lead us to a contrary opinion, the dull condition of the florists' business is sure evidence that summer is here again. And while some retail florists are spending their time at the seaside or the lakes, presumably to avoid the sight of their empty stores and idle cash registers, many others are making use of the slack season to renovate and perhaps remodel their stores.

The Floor Question.

As they do so, there comes up a perplexing question to many. "What about that old linoleum?" some ask themselves. It was not so long ago that it looked spick-and-span; now, patching and relaying would be more than it is worth. But as he scratches his head and thinks it over, the proprietor recalls that he has spent a good-sized sum of money on linoleum in the course of the last few years. Oh, for a low-priced linoleum that would look like $2-a-yard quality and wear like sheet-iron! While the band plays softly, "Dreams, Sweet Dreams."

But his reminiscences are not so rueful as those of the store owner who thought he had disposed of the floor problem, but now views a cracked tile or mosaic floor with dirt veins running hither and yon. For he recalls that the check that paid for that floor was something more than ordinary sized. At the same time the clicking heels of a customer remind him of the fact that it is not nearly so comfortable on the feet as his old floor, and cautious tip-toe steps from another direction call to mind that the water that is constantly and unavoidably dripped makes danger spots worthy of a red flag. Rubber mats can be put in a few places, but to avoid all possibility of accidents one would have to cover almost the whole floor with matting—and then why pay for the mosaic?

The florist who had the subject of floors uppermost in his mind about this time a year ago found much food for thought in the article on "Fancy Floors for Florists' Stores," in The Review for July 9, 1914. Indications are that in a number of cases that food was well digested; many retailers have manifested an interest in the comparatively new type of floors brought to their attention in that article. The florists who have invested in floors of plastic composition are not engaged in rueful reminiscences this summer, but are passing along recommendations to their fellow members of the trade who are contemplating the installation of a floor during the coming dull months.

A Little Explanation.

Unless the florist has been engaged in building a store recently, he will know little of plastic composition floors. Although they have been laid for several years, they are not familiarly known to many outside the building trades. They are all fibrous compositions containing magnesium oxide and chloride for cement, with various fillers, cork, asbestos, sometimes wood; also waterproofing and fireproofing chemicals. These elements form a light, elastic flooring that is easy underfoot, warm to the tread, and non-slippery. It is not affected by water, oil and common acids.

Comparative Arithmetic.

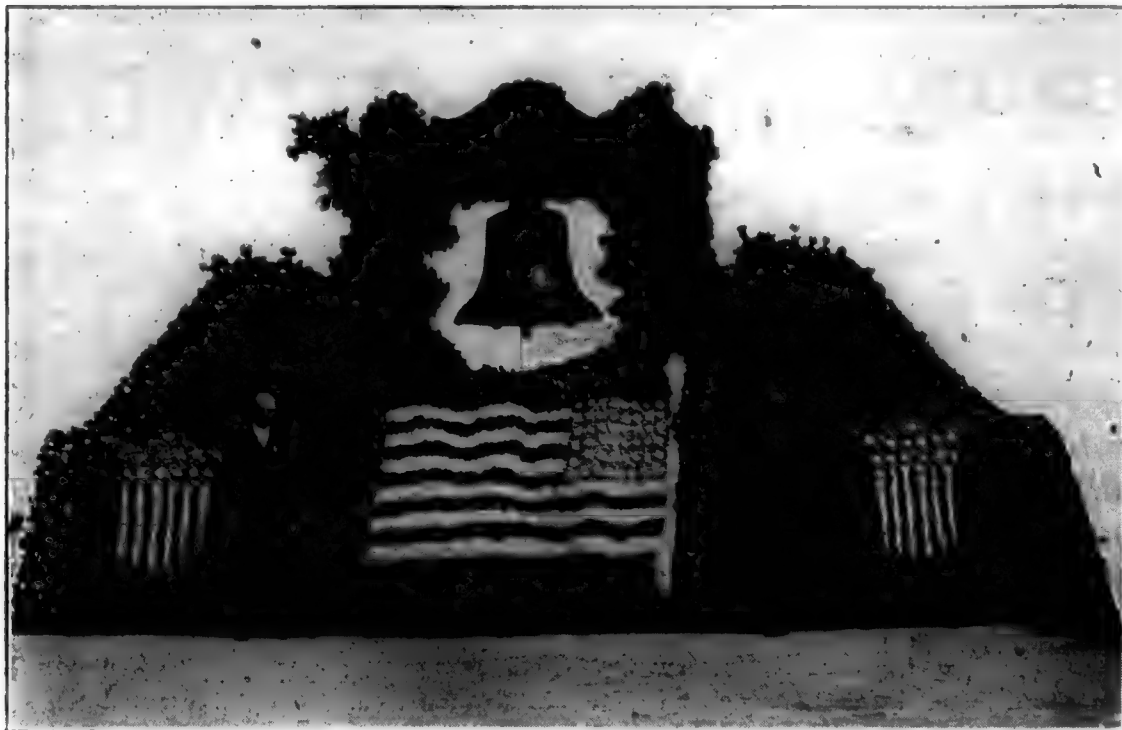

The plastic composition floors, while laid in the same way as the concrete sidewalk, contain no Portland cement. The elements named above are mixed to a plastic consistency and the floor is then laid about one-half inch thick and troweled. The laid material can be treated like wood; sawed, nailed or drilled. In fact, some floors which are in their nature and composition like plastic floors, are laid as a tile floor. Such a floor was described in the article in The Review mentioned above.

The shrewd florist will consider the installation of a floor sooner or later in the light of dollars and cents. A little comparative arithmetic will soon show that composition floors are the cheapest in the end. Twenty to 40 cents per square foot is given as the cost by the makers. Simply laid floors, such as are wanted in flower stores, come close to the lower figure. Two or three applications of linoleum, depending upon the quality used, will pay for a plastic floor, which should still be in good shape at the end of a period that would ordinarily have seen eight to ten changes of linoleum.

Tile and mosaic are commonly estimated to cost from 40 to 60 cents per square foot—and up. The brittleness of these materials fits them less for Floor of Plastic Composition in Store of M. Weiland, Evanston, Ill.

The Liberty Bell at San Francisco, Decoration by Pelicano, Rossi & Co.

wear than for ornament. While the latter is, of course, a desirable element in a flower store's make-up, comfort and durability are equally essential.

A word should be said about laying the floors. Linoleum may be laid by the florist and his helpers. Tile, mosaic and terrazzo are laid by local contractors, who obtain the material from jobbers or the manufacturers. The composition floors, however, are laid by the makers, who hire their own skilled workmen, in order to insure proper installation of the floors. The plastic material can be laid directly on the top of an old wood floor.

Weiland's Floor.

On the preceding page is shown a view of the store of M. Weiland, at Evanston, Ill. In remodeling his store about six months ago, George C. Weiland, the proprietor, invested in a floor of plastic composition called Korkstone, made by a Chicago firm, the Williams-Wendt Co. The color combination is green and gray. The various good qualities of this type of floor enumerated in the course of this article have won Mr. Weiland's favor, so that he is an enthusiastic recommender of this style of floor construction.

The Makers.

For the benefit of those florists who are confronting the floor problem this summer and may wish to investigate plastic floors, we publish the following list of various makes of floors, the manufacturers and the names of florists' stores in which they have been laid. All are plastic floors but the last two; they are of similar composition but laid as tiling.

LIBERTY BELL DECORATION.

One of the largest and most conspicuous cut flower decorations ever carried out in San Francisco was made on the occasion of the arrival of the famous Liberty Bell from Philadelphia, July 17. The bell was loaded on a large White motor truck, and surrounded, like a jewel in its setting, with flowers, for the parade to the exposition grounds, where it was received with appropriate ceremonies. As will be noted from the accompanying picture, the decoration was designed completely to hide the driver, who had only a small peep-hole to look through, and the float appeared to be moving along the street by itself. The truck and supports of the bell were completely shrouded in roses, 10,000 American Beauties being used, making a float thirty feet long and fourteen feet wide. On each side was a flag 5x8 feet, which, as well as the five shields around the float, was made of red and white carnations, with cornflowers for the blue field. For this work 6,000 carnations were used. The decoration was done by Pelicano, Rossi & Co., who had fifteen men working about forty-eight hours on it. Of course they cleaned the market of carnations and Beauties, taking the cut of the latter for one or two days ahead. Angelo J. Rossi, of this firm, chairman of the Liberty Bell parade committee, is seen standing by the float at the left of the picture.

BETTS BUILDING BUSINESS.

At the end of last March, C. R. Betts, of Warren, Pa., took over the store at 180 Chestnut street, Meadville, Pa., with its $800 McCray refrigerator, installed by A. N. Broadhead, of the Lake View Rose Gardens, Jamestown, Pa. The accompanying illustration shows the interior of the store and gives an excellent view of the refrigerator. Mr. Betts has the energy of the rising generation, and is on his way to the top, but it may be explained that he does not habitually scatter his plants over the floor in the manner shown in the picture; he did not like the bare boards as they showed up when this point of view was chosen, that is all.

OUTDOOR DARWIN TULIPS.

I am considering the planting of a large number of Darwin tulips this fall, to be grown for cut flowers, which I would ship to Chicago in the spring. I have seen it stated several times in The Review that tulips of this variety can be left out in the field for several years before it is necessary to take them up. Do you consider this to be safe, and how deep should they be planted if set out with that intention? How should the land be cultivated after the blooms are gathered and the tops die off? An immense crop of weeds will then spring up, and I know of nothing that can be grown on the land while the bulbs are there. Should they be mulched every winter and how many years can they safely be allowed to stand? My land is a good, black loam, but lacks sand for drainage.

G. K.—Ill.

The bulbs of Darwin tulips should be covered to an average depth of four inches. They improve year after year if left undisturbed and if the flower stalks are not cut too low. Of course, if you cut your stems down close to the ground you cannot expect good results from these or, for that matter, from any other bulbs the following season. If, however, a reasonable amount of foliage is left on the plants, they will bloom better and will increase considerably the second and third seasons. I like to replant every third or fourth year, taking them up as the foliage matures, storing them away in flats and replanting in October.

If your land is valuable and it is really necessary to get all possible returns from it, you can grow some late annuals or biennials over the tulips when the tops have disappeared. I should prefer, however, merely to keep the ground clean and give the land a mulch of well decayed manure in November. Do not remove this in the spring. If it is broken up and left on the surface it will help to keep the ground moist. Your land would certainly be improved for tulip culture if you could work in a good coating of fine gravel or sand.

SUNDAY CLOSING.

In the florists' trade there is too much attention paid to what "the other fellow" does; too many florists govern themselves by their competitor's actions, rather than by the special features of their own business. Take the matter of Sunday closing, for instance: One man feels that his business will not suffer by keeping the shades down on the Sabbath; what difference, then, if the man around the corner feels differently? Why not each go his way?

Sunday closing is new in this trade, except for certain eastern cities where blue laws have compelled attention to it. Retail florists as a rule have lost nothing by Sunday closing. There are, of course, some who do more business on the Sabbath than on any other day, but these are the exceptions and the average flower store easily can educate

MRS. VINCENT GORLY.

INSTEAD of joining "Sister Sue in Sewing Shirts for Soldiers" in Europe this summer, globe-trotting members of the trade are turning their attention to the wonders "made in America" and are touring the Pacific coast, where the interest will center at San Francisco the third week in August. Vincent Gorly, of Grimm & Gorly, St. Louis, has been on the coast for several weeks, with Mrs. Gorly. They are active in several organizations that meet at the fair this summer and will be on hand when the S. A. F. gets there. Mrs. Gorly, who is widely popular in St. Louis social circles, will assist the local ladies with the entertainment of the visitors.

its trade to buy on Saturday for Sunday. Where retailers have initiated the Sunday closing movement it generally has been successful even if there were a few who could not see their way to join.

But where wholesalers proposed Sunday closing, some opposition has developed. At Chicago certain houses make many shipments on the Sabbath, even in midsummer, and feel the necessities of their customers forbid Sunday closing. This has prevented other wholesalers remaining closed even though they are not called upon to make the Sunday shipments. At St. Louis the wholesalers agreed among themselves to remain closed on Sunday and were surprised at the warmth of the opposition of the retailers who did not see their way clear to follow suit.

At Pittsburgh an interesting case of independence has developed. One wholesaler says that "after taking up the subject," of Sunday closing, "with the other wholesale houses, they could not see their way clear to cooperate."

So this wholesaler decided to go it alone. He asked the buyers to cooperate by purchasing enough on Saturday to carry them over Sunday, and he sent the growers the following letter:

For some time we have felt that if possible it would be much better to close on Sundays and are going to ask the cooperation of our growers and customers to do so. The florist comes to work early and is still working when other people have gone home, and when we ask our employees to work on Sunday it is not fair to them. Their long hours through the week entitle them to rest on Sunday, not to mention the more important item of attending to their religious duties. We feel that the florists' trade has not fallen, in respect, below that of the butcher, but he closes on Sunday.

It is also true that the sales on Sunday are so small it is hardly worth while. During the hot weather the stock that comes in on Sunday is not in a good, salable condition by Monday and as a rule it is either lost or sold for practically nothing. By customers knowing we will not be open on Sunday they will buy heavier on Saturday, so as to be sure to have enough flowers to run them over Sunday.

If you have any objections to this plan we would like to hear from you, otherwise we will take it for granted that you agree with us and we will put same in effect.

No objections were received, so the plan is being tried out. The result will be watched with interest.

CARNATIONS

REPLANTING CARNATIONS.

Soil Should Be Moist.

After carnation beds are filled with new soil, the first thing before planting should be to see that the soil is in a proper state of moisture. It is not likely to be too wet, because you would not have brought it in in that condition, but it is quite possible that it may be too dry. Soil that is in ideal condition to handle is just a trifle too dry for planting carnations that have been lifted from the field. There is a difference between these plants and plants from pots, just as there is a difference between potting cuttings from the cutting bench and shifting established plants into larger sized pots. The soil should be moist enough to hold together when pressed in the hand and yet crumble readily when broken up.

In sections where the rains have been excessive, there will be considerable trouble with wilting after the plants are benched. Carnation plants grown under moderate rainfall will transplant much more easily, because the growth will be more matured, and less wilting will result. Greater care will have to be exercised in spraying and damping down, and it will have to be kept up longer, when the plants have grown rapidly and are soft.

Keep Plants Fresh.

If the day promises to be hot, start digging plants early in the morning and dig what you will need for the day's planting before the heat sets in. You can keep them fresh better in a cool shed, by covering them over with damp burlap, than if you dig them in the hot, midday sun. Under no condition should they be allowed to stand uncovered or in the sun. To allow a carnation plant to wilt before it is planted is to cut its chances for re-establishing itself in half, and in every case it will result in a serious loss of foliage. Success in housing carnations depends altogether on ability to keep them in a fresh condition until the roots have taken hold of the new soil.

Two planters should work on a wide bench, in order to finish the bed straight across as far as you go, so that the watering can be done properly. Some growers mark off the bed in squares for the convenience of the planters. We use a line stretched down the center of the bed, to plant the center row by. A little practice will enable the planters to set the other three rows on each side at the proper distances. To space the rows we use a 16-foot pole with notches cut at proper distances.

Plants that are of medium size, of such varieties as the Enchantress family, White Wonder, Mrs. Ward, Matchless, Beacon, etc., will do well if the rows are spaced ten to twelve inches apart and seven plants set in a row across a 5-foot bench. Victory, Gloriosa and other slender-growing sorts need not more than eight or nine inches between the rows. We have spoken before of the little extra care demanded by Gloriosa to get a good plant. Ours have made fine plants again this season, and not a single one needed doubling. We set the rows of this variety nine inches apart.

Not Too Deep.

Be careful that you do not set the plants too deep, as that is likely to bring on stem-rot. If your plants were topped properly you will have little trouble with their not standing up when set as deep as they were in the field, but some varieties do not make as rigid stems as others. These should be supported as early as practical. Press the soil firmly around the roots and leave a slight depression around the plant to make sure that the water will not run off.

After planting a few hundred plants, be sure to give them a good watering. Keep them sprayed frequently for several days. Regulate the frequency of these overhead sprayings according to the weather. In moderate weather you will be able to begin tapering off after the fourth day, but right then is when you must keep the plants under close observation. They will wilt slightly during the middle of the day for a week or more, but if they freshen up by evening, you will know that the roots are supplying some moisture and they should be encouraged to action by allowing the soil to run just moderately moist. While spraying frequently, you should be careful to use a fine spray, else the soil will become soggy and stem-rot will set in.

After the first watering, we flush the walks and keep them flushed until the plants are established. It helps to keep the atmosphere moist, and that is what does the most good.

Do not make the mistake of putting on a heavy shade. Just enough to break the heat of the sun will be sufficient, if you will supply the moisture, and the plants will start off more quickly and strongly. By September there should be no shade at all on the glass. A. F. J. Baur.

SEED DOES NOT GERMINATE.

I am enclosing asparagus seed, of which we cannot get more than five per cent to germinate. What is the cause? Other seed from the same locality germinates at the rate of ninety per cent. L. E. B.—Fla.

The asparagus seeds in question show few live germs, and it is not probable that more than five per cent would germinate. Either the seeds are old, or else the majority of them are imperfect, the latter being the most likely cause of the trouble. W. H. T.

TOO LATE FOR PLANTING.

Is it too late now to plant Lilium magnificum outdoors and get blooms this fall, in September, from large-sized bulbs, nine to eleven or eleven to thirteen inches? At what stage of development should the spikes be cut for shipment to Chicago? G. K.—Ill.

It is too late to plant Lilium speciosum magnificum for flowering in September. This lily needs a longer season for development than L. longiflorum. C. W.

CATERPILLARS ON FERNS.

We are writing you for some information regarding the worst pest a greenhouse man ever ran up against—a worm that will not eat anything but ferns. It made its appearance in our greenhouses last October, when we had about as choice a lot of ferns as anyone ever saw. Before we were well aware of it, they were ruined. The tips were eaten from every frond and, upon examination, in many cases we found the crown eaten out. It just took them about four days to make our 8,000 or 10,000 ferns look presentable for the dump. We hand-picked them and used To-bak-ine, Paris green and arsenate of lead, but all of these, if in strong enough doses to kill the pest, did the plants more damage than good, especially the adiantums and crested ferns, such as Amerpohlii, etc.

Since last October the pests have made their appearance four different times and at present they are at their worst. No doubt, they at some stage are moths, and since there are so many of the worms, one would think the moths would swarm the place, but such is not the case; we have seen few moths of any kind in or about the greenhouses. There are three colors of the worms, green, black and brown. As before stated, they do not bother any other plants so far as we have seen, and we have made careful examination.

We are afraid to use hydrocyanic acid gas, as it is so warm here that we fear it would ruin too much other stock as well as the ferns. We have not the least idea where they came from, but they are in every place where we have ferns, including some big hanging baskets, and how they got there is beyond us. If you can give us any information on how to exterminate this pest, we shall more than appreciate it, for they surely have us bested.

T. N. C.

This seems to be a serious attack of caterpillars and is evidently not easily disposed of. The remedies already tried are all good when used on plants with tough foliage, but are quite likely to injure the ferns. Powdered hellebore is almost a specific for the currant worm, and I would try it on the ferns, giving them a thorough dusting with it, but the hellebore must be fresh, as it loses its virtue when kept in stock too long.

FREESIA BULBS ARE READY.

The freesia bulbs have come to hand early this season and are of splendid quality. While the old refracta alba is still grown to a considerable extent, Purity has largely displaced it. Some superior strains of this fine variety now are offered. Some seem to be a decided improvement on Purity. I have found that bulbs produced in benches, or even in flats under glass, prove more satisfactory than field-grown ones. This is hardly to be wondered at, as they make a more even growth, not being exposed to the variable climatic conditions of the outside ones. Furthermore, I find that these bulbs will flower some days earlier, if given precisely the same treatment as outdoor-grown bulbs.

An early batch of freesia flowers is always appreciated, and, as these bring fancy prices for the Christmas holidays, it pays to go to a little extra trouble to secure them. While fine freesias can be had in benches, I doubt if it pays as well to grow them in this way as in flats or pans, for it means that they must occupy a bench for half the year, or longer if bulbs are to be kept over. Pans in sizes from 8-inch to 12-inch are really better than flats for freesias. Plant twenty, thirty-five and fifty bulbs per pan. Keep in a coldframe for a time, cover with board shutters until they start and water only moderately. As they come above ground, give full light. Keep in frames until September; then give them a sunny bench or shelf in a temperature of 52 to 55 degrees at night and a large proportion will flower for Christmas, but get the bulbs in right away or they will be too late.

AT THE FRISCO FAIR.

Plants at the New Zealand Pavilion.

Visitors at the Panama-Pacific international exposition will find it interesting to visit the New Zealand pavilion, where they will see a collection of shrubs, plants, etc., that are natives of New Zealand. This collection was obtained through the efforts of E. Clifton, commissioner for New Zealand. Some, of course, are small yet, and do not show their true character. Nearly all are plants suitable for the Pacific coast. There are already a number of them to be found on the coast. There are some New Zealand shrubs in Golden Gate park, but they do not seem to have been commercialized yet.

In the collection, the plant that has attracted most attention is Leptospermum Nicholii. With its crimson flowers, it makes an exceedingly showy plant, and I think that in the near future it will be grown by florists, as it is easy of culture and free-flowering. It will stand anything except a heavy frost. Leptospermum bullatum, which has white flowers, also makes a good flowering plant. Both of these plants are shown in the accompanying illustration.

The Evergreens.

Among the tall evergreen trees is Agathis australis, the Kauri pine, which grows to an immense size in New Zealand. Alectryon excelsum, the New Zealand ash, makes a handsome tree and is quite ornamental, with its jet black seeds, half hidden in their bright scarlet, fleshy cups. Dacrydium cupressinum, when young, makes an admirable pot plant for decorative purposes. Knightia excelsa is a showy tree, with its dull crimson flowers. There are metrosideros in variety, and several varieties of nothofagus, known as southern beech. Phyllocladus trichomanoides, with its fern-like foliage, makes a pretty tree. There are several varieties of podocarpus, which vary so much in habit and color that one would scarcely recognize them as belonging to the same family. Vitex lucens has dark green foliage and produces abundant pink blossoms. Weinmannia racemosa is pretty in or out of bloom.

Among the smaller evergreens are species of brachyglottis, coprosma, cordyline, corynocarpus, dodonaea, dracophyllum, Entelea arborescens, with its large, handsome leaves; griselinia and melicope. Meryta Sinclairii, with its immense shining, oblong leaves, is a handsome shrub. The species is one of the rarest in the world, since it is found only on one or two small outlying islands of New Zealand.

Myoporum laetum is well known. Nothopanax arboreum is a handsome shrub, having dark green foliage. There are several species of olearia, or tree aster, all of which are worthy of cultivation; Pomaderris apetala; two species of pseudopanax, which is remarkable in that the juvenile and adult forms are altogether distinct; Rapanea Urvillei, senecio, aristotelia, plagianthus, sophora, clianthus, myrtus and carmichaelia, which has leafless stems, but is covered with small flowers.

Herbaceous Plants and Ferns.

Among the herbaceous plants are Arthropodium cirratum, known as Mable Island lily, which has pleasing white flowers, and Myosotidium nobile, a splendid giant forget-me-not, which is not in flower as yet, but we hope to see it so before the summer is over. There are several varieties of phormium.

The ferns, I must say, are a fine collection in themselves, although the tree ferns suffered a little from the storm we had a short time ago. But they are beginning to recover. The collection includes dicksonias, cyatheas, etc. In the fernery in the rear of the pavilion are a fine lot of pot ferns, dryopteris, blechnums, aspleniums, adiantum, polystichums, polypodiums, nephrolepis, hymenophyllums and marattias, but the most striking is Todea superba, the New Zealand palm. The fern that will no doubt make a good commercial plant is Asplenium lucidum; it has bright, shining foliage and graceful habit, is a quick grower, and is in every respect a desirable plant.

MAY BE PYRETHRUM ROSEUM.

If you can, please tell me the name of a daisy of the following description: It blooms in May. It has fine-cut foliage and looks as if it might be one of the Shastas. The flowers are usually single, but once in a while there is a double one. I have the Shasta daisies, Alaska and Edward VII, but these do not bloom until about the middle of June for me.

V. R. F.—Ind.

I think you must refer to Pyrethrum roseum, which comes in a variety of colors, usually single, but sometimes semi-double or double. These are easily raised from seed. If sown now, good blooming plants can be had for next season.

Sweet Peas

OFFICIAL SWEET PEA TRIALS.

[The report of A. C. Beal on the trials at Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., conducted for the American Sweet Pea Society.]

During the year we were able to resume our trials with the winter-flowering sweet peas. Although we did not come into possession of the necessary greenhouse space in time to sow them for the early crop, we were able to plant during October and therefore had an excellent crop of flowers during mid-winter and spring. In fact, last year's crop was the best we have ever had.

A large collection of varieties was received from Mr. Zvolanek and a few varieties from other seedsmen. Some of the older varieties were grown for comparison and altogether there were sixty varieties in the collection.

Greenhouse Varieties.

Among the newer sorts, the following are promising:

Bridal Veil. A large to very large, much-waved white flower.

King of England. A large waved flower, of a bright glowing crimson color. In our experience this variety is the best red for greenhouse culture.

Rev. Father Kelly. A large to very large, much-waved lavender flower. Some of the standards show tints of mauve-rose, but change to the same color as the wings. The exact color is not given in the Repertoire des Couleurs, being less red than 188 (1) and less blue than 201 (1).

Belgian Hero. A large waved flower with the standard salmon-carmine and wings purple-rose. This would be called by the trade an orange-pink. When grown in late spring or summer this variety, unless shaded, shows the blackened veins common to flowers of this color; but in winter this variety was free from this defect. When well grown it is a fine variety.

Morning Star. A very large, much-waved flower with the standard bright mauve-rose and wings violet-rose. These are the approximate colors, as the real colors lie between the two and the flower is more nearly a self than is indicated.

Mrs. Calvert. A large waved deep pink flower. The standards are mauve-rose and the wings pale lilac-rose. A beautiful flower.

Polar Light. A large waved flower; standard lilac-rose, wings darker.

Waved Christmas Pink. Appears to be a decided improvement on the widely grown Christmas Pink.

The above are the best of the collection for commercial culture, but there are others of considerable promise which we have not space to describe, as Pacific, Montenegrin, President Wilson and Polar Bear.

The above varieties were free from rogues, and all the varieties indicate a very great advance in the winter-flowering section.

Of the varieties received from other growers, Selma Swenson is a large to very large waved, pale lilac-rose with light violet-rose wings.

In the Open Ground.

This season in the open ground we have seventy varieties of comparatively recent introduction, and about an equal number of the oldest varieties. The latter we are growing to secure seed so that we may keep them for a few years. It is probable that the plants at Cornell are the only existing plants of some of these old varieties, which are so interesting to those of us who wish to note the progress in the evolution of sweet peas. These, of course, were sown in the open ground.

The new varieties referred to were not received until the latter part of March, probably because of the war, and were sown in pots at once. Had we been able to forecast April conditions this year, we should have sown them in the open, because when we did transplant we had a dry period which tended to check the plants. They are now beginning to bloom, although the amount of growth is less than usual. It is too early to estimate the real worth of these varieties. What I shall say, therefore, is only tentative and subject to revision. At present we consider:

ROSES IN THE SOUTH.

Carrying the Plants Over.

Unless the plants are in a perfectly healthy condition, it is not advisable to carry them over for another year. If, however, they are in good condition, they can be carried over profitably. In general the plants do not require so long a rest or so hard a drying off as is the custom in the north. Reducing the water supply gradually for two weeks is all that is needed. If the plants have to be moved from one bed to another, they are all the better to be fairly moist, so they can be lifted with a good ball. Varieties like American Beauty and Richmond transplant readily without any soil adhering to the roots. The Killarney family, on the other hand, if they have to be transplanted, would better be lifted with good balls.

If the plants are not to be moved, two inches of the top soil can be scraped off. After giving the bed a good watering, a top-dressing of bone Stark's Giant Buff. This with us is the largest waved variety of its class.

Duchess of Portland (Dobbie, 1915). A very large cream-pink.

Alfred (Dobbie, 1915). A good sized clear pale lavender.

Blue Picotee (Dobbie). Appears to surpass all other blue Picotees.

Robert Sydenham. The first flowers of this have proved a disappointment to us, for it burns. We have had very unusual weather in that we have had frequent heavy rains alternated with bright sun. Possibly settled weather would result in better flowers, although the fault is not an uncommon one among the varieties of this color section.

Stark's Soft Salmon. A pretty thing, but we wish to see more of it.

King White. The leading exhibition white.

Wedgwood. Appears likely to supplant the other waved blues.

Brooklands' Queen, Sincerity, Dobbie's Orange, Spitfire and others may prove desirable.

We hope that conditions may be better this fall and that we can receive seeds earlier next year for outdoor growing.

In closing let me urge the members of this society to use their influence to get varieties for the trial grounds. This fall we shall have better facilities for testing winter-flowering sweet peas than we have ever had before. We shall have a new, modern house forty feet wide at our disposal, and the tests will be made under commercial conditions, as we plan to use the house and crop as an object lesson in growing winter-flowering sweet peas. If we can secure all the varieties now in the trade for trial with our present notes, we can later issue another publication bringing the subject up to date.

meal can be applied and the bed can be filled up with a compost consisting of one-half loam and one-half cow manure.

The watering, especially under southern conditions, must be carefully attended to until the plants are again well under way. It is just as easy to err on the side of underwatering as it is to err on the side of overwatering. A medium amount of moisture at the roots, with frequent overhead sprayings each day, will keep the plants in good shape. There is no need to be alarmed if they break a little yellow. Just as soon as the roots get a little more active the natural color will return.

Cutting the Plants Back.

All plants, of course, require to be cut back before starting them up anew. Hybrid teas, as a rule, can be pretty severely pruned. The Killarneys require a little special handling. They make so many breaks after pruning that more water is needed; this, however, must not be overdone. They also need more spraying. I find a good plan in handling these varieties is to make the pruning operation a gradual one, beginning when you start to rest them and cutting a little from each plant every day, so that they are practically cut back enough by the time you are ready to start them into growth again. The breaks do not start all at once under this treatment, which is easier on the plants and insures a steadier cut of blooms.

On solid beds the Killarneys will keep on throwing good flowers during the whole period of rest. The small grower, who has to depend on one house for both summer and winter cuts, will find this plan a great benefit.

Before starting to rest the plants, it is well to dig up any that are sick and replace them with young, healthy stock at starting up time. L.

BEAUTIES FROM OUTSIDE WOOD.

Will you kindly inform me when and how to propagate American Beauty roses outdoors during the growing season? B. W. S.—Kan.

I must confess that I do not know a satisfactory way to grow American Beauty roses from outside wood. Our system of growing here, in northwestern Mississippi, is to use outside stock plants for growing our scions and put them in hotbeds, but some varieties of hybrid teas and some hybrid perpetuals we have never successfully grown. I have for twenty years been trying to grow American Beauties from outside wood, but the results have never been satisfactory. In this climate American Beauty is not a satisfactory rose. It is subject to black-spot, mildew and apparently every disease known to the rose. While other varieties, more or less difficult to handle, do well when given proper attention, I do not believe there is a place in America where American Beauties can be handled satisfactorily from outside wood. Of course, I may be mistaken, but I have never seen a place where it was done to advantage. My advice would be to plant out Manetti stocks, eying them thoroughly before planting out, and bud low if you want best results. There are few sections of the country where the American Beauty does well on its own roots.

If you want stocks for forcing, it seems to me it would be better to purchase from those who make a specialty of growing them. One of the greatest causes of failure in the nursery and florists' business is trying to grow something that can not be done well. The sooner the growers decide to confine themselves to things that they can grow to advantage, and to let other growers in more favored sections grow the other things, the better it will be all around. AMERICAN ROSE SOCIETY.

The executive committee of the American Rose Society met at the office of President S. S. Pennock, in Philadelphia, July 20.

The appointment of Emil Buettner, Park Ridge, Ill., and John H. Dunlop, Richmond Hill, Ontario, as judges for the rose exhibits at the Cleveland flower show, to be held November 10 to 15, was confirmed. Robert Scott & Son, Sharon Hill, Pa., offer a special prize of $25 at this show.

Pierson and Alex. Cumming, Jr., report:

June 25 the new roses in the test garden at Elizabeth park, Hartford, Conn., were examined and awards made as follows:

Conard & Jones Co., West Grove, Pa., Climbing American Pillar, awarded silver medal; scored 85 points; highly recommended as pillar rose.

A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., Killarney Queen, hybrid tea, awarded silver medal; scored 85 points; recommended as a grand bedding rose.

Hoopes Bros. & Thomas, West Chester, Pa., Purity, hybrid Wichuriana, awarded silver medal; scored 87 points; a splendid grower that is recommended for every collection and garden.

Hoopes Bros. & Thomas, West Chester, Pa., Climbing American Beauty, awarded silver medal; scored 87 points; a grand, profuse bloomer, deserving to be recommended for every garden.

Hugh Dickson, Ltd., Belfast, Ireland, Lady Pirrie, hybrid tea, awarded silver medal; scored 85 points; recommended as a splendid bedding rose.

Edward Kress, Baltimore, Md., registered as Defiance, hybrid tea, scored 85 points; highly recommended as a most excellent bedding rose.

There have been added a number of new varieties of American origin this spring which will be watched with great interest, and more are promised for the planting in the coming fall. Much interest has been especially devoted to this test garden by the lovers of roses, and the garden has been unusually well visited this season.

The Waban Rose Conservatories presented for registration two new roses, as follows:

Mrs. Bayard Thayer, a sport from Mrs. Charles Russell; flower is large and full; color outside of petals deep rose, inside clear silver pink; foliage large and very dark green, perfectly flat; has no tendency to curl, as is sometimes the case with Mrs. Charles Russell.

Mrs. Moorfield Storey, a seedling, Gen. Mac-Arthur x Joe Hill; a large, full rose with heavy, dark foliage; color shell pink, deeper towards the center, tip of petals deep rose.

These were directed to be accepted and published in accordance with the rules of the American Rose Society.

It was voted to hold a meeting at Cleveland during the fall show.

SNAPDRAGONS.

Are snapdragons from cuttings as good for cut flowers as plants from seed, for inside blooming?

F. & S.—Ohio.

I presume differences of opinion exist on this point. My own experience has been that seedlings possess greater vigor than cuttings, are more disease-proof and bloom more freely and over a longer season. This is not saying that cuttings will not give splendid results, of course. Do not buy any but the best snapdragon seed. It is important that it come from a first-class source, or you may have a bad mixture of colors. I have found that by buying seed from a first-class house a small proportion only of the seedlings were not true to name. C. W.

Brooklands' Queen, Sincerity, Dobbie's Orange Spittire and others may prove desirable.

We hope that conditions may be better this fall and that we can receive seeds earlier next year for outdoor growing.

In closing let me urge the members of this society to use their influence to get varieties for the trial grounds. This fall we shall have better facilities for testing winter-flowering sweet peas than we have ever had before. We shall have a new, modern house forty feet wide at our disposal, and the tests will be made under commercial conditions, as we plan to use the house and crop as an object lesson in growing winter-flowering sweet peas. If we can secure all the varieties now in the trade for trial with our present notes, we can later issue another publication bringing the subject up to date.

meal can be applied and the bed can be filled up with a compost consisting of one-half loam and one-half cow manure.

The watering, especially under southern conditions, must be carefully attended to until the plants are again well under way. It is just as easy to err on the side of underwatering as it is to err on the side of overwatering. A medium amount of moisture at the roots, with frequent overhead sprayings each day, will keep the plants in good shape. There is no need to be alarmed if they break a little yellow. Just as soon as the roots get a little more active the natural color will return.

Cutting the Plants Back.

All plants, of course, require to be cut back before starting them up anew. Hybrid teas, as a rule, can be pretty severely pruned. The Killarneys require a little special handling. They make so many breaks after pruning that more water is needed; this, however, must not be overdone. They also need more spraying. I find a good plan in handling these varieties is to make the pruning operation a gradual one, beginning when you start to rest them and cutting a little from each plant every day, so that they are practically cut back enough by the time you are ready to start them into growth again. The breaks do not start all at once under this treatment, which is easier on the plants and insures a steadier cut of blooms.

On solid beds the Killarneys will keep on throwing good flowers during the whole period of rest. The small grower, who has to depend on one house for both summer and winter cuts, will find this plan a great benefit.

Before starting to rest the plants, it is well to dig up any that are sick and replace them with young, healthy stock at starting up time. L.

BEAUTIES FROM OUTSIDE WOOD.

Will you kindly inform me when and how to propagate American Beauty roses outdoors during the growing season?
B. W. S.—Kan.

I must confess that I do not know a satisfactory way to grow American Beauty roses from outside wood. Our system of growing here, in northwestern Mississippi, is to use outside stock plants for growing our scions and put them in hotbeds, but some varieties of hybrid teas and some hybrid perpetuals we have never successfully grown. I have for twenty years been trying to grow American Beauties from outside wood, but the results have never been satisfactory. In this climate American Beauty is not a satisfactory rose. It is subject to black-spot, mildew and apparently every disease known to the rose. While other varieties, more or less difficult to handle, do well when given proper attention, I do not believe there is a place in America where American Beauties can be handled satisfactorily from outside wood. Of course, I may be mistaken, but I have never seen a place where it was done to advantage. My advice would be to plant out Manetti stocks, eying them thoroughly before planting out, and bud low if you want best results. There are few sections of the country where the American Beauty does well on its own roots.

If you want stocks for forcing, it seems to me it would be better to purchase from those who make a specialty of growing them. One of the greatest causes of failure in the nursery and florists' business is trying to grow something that can not be done well. The sooner the growers decide to confine themselves to things that they can grow to advantage, and to let other growers in more favored sections grow the other things, the better it will be all around.

AMERICAN ROSE SOCIETY.

The executive committee of the American Rose Society met at the office of President S. S. Pennock, in Philadelphia, July 20.

The appointment of Emil Buettner, Park Ridge, Ill., and John H. Dunlop, Richmond Hill, Ontario, as judges for the rose exhibits at the Cleveland flower show, to be held November 10 to 15, was confirmed. Robert Scott & Son, Sharon Hill, Pa., offer a special prize of $25 at this show.

The Gentleman in the Center is C. C. Trepel, New York's Largest Buyer.

Pierson and Alex. Cumming, Jr., report:

June 25 the new roses in the test garden at Elizabeth park, Hartford, Conn., were examined and awards made as follows:

Conard & Jones Co., West Grove, Pa., Climbing American Pillar, awarded silver medal; scored 85 points; highly recommended as pillar rose.

A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., Killarney Queen, hybrid tea, awarded silver medal; scored 85 points; recommended as a grand bedding rose.

Hoopes Bros. & Thomas, West Chester, Pa., Purity, hybrid Wichuriana, awarded silver medal; scored 87 points; a splendid grower that is recommended for every collection and garden.

Hoopes Bros. & Thomas, West Chester, Pa., Climbing American Beauty, awarded silver medal; scored 87 points; a grand, profuse bloomer, deserving to be recommended for every garden.

Hugh Dickson, Ltd., Belfast, Ireland, Lady Pirrie, hybrid tea, awarded silver medal; scored 85 points; recommended as a splendid bedding rose.

Edward Kress, Baltimore, Md., registered as Defiance, hybrid tea, scored 85 points; highly recommended as a most excellent bedding rose.

There have been added a number of new varieties of American origin this spring which will be watched with great interest, and more are promised for the planting in the coming fall. Much interest has been especially devoted to this test garden by the lovers of roses, and the garden has been unusually well visited this season.

The Waban Rose Conservatories presented for registration two new roses, as follows:

Mrs. Bayard Thayer, a sport from Mrs. Charles Russell; flower is large and full; color outside of petals deep rose, inside clear silver pink; foliage large and very dark green, perfectly flat, has no tendency to curl, as is sometimes the case with Mrs. Charles Russell.

Mrs. Moorfield Storey, a seedling, Gen. MacArthur & Joe Hill; a large, full rose with heavy, dark foliage; color shell pink, deeper towards the center, tip of petals deep rose.

These were directed to be accepted and published in accordance with the rules of the American Rose Society.

It was voted to hold a meeting at Cleveland during the fall show.

SNAPDRAGONS.

Are snapdragons from cuttings as good for cut flowers as plants from seed, for inside blooming?

F. & S.—Ohio.

I presume differences of opinion exist on this point. My own experience has been that seedlings possess greater vigor than cuttings, are more disease-proof and bloom more freely and over a longer season. This is not saying that cuttings will not give splendid results, of course. Do not buy any but the best snapdragon seed. It is important that it come from a first class source, or you may have a bad mixture of colors. I have found that by buying seed from a first class house a small proportion only of the seedlings were not true to name.

St. Paul, Minn.—Paul Hraimecker has sold his interest in the Capital City Floral Co. to his partner, Theo. J. Gunnarson, who will operate both the greenhouses at 1156 Pacific street and the store at 291 East Seventh street.

VIOLETS IN FRAMES.

Can I grow violets in a hotbed all winter? I want flowers from October 1 to the end of winter, and also some pot plants. J. T. B.—Mass.

Violets can be grown successfully in coldframes, but you cannot pick flowers from them all winter. They will give a fair crop in the fall, few flowers in winter, and a heavy spring crop. Princess of Wales is the most satisfactory variety. In a greenhouse they need a low night temperature, as near 40 degrees as possible in midwinter.

C. W.

THE HARDY RUSSIAN VIOLET.

In the winter of 1910 we wrote asking you for information as to the best violet to grow in this region of the country. The reply, appearing in The Review, was written by H. N., then located at College Station, Tex. He recommended the hardy Russian, describing it as being small, single and dark blue, and said the plants could be obtained from most of the florists or nurserymen in this neighborhood. He also stated that, on account of its hardiness, it was grown quite commonly in yards here. Some reliable nurserymen here described the plant in the same way. We ordered some of the plants and have been growing and shipping them under the name of hardy Russian violets. Advertisements in your paper during most of the winter months from people in our state offer violet plants which, I am sure, are the same as ours. Now we notice that C. W. states that the hardy Russian violet is double. Which is right, or are both right? Are there two varieties, both of which are commercially known as hardy Russian? There is a big trade here in the small, single violet, or hardy Russian.

A. C. J. & F. C.—Tex.

There are both single and double Russian violets. The double flower has the stronger odor. Both are dark blue. The double gives a heavy spring crop of flowers, but in the colder states, even when grown under glass, will not flower until quite late. The varieties Czar, deep blue, and White Czar, are also, I believe, of Russian origin. These are seldom seen now, but twenty-five or thirty years ago they were commonly grown under glass. California displaced them, just as Princess of Wales has displaced California.

GRANT HIGHER EXPRESS RATES.

The contemplated increase in express rates reported in The Review June 3 goes into effect September 1, by virtue of an order entered by the Interstate Commerce Commission July 22. The collection and delivery service allowance of 20 cents per shipment will be increased to 25 cents per shipment, and the rail terminal allowance of 25 cents per hundred pounds will be reduced to 20 cents.

The companies stated that the original order of the commission had resulted in a decrease from $68,969.04 in 1914 to a deficit of $2,380,894.29 in 1915, a total decrease of $2,449,863.33, despite a reduction in operating expenses from $70,011,535.53 in 1914 to $65,835,930.42 in 1915. They said the revenues were not sufficient to enable them to continue to furnish a satisfactory and adequate service and that they were operating at a loss. The new rates will, it is estimated, add $5,062,634.18 or 3.86 per cent to the gross revenues of the petitioning companies, the Adams, American, Southern and Wells-Fargo express companies.

The effect of the first change will be to increase the charge on all packages 5 cents. The effect of the second change will be to take one-twentieth of 1 cent per pound from that 5 cents, so that the addition is gradually cut down until it reaches eighty-five pounds, when there is no increase at all. On fifty-pound packages the increase would be 2½ cents.

By these changes there will be added to the average package weighing less than 100 pounds, shipped on first-class rates, 3.932 cents and 1.79 cents on the average shipment on second-class rates, which include nearly all shipments, except cut flowers, of florists, nurserymen and seedsmen. The figures are based on the total number of packages carried during the year ending January 31, 1915, divided by the actual transactions on two selected days for each of the companies.

Waco, Tex.—Following the Fort Worth meeting of the Texas State Florists' Association, T. J. Wolfe and Mrs. Wolfe sailed from Galveston July 10 on the Concho for New York. They will spend six weeks or so in the north.

HAIL STORMS

Royersford, Pa.—The recent hail storm shattered 400 panes of glass at the greenhouses of E. Peterman.

Martinsville, Ind.—A hail storm, accompanied by wind of great velocity, visited this town July 20 and played havoc at the greenhouses of Nixon H. Gano. While only a few lights were broken, the outside stock was badly mangled.

Council Bluffs, Ia.—The damage done at the Manawa greenhouses of J. F. Wilcox & Sons, by the hail storm of Sunday, July 18, is estimated at $30,000, half broken glass and half ruined plants. It is reported that 135,000 feet of glass was broken. The hail was exceptionally heavy, although there was little wind.

STORM AT FREMONT, NEB.

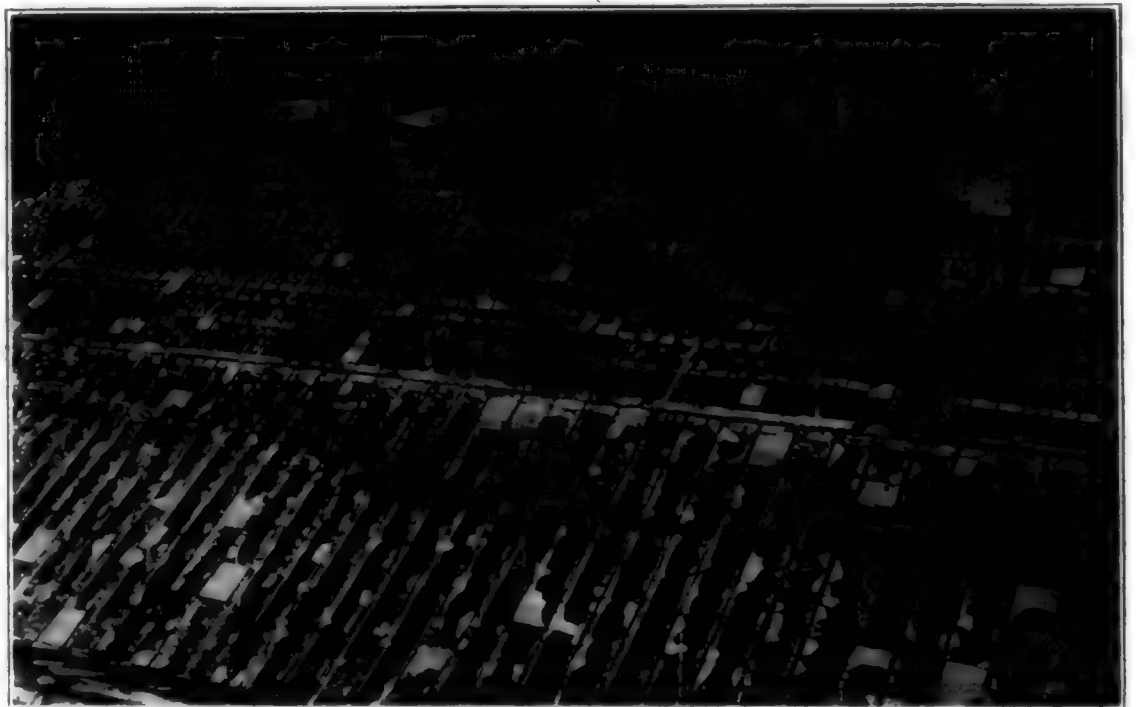

The greenhouses of C. H. Green, at Fremont, Neb., were in the path of the hail storm which wrought so much havoc in his section July 18. How complete was the destruction of the glass in his range is easy to see from the accompanying photographic view.

HAIL AT COLORADO CITY.

The same storm that proved so destructive at Colorado Springs was even more severe at Colorado City, Colo. At the Grand View Greenhouses, 1145 Colorado avenue, of which E. R. Ripley is the proprietor, the lights left would not take many fists of fingers on which to count them. The accompanying illustration shows how barren the bars were of glass after July 18.

HAIL AT COLORADO SPRINGS.

A severe hail storm July 18 broke approximately fifty per cent of the glass in the greenhouses of the Pikes Peak Floral Co., at Colorado Springs, Colo. The storm came up suddenly about 4 p. m., from a northwesterly direction. It was preceded by a slight shower of rain, which quickly changed to hail and was accompanied by a strong wind. The hail stones varied in size from that of a marble to that of a hen's egg, and fell with great velocity.

The north and west slopes, as the illustration shows, were pretty well riddled, but the south and east exposures suffered to a slight extent only. The storm lasted for nearly half an hour.

While the stock of carnations in flower was badly damaged by hail and falling glass, the company is still cutting about enough to take care of present demands. The young stock both in the field and houses was also badly damaged, but owing to favorable weather since the storm the firm expects to pull through with only a nominal loss.

At Colorado City, the Grand View Greenhouses, E. R. Ripley, proprietor, had about 500 feet of glass left, out of his entire 13,000 square feet of space. His nursery stock was badly damaged, and flowers and plants inside were cut up considerably by falling glass and hail.

The Colorado City Floral Co., Endicott & Wolff, proprietors, out of about 10,000 square feet of glass lost all but approximately ten square feet, besides losing the glass in over 100 coldframes. The stock of geraniums and other potted plants was badly damaged. They had some 1,500 Golden Glow mums just showing color, as well as 5,000 asters coming into bloom; these were a total loss.

The H. T. Williams vegetable range, in West Colorado Springs, consisting of about 12,000 square feet of glass, suffered at least an eighty per cent loss, while the several acres of cabbages and other truck was almost totally destroyed.

Powell Bros., Colorado Springs, lost probably fifty per cent of their glass. This was a small vegetable range of some 2,000 feet.

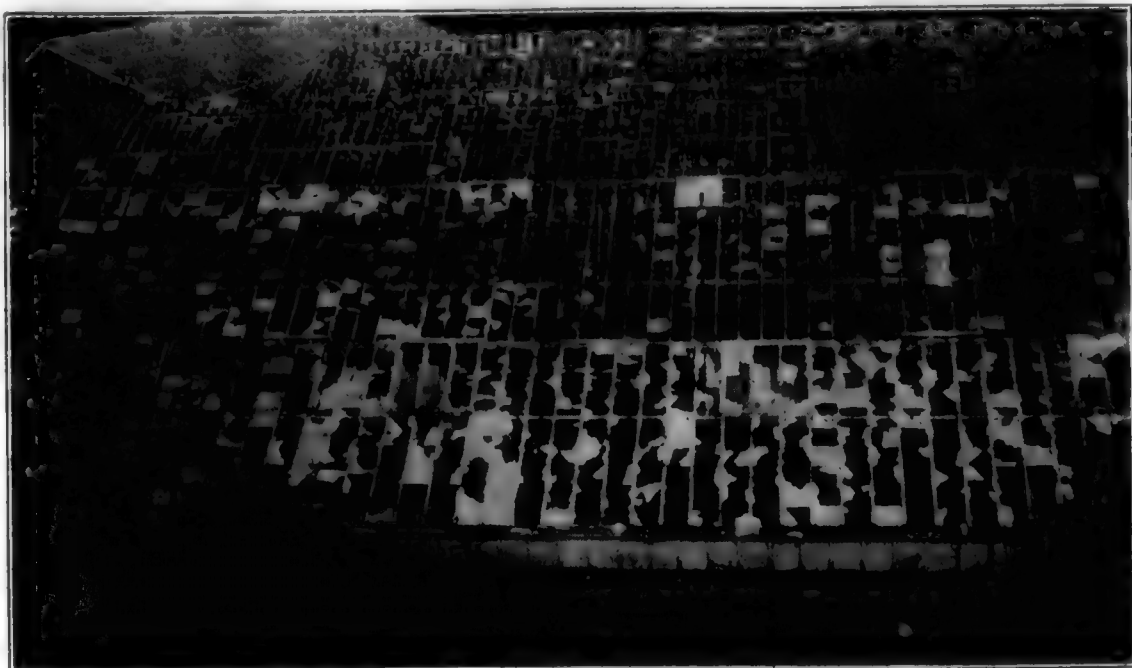

F. F. Crump, Colorado Springs, suffered probably forty per cent loss on glass at the Columbia street range and severe damage to growing stock. His Nob Hill range was more directly in the path of the storm, and had at least a ninety-five per cent loss on glass and almost total on stock.

The hail was so severe as to go through automobile tops, tents, awnings, etc. Many birds and chickens were killed, and some people are reported to have been knocked unconscious.

BUSINESS EMBARRASMENTS.

Chatham, N. J.—At a meeting of the creditors of Samuel Lum, bankrupt, held in Newark, N. J., July 26, Harry O. May, of Summit, was appointed permanent trustee over Wm. G. Badgley, of Chatham, although Mr. Badgley held a large majority of claims, both in number and in amount of indebtedness.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa.—The trustee in the bankruptcy case of Ira G. Marvin has filed his return of sale of real estate at Thornhurst to C. E. Stegmaier, of Wilkes-Barre, for $1,150, and two lots at Scranton to John W. Beagle for $1,550, which will be confirmed unless exception is made before August 6. Hearings will be held at 11 a. m. August 6 at the office of the referee, E. Foster Heller, 1008 Coal Exchange building, on the trustee's petitions to sell to H. M. Beck, of Wilkes-Barre, C. H. Green's Greenhouses, Fremont, Neb., After Storm of July 18.

the range and boiler plant at 55 North Main street for $350, and to disclaim the greenhouse and boiler house at 45 Montgomery street, West Pittston, Pa.

Boston, Mass.—Creditors representing seventy-two claims of a total value of $32,000 elected Alexander I. Stoneman trustee in the case of Sidney Hoffman at the first meeting of the creditors, July 16, before Referee Gibbs. His bond was fixed at $4,900. Mr. Stoneman also served as receiver.

Utica, N. Y.—Henry G. H. Martin, 13 Kernan avenue, filed a petition in voluntary bankruptcy in the United States court July 17 through his attorney, Clarence Stetson. Mr. Martin's liabilities aggregate $2,614, with assets of $1,098, including fixtures and equipment valued at $646 and debts due $332. The petition has been referred to Referee De La Fleur. Mrs. Ada Lortz, of Ilion, holds a note for $556; Mary L. Keigh, of Ilion, holds one note for $500 and five others aggregating $285. Other creditors include the following in Utica: Walter Butler, $50; P. J. Robischon, $300; E. P. Bailey & Co., $26; Brant Bros., $219; the Utica Press, $46; Post Agency, $18; S. A. Pinkstone, $165; Charles Faass & Co., $72.

Ludington, Mich.—Elmer L. Brill-

hart, who operates the Lake View Greenhouses, has been adjudged bankrupt, upon his filing of a voluntary petition. Nominally his assets are greater than his liabilities, his debts being scheduled at $8,512.97 and the assets about $13,000. Much of his property has been mortgaged and this led to his entering the bankruptcy court. The case was referred to Referee Wicks.

Andover, Mass.—J. H. Playdon closed his store July 14, but will reopen about September 1.

St. Peter, Minn.—During the severe electrical storm of July 17, lightning struck and set on fire the office and workroom at the range of Emil Samuelson, and before the flames could be subdued, the building and a number of plants were destroyed. Thanks to an abundance of water on the place, and the assistance of about forty men, the fire was confined to the one structure, and the greenhouses and contents were saved. The burned building carried insurance of $2,500. Last fall Mr. Samuelson had enlarged the office and workroom, a new boiler had been installed and many improvements made. The boiler in the basement was not seriously damaged, but the pipes and connections were badly twisted. Mr. Samuelson expects to rebuild at once.

SEVEN FLORISTS' CLUBS HOLD THEIR ANNUAL OUTINGS

HOOSIERS AT WINONA.

The annual outing of the State Florists' Association of Indiana was held at Winona lake July 21 and 22. The unsettled weather early in the week and a heavy rain July 20 caused many who had planned to attend, to change their minds, so that the attendance was not what it should have been. Those who went were rewarded by fine weather during the entire stay, and it was cool enough to enable one to enjoy all the pleasures offered at Indiana's most famous pleasure resort. The committee had arranged for boating, tennis, croquet, etc., besides the ball game and other athletic events, all of which were taken advantage of.

The first afternoon was taken up by the business session, which was most interesting. Animated discussions were provoked by the subjects, "Charging for Making Up Funeral Sprays," and, "The New Workmen's Compensation Law." While there is a well established custom of charging a certain sum per dozen blooms for tying up funeral sprays in the larger cities, many florists in the smaller towns hesitate to make this charge, which is certainly a just one. As one member put it, one does not go to the lumber mill to get figures on the lumber for a house and then expect the mill man to supply the finished house for the price of the lumber. The workmen's compensation law, which goes into effect September 1, was held to be a good thing for both employer and employee. The fact that a majority of the larger employers already carry this liability insurance should be ample proof of this. Two new members were elected.

Following the business session there was an hour's boat ride on the City of Warsaw, which was greatly enjoyed. This in turn was followed by the annual midsummer supper, served at the Winona hotel. In the evening most of the members attended a lecture on electricity by Montraville Wood, at the auditorium.

Thursday morning's program started with the annual ball game. A. F. J. Baur captained one of the teams. President Vesey, who was booked to captain the other team, failed to appear; so Secretary Steinkamp assumed that role. The score was 18 to 13 in favor of Baur's team.

The men's race was won by Chas. Wilcox, of Chicago; sack race by Wm. Hack, of Plainfield; girls' race by Marjorie Fulle, with Ruth Baur second; ladies' race by Mrs. Fred King, of Winona; old men's race by W. W. Coles, of Kokomo.

Immediately following the athletic events, J. D. Connor, Jr., who owns a cottage in Winona, served the entire party with refreshments. A visit was paid the establishment of Terrell & Son, at Warsaw, where everything was found spick-and-span.

Baur & Steinkamp showed a collection of gladiolus seedlings, in which were noted many fine shades of pink in the purer shades, and Buddleia Veitchiana and magnifica. A. Wagoner showed some fine spikes of Gladiolus America and Francis King; also outdoor-grown roses. A. F. J. Baur.

CHICAGO CLUB OUTING.

The thirtieth annual outing of the Chicago Florists' Club, held in St. Paul park, Morton Grove, Ill., July 25, was not more than half as well attended as that of the preceding year. This, however, was not due to any fault of those having the management of the affair, but to the Eastland disaster, which had dazed the whole city such a few hours before that a postponement was impossible. Only a few of the wholesale houses were represented and but a sprinkling of retailers attended. The growers made a better showing. A bright morning portended an ideal day, but early in the afternoon the sky became overcast and an intermittent drizzle continued the rest of the day. Whatever the picnickers lacked in numbers they made up in good nature, for the rain, so far from dampening their enjoyment, seemed only to add zest to the occasion. The chief attraction in the park seemed to be the pavilion, where a tireless crowd danced with unabated enthusiasm to the music of B. Zima's orchestra.

The winners of the sixteen events were:

Baseball game—Growers, 3; Wholesalers, 1.
Fat men's race, 100-yard dash—M. Grosberg, first; J. W. Fink, second; John Glody, third.
Married men's race, 150 yards—W. Wallace, first; F. Simonds, second; J. Jurgen, third.
Single men's race, 150 yards—Luke Sherer, first; P. W. Brust, second; Ray Harris, third.
Growers' race, 150 yards—W. Wallace, first; James Michal, second; A. Kurchoff, third.
Wheelbarrow race, hoodwinked—Luke Sherer, first; James Michal, second; Adam Faber, third.
Boys' race, ages 10 to 15 years—A. Barron, first; Raymond Milander, second; George Lepper, third.
Boys' race, 10 years and under—Fred Brunell, first; William Jurgens, second; Ed. Stoeffel, third.
Growers' wheelbarrow race, 100 yards—W. Wallace, first; Jos. Steyske, second; W. Hawkins, third.
Stout ladies' race, fifty years—Mrs. Esented, first; Mrs. Kunchdill, second; Mrs. Frank Schramm, third.
Married ladies' race, 100 yards—Mrs. Shanos, first; Mrs. Peter Olsem, second; Mrs. Max Awizus, third.
Single ladies' race, 100 yards—Edna Schmidt, first; Martha Goede, second; Elsie Amling, third.
Girls' race, 9 to 12 years of age—Dorothy Hunt, first; May Hartz, second; Mary Sadler, third.
Girls' race, 9 years and under—Florence Goede, first; Helen Baumhardt, second; Irene Schramm, third.
Relay race, open to all—Percy Jones' team, first; Chicago Flower Growers' team, second.
Men's race, 200 yards, open to all—W. Wallace, first; Luke Sherer, second.

Prizes for the affair were donated by Peter Reinberg, J. A. Budlong, D. H. Sullivan Wine Co., Poehlmann Bros. Co., M. J. Hanley, Foley Mfg. Co., Perfecto Cafe, Vaughan's Seed Store, Goodrich Rubber Co., John C. Moninger Co., Knight Cigar Store, Rosenbach's, Chicago Feed & Fertilizer Co., Florists' Review, Sefton Mfg. Co., Revere Rubber Co., Hoerber Bros., A. L. Vaughan & Co., Joseph Ziska & Sons, Kirchheimer Paper Co., E. C. Amling Co., Racine Puttyless Window Co., Florists' Exchange, C. J. Kantos, Zech & Mann, Miller & Musser, A. L. Randall Co., Chicago Flower Growers' Association, A. T. Pyfer & Co., C. W. McKellar, Manusos Bros., Raedlein Basket Co., H. H. Wilkerson, Percy Jones, C. A. Hunt and A. A. Arnold Paper Box Co.

The committee in charge of the arrangements, which were complete in every detail, included Mike Fink, chairman; Paul Klingsporn, W. J. Keimel, Guy W. French, Richard Salm and Tony Gobel.

There are many who hope that by next year the Chicago club will have progressed to the point, reached years ago in practically all other cities, where a successful trade outing can be held on some other day than the Sabbath.

CLEVELAND CLUB PICNIC.

Friday, July 23, all the Cleveland florists, both wholesale and retail, closed their stores at noon, and displayed signs on the doors stating that they had gone to the Cleveland Florists' Club picnic, at Willoughbeach park. The selection of Willoughbeach park for this year's picnic gave much satisfaction to the club members. It is on Lake Erie, eighteen miles east of the city, and is well adapted for events of this kind. There were two ball games, the first being indoor ball, which was won by the retailers from the wholesalers by a score of 9 to 7. The second game was real baseball and resulted in the wholesalers winning with 13 runs to the retailers' 12. It was a great battle, and, judging by some of the clashes, it looked as though George Smith, who acted as umpire, might have occasion to draw a dividend on his accident insurance policy. The remainder of the athletic events, twenty-two in number, participated in by many, were thoroughly enjoyed by the crowd. The total attendance was nearly 250, breaking the record for all previous picnics. The committee in charge is to be congratulated upon their selection of Willoughbeach park and the thorough way in which they handled the program. The picnic committee was composed of Charles F. Bastien, chairman; A. B. Barber, Albert Lindgren, A. Hagenberger and Walter Priest.

The indoor baseball teams were as follows:

WHOLESALE.	RETAIL.
H. Bate.	A. Barber.
Al. Lindgren.	Timothy Smith.
Kerr, Wilson.	C. Graham.
S. Berthold.	Williams.
Talcott.	F. Ritzenthaler.
Baird.	Clarence Meyers.
Geo. W. Smith.	E. Burger.
C. Bastien.	Shoemaker.
Rotter.	R. Hughes.

The line-up for the baseball game was as follows:

WHOLESALE.	RETAIL.
C. Williams.	C. J. Graham.
Rotter.	Shoemaker.
P. Smith, Jr.	Al. Barber.
Talcott.	Heil.
R. Hughes.	A. Graham, Jr.
P. Piggott.	Timothy Smith.
A. Lindgren.	Clarence Meyers.
E. Burger.	Baird.
Bate.	Rotter.

The winners in the various contests were as follows, the prizes being awarded in the order named:

Bottle race—Edith Heiss, Elenore Schoen, Madeline Smith.
Men's sartorial race—A. Williams, J. Brown, E. Burger.

Ladies' sartorial race—Nellie Smith, Mrs. Hepler, Ruth Monk.
 Watermelon-eating contest—Oscar Bauer, R. Talcott, J. Brown.
 Fat ladies' race—Mrs. Kelch, Mrs. Hippler, Mrs. King.
 Fat men's race—Kenneth Wilson, H. King, C. Bennett.
 Married ladies' race—Mrs. Steinbrenner, Mrs. King, Mrs. Greiner.
 Single ladies' race, 13 years and up—E. Weis, Ruth Monk, Miss Buehle.
 Married men's race—Harry Brook, Steve Berthold, L. G. Baird.
 Single men's race—E. Burger, C. Muchean, Chas. Rosenblum.
 Standing broad jump—E. Burger, Al. Lindgren, Steve Berthold.
 Hop, skip and jump—Harry Brooks, A. Williams, Al. Lindgren.
 Girls' race, under 8 years—Marion Hepler, Alice Albrecht, Thelma Steinbrenner.
 Boys' race, under 8 years—Hal Schoen, Gene Smith, Herbert Bate, Jr.
 Boys' race, 8 to 12 years—Don Smith, Ray Schoen, Jacob Brown.
 Girls' race, 8 to 12 years—Helen Hart, Helen Bate, Madeline Smith.
 Growers' race—E. Burger, Al. Lindgren.
 Cock fight—Harry Brooks, R. W. Talcott, R. Hughes.

BOSTON FLORISTS' PICNIC.

Most delightful weather favored the Gardeners' and Florists' Club of Boston for its annual picnic at Cunningham park, East Milton, July 22. The fact that no picnic was held last year, owing to the S. A. F. convention, made the present occasion a noteworthy one. The attendance was 500 and enthusiasm was at a high pitch. Nothing occurred to mar a day of perfect enjoyment. No more attractive place than Cunningham park for picnics or athletic sports is to be found near Boston. The beautiful woodlands of over 100 acres and the spacious lawns are all as well kept as on many private estates.

The numerous athletic events were, as usual, keenly contested. The ladies' baseball game showed that the fair sex can play ball and argue with the male umpire just as well as the men. The men's commercial ball team beat the private gardeners' team easily, but the latter had full revenge when the time came for the tug of war, pulling their opponents over the line and holding them with ease for a full minute. The married ladies' race, fat men's race, ex-presidents' race and obstacle race were among the star features of a busy afternoon.

The committee in charge of the picnic did the work well, and after P. M. Miller and W. J. Kennedy had distributed the prizes and it was announced that the picnic was concluded, the company left the pleasant grounds reluctantly. Some of the local S. A. F. leaders had been invited to help boom the San Francisco convention, but failed to materialize, thus missing a splendid opportunity for publicity.

The list of athletic events and winners was as follows:

Baseball, commercial vs. private gardeners—Won by commercials, with a score of 6 to 1. In the winning team were W. Mix, captain; J. Sloan, Norberg, J. Slater, Geo. Palmer, Theodore Palmer, Eisenhardt, T. J. Gough and Westwood.
 Baseball, boys under 16—T. Roland's team beat Westwood's team with a score of 6 to 4. In the winning team were T. Roland, P. Roland, R. Roland, R. M. Craig, Victor Heurlin, D. Duguid and Sheehan.

TWIN CITY FLORISTS' PICNIC.

The picnic of the Minnesota State Florists' Association, held July 20 at Spring park, Lake Minnetonka, was a pronounced success. About 150 people from St. Paul attended the picnic, and about an equal number from Minneapolis.

The tug of war between St. Paul and Minneapolis florists was won by St. Paul's tuggers. In the old women's race, two St. Paul women broke the tape together. St. Paul youngsters won three out of five prizes offered in that class. St. Paul also had the fastest two out of three fat men. In the young women's race Minneapolis won, but in the old men's race four St. Paul elders crossed the line ahead of their Minneapolis opponents. St. Paul young men won four out of five places in their race. The prize for the best old-fashioned waltz was won for St. Paul by Henry Krinke, 60 years of age.

The baseball game was the event of the day. The Minneapolis team presented a handsome appearance in their new uniforms, with "Minneapolis Florists' Club" emblazoned on their breasts. The St. Paul Never-Slips made up what they lacked in appearance, in ability to play the great national game, and the score was 11 to 3 in favor of the Never-Slips, captained by O. J. Olson. C. R. F.

ST. LOUIS FLORISTS' PICNIC.

The twenty-second annual picnic for St. Louis florists, their families and friends took place July 22, at Romona park. It proved a record-breaker for attendance. Old Sol was on the job and the cool, bright day brought out a crowd of over 500, who greatly enjoyed the fine program of games and other events, such as dancing, boating and fishing. To those who failed to attend, we can say they missed the best outing ever given by the Florists' Club, and much credit must be given to Chairman Rowe and his assistants, Frank Windler and William Ossick. The big crowd manifested great interest in all the proceedings, the most amusing of which were the orchestra directed by Max Pelletier, the ladies' tug of war, the baseball game, the cigar race in charge of Paddy Patton and the men's tug of war.

After the various games were finished the great crowd prepared for dinner. The dance hall held the younger folks until midnight, and before breaking up three cheers were given for the Florists' Club.

Following is a list of the winners of the various events:

Men's race, seventy-five yards, in charge of Walter Ogle—Oscar Ruff, first; J. W. McAllister, second.

Flag race, for girls, 12 years and under, in charge of Chas. Kuehn, Jr.—Miss M. Dahm, first; Helen Borkern, second.

Backward walk, growers only, in charge of O. C. May—Gus Hartmann, first; Walter Ogle, second.

Necktie contest, single ladies, in charge of W. J. Pilcher—Miss Erlinger, first; Jessie Sanders, second.

Ball scramble, boys 12 years and under, in charge of Walter Young—Gus Cerny, first; John Cerny, second.

Calico contest, ladies, in charge of W. S. Wells—Miss C. Richey, first; Mrs. Edwards, second.

Guinea catch, open to all, in charge of Paddy Patton—Williams brothers, first and second.

Fifty-yard dash, boys 12 to 16 years old, in charge of H. Schlechter—E. Clobes, first; H. Weisenberger, second.

Time walk, married ladies, in charge of Wm. Ohlweiler—Mrs. W. J. Pilcher, first; Mrs. Lorenze, second.

Ball-throwing, girls 12 to 16 years old, in charge of Frank Sanders—Miss Niesheimer, first; Miss M. Woods, second.

Needle-threading contest, for growers' wives, in charge of W. S. Wells—Mrs. Geo. Pring, first; Mrs. Rowe, second.

The Boston Gardeners' and Florists' Club on its Annual Outing at East Milton, Mass., July 22, 1915.

Fifty-yard dash, men 45 years and over, in charge of Walter Young—Jos. Hauser, first; J. J. Beneke, second.

Cigar race, for men, in charge of Paddy Patton—The names of the winners could not be learned. Fourteen boxes of cigars were used and about thirty contested.

Clock contest, open to all, in charge of O. C. May—Fred Strohmeier guessed the time at which the clock stopped and was awarded the St. Louis County Growers' Association's prize.

Seed-guessing contest, open to all, was won by W. J. Pilcher, who guessed the number of seeds in a jar.

Tug of war, for married and single ladies, was won by the married ladies, to each of whom was presented a box of candy. The losers also received small boxes of candy.

Tug of war, growers vs. retailers, was, as usual, won by Jos. Hauser's team, composed of growers. A box of cigars was the prize awarded.

The baseball game between the growers and retailers resulted in a victory for the growers by a score of 22 to 20. Oscar Ruff, Ed. Sanders, Oliver Sanders and J. J. Windler made some great plays. The umpiring of Henry Berning on the bases and Al. Gumz behind the bat gave great satisfaction to both sides.

The oldest person present at the picnic was Luther Armstrong and the youngest was Fred C. Weber III. The heaviest person was Mrs. Jos. Hauser and "Billy" Smith was her physical opposite.

The Windler family was voted the largest present and was awarded the first prize. The big auto delivery truck conveyed the family to the grounds.

C. W. Wors again presided over the seed and clock guessing contest. This is a yearly job for him and he seems to enjoy it.

Walter Young's fog-horn voice could be heard all over the grounds while the games were in progress. He was the official announcer for the club.

While the crowd was large, we missed some of the old-timers, such as Messrs. Fred Ammann, Beyer, Schray, Emunds, Grossart, Fehr, Connon and Young. They surely missed a good time.

The Retail Florists' Association, the County Growers' Association and the Lady Florists' Home Circle had a large representation of members present to enjoy the hospitality of the Florists' Club. J. J. B.

THE WASHINGTON OUTING.

Members of the Florists' Club of Washington, with relatives and guests, were given an opportunity to display their skill in the many games incident to the annual outing of the club, held at Great Falls, Va.

Among the events of the day were the 100-yard dash and the quoit contests. For the women there was a game in which they were given an opportunity to show their ability in throwing balls into a large basket placed in the center of a circle, around which the women stood. There were three such contests. The first was for married women and the prizes were awarded to Mrs. George C. Shaffer, first; Mrs. David J. Grillbortzer, second; Mrs. George H. Cooke, third. Of the unmarried women, Miss Marie Coli proved the most adept; Miss D. B. Barry, second; Miss Shaffer, third. The third trial was for both married and unmarried women and there were more than fifty entrants, for the prize was a diamond sunburst. There were a number of ties and the prize was finally awarded to Miss Bernice Rigby.

Harry Ley won a handsome stickpin in the 100-yard dash, George C. Shaffer coming in a close second. The quoit singles were won by R. L. McLennan, first; George H. Shaffer, second; William Clark, third. The following teams came out in the lead in the double events: J. J. Barry and R. L. McLennan, first; George C. Shaffer and Arthur J. Shaffer, second. In the three-legged races the boys' team represented by Albert Ford and Harry Kimmel were declared prize-winners, while Albert Schnell and F. G. Weaver were the storemen favorites.

The fun began when more than 300 pleasure-seekers boarded the special cars awaiting them at the Georgetown terminus of the line, at 2 o'clock. As each person entered the car he received a large shipping tag bearing the script, "Howdy? My Name Is ———. Glad To See You." To Jake Richards' skill as a caterer considerable credit for the success of the outing is due and these honors are only to be divided with Captain W. H. Ernest, who commanded the submarine. A negro ragtime band of six pieces played real old southern melodies. A motion picture exhibition and a display of fireworks completed the day's entertainment.

The winners in the other events were:

Potato races, girls, 12 years and under—Rose Minder, Elizabeth Dove and Mary Higbee. Small girls—Helen Barry, E. Marche and M. Dauphin. Boys, 12 years and under—Edgar Burnham, Granville Gude and Teddy Schmid. Open to all—Albert Ford and E. Smith. Women—Miss D. B. Barry and Mrs. J. Richards. Boys, 7 years and under—Ralph Minder.

Flag race, girls 12 years and under—Rose Minder, Mary Higbee and Mary Clark.

100-yard dash for men—F. G. Weaver and Arthur Shaffer.

50-yard dash for women—Miss Victoria Wilbur, Miss A. Barry and Miss Marie Coli.

100-yard dash for boys—Herbert Moreland and George Hostetter.

The stars of the ballfield in the game between the storemen and the greenhousemen were the following: Retailers—Charles E. Scarborough, captain and pitcher; R. W. Doty, catcher; I. Rosnosky, 1st base; Frank Good, 2nd base; B. Carrick, 3rd base; John Cook, shortstop; E. Draper, center field; Thomas Featherstone, right field; James Daly, left field. Growers—Elmer Padgett, captain and 2nd baseman; H. Sauber, pitcher; Samuel Ball, catcher; Ehrich Gebhardt, 1st base; Leslie Dix, 3rd base; John Carroll, center field; Walter Gordon, left field; Edward Henning, shortstop; John Smith, right field.

The committee in charge of the outing consisted of George Cooke, joke inspector; George C. Shaffer, chairman general arrangements; Edward S. Schmid, chairman prizes; Jake Richards, in charge refreshments; Lloyd Jenkins, information committee; Fred H. Kramer, keeper of the zoo; William H. Ernest, chairman humepatopcharox (Russian for submarine); William F. Gude, band leader; William Marche, chairman transportation and fireworks; Harry Lewis, chairman lost children committee; G. Milton Thomas, chairman of sports; Theodore Diedrich, chairman dancing. C. L. L.

A DOUBLE WHITE NARCISSUS.

What is the best variety of double white narcissus, for cut flowers? Is it Sulphur Phoenix? G. K.—Ill.

Sulphur Phoenix is not exactly a white narcissus, though it comes near that shade. It is decidedly the best of its color for forcing, but cannot be had in bloom before February in good condition. It is fine outdoors, also. The only double pure white narcissus, alba plena odorata, is not suitable for forcing. It succeeds well outdoors in deep soil that holds the moisture well. You should give it a trial. It is the latest flowering of the narcissi. C. W.

Wheeling, W. Va.—Miss Mary Donahey, of the firm of Misses Forbes & Donahey, has the sympathy of the trade in the loss of her father, Rev. Jos. H. Donahey. The remains were taken to Denver, Colo., by Miss Donahey and her brother, and were buried in the family lot in Fairmont cemetery.

STOCK FOR HOME TRADE.

I have just built a greenhouse 20x100 and I want to stock it up for the winter. Will you please give me some advice on what to grow for my own town trade? Should I buy the plants or plant the seeds? Would old, black soil from peat land that has been planted for ten years be good soil to put in the greenhouse? I think I shall buy my carnations and chrysanthemum plants. J. T. B.—Mass.

If you can sell near home all you grow, I think it would be well to plant half the house with carnations if you can give them a suitable temperature, 50 to 52 degrees at night. Half of the remaining space could be devoted to chrysanthemums and the balance to miscellaneous stock, which would include some Asparagus Sprengeri, Boston ferns, rubber plants, small palms, araucarias, azaleas, or such plants as you would have a call for; or, if preferred, you could devote the space to bedding plants, particularly geraniums, which are always in strong demand, especially scarlet and pink shades.

Good carnations to grow are Pink Delight, for light pink; White Wonder or Matchless, for white; Beacon, scarlet, and Rosette, deep pink. Grow the largest number of Pink Delight and white, which have the best sale. You would better buy field plants, which will be offered in quantity soon by many Review advertisers. Now is the time to buy some rooted cuttings, or plants from small pots, of such popular chrysanthemums as Polly Rose, Pacific Supreme, Ivory, Bonaffon and Chieftain, and plant them in benches. To follow the chrysanthemums, you could grow sweet peas or snapdragons, or, if preferred, part of the space could be reserved for bedding plants, for which you will have a good call. Also, you could use the space for longiflorum lilies, spiræas and other Easter plants.

Do not overlook bulbs. These can be kept in a cellar or stored outdoors, to be brought in as wanted. Some of the most useful for you will be freesias, Paper White, Golden Spur, Von Sion, Victoria and Emperor narcissi; La Reine, White Hawk, Murillo and Couronne d'Or tulips; Roman hyacinths, Spanish iris, Gladiolus Peach Blossom and Blushing Bride.

You may also want to grow a few hydrangeas, rambler roses or other pot plants for Easter or Memorial day. For the latter occasion you could also bench, if preferred, some stocks or double feverfew. The varieties to be grown would depend on the class of trade you have. The foregoing are merely suggestions. You can start asters, salvias and many other bedding plants from seed. This season you will need to buy carnations, chrysanthemums and most of your other stock.

The black soil you mention would not be equal to sod or even good fibrous loam from pasture land. The latter should be mixed outdoors with well rotted manure some months before being used, if possible. C. W.

Canal Dover, O.—C. Betscher reports that in spite of the lower prices prevailing this year, profits have been good on account of the large increase in his sales. He hopes to continue the good work of increasing stock and output. He looks for peonies to be in heavy demand in the fall.

Plan of the Main Floor of the Exhibition Hall for Chicago's Grand Floral Festival, Showing Spaces for Trade Exhibits.

PLAN FOR CHICAGO SHOW.

There is given herewith the ground plan of the Coliseum as laid out for the Chicago Grand Floral Festival, to be held November 9 to 14. Trade exhibits that appeal to the public, such as those of retailers, plantsmen and seedsmen, are platted for the spaces surrounding the competitive exhibits. Exhibits that are of interest primarily to those in the trade are to be at the extreme ends of the hall and in the annex. The key to the chart is as follows:

- A—Retail florists.
- B—Plants.
- C—Seeds, bulbs, garden requisites.
- D—Greenhouse appliances.
- E—Florists' supplies.
- F—Miscellaneous.
- G—Nurserymen.
- H—Boilers and heating apparatus.

The rate to be charged for the main hall is 30 cents per square foot, while that for space in the annex is 20 cents. The selling of goods by persons not having engaged space will be prohibited unless such persons shall have obtained a license from the secretary at a cost of not less than $25. The chairman of the trade space committee, to whom application for space should be made, is A. Henderson, 369 River street, Chicago.

Atlanta, Ga.—John Wilson, formerly manager for the West View Florist, has opened a new retail flower store in the Hotel Ansley. He uses the business name Wilson The Florist.

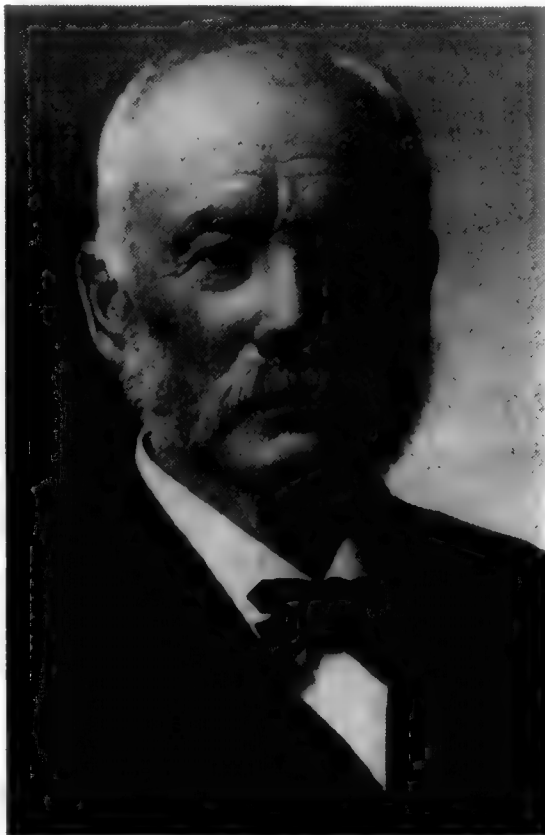

Cleveland, O.—A premium list has been issued for the third annual show of the Gladiolus Society of Ohio, to be held at the Hollenden hotel, August 13 and 14. Copies may be had by addressing Wilbur A. Christy, secretary and treasurer, Warren, O. C. Betscher, of Canal Dover, is president, and Mrs. A. H. Austin, of Wayland, vice-president. The exhibition committee consists of H. J. Alford, of Garrettsville; R. E. Huntington, of Painesville, and Mrs. Austin. The judges selected for this show are W. C. Werner, of Painesville, and F. W. Griffin, of Cleveland.

OBITUARY

Richard James Groves.

Richard James Groves, for fifty years a florist at Atchison, Kan., died July 17 of apoplexy. The funeral was held July 18 at the Groves' residence, 1018 North Third street. Burial was at Mount Vernon cemetery.

Mr. Groves was 83 years old. He was born August 8, 1831, at Bromsgrove, England, and there married Miss Hannah Amelia Clinton June 11, 1857. They at once sailed for America.

Richard J. Groves.

Their first location was in Utica, N. Y., where they lived a year. Then they moved to St. Catherine, Mo., and after spending another year there, moved to Doniphan, Kan. In 1861 they moved to Atchison. Their golden wedding anniversary was celebrated in 1907.

The decedent was a veteran of the Civil war, having been a member of the Thirteenth Kansas volunteers, Company D. He belonged to the John A. Martin post, G. A. R.

Mr. Groves established the florists' business at 1018 North Third street in 1865. He retired from the greenhouse July 6, and turned the business over to his daughters, who will conduct it under the name of the Groves Floral Co.

A widow and eight children survive. The children are Alfred Groves and Frank R. Groves, Oakland, Cal.; Walter C. Groves, Dover, Okla.; Oscar W. Groves, Drumright, Okla.; George W. Groves, St. Joseph, Mo.; Mrs. Anna G. Langworthy, Atchison, and Misses Lillian and Marian Groves, who are at home.

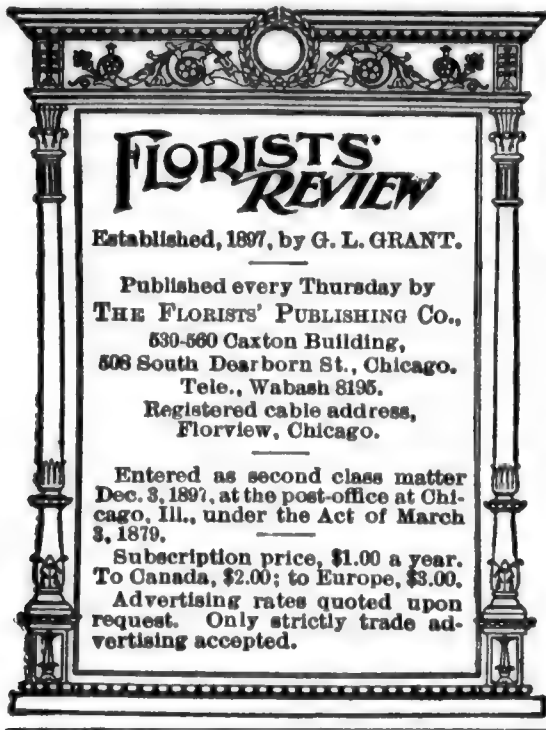

The body of his son, the late Richard Groves, who was killed in Oakland, Cal., in a railroad crossing accident January 29, was buried in Mount Vernon cemetery a month ago.

Joseph Whipple.

Joseph Whipple, prominent landscape architect and florist of Santa Barbara, Cal., was instantly killed July 27 when the automobile in which he was riding turned turtle on rounding a curve at Ventura, Cal. Mr. Whipple's son, who was in the car at the time of the accident, escaped uninjured.

The decedent was in his fortieth year, and is survived by a widow, a son and daughter. Mr. Whipple was a prominent Elk and had many friends in Los Angeles, San Diego and San Francisco, who mourn his death.

Lebanon, Pa.—D. Hammond Mish, whose eyesight has been troubling him for some time, was operated upon at the Lebanon sanatorium by Dr. A. B. Gloninger and Dr. Schwenk, of Philadelphia, and hopes are entertained for the restoration of his sight.

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS.

Incorporated by Act of Congress, March 4, 1901.

Officers for 1915: President, Patrick Welch, Boston; vice-president, Daniel MacRorie, San Francisco; secretary, John Young, 53 W. 28th St., New York City; treasurer, W. F. Kasting, Buffalo.

Thirty-first annual convention, San Francisco, Cal., August 17 to 20, 1915.

RESULTS.

We give them. You get them.
We both have them.

BUSINESS surely is looking up—there never was a summer in which the public used so many plants and flowers.

THOSE Clevelanders are doing things. They will make an S. A. F. convention a great success and 1916 will be a splendid year for them to show what they can do.

THE number of chrysanthemum cuttings sold this year by the wholesale growers indicates another increase in the supply of cut blooms during October and November.

NOT a few subscribers save themselves the bother of annual renewal by sending The Review $2, $3, or sometimes $5, instead of the dollar-bill that insures fifty-two visits of the paper.

AMERICAN friends of W. Wells, of Merstham, England, who is well known here, will be pleased to learn that, although still in hospital, he is considered out of danger after his illness and operation.

FOLLOWING the lead of the National Tube Co., and the independent manufacturers of steel boiler tubes, the makers of wrought-iron boiler tubes last week announced an advance in prices by reducing the discount one point, which amounts to $2 per ton.

BEDDING stock still is selling steadily if not rapidly. It is true that in certain places there is a surplus, but in most cases it is due to not having the stock in salable condition as early as it should have been. The bedding plant business is increasing rather more rapidly than any other department of the trade.

BELGIAN PLANTS MAY COME.

That the federal government is doing its best to secure the importation of Belgian plants next fall, since The Review placed the case before the Washington officials a few weeks ago and asked that certain representations be made in London, is borne out by the following cablegram from the American consul-general at London, forwarded to The Review by the State department: "Shipments from Belgium before Cabinet. I have private advices that plan being worked out which will enable exports to go forward and payments to be made under certain supervision. Decision expected some days hence."

CANADIANS USING VALLEY.

In The Review of July 15 it was stated that "there are reports from Canada that lily of the valley has gone out of favor and that even the assurance that the pips were Danish is not enough to sell the flowers." Of course there were not quite so many weddings this June as in previous years, but taking that into consideration and also the fact that we grew no stock for our New York agent this summer, our valley sales amounted to only $1,200 less than in June, 1914. The Dale Estate is responsible for at least ninety per cent of the valley imported into Canada, and the decrease in sales is astonishingly small when it is remembered that between 2,500,000 and 3,000,000 pips are forced in the greenhouses here annually.

W. G. Peacock.

A YEAR OF WAR.

This is the fifty-second week of the cataclysm in Europe.

The effect on business in America has been extremely great, but not what was expected. The loss of ordinary export business has been made up for by orders from European governments that have given employment to hundreds of thousands who otherwise probably would have been idle.

But no amount of war business can compensate for the disturbed conditions caused by the war. Prosperity goes with peace, but business not with battle. Trade in the United States, except in lines connected with army supplies, has had a bad year; not so bad, perhaps, as the situation twelve months ago would have led one to expect, but still a year that has set most businesses back to where they were two, three or even more years ago.

The business of florists seems to have suffered rather less than most lines. It was hit quickly and hard when the war clouds broke, it is true, but there has been much improvement. Not many florists have lost money this year; most florists have made a little; some have done almost as well as usual. On the whole, we have reason to congratulate ourselves; there are a lot of people who have not fared so well as florists.

And of the future?

Nobody knows. It looks as though general business in this country today is twenty per cent behind normal. But it is improving and the florist will get his share. That conditions will be upset as long as the war continues is a foregone conclusion. We depend on Europe for a large part of what we have heretofore considered trade necessities. The French and Dutch bulbs will come along as usual, for all that can be foreseen, but ocean freights are high. There will be no azaleas and no valley, to mention only two of many items, unless there is a change in the fortunes of war.

How long will it last?

The beginning was of shocking suddenness; the end may come as quickly, but at present it is not in sight. There are those who predict a business boom in the next year as the result of the continuance of hostilities. But The Review doubts if wealth ever will flow from destruction.

Better plan for another year about like the last—and then let's all turn in and see what we can do to make it go ahead.

NEXT WEEK'S WEATHER.

Weekly weather forecast, issued by the U. S. Weather Bureau, Washington, D. C., for the week beginning Wednesday, July 28, 1915:

For the Region of the Great Lakes—Overcast, showery weather the first half will be followed by generally fair weather the latter half of the week. The temperatures will average near or slightly below the normal.

For the Upper Mississippi Valley and Plains States—Widely scattered showers and thunder storms the first half and generally fair weather the latter half of the week. The temperatures will average near or below the normal.

For the Ohio Valley and Tennessee—Moderately warm and generally fair weather will prevail during the greater part of the coming week.

For South Atlantic and East Gulf States—Generally fair weather and normal temperatures probable during the week, except that scattered showers will likely occur in Florida and along the South Atlantic coast.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

As a result of the unprecedented disaster of July 24, Chicago market conditions have undergone a radical change. Beginning as early as the afternoon of that day, those wholesale houses enjoying the patronage of the west side florists experienced a rapidly increasing demand. This assumed such magnitude that practically everything usable in funeral work cleared the following three days. The call was primarily for white, but whether for roses, lilies, asters, gladioli, peonies or carnations, seemed rather a matter of indifference. Even daisies and such summer stock found a call. When the supply of white was exhausted, colored flowers found a ready market. The orders received by the retailers were generally for pieces that did not exceed $10 in cost. The volume of the demand, however, was so great that many of the supply houses found it necessary to work overtime getting out wire designs, and several of the wholesale houses did not close until late. As a natural result of the unusual demand, prices advanced, but not beyond the level of what one would call good, fair values, although this, of course, is much better than the average for the preceding two weeks. Those who predicted a repetition of the Iroquois fire market, when prices were carried beyond reason, proved to be false prophets.

Roses, though in unusually large supply for the time of year, had begun to shorten up by the middle of last week, and were not sufficient in many instances to meet the demand. As the call is altogether for stock to be used in funeral work, the short-stemmed roses were the ones that were wanted. White Killarney, Ophelia, Hillingdon and almost anything in the shape of a light-colored rose took preference over Russell and the other darker colored varieties. The quality of the roses is, generally speaking, better than it was a week ago. Russell has regained much of its color, but now much of the stock shows a bad attack of black spot.

Asters, particularly white, are clearing rapidly. The short stems of the early arrivals seem rather an advantage than a disadvantage. The supply has not equaled the demand this week. The unexpected call for light colored flowers was a great help to those who still held peonies in storage, enabling them to clean up at double the prices they would gladly have accepted had they been offered last week. Carnations, though small and poor, cleared rapidly, and late afternoons found them off the market. Valley did not move as well as it should, though it cleared. Easter lilies again came to the front, as did sweet peas. Gladioli proved the principal reliance; there were enough of them to go around.

Greens were in heavy demand, and ferns and galax were scarce on the afternoon of July 26.

The Eastland Disaster.

Among those who displayed cool-headed courage in the saving of lives during the overturning of the steamship Eastland in the Chicago river, July 24, was Joseph Erringer, a packer for Zech & Mann's. Mr. Erringer, who was on the third deck in company with his sister and four other young ladies, succeeded in saving all but one of the party, hauling them over the rail onto the side of the boat after it had tipped.

In the list of identified dead appears the name of Martha Quivass, 4118 West Twenty-fifth street. The deceased was at one time employed in the supply department of the A. L. Randall Co. Another body has been identified as that of P. Reilly, who was employed about the greenhouses of Calvary cemetery.

Elinore Hahn, an employee in the store of A. Lange, 25 East Madison street, is among the rescued. Her sister and brother-in-law, with their children, were lost.

George Baum, who operates an Elliott-Fisher billing machine in the office of the A. L. Randall Co., was on the upper deck of the boat when it rolled lazily over. He and his friends had plenty of time to scramble over the rail to the side of the boat and were taken off without a wetting. In the Randall basket factory is Wm. Bubbers and in the office is his daughter, Ella Bubbers. They mourn the loss of a son and brother.

A. C. Schafer, of Winterson's Seed Store, spent Saturday searching the morgues for the body of a niece who was in the excursion party. Late at night she was found.

John Prickett, of the Des Plaines Floral Co., thought his brother was lost, MILWAUKEE.

The Market.

Business is in the midst of the summer stagnation and orders have dwindled to small proportions. However, some good sized orders come in each week, helping to keep things moving. The weather has not been exceedingly hot yet, although we have had some warm days, and thus the stock is in much better condition than it otherwise would have been. Carnations are not nearly so plentiful as they have been and are being cleaned up every day. They are moved at extremely low prices, however, as the quality, while as good as can be expected, is deteriorating. If the weather continues cool, there is a possibility of the old stock lasting for some time yet. Roses are in fine condition and are moving fairly well. The supply is heavy and prices are low. Buyers of this stock are certainly getting their money's worth.

The sweet pea crop is about gone and, as the quality is not any too good, the prices are extremely low. Until recently this stock has been more fancy and of better quality than usual, and while the prices have been only medium, the returns have been quite satisfactory until the last few weeks. Lilies are moving fairly well, on account of the exceptionally large number of funerals. Valley also is supplying a steady demand. Orchids are moving only fairly well, because other stock can be bought

THE ASTER

A desirable flower for this season of the year. It makes an attractive display and stands shipping.

This House, long known for its Asters, is now receiving a good cut of quality stock. Comprises all colors in the long, extra fancy, as well as the good common grades.

We are also amply supplied with all other seasonable stock. Of course, we can always be counted on for Beauties and Roses.

Remember, you can't buy Kennicott's Quality Cuts anywhere but at the House of Quality Plus.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

The Market.

Business is quiet, as is usual at this season of the year. Plenty of outdoor stock is on hand, including mostly Shasta daisies, coreopsis, snapdragons and gaillardias. Sweet peas are hard to find of good quality, and asters are not yet on the market. There are plenty of Japanese lilies, auratums, etc.

Various Notes.

Henry Smith's store window was resplendent with basket arrangements of garden flowers last week.

Eli Cross has been displaying fine gladioli lately. A. F. C.

CINCINNATI.

The Market.

Business continues slow. The supply is so large that it is utterly impossible to realize a good price for stock.

Asters are in heavy supply. For early ones the quality of the stock is unusually high, but this fact does not seem to help much when it comes to sales. Gladioli, too, are in heavy supply and find a poor market. The best prices that gladioli have realized up to this time, since the outdoor stock has been in, would have been considered low in past years, at this time of the season. Some of the large growers who in other years have shipped heavily to the market say their cut will be far below normal because of the recent heavy rains in their districts. Roses continue plentiful, but are not quite so good as they were a fortnight ago. While lily receipts have slackened, there is yet more than sufficient to take care of immediate needs. Some fine hardy hydrangeas are to be had. Other offerings include auratum, rubrum and pond lilies, carnations and snapdragons.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

There is little to add to the report of a week ago, and little change in conditions, prices or outlook.

There are signs of a reduction in receipts of roses and carnations and a slight stiffening in values. Except Beauties and the novelties, the rose supply is largely unsalable, except at the buyer's option. The street merchants are at Coney and Rockaway and that outlet for surplus is practically closed until the fall. The roses sold in quantity average $1 a box.

Carnations are largely reflecting the season and few arrivals are up to the standard. A few choice blooms bring $1 per hundred, but the average is under 50 cents. The shipments of orchids are decreasing; hence the better quotations. The demand continues light. No change has taken place in lily values, as, with a great abundance of them, the top figure is $2.50 per hundred, the same as for valley. The gladiolus flood is already enormous, but it rises daily. It is utterly impossible for the market to absorb such large receipts at the prices of other years. The same may be said of asters, already here in great abundance.

There is the usual supply of summer flowers.

Apart from funeral work, there is nothing to disturb the quiet of the retail trade. Even the window decorators seem to have lost heart.

Various Notes.

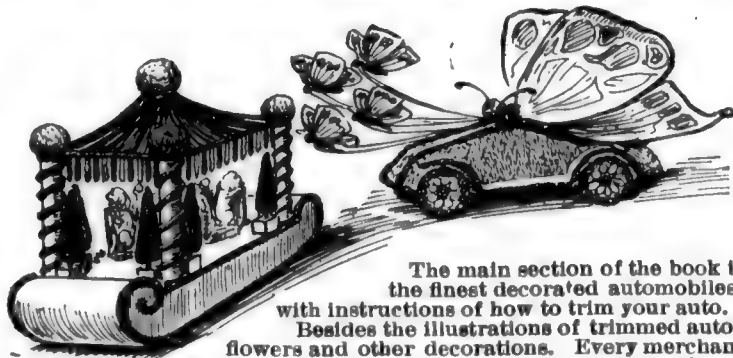

Secretary Irwin, of the transportation committee, announces a lamentable number of "cold feet" in the matter of the special car for the trip to California. However, several members of the S. A. What Is Worth Shipping in cut flowers at this season of the year, you will find here, as good as any grown. We will mention a few items that we can recommend to you:

Beauties.....$1.00-$3.00 dozen

Specially grown for a summer crop, you will find them of extra good quality.

Russell, the best summer rose for size and color.

Other good roses—Thora, Ophelia and Maryland—show good quality and prices are reasonable.

Asters.....$1.00-$2.00 per 100

So far we have had a good supply, and the quantity will be increasing and the quality improving each day.

Easter Lilies.....50 for $4.00

The quality of the Lilies never suffers from the hot weather conditions. In bud or all open flowers.

SPHAGNUM MOSS—$2.00 per 5-bbl. bale, 6 bales for $10.00

Compare them with what is usually called a 5-bbl. bale and note the difference in size and weight. Each bale wrapped.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

Asters and roses are more in demand than any other flowers; they must be good asters and good roses to sell, for the market is critical now as in brisker times and will not use poor flowers or short stems. Perhaps some of the best market judges will criticise the use of the word demand, saying it may be that there is no such thing. Let that pass; the word is used in a comparative sense only.

Gladioli form the most serious drawback to the market. Everybody who grew a thousand or two gladiolus bulbs last season appears to have been so delighted with them, and with the cheap prices asked for the bulbs this year, that they planted many, many more. The result is that we have many, many more gladiolus flowers than our bright wholesalers could create call for, despite their best efforts. The height of the wave of gladioli is passing now, but the depression remains.

Business is a little below normal for the end of July, through no fault of the flowers offered, many of which are extremely fine.

Current Events.

Miss Marion Faust, daughter of Henry I. Faust, of Merion, has achieved a notable success in the culture of outdoor sweet peas. Her flowers during June and July were equal to anything seen in the cut flower market in this city. Miss Faust deserves great credit for her success. She displayed excellent judgment in the best Spencer varieties, grew them well, worked hard and, when the blooming season arrived, she made a special effort. Her energy during the last two months was remarkable. She was up by daylight each morning and, often without assistance, had her peas picked, bunched and marketed with the dew still on them. For this purpose Miss Faust secured a taxicab that ran herself and her product in at high speed to the center of the city, where the buyers welcomed her coming. The net commercial results from this successful effort can be learned, no doubt, by asking Miss Marion Faust, Merion, Pa.

In these days of high power cars it is interesting to meet a man who will have none of them and to learn his point of view. J. Coates, of East Falls, is evidently prosperous; he works hard, does his work well and appears happy and contented. Mr. Coates drives a gray horse attached to his delivery wagon. When asked why this good beast had not given way to the popular motor car he looked thoughtfully at his four-footed friend and replied that you "couldn't harrow with a motor car." This unanswerable argument will spur Henry Ford and his competitors to greater effort. Until they succeed, every florist must agree with Mr. Coates, but the real point lies in the fact that going ahead slowly often gets there most quickly.

Recent visitors include George Blackman, of the Blackman Floral Co., Evansville, Ind.; A. C. Oelschig, of Savannah, Ga.; Wallace R. Pierson, of Cromwell, Conn.; Louis J. Reuter, of Westerly, R. I.; J. Horace McFarland and O. P. Beckley, of Harrisburg, Pa. Edward Reid celebrated his birthday July 21. Only a few chosen friends knew and wished him well.

Myers & Samtman are erecting a concrete coalbin capable of holding 4,000 tons of coal on their place at Chestnut Hill.

Frank L. Polites will move shortly from 1418 Chestnut street, where the building is to be torn down, to 1420 Chestnut street. Mr. Polites has three other flower stands, at Thirteenth and Chestnut, Sixty-ninth and Market and the Delaware ferries. He is extremely successful.

The Henry F. Michell Co. has received a letter from Zieger & Sons complimenting the fine display of evergreens and crotons in front of Convention hall, where the national flower show will be held next spring.

Arthur A. Niessen says that the planting in the carnation houses throughout Chester county is rapidly progressing. Much of the stock is in fine shape for the coming season.

A. L. Fortunes has the only place in this city devoted entirely to ferns. He is preparing for the coming season.

The report of the hail loss of Campbell Bros., at Penllyn, July 13, should have read 1,500 panes of glass. Repairing is being actively done.

Max A. Fierstein leaves this week for the west.

H. Bayersdorfer is expected in San Francisco from Japan this week.

Many of the Chester county growers had small losses by the hail storm that centered at West Grove, June 22. The Conard & Jones Co. suffered quite some loss, now all repaired.

Martin Samtman, Jr., son of the clever rose grower, met with a painful accident at Chester Hill, when a machine that he obligingly cranked for a sport, kicked badly, injuring his arm. The cold-blooded sport drove off, leaving the boy in the road.

A. Farenwald is putting in an improved water system for his plant at Roslyn, Pa.

Antoine Wintzer, vice-president of the Conard & Jones Co., has some exceptionally promising seedlings from Canna Firebird. One of these bore seven fine spikes of flowers at one time. The clump was flowered in a 12-inch box in the greenhouse.

The Leo Niessen Co. reports the arrival of new crop Beauties. Phil.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

Scarcely any improvement can be seen in business conditions. Counter trade and transient trade are small. Outdoor stock is plentiful and heavy consignments cause frequent oversupply. The supply of roses is large, and prices are low. American Beauties are good. There are many carnations to be had cheap, but they do not last long. A good supply of gladioli reaches us daily and sells easily. America, Mrs. Francis King and Vick's Pure White are the best sellers. Good yellow and white snapdragons continue to come. Easter and calla lilies are plentiful. Valley meets all demands. Campanulas, coreopsis, gaillardias and gypsophilas are being used for basket decorations. White candytuft is overabundant. Asters in nearly all shades are selling fairly well at a fair price. The supply of greens is good and meets the small demand.

Various Notes.

Irondequoit, N. Y., Sunday, July 18. As he was walking down the boulevard, an automobile driven at high speed struck him down. Mr. Curtis suffered a broken leg, a broken collarbone and numerous bruises of the body and face. He will be 81 years old in August, and previous to the accident was in splendid health. The physician reports satisfactory progress.

George Sick, of Avoca, N. Y., is shipping fine sweet peas in pink, white and lavender.

Harry Balsley, of the Detroit Flower Pot Co., Detroit, Mich., was in town for two or three days.

Among the many decorated automobiles at the opening of Summerville boulevard was the car of C. W. Curtis. It was attractively dressed with white candytuft and a huge vase of Mrs. Francis King gladioli. Although no prizes were given, Mr. Curtis' car was considered the best.

Visitors last week were: Albert A. Thomas, of the Bool Floral Co., Ithaca, N. Y.; E. K. Sithens, of Bowen-Dungen Co.; E. J. Vandermark and E. G. Edwards, of the Ontario Plant Food Co., Geneva, N. Y.

Will H. Dildine has made satisfactory progress and is able to be back at his desk.

About three acres of early varieties of asters are in full bloom at the seed farm of James Vick's Sons. Queen of the Market, Vick's Earliest and Snow-drift are making a fine showing. Charles Vick says everything is in good condition. The rains have helped a great deal.

The Rochester office of Lord & Burnham Co. reports that business is becoming better. They report the following jobs, either delivered, under construction, in factory, or in the drafting office: Private, iron-frame, curved-eave houses for Mrs. Bachman, Sharon, Pa.; R. M. this method. A plant of Lælia purpurata x Cattleya Mossiae Reineckiana is in flower for the first time. The color is intense, a light shading of rose in the petals to the deepest wine color in the lip; truly a gorgeous flower. Cypripedium Mrs. Wm. Kimball is a gem among the cyps. A fine specimen is now in bloom. Among the newer things outdoors is Abies Veitchii, the leaves of which are of a beautiful silvery color underneath and bright green above. Anchusa, Dropmore variety, is an acquisition to the list of perennials; a fine, bold flower of an intense blue, with a large spike and robust habit.

PERENNIALS AND HARDY VINES.

Please print a list of perennials and hardy vines, the seed of which I can sow now and have plants in 3-inch pots ready for sale in the fall of this year, selling what is left next spring.
H. S.—Pa.

Some perennials which will make good sized plants for fall sales are the following: Papaver orientale and P. nudicaule, Pyrethrum roseum, Tritoma grandiflora, sweet williams, Canterbury bells, though these are really biennials, and foxgloves. The last three are popular sorts. As they are strong growers, they will need larger sized pots than the others and will do better if planted in nursery rows. Other suitable kinds are: Malva moschata alba; Lychnis Haageana, L. Viscaris splendens and L. Chalcedonica; Lupinus polyphyllus, blue, white and rose; hollyhocks, field-grown preferred; Hibiscus Crimson Eye; delphiniums, all varieties; Geum coccineum; Gypsophila paniculata; Coreopsis grandiflora; Aquilegia chrysantha, A. glandulosa and mixed hybrids; Chrysanthemum Shasta daisy and King Edward VII.

There are few hardy vines which you can start from seed. It is getting late now to grow plants of sufficient size for fall sales. Ampelopsis Veitchii is a popular climber and comes readily from seed; so does Humulus Lupulus, or hop vine. Clematis paniculata comes readily from seed, but is of slow germination and does better if field grown. While some other hardy vines can be raised from seed, they are more quickly propagated from cuttings or grafts. You could also raise Ampelopsis quinquefolia from seed, but A. Veitchii proves the better seller.

PAGES OF RETAILERS' CARDS

This department for the cards of Leading Retail Florists—those florists who have the facilities for filling the orders sent them by other florists—has made possible the recent rapid development of this branch of the business, a branch of the trade now established for all time and so helpful that its volume will keep on increasing for many years.

Are you sending and receiving your share of these orders? You can send your share (and make 20 per cent profit without effort) if you let your customers know you can perform this service for them. To receive your share—well, The Review's department for Retailers' cards remains the one way of getting prompt action on the order in hand.

To be represented costs only 70 cents per week on a yearly order. This is for one-inch space. Other spaces in proportion.

Why not send your order today—now—before you forget it?

Florists' Review,
Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:-

During the SIX MONTHS from March 4 to September 4

I have received from other Florists, by mail, telegraph or cable, orders to the amount of $513.25 as a result of my advertisement in the Retailers' department of The Review. With the allowance to senders the record for SIX MONTHS is:

Value of orders received-----	$513.25
Less 20% allowed senders-----	102.60
Net value of orders for SIX MONTHS--	410.65

It should be noted that this showing covers the DULL SUMMER MONTHS, when any addition to a Florist's business is decidedly welcome.

Retail Florists not advertising in The Review should profit by this letter.

Respectfully,

F. H. Weber

The Market.

Pittsburgh is enjoying delightful weather, and one does not care a great deal whether he has a vacation or not. Among the wholesalers things are easing a little. Beauties and roses are falling off, and carnations look the worse for the long season. The stock now consists of a limited quantity of Beauties and roses, with lilies, carnations, valley and sweet peas. Gladioli and asters are here in unlimited quantity.

July business is holding up fairly well, and will compare favorably with other years. Of course, one hears much complaint, because too much is expected. The retail stores had a number of good funeral orders last week, and their trade averaged up well.

Various Notes.

Wm. Calligan, of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., is on his way to Baltimore and Philadelphia in his automobile.

Otto Loeffler, of the McCallum Co., is seriously ill. His friends fear the result.

John Harris, of Harris Bros., is taking the lake trip, and will spend a short time at Chautauqua lake, where a party of his friends are encamped for the summer.

Miss Katherine Lager, of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., has gone to Maple Springs, Chautauqua lake.

Michael Kronis, the Pennsylvania station florist, is going to Erie, Pa.,

NEWARK, N. J.

The Market.

The market has settled down to its summer dull spell and florists are not expecting much business. There are occasional funerals, once in a while a belated wedding and a little transient trade. The windows of the flower shops look bare compared with what they are in the more active season. Asters, gladioli, ferns and a few variegated plants make up the bulk of the display in most windows. Roses are abundant enough to supply the summer trade, but of course are kept in the iceboxes. Dahlias have just appeared and are of excellent quality. Asters are abundant and of good quality. All flowers are cheap, in both wholesale and retail markets.

Club Meeting.

As a rule no summer meeting is held by the Essex County Florists' Club, but an exception was made this year by the calling of a special meeting for July, to hear the report of the committee in charge of the arrangements for the club outing in August and to give approval to the plans. The meeting was held in Krueger auditorium. It was decided to hold the outing August 4, at Gillette, N. J., about twenty miles from Newark. Those going will be given transportation by automobile. Many members will go in their own machines, but transportation will be provided for the others. Tickets, including transportation, will cost $3. At Gillette there will be a clambake and a program of athletic games. There will be a tug of war and a baseball game between the married and the single men.

The members of the outing committee are as follows: Richard Yuill, chairman; James J. McLaughlin, secretary; A. C. Begerow, treasurer; W. L. Jones, R. Plebany, Ernest Hausman and John Pfeuffer. Besides members of the local association, many visitors from other parts of New Jersey and New York are expected.

Various Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Yuill are spending their vacation at their bungalow at Atlantic Highlands, on the New Jersey shore. Much of their time is spent in fishing. Mr. Yuill is chairman of the outing committee of the Essex County Florists' Club and will return in time for the outing, August 4.

C. J. Connolly had several funeral decorations last week. Outside of occasional funerals, business is reported quiet. Mr. Connolly has made his windows and doorway attractive by freely using beautiful ferns, thus making it unnecessary to fill the windows with a large supply of cut flowers at a time when it is undesirable to lay in a heavy supply.

John Crossley had considerable funeral work last week. He had a large supply of beautiful dahlias.

May's Flower Shop, 265 South Orange avenue, has had several funerals during the last two weeks, but finds business quiet outside of that.

Fred Wolfinger had considerable funeral work last week. He reports that business is generally somewhat slow, as is usual at this time of year.

Henry Leahy, of Elizabeth, is on a trip to Chicago.

Henry A. Strobell, 931 Broad street, who is the florist member of the Newark branch of the Rotary Club, is much interested in the plan of the Newark branch to advertise Newark in one edition of the Rotarian, the official paper of the club, which is taken by each of the 300,000 members of the organization throughout the world. The directors of the local club have been authorized to make arrangements for purchasing one edition of the paper and superintending its issue. National advertisers located in Newark would be asked

BOSTON.

The Market.

The supply of cut flowers is now comparatively small and if the demand was anything like normal there would be a good clean-up. Conditions are a trifle better, on the whole, than a week ago, but activity is entirely lacking and the markets and stores now have a more or less deserted appearance. Carnations are seen in much reduced numbers, as most of the growers are busy replanting, and prices show some improvement. Owing to the cool summer, flowers are of splendid quality, some almost equal to such as are seen at midwinter. Roses are also in reduced supply. Many are short-stemmed and the demand is uncertain. The supply of good summer Beauties is excellent, with only a fair call.

Asters are coming from quite a number of growers and sell well. The supply of gladioli grows heavier and the prices are low. Sweet peas are a little better in quality, thanks to the cooler weather. Good flowers sell quite well. Gypsophila is overabundant. Valley sells poorly. Lilium longiflorum sells low. Auratums are in fair demand for window decoration; there also is a good supply of L. speciosum. Few cattleyas are seen; August is usually a month of light supply with them. Sales of asparagus are light.

Various Notes.

Mann Bros. have a nice crop of Lilium auratum, speciosum and longiflorum; also, fine asters and cosmos.

Miss Lazarus, bookkeeper for the Houghton-Gorney Co., went with the Mystic Shriners' excursion to California on an eight weeks' vacation and will include the San Francisco exposition in her itinerary.

The friends of W. R. Morris, the well known Wellesley Hills rose grower, who have always classed him as a confirmed bachelor, will be surprised to learn that he was married to Miss Clark July 13. His many friends in the trade will, I am sure, all wish him much joy. Mr. Morris' establishment is now in splendid condition. He is growing Hoosier Beauty, Hadley, Russell, Ophelia, Ward, Killarney Queen and a fine sport of Dark Pink Killarney. The ordinary Killarney has been dropped. He has doubled his planting of Asparagus Sprengeri.

E. J. Rogean, George Gordon, Paul E. Richwagen and H. W. Vose returned July 23 from a two weeks' motor boat trip to Portland and Boothbay, Me. All reported a fine outing.

Donald Carmichael, of Wellesley, says his carnation stock never looked better. He will plant this season 2,000 of a fine Enchantress sport similar in color to Alice. Other varieties are Matchless, White Wonder, still his best white; Fenn, Beacon, Benora, Ward and Pink Delight. He retains some of Lady Bountiful, which he considers of ideal form.

W. J. Cain, of Newtonville, is strong on Centaurea moschata, bachelor's buttons and coreopsis.

July 20 Henry Penn spoke to his brother, William, at the luncheon in the City Club of the Pilgrim Publicity Association, from San Francisco. He is the first florist to make so lengthy a telephone call in the United States. Mr. Penn is due home August 3. William Penn starts on his transcontinental trip August 5.

Miss R. A. Washington, of North Stoughton, is marketing a large assortment of flowers, including carnations, bachelor's buttons, coreopsis and double feverfew.

H. W. Vose, of Hyde Park, is sending in a splendid lot of early asters, sweet peas and Lilium longiflorum.

J. T. Butterworth, of South Framingham, is cutting a heavy crop of Catleya Harrisoniae, in addition to gigas and Gaskelliana.

John J. Fee, of Jamaica Plain, is one of our most successful growers of cold storage longiflorums and sells an average of 1,000 daily at the wholesale market.

Robert Montgomery, in addition to roses, is sending in a fine lot of asters.
Other aster shippers include Paine and Mishawum Flower Co.

John Barr has finished painting and repairing his houses and is busily occu-

W. Hannan & Sons, of Dorchester, have 50,000 mums planted this season.
They have finished pulling down one old house and have built a modern one in its stead. They are cutting Semple's asters in quantity and of grand quality, from under glass; also, cold storage giganteum lilies.

Lively & Bond, of Holbrook, are large shippers of gladioli and carnations.

R. E. Wadsworth & Co., of North-boro, have carnations of a quality equal to that seen in midwinter. Their sweet peas also are good.

Thomas A. Cox, of Dorchester, had a fire in the rear of his home at 3 a. m., July 18. Fortunately, it was controlled before serious damage was done. The fire, which is believed to have been of incendiary origin, caused a severe shock to Mrs. Cox, who is now in her seventy-third year.

The Central Greenhouses, of West
Roxbury, are still sending in good carnations, also a heavy cut of sweet sultans.

J. M. Cohen, of the Coöperative Mar-splendid lot of cyclamens and begonias.

He will not be sorry if he receives no azaleas this fall.

A. M. Davenport, of Watertown, will have some fine specimen plants of mums for exhibition purposes in November.
He has an immense stock of begonias and cyclamens.

A. H. Hews & Co. are making a new cyclamen pot which is proving popular in the west. They have not yet started to push it in the east.

Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Roy, of Marion, will accompany the American Park Superintendents on their coming San Francisco trip.

George W. Hamer, the popular assistant manager at the Boston Flower
Exchange, left on his vacation July 26.
He will spend it mostly fishing along the Massachusetts coast.

William Mix, salesman for the W. W.
Edgar Co., won a $30 prize July 20, offered for the party on the King Philip capturing the heaviest fish on that day's trip. The fish was a large cod.

Growers who have usually had splendid success with asters on bottom lands report that the drenching rains in early July have ruined many of their plants and they look for a poor cut this season.

Alex. Porter, of Woburn, has this season planted six houses of chrysanthemums, one more than a year ago. He continues to plant a good many earlies, but Bonnaffon, White Bonnaffon and Chrysolora are his leaders. W. N. C.

Missoula, Mont.—E. O. Wood is preparing to engage in the wholesale florists' business. He has started a large amount of outdoor stock, and is planning to grow all kinds of stock to supply local retailers by next spring.

The Market.

The weather cannot be blamed for last week's dull business, as we had a delightfully cool week. There is general complaint from retailers that business is dull and, except for funeral work, would surely be at a standstill. The wholesalers find it hard to dispose of the large daily consignments. There are hardly any extra fancy, long-stemmed roses, but Ward, Killarney and Ophelia with stems from six to twelve inches are plentiful. Short Beauties are scarce. Carnations are plentiful, but are of poor quality. Asters are beginning to come in heavy supply and these greatly reduce the sale of carnations. Outside shipments of asters are of better quality than those of the local growers. The great glut of gladioli has subsided somewhat. There are more than can be readily disposed of, however, and only the best have any sale. The average price last week was $10 per thousand. Sweet peas are poor. Shasta daisies are fine and a good supply is coming in. There is also a good supply of cornflowers, candytuft, gypsophila and hydrangeas. Longiflorum lilies and valley are selling well. Calla and candidum lilies are done for.

There is always a good call for adiantum, asparagus and other greens, with which the market is well supplied.

Various Notes.

Ernest Strehle, superintendent of public parks, with twenty-five park employees, left July 24 for Chicago, where they will be the guests of the Chicago park department. Mr. Strehle says they will make a tour of the parks of Chicago and also visit the range of Poehlmann Bros. Co., at Morton Grove, Ill.

David Geddis, head of Vandervoort's flower department, is spending his vacation at Pittsburgh, Pa., his old home. Julius Schaeffer is in charge of the department in his absence.

John J. Burke, who is spending the summer months at home, says that as soon as the season opens he will take up his position with the Idle Hour Nurseries, at Macon, Ga.

us that the many recent storms have kept his department on the jump and that as many as 10,000 trees throughout the city have suffered greatly. The pleasant weather last week helped to clean up the work.

Harry Young, head of H. Young & Son, on Maryland avenue, recently purchased the old family home on Waterman avenue. Mr. Young's present home is just across the way. He also has an interest in the firm of C. Young & Sons Co.

The meeting of the Retail Florists' Association, July 19, was well attended. J. F. Ammann was to be the speaker of the evening, but failed to put in an appearance. The committees on the distribution of flowers during a glut, the credit system and the Sunday closing question were instructed to make final reports at the next meeting, which will be held August 16.

Henry Roth, of the St. Louis Seed Co., reports the arrival of a big, healthy boy at his home, July 21. The visitor kept Mr. and Mrs. Roth from attending the florists' picnic.

Miss Paula Hunkel, sister of H. V. Hunkel, of Milwaukee, Wis., and a friend, spent July 24 and 25 here on their way home from the San Francisco fair.

C. Young & Sons Co. purchased a large tract of land on the Olive street road last week. The rapid encroachment of apartments and residences in the vicinity of the old plant at Belt and Waterman avenues has made it useless for the growing of plants and cut flowers and the ground there will be cut into lots and sold. A range of new houses is to be built at once on the newly acquired ground.

Albert Gumz, vice-president of the Windler Wholesale Floral Co., and his bride, have returned from their honeymoon trip. All the buyers in the wholesale district have showered him with congratulations.

Julius Dilloff, representing Schloss Bros., New York, called on the trade last week.

Joseph Deutschmann, secretary of the County Growers' Association, says the meeting of the association August 4 will be important and requests all members to attend. All committees are to make final reports.

Joseph J. Windler, head of Windler's Flower Store, 2300 South Grand avenue, and Miss Bernice Olga Poss will be married August 4, in St. Anthony's church. They will spend their honeymoon at the San Francisco fair and intend to remain until after the S. A. F. convention.

The Market.

Business in general has been quiet since the beginning of July. There has been little transient trade. Trade is sufficient to keep the summer forces in the stores busy. The weather is warm, making it difficult to keep stock in good condition for any length of time.

Carnations are almost at an end.
They are small, weak-stemmed and show the brownish spots caused by the hot sun. There are still a few good varieties to be had, such as Ward, Enchantress Supreme and White Wonder.
Roses are excellent. White Killarney,
Mrs. Aaron Ward, Taft and Maryland are good sellers. Key and Russell are excellent summer roses, and bring a good retail price because of the limited supply. Valley is plentiful, and the demand for it keeps up fairly well.
Canadian valley is much larger and better than the home-grown stock.
Gypsophila, gaillardia and coreopsis continue to be favorites with flower buyers. Sweet peas of good quality are arriving in great quantities. Usually the supply is sold out each day, but a number of clean-up sales have been noticed. Bronze galax is poor, and green galax is almost too poor to use. The only summer-flowering plants noticed are a few gloxinias and tuberous begonias.

Various Notes.

Jerry Roach, of W. J. Palmer & Son, will spend his vacation in and around Pittsburgh, Pa. He will leave sometime in August.

Henry Krause will leave early in August for Conesus lake, where he will spend two weeks fishing.

J. Benson Stafford has changed his plan of putting in a permanent summer window display, and instead will make a specialty of vases and jardinieres filled with summer garden flowers, prettily arranged in contrasting colors. In the foreground he plans to have Japanese bowls filled with pond lilies. The window is to be rearranged each morning, so as to keep it fresh and summery.

Miss M. Rath will go to the Mountain View House in the Adirondacks in August, where she will spend her vacation.

Barney Myers, of Lancaster, is cutting a good crop of summer roses. His

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

President, John M. Lupton, Mattituck, L. I.;
Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

THE supply of spinach from Holland will not be so large as usual this season.

THERE are lugubrious reports regarding seed crops in Holland, following several weeks of dry weather.

REPORTS from California tend to show seeds of the flat varieties of onion used for sets as more scarce than the globular.

A BLUE list of seed firms from which farmers may buy pure clover and alfalfa seed has been prepared by the seed laboratory at the University Farm, St. Paul, Minn.

F. W. BRUGGERHOF, president of J. M. Thorburn & Co., has returned to New York after a two months' vacation in New Hampshire. Mr. Bruggerhof, who is 84 years of age, has been connected with the concern since 1849.

THE Sant' Anna, on its last trip from Marseilles, brought twenty cases of immortelles, the first shipment of the season. This appears to be one of the items the war will not cut off; America will get the greater part of the year's supply.

WILLARD ZELLER, who won the grand champion sweepstakes prize for the best bushel of corn at the Panama-Pacific exposition and who furnished the corn which is shown pouring out of Iowa's horn of plenty, is head of the new Zeller Seed Co., which is building at Jefferson, Ia.

FACTS from 500 reports show that the Michigan bean crop is quite backward in growth on account of continued cool weather. The crop is about five inches high—at least three weeks behind normal growth. It will take good, warm, growing weather from now on to bring the crop up to condition.

ON asters and sweet peas America is not only self-supplying, but has for some years supplied important quantities to the rest of the world. As for other flower seeds, in a general way, the seed trade is dependent on Germany, although there are important items that may as well be had elsewhere. The war is giving a great impetus to flower seed production in both England and America.

THE onion set crop at Chicago is in such shape that the best guesser is at sea as to the outcome. The growth is altogether abnormal and the weather conditions are such that there is little chance for any improvement. Harvest time is at hand and not more than half of the acreage is fit to take. It is a question whether the sets will keep properly, even though the growers can get them into the crates. The situation is altogether problematical.

THE Leonard Seed Co., Chicago, brought together the other day the men it has had going over its trial grounds at Avondale, near Chicago, and at Columbus, Wis., and found the trials to be in splendid shape. A. H. Smith says a great deal of information was derived from comparing seed stocks from different parts of the country. Speaking of peas, Mr. Smith says the Wisconsin peas are probably the best crop harvested as to type and quality. The yield is good and the packers consider them better than those grown under irrigation. They are packing smaller this year and are not nearly so coarse as the irrigated. He reports a heavy demand by canners for this type.

THE Holland bulb growers consider the quality of this year's crop unusually good. Weather for the harvest was favorable. It is said the character of the stock has been improved by last season's surplus, the growers doing their throwing away among the most common varieties rather than among the better sorts. While the production is not so large as last year, a surplus still is likely, because of closed markets and restricted demand in those that are open.

THE SECOND GENERATION.

Robert Henry Black, who is not, as the illustration would indicate, a sower, but a seller of seeds, learned the business from his father, at Independence, Ia., where he was born, and is now putting in practice the paternal principles at Albert Lea, Minn. After leaving Independence and before arriving at Albert Lea, Mr. Black spent some time at Fayette, Ia., at the Upper Iowa University, and later sojourned a while in Philadelphia, where he had plenty of opportunity to become versed in the science of seed selling. Although he has not been in Albert Lea long, Mr. Black has already made himself well known in that part of the country. His hobby is the gladiolus, and when state fair time comes, he annually picks up a few premiums.

Robert Henry Black.

SHENANDOAH'S PRIDE.

One of the nicest things that can happen to any business is to have the community take pride in it. And Shenandoah undeniably is proud of the Henry Field Seed So. Says a local newspaper:

"Of the $313,000 received in payment for seeds, it should be remembered that practically every cent is outside money coming into Shenandoah, and the bulk of it stays here, being paid out for labor, seeds, grain, supplies and the dozens of other expenses.

Ayres' Winter Spencer or Butterfly Sweet Pea is the king of all. It insures continuous blooming throughout the winter and must not be in any way confused with the old late Spencers.

Our entire seed department force is giving the florists its undivided attention. Those progressive florists who foresee the certainty of a heavy demand for Sweet Peas during the coming fall festivals and early holiday trade are buying now.

Winter Countess Spencer is undoubtedly the finest sweet pea in existence; it is extremely early and blooms profusely all winter and spring; during the darkest days it still radiates the gorgeous pink shade, as though still kissed by the sun; in no other variety have we noticed so prominently the delightful fragrance that exists in these mammoth blooms. Truly the sweet pea of the day. The seed is worth double what we ask; but to introduce everywhere, our price is, oz., $8.00; 2 oz., $15.00; ¼ lb., $28.00; lb., $110.00.

Winter Red Spencer; large wavy orange red, most valuable for winter cutting, oz., $4.50; 2 oz., $8.00; ¼ lb., $15.00; lb., $50.00.

Winter White Spencer (black seeded, which makes it especially easy to germinate), mammoth wavy double-like flowers, very prolific and undoubtedly the finest white in existence, oz., $6.50; 2 oz., $12.00; ¼ lb., $23.00.

Winter Lavender Unwin, the best winter lavender in cultivation; mammoth flower—truly a gem, oz., $2.50; ¼ lb., $8.00; lb., $30.00.

Winter Duplex Pink Spencer; true Spencerian or Orchid type of a shell pink color, oz., $3.50; 2 oz., $6.50; ¼ lb., $12.00.

Popularity Spencer No. 11 is made up of two shades of the most exquisite pink; they bunch perfectly together, and in this the florist receives the two popular shades of the highest Spencer perfection; oz., $7.00; 2 oz., $13.00; ¼ lb., $25.00; lb., $90.00.

Wm. L. Rock Spencer. This winter blooming butterfly has developed into one of the grandest varieties of the day. Mr. Rock himself declares it to be the king of all Spencers. It is a very shy seeder, and for this reason we have had to turn down hundreds of customers, our supply having been exhausted shortly after harvest; this year we can spare just 100 ounces; so be early. Oz., $8.00; 2 oz., $15.00; ¼ lb., $28.00; lb., $110.00. The above unavoidably contains some of our Winter Blushing Bride Spencer, but as it is equally as valuable as Rock and bunches well with it, we believe this will be agreeable news.

Ayres' Orchid Spencer Mixture contains the most celebrated of our winter flowering originations; those who do not care to spend very much money and yet desire colors that will bunch beautifully, should by all means purchase some of these. Oz., $2.50; ¼ lb., $8.00; lb., $30.00.

MORE SWEET PEAS

Yes, you will also want us to send some of these good, old, true varieties. They are all the Ayres' Perfection Brand, so you are assured absolute protection against inferior quality.

Snowbird, the earliest and most prolific white in cultivation, oz., 25c; ¼ lb., 75c; lb., $2.00.

Christmas Pink, a genuine favorite, oz., 15c; ¼ lb., 50c; lb., $1.50.

Christmas White, a good white, oz., 15c; ¼ lb., 50c; lb., $1.50.

Christmas Blue, violet blue, a good seller, oz., 25c; ¼ lb., 75c; lb., $2.00.

Mrs. Alex. Wallace, most beautiful lavender, a good bloomer, oz., 25c; ¼ lb., 75c; lb., $2.00.

Mrs. Wm. Sim, salmon pink and a winner, often producing stems 20 inches long, oz., 25c; ¼ lb., 75c; lb., $2.00.

Mrs. Wilde, carmine, oz., 25c; ¼ lb., 75c; lb., $2.00.

J. F. Hannan, carmine, oz., 25c; ¼ lb., 75c; lb., $2.00.

Mrs. F. J. Dolansky, exquisite daybreak pink, the best all-round sweet pea, oz., 25c; ¼ lb., 75c; lb., $2.00.

Mrs. C. H. Totty, sky blue or lavender, oz., 15c; ¼ lb., 50c; lb., $1.50.

Canary, yellow, oz., 25c; ¼ lb., 75c; lb., $2.00.

Christmas Primrose, primrose, oz., 15c; ¼ lb., 50c; lb., $1.50.

Florence Denzer, large wavy white, oz., 25c; ¼ lb., 75c; lb., $2.00.

Christmas Meteor, red, oz., 25c; ¼ lb., 75c; lb., $2.00.

Flamingo, red, oz., 25c; ¼ lb., 75c; lb., $2.00.

Ayres' American Beauty, a general favorite salmon red, oz., 50c; ¼ lb., $1.50; lb., $5.00.

It is this kind of money that makes a town prosperous.

"Here are a few figures of interest. The catalogue takes three to four carloads of paper for a single issue. Seed Sense, the magazine published by the company, has the largest circulation of any paper of any kind published in this state. The private printing plant where all the printing for the firm is done is the largest and best equipped printing office between Des Moines, St. Joe and Council Bluffs, except one at Red Oak.

"One small item of the firm's annual business is almost $10,000 worth of garden implements, wheel-hoes and garden drills. The business of the nursery department amounted to over $36,000 for the year. The small garden seeds amounted to $101,819.

"The business is exclusively retail mail order direct with the planter. The firm has no agents, no travelers, does not sell to dealers, and does not put out any seeds on commission.

"An average of forty-eight orders is received to every 100 catalogues sent out, which is probably the highest average in the entire seed business."

One of the noticeable features of the book is the carefully arranged list of grass seed mixtures "suitable for various soils and uses."

A. H. Hews & Co., Inc., Cambridge, Mass.—"Flower Pots and Red Earthenware Specialties," a neat booklet of sixteen pages, illustrated. The general list of florists' standard pottery is followed by the statement: "We also make vases, urns, jars, pigeon nests, poultry founts, germinating pans, and specialties to order." At the end are tables showing the approximate weights of various styles of pots. The dates on the catalogue, 1765-1915, give a hint of the fact that the company is celebrating the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the establishment, now designated as "the oldest and largest flower pot factory in the world."

You are Patriotic Buy From an American Pansy Farm

The Cream of American and European Pansies in Consolidation Mammoth Mixture

It contains the most beautiful and rare shades of the Pansy Universe; the blooms are enormous in size, borne on stems consistently long; they have been grown and reselected until now they show a most remarkable hardiness by withstanding the cold weather of the north, with little or no protection, and even showing blooms many times during the winter. On account of an unusually large crop we are able to make this unusually low price.

1 oz., $3.00; 2 ozs., $5.50; 1/4 lb., $10.00

NOTE—One ounce of Consolidation Mixture will produce easily 20,000 plants, and figuring an extremely low price of 1c each in the spring, you have a profit of $197.00 on just one ounce; enough seed for 80,000 plants costs you only $10.00; if you wish to sell, say one-half your plants this fall at about $3.00 per 1000—a Review ad will do the work—leaving you a nice little profit and with $400.00 worth of plants for spring sales. Does this look attractive?

PRINCESS

30—The New Upright Pansy

This strain is entirely distinct from all others. It is absolutely compact, upright growing, and extremely weather-proof, enduring many storms without damage to its flower. The flowers are mostly blotched and frilled like the Masterpiece, of good form and heavy velvety texture, on heavy stems carried well above the foliage. Attractive by the brilliancy of its colors.

500 Seeds 20c; 1000 Seeds 35c; 1/4 oz. $1.00; 1/2 oz. $2.00; 1 oz. $7.50.

- 24—Kenilworth Show—A fine strain.
- 28—Mme. Perret—Red and wine shades.
- 40—Zebra—Fine striped mixture.
- 42—Adonis—Light blue, white center.
- 44—Black—Almost coal black.
- 46—Black with bronze center.
- 48—Lord Beaconsfield—Purple shaded white.
- 50—Bronze—Beautiful bronze.
- 52—Bronze with yellow center.
- 54—Velvet Brown with yellow center.
- 56—Havana Brown.
- 58—Havana Brown with yellow center.
- 60—Cardinal—Curled, bright red, dark blotch.

The KENILWORTH Giant Pansy

seeds are all grown by myself and are offered in the following mixtures and separate colors:

22—KENILWORTH STRAIN—The flowers are of perfect form and substance; many of the immense flowers are from 3 1/2 to 4 inches; it is a striking collection of beautiful colors and markings rich with shades of red, brown, bronze, mahogany and many others too numerous to mention. Light, Medium or Dark Mixtures.

26—KENILWORTH CUT FLOWER MIXTURE—Is a distinct class by itself, surpassing all other strains as a cut flower or for exhibition purposes, for inside or outside growing; the large flowers are carried erect above the foliage on heavy stems, 7 or 8 inches long, in the most graceful manner, and stand the hot, dry weather well.

28—MASTERPIECE—A remarkable type; the curled, wavy petals giving the flower a double appearance, large flowers of great substance, on long, strong stems.

30—GIANT THREE AND FIVE BLOTCHED PANSIES—A superb mixture. Flowers large and of circular form and of great substance. The display of coloring is unsurpassed. A combination of almost every shade of rich velvety colors, reds are particularly conspicuous; the petals being distinctly marked with three or five large dark blotches.

32—GIANT PARISIAN—The flowers are of enormous size, and beautifully marked, mostly five dark blotches on white and yellow ground. An unusually showy mixture.

NEW SEED NOW READY

All sorts and mixtures, except the new Pansy Princess, are $5.00 per oz.; $1.25 per 1/4 oz.; 5000 seeds, $1.00; trade packet of 1000 seeds, 25c; any 5 pkts., $1.00. Please order by number.

- 62—Cecily—Steel blue, margined white.
- 64—Goliath—Large curled yellow, blotched.
- 66—Hero—Curled, deep blue shaded white.

Vegetable Forcing

STERILIZING LETTUCE SOIL.

Will you give me some information about sterilizing a lettuce house in which the soil is infected with rosette? What is the best means of sterilizing? If steam is used for the purpose, what size of pipes, sixty feet long, would be best, if connected with a 15-horsepower boiler, and how close together should the pipes be placed? What do you think of formaldehyde for sterilizing?

W. R. M.—Kan.

There is some doubt as to just what trouble is referred to as rosette of lettuce plants. Sometimes a rosetted appearance is caused by plant lice and similar insects, which can be held in check by the use of nicotine solution or tobacco smoke. When the trouble is due, however, to certain other insects or fungi, such as cause the damping off of the plants, stem-rot, etc., the sterilizing of the soil will be helpful. Live steam answers better than formaldehyde.

When much of this work is to be done, or if the soil is on benches, the cheapest way, so far as the outfit is concerned, is to build a sterilizing box. This may be of any convenient size, say 6x20 feet and eighteen inches deep, with a tight cover. The steam pipes should be 1-inch, with a $\frac{1}{8}$ -inch hole every two feet, alternating on opposite sides. The pipes should be placed two feet apart, and the holes should be so arranged that the jets will be between those in the adjacent pipe. If a pipe is placed one foot from each side, with a third pipe in the middle of the box, all of the soil in a box six feet wide will be sterilized. The pipes should be at the bottom of the box and the soil should be twelve to fifteen inches in depth. The length of time required will depend to some extent on the steam pressure, two to three hours being desirable for ten pounds of pressure.

For sterilizing the soil in solid beds, the pipes, after being drilled as already suggested, should be placed in trenches about ten inches below the surface and two feet apart, and after the soil has been replaced the bed should be covered with canvas. If the beds are more than fifty feet long it will be well to use $1\frac{1}{4}$ -inch pipe, and unless twenty-five pounds of steam can be given 100 feet will be about a maximum length for that size. The steam should be kept on for two hours after the surface at the farther end of the house has become warm.

Arranged in this way, the pipes can be quickly taken up and transferred to other beds. The thorough sterilization of the soil with steam will not only destroy all insects and fungi, as well as their eggs and spores, but will also prevent the germination of grass and weed seeds.

Cut Flowers, Wire Work, Florists' Supplies110-112 E. Third St., CINCINNATI, OHIO*...THE... Chrysanthemum*By Arthur Herrington

Formerly president Chrysanthemum Society of America.

The most complete and comprehensive work on the cultivation of the chrysanthemum that has yet been published in America. Its scope and character may be gleaned from the list of contents, which comprises chapters on composts; planting; benches, boxes or pots; general cultural details; crown and terminal buds; feeding, its object and application; care of the buds; exhibition and judging; specimen plants, plants in pots; raising from seed and hybridizing; sports; hardy chrysanthemums; chrysanthemums for south and west; insect pests and diseases; classification and selection of varieties for special purposes; history of the chrysanthemum, etc. The book will be welcomed for the lucid, comprehensive, as well as the practical character of its contents. Handsomely illustrated. 168 pages, 5x7 inches. Price 50c postpaid.

NOTICE

To all American Nurserymen and Seedsmen desiring to keep in touch with commercial horticulture in England and the continent of Europe: Your best means of doing this is to take in the Horticultural Advertiser

Our circulation covers the whole trade in Great Britain and the cream of the European firms. Impartial reports of all novelties, etc. Paper free on receipt of 75 cents, covering cost of postage yearly.
As the H. A. is a purely trade medium, applicants should, with the subscription, send a copy of their catalogue or other evidence that they belong to the nursery or seed trade.

HOW TO MAKE MONEY GROWING

VIOLETS

BY GEORGE SALTFOORD.

The cultural directions are clear and concise and every detail of successful growing is covered in this neatly printed, freely illustrated pamphlet of 48 pages.

It is said that this book, more than any other agency, has contributed to the wonderful expansion of the Hudson River violet industry the past three years.

A SANTA CRUZ GROWER.

One of the neatest and most up-to-date places in Santa Cruz or vicinity is that of W. E. King, who appears in a semi-retired position in the photograph reproduced herewith. The picture shows a corner of his establishment and various specimen plants on which he lavishes much care. For instance, on the bracket shelf fastened to the post is a staghorn fern that Mr. King thinks is worthy of notice. And there are others.

ment and various specimen plants on which he lavishes much care. For instance, on the bracket shelf fastened to the post is a staghorn fern that Mr. King thinks is worthy of notice. And there are others.

Although Mr. King has been quite busy with trade recently, he found time to run up to the exposition at San Francisco for four days not long ago. On his return he wrote, on request, an article on flowers and plants at the exposition for the Santa Cruz News. The rhododendrons, roses, acacias, lily ponds and mesembryanthemum screens called for particular notice from him.

LOS ANGELES.

The Market.

Considering the season, business has kept up remarkably well and stock has been cleaned up on most days. Asters are at their best, and the sweetly scented, showy Belladonna lilies are coming in finely. Outdoor roses have declined somewhat, both in quality and quantity, and this gives the indoor stock a better chance. When there are really good outdoor Ulrich Brunners and Laings to be had, retailers cut down on the indoor stock, as the former last longer, even out of the icebox. Coreopsis, gailardias and other compositae are plentiful, as is usual at this time. Sweet peas are getting past their best, though some good flowers are still coming. Carnations are not as plentiful as they have been, but there are plenty of the long-is little doing; some fair ferns and begonias are about all that are offered.

Various Notes.

At Sierra Madre it is proposed to take advantage of one of the canyons that pierce the foot of the mountains here, and clear it for park purposes. It is already used a good deal by residents. The park commissioners propose to give W. W. Felgate an appropriation for clearing and beautifying it, as Mr. Felgate appears to have the confidence of the voters in the town. He proposes to keep the natural beauties of the place intact and simply clear away poison oak and other noxious material from certain spots, where seats and tables will be arranged for picnic parties. There is some natural water here, and there are some grand live oaks, sycamores and California bays. Also, when I visited the place recently, many parts of the canyon sides were covered with the scarlet delphinium, D. cardinale. The locality is noted for wild flowers and ferns and will undoubtedly lend itself well to the careful treatment that Mr. Felgate is preparing to bestow on it.

John A. Evans, of Richmond, Ind., is in town, having returned here from San Diego, where he went to see the show last week. Mr. Evans came by the southern route and was delighted with the cool breezes here, after the desert trip. He has a story to tell of being locked up in a Mexican church and having to pay largess to get out, but he will have other stories to tell of Los Angeles and its beauties before he gets away. He reports sales good all along the line for his ventilating machines and other specialties.

E. W. McLellan, of San Francisco, is in town this week, on a business trip. He does not complain of bad times at all, but is talking of the new range of glass he is going to build. He made considerable purchases of roses from H. W. Turner.

R. W. Garland, of the staff of Wright's Flower Shop, left this week

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

Business at the larger downtown shops has taken a sudden spurt within the last week, owing to some big special decorations and accelerated counter trade due to the presence of important Shriner and Elk gatherings. On at least one occasion the market was absolutely cleaned up in some of the staple lines. It is safe to say that the downtown florists have never before enjoyed such a rush at this time of year, and not often at any season except around Christmas. Those on less frequented streets are not so busy, but most of them are also getting a share of the activity. It is hard to tell what can be counted on for the near future, but with the convention season in full swing and more people coming into town all the time, it looks as if there would be no more real dullness this year.

The new system in the carnation market is getting adjusted and seems to be giving satisfaction all around, though it is a little early to draw conclusions. The flowers are still plentiful, but prices hold steady. Sweet peas are going off, both in quality and quantity. Asters are of better quality and the increasing supplies still clean up well. Sunflowers figure largely in the offerings. Large quantities of coreopsis are used, and the flood of stocks, gaillardias, scabiosas, mignonette, gypsophilas, godetias, etc., continues, though practically all are sold. Gladioli are still coming in well, and some florists are getting from private sources some fine varieties, which could hardly be profitably grown for the open market. Dahlias are still improving and the supplies of first-class stock in several popular varieties are ample. There is rather an excess of cut tritomas. Some fine yellow tiger lilies are appearing, and these, together with rubrum, make a brilliant showing in the windows. Roses are fair, on the whole, and the sales have been large, but spasmodic. Ulrich Brunner is still good and quite popular. Beauties clean up readily, with moderate offerings. Russell, Ophelia and Sunburst are moving well. Orchids have been scarce the last few days, and, with a strong counter demand for high-priced stock, many more could have been sold than were offered. Gardenias have cleaned up readily. Of potted stock, hydrangeas

Mrs. J. Wessell, bookkeeper for Pelicano, Rossi & Co., has just returned from a vacation trip, during which she motored up into Humboldt county, and from there to Lake Tahoe and Reno, Nev.

The conventions of the Rotary Clubs, Shriners, Elks, etc., are bringing a lot of florists to San Francisco, and many of them have taken the opportunity to get acquainted with the local trade. Most of them express delight with San Francisco, the exposition and the California climate, and a number who have lately arrived plan to stay over until after the S. A. F. convention. Among the recent arrivals was John Young, secretary of the S. A. F., who is looking after a lot of preliminary details in preparation for the convention. Another is Vincent Gorly, of St. Louis, who expects to spend the latter part of the month on a trip to Los Angeles and San Diego, returning here for the convention; also Sam Lundy, of Denver, Colo., formerly with Pelicano, Rossi & Co., who left here four and a half years ago and returns wearing a fez. admit that California has something worth seeing in the way of flowers and flower business. Others here at present are Charles P. Mueller, of Wichita, Kan.; Edward Sceery, of Passaic, N. J., and R. C. Kerr, of Houston, Tex.

Domoto Bros. have been bringing in some fine Lilium rubrum lately. Mr. Domoto says they have about 15,000 planted and expect a large sale for them.

A nice cut of Minnie Burtle dahlias, something better than the ordinary, has been coming in from Rosaia's, at Colma.

Frank G. Cuthbertson, of C. C. Morse & Co., has just returned from a vacation.

What would perhaps be a decided novelty to many eastern florists is the showing in several San Francisco windows of artichoke blossoms. The buds are extensively grown south of San Francisco and shipped as vegetables, while the blossoms, when perfect, can be strikingly and effectively used in decoration.

The meeting of the Ladies' California Floral Society on the evening of July 14, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Axell, of the E. W. McLellan Co., was a pleasant affair. There were nearly forty present, many of the ladies being accompanied by their husbands. While the meeting was primarily of a social nature, some progress was made on plans for the reception of ladies of the S. A. F., and some new members were admitted.

Frank Pelicano reports a great rush the last fortnight on general funeral and decorative work, in addition to the Liberty Bell float. His second crop of Panama gladioli is now at its height, and he is getting some fine flowers of this and several other fine varieties.

PORTLAND, ORE.The Market.

The crest of a hot wave reached here July 20, and the weather man reported the temperature the highest since 1907. It was 100 degrees from 4 to 6 p. m., but cooler weather followed. Considerable stock was affected by the heat, but there remained enough to meet the small demand. Gladioli continue the leading feature in window displays. The call for funeral work increased slightly, and the entertainment of several large parties of Elks, en route from their convention, used up considerable stock.

Club Meeting.

The Portland Floral Society met Tuesday, July 20. The final report of the secretary showed an active membership of seventy-five, and the retiring treasurer reported a balance of $408 on hand. On taking the chair, the incoming president, S. W. Walker, read a paper, in which he used the analogy of the growing plant to sketch the history of the society, from the meeting of April 26, 1912, when the seed was sown, to the final setting of the plant in the center of the rose festival of this year. He pointed out that the success of the society was due to the spirit of cooperation and brotherhood among members, and with this spirit the society should gain in strength and usefulness. In naming a committee of growers and one of retailers, he called their attention to the benefits resulting to them if they would take measures to avoid large overproduction, and establish a code of business ethics. He said these were matters which the society, as a body, could not handle safely. In the future, he said, it would be his aim to call the meetings to order not later than 8:15 p. m., and finish the routine business as soon as possible. The president emphasized the fact that meetings must be made interesting to hold up the attendance, and urged the program committee to provide questions for informal discussion or essays on subjects of interest.

Two new members were enrolled.

The entertainment committee was given charge of the entertainment of the visiting florists en route to and from the San Francisco convention.

R. W. Gill, manager of the fall show of the Northwest National Dahlia Society, stated that the show would be open to exhibits of all seasonable flowers from both professionals and amateurs. Special attention will be given to the exhibits of fall-blooming, outdoor roses. The show will be held about the middle of September.

The committee on exhibitions reported that Vancouver, Wash., had applied to Manager Dorsche, of the festival floral center, for an estimate on the cost of this feature on a smaller scale.

F. A. Van Kirk, who went to Seattle with the Shriners, reported that the fresh Portland roses sent over daily for the parades made a big hit.

The president's table was decorated with a large bunch of early Comet asters brought in by Mr. Fleishauer, the aster specialist. This is a strain of Crego, which, he says, is considerably earlier than the original.

The officers of the Portland Floral Society are: President, S. W. Walker; vice-president and chairman of board of trustees, E. J. Steele; secretary, H. Niklas; treasurer, James Forbes.

Various Notes.

Henry Clemmens said his sweet peas, which were off crop at the time of the sweet pea show, would be in good bearing next week.

AMERICAN CARNATION SOCIETY.

The Department of Floriculture of the University of Illinois is conducting experiments for the purpose of determining the cause of, and a remedy for, the disease of carnations known as yellows. These experiments were started last year and have advanced far enough to promise definite results. There is, perhaps, no work in which the members of the A. C. S. should be more vitally interested, on account of the prevalence of this disease and the damage it is doing the carnation industry.

In order to carry on these experiments successfully and to arrive at definite conclusions, they require material from all sections of the country and to that end we ask that all members of the A. C. S. forward to them a limited number of each variety showing these light spots (in the red and crimson sorts the spots are dark purplish) in the leaves.

The names of those who supply this material will not be made public, so that no apprehension need be felt on that score.

The experimental benches will be planted during the first two weeks in August and these specimens should be forwarded during that time. Label each variety plainly. Address all packages to Department of Floriculture, University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill.

NURSERY NEWS.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF NURSEYMEN.

President, E. S. Welch, Shenandoah, Ia.; Vice-president, John Watson, Newark, N. Y.; Secretary, John Hall, Rochester, N. Y.; Treasurer, Peter Youngers, Geneva, Neb.
Forty-first annual meeting, Milwaukee, Wis., June 22 to 24, 1916.

THE Wisconsin legislature has passed a bill creating the office of state entomologist and merging with it the office of state inspector of nurseries and orchards.

THE Woonsocket Hill Nurseries, at Woonsocket, R. I., of which C. W. Morey is the proprietor, have been increased by the purchase of two acres of land adjoining. There are now about ten acres in all.

THE estimate of the apple crop for the entire country for 1915 indicates a decrease of nearly twenty-five per cent from last year's total. The estimate for 1915 is 191,260,000, while last year's crop was 253,200,000.

THE creditors of Reilly Bros., Dansville, N. Y., have decided to accept the proposition made to them a month ago, viz., a cash payment of ten per cent and the issuing of preferred stock for ninety per cent. It is said that a new corporation will be formed, with some of the creditors as directors for the first year. The firm filed a petition in bankruptcy April 20, scheduling assets of $71,060 and liabilities of $31,535.42, and Edward Bacon, of Daseom, was appointed receiver. It was stated at the time that the action was taken only to make a settlement with creditors.

DELAYED DELIVERY.

Carrier's Liability for Damages.

Two important questions of law of special application to shipments of nursery stock, so far as concerns the carrying railway company's liability for delay in delivery, were passed upon the other day by the Supreme Court of Oklahoma in the case of Foote vs. M. K. & T. Ry. Co., 149 Pacific Reporter, 223.

The first point relates to the liability of the initial carrier of an intrastate shipment transported over connecting lines and the second bears on the measure of damages recoverable for negligent delay in delivery.

A nursery company at Durant, Okla., shipped two lots of fruit trees to plaintiff at two different points in the same state, but beyond the line of defendant company, which received the freight, and plaintiff brought suit to recover damages resulting from delays in delivery. He was awarded judgment in the trial court, but it was reversed by the Supreme court, which said on the first point:

"The only liability assumed by an initial common carrier of intrastate commerce in this state, unless it contracts for greater responsibility, is that it will deliver the shipment to the end of its route, in the proper direction of its destination to some other competent carrier carrying to the place of address, or connected with those who thus carry. When it has done that, its responsibility ceases, subject, of course, to a proper response to the demand of the shipper for proofs that the loss or injury did not occur on its line. * * * We are of the opinion that the law, as to the damage or entire loss of the goods, would apply to the question of injury caused by delay, so far as it relates to the manner of fixing the liability of the carrier; but it is not necessary to seek to apply that rule here, for the plaintiff says he did not demand of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway Co. as initial carrier proofs and facts as to which road was responsible for the delay, and as a matter of fact such a demand would have been un-

"Like a Sea of Glory"

We have been to California, the land of flowers, and to Rochester, the garden of America, but have never seen such a vision of splendor as our vast Iris gardens presented when in full bloom.

200,000 in 250 varieties, comprising the choicest the world affords, covering several acres, give the spectator such a view as earth seldom presents.

"Oh, beautiful! beautiful flower!
The ward of the sunbeam and shower,
In garments of woven delight,
Of the sunset, Aurora and light;
While over thy beauty there plays
Such delicate tinting and rays,
Such blending of color and shade
Well becoming a heavenly maid.

"Thy Mother, fair Iris, in beauty supreme,
Took all her rich fabrics of loveliest sheen,
The robes of the rainbow, flower garden of air,
Of bewildering beauty, resplendently fair,
And made for her child such a dazzling dress
No daughter of royalty e'er could possess."

There is their fascinating and alluring loveliness. The marvelous veining and tracery and the delicate intermingling of colors which give them a charm no other flower possesses. Many of them have a delicious fragrance. Some have a radiant and dazzling reflex like the richest silk. They blend the beauty of cloudland and earth into a harmonious whole.

Why the Iris is the Coming Flower.

- 1st. Its indescribable loveliness.
- 2nd. By planting for a succession you have continuous bloom for over 2 months.
- 3rd. They are well adapted to the semi-arid regions and they flourish in cemeteries in hot and dry Arizona. Nebraska is their ideal home.
- 4th. They multiply rapidly. For commercial purposes they give more cash and pleasure than any other flower.
- 5th. It is easy to produce new varieties. Several growers are engaged in this work and are finding surprises of loveliness. And there is a prospect of securing some more beautiful than those we already have.
- 6th. In our northern states they are always on hand for Decoration Day, when they are now being used by the thousands. We have the red, white and blue for soldiers' graves.

The Forthcoming Iris Manual.

On account of the newly awakened interest in this flower and the confusion in the names, we are about to issue a new manual. We are fortunate in securing the interest of the best-informed person in America, Mrs. Dean of California, who at great expense has secured all the works pertaining to the Iris, including Dykes' great book, which cost $35. The author also has given 20 years to the study of this flower. Mrs. Dean has, after careful research, given the true names and descriptions of several hundred varieties, compiled largely from European catalogs. We have endeavored to prepare a work adapted to the common people, so that any one can understand it. The price will be 25c in stamps, $14.00 per 100 to the trade.

THE CHINESE TREE LILAC.

Destined to be a foot through and 50 feet tall. We have them already 8 inches through and 20 feet high. They are overwhelmed with snowy white, honey-scented flowers. Mr. Campbell, publisher of Fruit Grower, St. Joseph, Mo., writes: "You ought to push this tree. The one I got of you 18 years ago is now 11 inches through and 25 feet tall."

It is far more thrifty and beautiful than the Japan Tree Lilac. Fine twigs and foliage and often of a pendulous habit. Splendid as an individual tree or for lining driveways.

18 to 24 in., $5.00 per 100; 2 to 3 ft., $10.00, and 4 to 5 ft., $20.00 per 100. All on own roots. They have stood three consecutive years of drouth without flinching—the most promising tree of the century.

The true MATRIMONY VINE. Beautiful purple flowers and brilliant red berries, fine for trellises. $1.00 per dozen.

The Peony Manual recently issued is up to date and well illustrated.

The Phlox Manual—a complete work telling how to produce new varieties, how to plant and how to propagate.

The Evergreens is the result of 30 years' experience in the trying climate of the west. A man in North Dakota who wished to raise evergreens for that bleak country said: "I followed your book," and he raised millions of Evergreens.

YORK, NEBRASKA

lished by the evidence that the shipments were delivered to the connecting carrier within a reasonable time."

Special Circumstances Alter Case.

On the question of damages, the court said:

"This brings us to the question of the liability of the Oklahoma Central Railway Co. as connecting carrier. The evidence shows that the delay occurred on that road, and that it was unnecessary and unreasonable; but the question of the right of the plaintiff to recover damages for the class and kind of injury alleged is a more difficult proposition. It will be borne in mind that plaintiff's only cause of action is for the recovery of damage for expenses of men in locating trees and delivering the same after the delay occasioned by the negligence of the company.' No damage was claimed for injury to the trees, nothing for depreciation in intrinsic value, and nothing for depreciation in the market value thereof. No special time was agreed upon for the delivery of the shipments. The bill of particulars does not charge, and the bills of lading and shipping contract do not show, and there is no evidence tending to prove, that either of the defendants knew, or had any notice of the purpose for which the trees were being shipped, or that plaintiff was expecting or intending to deliver the trees to his customers December 17, or at any other time, or that he had employed anyone to be at the places of destination for any purpose. * * * Under such circumstances, would the plaintiff be entitled to recover, and, if so, what would be the measure of damages?"

The Oklahoma court then proceeds to a holding that plaintiff could not recover the special damages relied upon, for the reason that the railway company was not informed at the time the shipments were made that such damages would result from any delay in delivery. The court applies the general rule that only such damages may be recovered as were contemplated or might reasonably be supposed to have entered into the contemplation of the parties to the contract of carriage. If the owner of the goods would charge the carrier with any special damages, he must have communicated to the carrier all the facts and circumstances of the case which do not ordinarily attend the carriage or the peculiar character and value of the property carried, for otherwise such peculiar circumstances cannot be contemplated by the carrier.

ROBERT CRAIG COMPANY, 4900 Market Street, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

DENVER, COLO.

The Market.

The usual midsummer dull spell prevails. There is no business except for an occasional wedding decoration or funeral piece. Roses and carnations are good for this time of the year. The market is flooded with garden flowers, such as Shasta daisies, gaillardias, coreopsis, gladioli, centaureas, delphiniums, gypsophilas and sweet peas.

Various Notes.

The New York Floral Co. has moved from 526 Sixteenth street to 602 Sixteenth street, corner of Welton street. The new store is quite attractive with its white fixtures.

Hugo Neff, with the Wm. L. Rock Flower Co., Kansas City, Mo., is enjoying his vacation in Denver, his home town.

Robert Kurth, Ernest Flohr and Charles Bretschneider went to Boulder July 18, and were royally entertained by the Boulder florists.

Conrad Lengenfelder has sold his delivery car to the Curtis Park Floral Co. Mr. Lengenfelder is anxiously awaiting the arrival of his new car, which is being built to order.

Wm. Wilmore, Jr., Herbert Claussen, C. A. McCord and R. Schilling motored to the mountains for a two days' fishing trip.

Colorado Springs experienced the worst hail storm in its history July 18. The Pikes Peak Floral Co. and Frank Crump lost about half their glass.

R. S.

BEACON, N. Y.

Various Notes.

The Spy Hill Conservatories have some extra fine celery plants.

Everyone at the greenhouses of George W. Russell is hard at work planting chrysanthemums.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cook have returned from their honeymoon. Mr. Cook is planting adiantum.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Wood, of Fishkill, announce the coming marriage of their daughter, Florence, to Myers Brownell, Jr., of Brinckerhoff. The wedding will take place in the early fall. Mr. Wood, a member of the firm of Wood Bros., is planting a large quantity of chrysanthemums.

S. G. Benjamin, of Fishkill, has a large number of first-class cauliflower plants.

Benjamin Hammond, secretary of the American Rose Society, is busier than ever manufacturing his famous Slug Shot bug exterminator. S. L. Y.

NEW NEPHROLEPIS FERN—JOHN WANAMAKER

We will introduce the above new fern on August 1st, 1915. In presenting this fern to the trade, we feel confident that it will make a place for itself.

The John Wanamaker fern is a wonderful advance over all plain or wavy frond varieties. The side pinnae of the fronds are very fully undulated, giving the plants a very wavy appearance. It will make as many fronds as Teddy, Jr., plants in 4-inch pots having over sixty fronds. It is a beautifully formed plant, full and compact.

Orders will be filled strictly in rotation.

BRAMPTON, ONT.

The Market.

All outdoor stock has been benefited by the showers that have fallen with almost clocklike regularity during the last six weeks. It is many years since stock in the surrounding country has appeared in such good condition. The dullness of the flower market is attributable to the greater production of private-grown stock this year, and an indifferent demand.

Various Notes.

Lieut. F. K. Prouse, of the Dale Estate, has joined one of the regiments belonging to the oversea contingent, as assistant adjutant. He hopes to go to the front shortly. Donald Ross has also enlisted.

Mark Henderson, who had planned a trip to England this summer, was taken suddenly ill at New York before sailing and compelled to return home.

The annual convention of the Canadian Horticultural Association will be held at London, Ont., August 3 to 5.

SHORT HILLS, N. J.

John F. Anderson, fern specialist, reports that the present season is proving to be a good one, fully equal to any previous year he has been in business. He is shipping hundreds of thousands of seedlings, and later will be selling the larger plants. At the opening of the season he had between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 seedlings.

Thomas Jones, whose place is located near the Short Hills station of the Lackawanna railroad, has built a handsome office and store building facing the road leading to the station. He has torn down one of his old greenhouses and is building a new one, 18x130 feet.

Emerson C. McFadden, grower of asparagus and smilax, will put one house into sweet peas the coming season. He has not been growing sweet peas hitherto.

J. A. Harth, who a little over a year ago took over his father's place, reports that business has been fair, though it is quiet just now. Mr. Harth grows a general line of flowers, including outdoor sweet peas. His specialty is carnations.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Club Meeting.

The New Orleans Horticultural Association celebrated its thirty-first anniversary July 15 with a banquet at the Cosmo restaurant, and held its annual meeting in the auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce for the election of officers.

Henry Scheuermann, vice-president and general manager of the Orchid Store, was elected president. He has been in the florists' business for fifteen years and in partnership with J. A. Newsham, of the Magnolia Nursery, in the Orchid Store for the last two years. He is prominent in local fraternal organizations and an officer in several.

John Bollwinkel was elected vice-president. Charles R. Panter was re-elected secretary for the thirteenth consecutive term and John Eblen treasurer for the thirty-first consecutive term. Finances were reported in good condition; according to the treasurer, the society has $600 in state bonds, $200 in cash and $100 in "dead" cash represented in an investment in the Southern States fair. The $150 which the society realized at the recent flower show was devoted to the city beautiful movement.

At the banquet, C. R. Panter was toastmaster, and addresses were made by Henry Scheuermann, John Bollwinkel, C. A. Chopin, E. Baker, superintendent of the park commission; Paul Abele and others.

The Market.

Business last week remained quiet, and there was little doing except funeral work. Outside stock of all kinds was the best that had been seen on the market for some time. The cool spring has put vigor into the plants, and the abundance of rain has assisted in hardening them.

Various Notes.

Albert Claussen, of Albert Lea, Minn., and N. Clarine, of Faribault, Minn., were visitors for a few days. Then, accompanied by O. J. Olson, they proceeded on a trip to the Wisconsin trout streams for a few days.

J. Christensen is rapidly getting his houses in shape and procuring stock for them.

N. Nielsen, of Hazel Park, is installing a new boiler in his recently acquired houses.

L. E. Metcalf, of A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, displayed his wares last week and declared business good. C. R. F.

WINTER-FLOWERING ROSES

Specially Low Prices to Close Out Stocks Remaining Unsold.

We have a particularly fine stock of the newer and leading standard varieties in 3½ and 4-inch pots ready for immediate planting. The prices quoted below for 3½ and 4-inch stock are as low as the prices at which 2½-inch stock is usually sold. The demand for Ophelia is very heavy. If you want to plant this valuable new rose, do not delay placing order. While we have a nice stock of it at present, at the rate it is selling we are likely to become sold out before long.

Ophelia, Francis Scott Key, Mme. Edmond Rostand and Crimson Queen.....$20.00 per 100

Mrs. George Shawyer, Killarney Brilliant, Sunburst, Prince E. C. d'Arenberg, Lady Hillingdon, Mrs. Aaron Ward, Killarney Queen, Richmond and White Killarney.....$15.00 per 100

All of the above are strong grafted plants, with exception of Francis Scott Key, Mme. Edmond Rostand and Sunburst, which are own-root stock.

HYDRANGEAS

We have a magnificent lot of large plants grown in tubs and half-barrels for

JULY AND AUGUST FLOWERING

We have made a specialty of Hydrangeas for years, and our plants have never been finer than they are this year. They are well budded, and will be in perfection during July and August—when they are most in demand.

Hydrangea Otaksa, the standard pink variety, and the new French Hydrangeas—Avalanche, Fraicheur, La Lorraine, Mme. Maurice Hamar, Mme. E. Mouillere and Mlle. Renee Gaillard. Strong plants in tubs, $2.00 and $3.00 each—according to size.

Otaksa, very large specimens in half barrels, $7.50, $10.00 and $12.50 each—according to size.

DRACAENA INDIVISA

Large plants for centers of vases, 75c, $1.00 and $1.50 each—according to size.

MODESTY

From time to time we have modestly boosted our famous Silver Pink Snapdragon Seedlings, but it appears that we have not said half enough. Read this enthusiastic report and profit by it:

Medina, Ohio, July 22, 1915.

G. S. Ramsburg.

Dear Sir: Again we come with our $5.00 for seven packets of your WONDERFUL Silver Pink Snapdragon. They are grand. Your ads. don't do them justice. Seven times in three years we have bought your seeds.

Yours respectfully,

Hammerschmidt & Clark.

If you want the best there is in snapdragons and would begin at the right time, order seed today and sow them at once. July and August is the correct season to sow seed for all winter flowering. Our Silver Pink is the leader and seedlings of it will give three to five blooms to one of any other variety in existence. Cuttings will be a disappointment and waste of time. Buy seed today and sow now.

New crop seed of our original Silver Pink, $1.00 per pkt.; 8 for $2.50; 7 for $5.00. Seed of Nelrose, Buxton, Garnet, Yellow, White and mixed, 85c per pkt.; 8 for $1.00.

Splendid plants of Silver Pink Seedlings for fall blooms now ready at $1.00 per 100; $35.00 per 1000. Good plants of Nelrose at $5.00 per 100. Other colors ready in August.

Remember, we have a direct line on Snapdragon. All orders cash. Free cultural directions.

KANSAS CITY, MO.

The Market.

No material change in business conditions occurred last week. Trade was good, but a sudden change is anticipated. There is small difference between one day's business and the next. The wholesale market is well supplied with cut stock, particularly roses and gladioli. The latter are more abundant, but of exceptional quality, there being as many as twelve flowers to the spike. Roses are soft in texture and perish rapidly on a hot day. They are, however, the best roses that have ever appeared during July. Gypsophila is popular and plentiful. The demand for gypsophila, in funeral work, baskets and bouquets, is increasing. Asters are arriving in larger quantities, and are of good quality. There is a large quantity of outdoor stock, such as coreopsis, larkspur, daisies, etc., which a great many people outside the trade are growing.

Various Notes.

Miss Lou E. Boggess will leave August 1 for an extensive trip to the coast. She will spend about five weeks at Seattle, Wash., with her mother, and about ten days at Portland. Then the fair will be visited, and the return trip made through the Grand Canyon. Miss Boggess expects to be back about October 1.

Samuel Murray had a good week in funeral work. Miss Hayden, of the store, left July 24 for Wisconsin, to visit her mother for about a month.

Edward Humfeld's greenhouses are in good shape. All the chrysanthemums have been planted and a large space devoted to pot plants.

Mrs. T. A. Moseley reports excellent business for the week. Funeral work was plentiful and this summer's business has already exceeded that of last summer.

Arthur Newell says that business is good, especially for this time of the year. His spacious windows are filled with all kinds of stock, baskets of plants, cut flowers, and blooming plants. He says it brings the people in.

The George M. Kellogg Flower & Plant Co. is cutting a fine lot of roses at its greenhouses at Pleasant Hill.

W. L. Rock Flower Co. is cutting a fine lot of outdoor stock. The stock in the greenhouses is good, with a bright prospect for the future. Mr. Carter, of the store, left July 24 for a vacation in his old stamping grounds, the Ozark mountains, where he will spend several weeks fishing.

Please inform me whether it is best to paint hot water pipes in greenhouses, particularly in fern or show houses. Please state what kind of paint is used.
V. B. W.—Ia.

A smooth, glossy surface is objectionable for greenhouse pipes, since it lessens the radiation, and for this reason the use of asphaltum or the ordinary paints is not advisable. On the other hand, unpainted pipes are unsightly, and when they become covered with a thick coat of rust they may afford less efficient radiation than painted pipes. A halfway course between the two extremes is to use a paint composed of lampblack and turpentine. The addition of a small quantity of linseed oil will render this paint more durable without impairing its efficiency.

OBSTRUCTED CIRCULATION.

I am sending you a sketch and some information, with three plans for changing my heating system somewhat, and want you to tell me which plan would be most economical and most likely to give satisfactory results.

My greenhouse at first was 20x50 and was well heated, but I added thirty-three feet to the carnation section last summer, making the total length eighty-three feet. I first made inquiries of the greenhouse concern as to the length I could add by putting one more section on the boiler, and was told I could add forty feet. So you see my addition of thirty-three feet was on the safe side, but when I tried the heating it did not work; I had to run too heavy a fire. The only change I made in the piping was to lengthen the side coils in the carnation section, which is at the north end, next to the boiler. I could not heat all the pipes in the carnation coils, although I was running the water up to 180 degrees or more, and the water returning to the heater was quite hot and the coils in the general section were heated as of old.

Originally the water was reduced from the 2-inch flow into the 6-pipe side coils by 1½-inch pipe, and of course left the coil in 1½-inch, but when I found this was giving trouble I made the whole flow 2-inch to the coil, but could not fix up the return, as it was too late in the season. I got through the winter without disaster, but only by using lots of coal and night work, although the winter was a mild one.

I am considering three methods of remedying the trouble, and in each method I would change the 1½-inch coil return to 2-inch, so as to remove that much resistance. I propose, first, to install two coils with separate returns, from a new flow pipe, as shown in the sketch, running two flows in-

A Greenhouse Boiler that fairly shot into fame

Here is the boiler that is making the most wonderful greenhouse heating record in the world. Florists and gardeners who have used other makes are constantly giving the Kroeschell Greenhouse Boiler the highest praise.

The Kroeschell

has the highest standard of heating values. Immense Self-cleaning Heating Surface. Lowest Fire Travel. Perfect Combustion. Free Circulation. Thin Waterways. Honest Working Capacities. Unequaled Fuel Economy.

The Kroeschell

has replaced hundreds of cast iron boilers. In every case higher temperatures are secured with the Kroeschell with the same piping and with less fuel.

We have no agents. The Kroeschell is sold direct from factory to users. This eliminates the unnecessary middleman's profit.

Unlike Cast Iron Boilers, which cannot be depended upon to carry their ratings even when crowded with hard coal, "the Kroeschell" again excels because—every Kroeschell Boiler is honestly rated and guaranteed to carry the glass and pipe capacities stated in our catalogue to 60 degrees at 15 below zero. Any kind of fuel can be used. Our ratings are easily maintained with the cheapest grades of coal.

OVER 1500 CAST IRON BOILERS were replaced by the Kroeschell Hot Water Boiler during the past six years. It is a common occurrence for a Kroeschell Hot Water Boiler to replace two to four cast iron boilers at a single place; this is the CENTRAL HEATING SYSTEM PLAN, and has saved many florists hundreds of dollars per season in fuel alone, besides a big saving in labor.

READ WHAT THE USERS SAY ABOUT KROESCHELL BOILERSKroeschell Heats Large Office Building

Enclosed please find another order for No. 9 Kroeschell Boiler. This boiler is for a new office building. In reference to the two No. 8 boilers which you furnished for three buildings last year, will say that we are getting excellent results. The No. 18 is doing duty in a six-story building with 208 radiators, and the owner is so well pleased with it that he has ordered a No. 10 Kroeschell for another building which he is erecting, also ordered another No. 11 Kroeschell.
LEEK & CO., Vancouver, B. C.

There Is No Better Boiler

The Kroeschell Boiler works better in every way than the boiler I had before and has given me all the satisfaction I want.

Kroeschell Boiler, Generator and Heating System Insure Perfect Results

Having promised you a letter as soon as we have passed through a good fair test, I consider it now most timely. We had the thermometer 18 degrees below and we've just gone through a blizzard bad enough for most any season, and am very well pleased to inform you that our heating system was equal to the occasion. So far as we have gone, am certainly well satisfied with the Kroeschell Boiler, Generator and Heating System.
J. E. MATTHEWSON, Sheboygan, Wis.

A Prominent Rose Grower Praises the Kroeschell

I think your boiler is the boss of all boilers.
JEFF DOREMUS, Green Village, N. J.

Heats Canadian Range Easily and Saves Fuel

I had a flue boiler before I got the Kroeschell, which could hardly heat the glass, although it used more fuel than yours. I also have your Generator, which is giving good satisfaction. I think a Generator would pay for itself in a few weeks.
J. L. HILLBORN, Leamington, Ont.

Heats Up Entire System in 30 Minutes—Kroeschell Boilers Are Fine

It only takes 30 minutes from firing to drive the water entirely through my system, a distance of 200 feet. When heavy firing is necessary, I make 180 degrees in the main returns at the boiler. Your boilers are fine.
W. C. SCOVELL, Malta, Ohio.

Get a Kroeschell—You'll Be Pleased

Will say that the boiler has given me perfect satisfaction and have had no trouble whatever in heating my house during the very cold winter, and it is with very great pleasure that I recommend your boiler whenever opportunity occurs.
A. H. KNIGHT, Shrewsbury, Mass.

Kroeschell Replaces 2 Cast Iron Boilers

The Marysville Floral Co., of Marysville, O., installed a No. 4 Kroeschell Boiler in 1905. Previous to this time they used cast iron boilers. The following letter speaks for itself:

"Has the Kroeschell given entire satisfaction? Yes! We had two cast iron boilers, but yours proved by far the best. Your boiler has already outlasted the two cast iron boilers by five years, and all the expense that we have been put to was a smoke dome."

stead of one. Or, I might take out the 6-pipe header at the north end and divide the coil in halves lengthwise. Or, as there are two taps in the top of the boiler, I might take one flow from each tap, using one for the carnation section and the other for the general plant section; now they all draw from one flow. I use a mercury generator. C. H. L.—Mass.

Since nothing is said regarding the size of the boiler, I cannot determine whether or not it has sufficient capacity to heat the present house. It is possible, of course, to increase the capacity of a boiler by the addition of one or more sections, but the capacity is not increased in proportion to the addition made to the fire surface.

So far as can be judged from the description and sketch furnished, the principal trouble is in the size of the return pipes from the coils in the carnation houses, since the 1½-inch returns must handle the water from coils eighty-three feet long, each containing six 2-inch pipes, besides that in the flow pipe, or a total of about 300 square feet.

The plans suggested for correcting the difficulty are excellent, provided the returns are made of the same size as the flow pipes. I would advise the use of two 2-inch flows to supply the coils in the part of the house used for general greenhouse stock, and would then run two 2½-inch flows to supply the coils in the carnation section, with returns from the coils of the same size as the flows. There should be gate or angle valves on the 2-inch flows, making it possible, if necessary, to force more of the water to the coils in the carnation house. This would be better than to run additional 2-inch pipes, as suggested, although the latter would give good results, if returns of the same size were used.

Uniontown, Pa.—T. N. Brown, 71 Highland avenue, has been holding his annual exhibition of his collection of insects. It numbers between 17,000 and 18,000, and is said to have the widest range of any in this part of the country outside of the Carnegie Museum.

The Market.

Little can be said of business last week. The usual summer conditions prevailed. Hot weather has arrived and flowers do not last long. Roses and carnations are small. Gladioli and all outdoor stock are plentiful.

Various Notes.

Julius Niednagel & Sons are giving their employees Saturday afternoons off during July and August. The carnations are nearly all planted and in good shape. The chrysanthemums have started off well. No roses will be grown at the old plant this year, as all the cut roses needed will be furnished by the C. L. Niednagel place.

C. L. Niednagel has his roses all planted and they are looking well. The old stock run over is getting a good start. American Beauties have been cut down considerably in quantity.

William Blackman Floral Co. has one house of old carnations to clean out and replant. The newly planted houses are doing well and the roses are growing satisfactorily. Several new roses are being tried out and Frank Woelz, the grower, thinks well of his Hoosier Beauty and Ophelia. Edward Blackman and family have returned from a week's stay at Memphis, Tenn.

J. C. Elsperrmann has been cutting many gladioli and other outdoor flowers. He reports business as good, considering the season.

Royston & Fenton will only have about half the roses they formerly grew. They will grow sultana in three varieties, and salvia, Sprenger, smilax and coleus in large quantities.

E. L. F.

ATLANTA, GA.

Business last week was fair, consisting chiefly of orders for funeral pieces and wedding decorations.

The new store of the Nunnally Co. is almost ready for occupancy. It is said to be one of the handsomest stores in the south, and its location is probably the best that Atlanta affords. Two spacious display windows will form an important part of the company's advertising.

The Dahl Co. has a timely window display, which will remain as an attraction during the summer months. By means of ferns and birch bark, and running water to represent a brook, a bit of shady woods is pictured that is particularly pleasing on these hot days.

The West View Floral Co. has an attractive window display of outdoor-grown flowers.

The Market.

Business was fair last week. The severe heat of the week previous had abated, and a number of electrical storms helped to clear the atmosphere.

The market is flooded with all varieties of cut flowers, the hardy outdoor flowers being most numerous. The quality of the stock is not so good as that of a few weeks ago. Roses are more plentiful than the demand calls for. Only the long-stemmed, better grades are in keeping with the demand. Sunburst, Ward, Ophelia and Richmond are the best roses at present. Greenhouse carnations are over at last. Gladioli are the finest and most abundant of the outdoor flowers. Many fine varieties are being received from the surrounding country. Asters are improving in quality and becoming more abundant.

Various Notes.

Miss Georgia Alice Flick spent last week at Sylvan lake resort, Rome City, Ind.

Miss Catherine Vesey is visiting her sister, Mrs. Cecil Max, at Mobile, Ala.

Frank Knecht & Co. report a fine summer business in roses. Russell and Shawyer are their specialties.

Markey Bros. are kept busy at their new stand, on West Washington street. They are showing some attractive pot plants in hardy hydrangeas, gloxinias and fuchsias.

Herbert Zur Muhlen, of the Auger Flower Shop, reports summer business as good as could be expected. Funeral work is in demand. R. F.

NEWPORT, R. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Hass have issued invitations for the wedding of their daughter, Henrietta Lena, to Donald R. Niblack, of Atlanta, Ga., August 11.

THRIPS ON CARNATIONS.

Ed. American Florist:

Please advise how to remedy the trouble affecting Carnation buds mailed under separate cover. Kansas. F. W. F.

The Carnation buds are badly infested with Thrips. Upon opening up two or three of the buds we found them alive with these pests. Thrips are one of the worst enemies that Carnation growers have to deal with, and the only way to fight them successfully is to get after them by spraying the plants regularly with the Nicotine preparations as soon as they are planted into the houses from the field and keep at it continually until weather conditions will allow for fumigation. For stubborn cases we spray with HAMMOND'S THRIP JUICE No. 2, applied as per directions on the cans. This is an oily substance and will cause the foliage of the plants to look a lighter green, but we have never found it to harm the foliage at all. C. W. JOHNSON.

THRIP JUICE No. 2 ON ROSES.

Hopeland Estate, Staatsburg, N. Y., Dec. 20, 1913.

Hammond's Paint & Slug Shot Works, Beacon, N. Y.

Dear Sirs: I have used your THRIP JUICE No. 2 on outdoor Roses, also Roses indoors, as well as Bay Trees and other hard-wooded stock, and can say it is a most efficient remedy for Scale, Mealy Bug and Thrips. Very truly yours, (Signed) CHAS. HARMAN, Supt.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 7, 1914.

Col. Wm. Sharp, for more than twenty-five years grower for Samuel Murray, says: "I have found THRIP JUICE No. 2 very effective for White Scale on Cattleys and variegated Pineapples, Brown Scale on Ficus and Palms.

While several applications may be necessary, it is cheaper in the end than Nicotine and far more effective.

Our farmer finds it a cure for the Curculio on Plums. Send along five gallons as before." W. M.

Springfield, Ohio, Feb. 17, 1915.

Schmidt & Botley Co. endorse THRIP JUICE No. 2 for killing the White Fly. They believe in prevention, and took steps at once to destroy it.

Gustav Schneider says he uses THRIP JUICE No. 2 regularly, more as a preventive, and never had a finer lot of Chrysanthemums than last season. At one time the plants were affected with rust, but one or two sprayings brought them around.

Charlotte, N. C., Nov. 14, 1914.

Robert Lockerbie, many years with the Robt. Craig Co., and now grower for the Charlotte Cut Flower Co., says he has used all makes of Insecticides and is now using THRIP JUICE No. 2 for Thrips on Chrysanthemums and Carnations. The dilution of one to forty is proper. Sprayed on cloudy days, every week or ten days, left on foliage for 48 hours, it never fails to kill the insect and the slight discoloration on foliage is offset by its usefulness. W. M.

The Market.

Business is just as it always is during the summer months. There is but little doing. Stock of every description is plentiful. The market is better supplied than ever before with such outdoor flowers as candytuft, sweet alysum, gypsophilas, scabiosas and centaureas. The first asters have made their appearance, as also have dahlias. Gladioli are available in large quantities, but not many in fancy kinds. Roses are plentiful and improving in quality, the foliage in this vicinity being badly mildewed lately. Beauties are of good quality, though small in size. These always popular roses find a ready sale now and are good value for both retailer and consumer. Carnations are becoming smaller as the summer advances, and are selling for little more than nothing.

Various Notes.

Harry Breitmeyer and his wife left last week for a trip in their touring car, taking in several cities in Ohio and then stopping at a summer resort for a few days.

Norman Sullivan took the Saturday boat for Cleveland, and after spending several days in that city, he and some friends will return to Detroit via automobile.

B. Schroeter had a fair-sized summer wedding decoration July 26.

Four loaded touring cars left Detroit, or rather Albert Pochelon's summer cottage just outside Detroit, late Friday night, July 23, for a ten days' trip up the Au Sable river. In the party were E. A. Feters; Mr. Pochelon, his wife and two of his children; Walter Taepke and his wife; Robert Rahaley and wife; George Hampton, of Jos. G. Neidinger, Philadelphia, and several friends not known to the trade. When the party reach their destination, several days will be spent in trout fishing.

Albert Sylvester, of the Michigan Cut Flower Exchange, recently placed his order for a Buick light 6-cylinder touring car.

Martha Kurtzholz and Helen Ott, both of B. Schroeter's store, have been away on their annual vacations. Miss Kurtzholz is still in Saginaw visiting relatives. H. S.

How Things Look

Last Tuesday I returned from an extended trip through the Eastern States.

Took it, to find out "How Things Look," as they say in Boston when speaking of business conditions.

The papers are filled these days with the words of fortune tellers, who for one reason or another (mostly another) seem to feel they are competent to pass on anything from the number of kernels of corn there will be on a cob to the price pink Killarneys will be the day before Xmas.

It makes good reading, what these soothsayers turn out; but it has very little to do with real business.

Being in a very real business, we determined to get a line on things correctly.

The Eastern States was selected, because of the well known conservatism of its business men.

In Kansas you know they whoop things up; and then have to strain every nerve to see that they stay up. But the "Boston way folks" know that you can bake beans only just so fast, without burning them.

So they form their business judgments on the baked bean plan. Consequently when you get their point of view, it is apt to be done all the way through and browned all the way around.

But enough of beans—now for the facts.

Of the many men in various lines of business with whom I talked but few were anything but optimistic. Of course there were some calamity howlers. The kind which, like the poor, "we always have with us."

Boiling the whole thing down, the impression seemed to be that the European War was on for a long pull, and that this country was never in a better position to make money. Now if the business men would stop taking their pulse every few minutes and instead of talking war, eating war, and sleeping war, would get business busy, that business would then start moving briskly.

As one man put it: "Cut out the war talk and go along and roll your hoop."

So I came back, feeling decidedly optimistic.

As far as our orders are concerned, we have nothing to kick about; especially those for our Reconstructed Construction. From the way our commercial business is going, it is evident that a lot of the growers are confident of business being such as it never has been before; and they are going to be ready to get their share, along with some of that belonging to the other fellow who has put off building.

As you know, building conditions were never better. Materials are lower than they will be again for many a long day to come. Labor is plentiful and eager to work when they work.

And now, how about you?

You know we go anywhere for business. Or to talk business, and you can depend on depending on Hitchings.

us a postcard giving the number of Carnations you grow in a short row, crosswise of the bench, and state the bench width, and we will send you free of charge our improved continuous-ring Carnation Supports for 100 plants. Be sure and state the number of plants in a row, as we furnish as many rings in each connected strand as the grower has Carnations crosswise of his bench.

These Carnation Supports overcome the objectionable features of all other makes.

"We Understand
Our Business Thoroughly"

Our thorough knowledge of the finer points in greenhouse construction enables us to save that much on the cost of our output—and we are giving you the benefit of this saving. We have always given 100 cents value for every dollar—sometimes more. As we have never yet had any complaints, we lose nothing by guaranteeing our material against defects.

Willens Personal Service

Every bit of the work is personally directed by one of the Willens'. If we do the erecting, one of the Willens' personally supervises the work. Careful attention is paid to the minutest details, each of which is conducive to longer life and better greenhouse service. If you have never tried us or are dissatisfied in your past dealings with others, begin now to benefit by our service and material. Write us today.

What They Say:

Willens Construction Co.,
Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen: The greenhouses you built for me last summer and with which I am so well pleased, received several severe tests within the last few days. During one cold spell of 30 degrees below, I easily maintained the desired temperature in the greenhouses.

I am well pleased with the material and also your pleasant business methods and am convinced that I have the finest greenhouses in Nebraska.

Yours very truly,
L. Buckendorf,

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

The Market.

An occasional funeral order is the only thing that is keeping any movement in the present market. Most of the growers have dried off all their benches and are preparing for rebenching. Asters are making their appearance and are taking the place of carnations in design work. Prices are low and a majority of the growers are off crop.

Various Notes.

Harry Oakley is preparing to open a retail store on Empire street, near Westminster street.

Smith the Florist had a conspicuous design for the funeral of John B. Herreshoff, the blind boat designer, of Bristol, last week. It was a replica of Mr. Herreshoff's yachting pennant, and had a blue background of bachelor's buttons, a center cross of red carnations, with an inner cross of feverfew. Samuel Kinder, of Bristol, had a 6-foot anchor for the same funeral.

S. S. Skidelsky, of Philadelphia, was a business visitor last week.

The Woonsocket Hill Nurseries, of which C. W. Morey is the proprietor, have been increased by the purchase of two acres of land adjoining, which gives about ten acres in all.

Joseph Koppelman has commenced installing cement benches in his houses, both at Riverside and Oaklawn.

William Jurgens, of Newport, was a visitor Saturday, July 24.

Robert Koppelman, Boston representative of Joseph E. Koppelman, was in the city Thursday, July 22, on his way to New York.

Frederick Deitz has just received his new Overland touring car.

Timothy O'Connor and family are at Narragansett Pier, where they have a cottage for the summer.

John Burke, of Burke & Burns, is arranging to open a retail store in the new Strand building, on Washington street.

Samuel Resnick, with J. E. Koppelman, has gone to Block Island for a two weeks' vacation trip.

K. J. Murphy is planning to erect several large greenhouses in connection with his nursery, at East Providence, BAUR FLORAL CO., Erie, Pa.

where he intends growing pot plants and cut flowers.

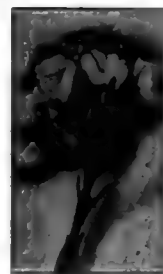

Joseph Appleton, for several years with Eugene Appleton, has started in business for himself in landscape work.

Miss Ellen O'Connor, of Thayer street, is having a delivery car built, which she expects in a few weeks.

Louis J. Reuter, of Westerly, was a business visitor in New York last week.

Swan Peterson, of East Providence, had ten large designs for one funeral last week.

Marion, Ind.—Mrs. V. C. Yaeger, 3601 South Nebraska street, reports fine business for her second year in the trade. Her specialties are asters and dahlias, though she does a general line.

Medina, O.—Hammerschmidt & Clark's greenhouses were threatened by fire on a recent midnight, when a barn across the street burned. The wind blew the flames from several tons of hay right into the front of the greenhouses, breaking many lights and blistering the paint. A bench of 300 Liliun giganteum then in bud were scorched by the heat, as were also a bench of Nutt geraniums.

Why you NEED the

"Permi-tite" Hotbed Sash

—the Sash with Racine Puttyless Glazing

"Permi-tite" Sash is made of clear cypress, blind mortised, dipped in pure linseed oil. No paint to cover imperfections. It cannot rot.

"Permi-tite" glazing with lead strips—no putty—saves you money because it outlasts any other sash on the market. Glass cannot slip or blow out. No reputtying.

Single or double glazed—practically air and water tight, and stays so.

To better convince you of "Permi-tite" superiority, we offer any responsible Florist or Nurseryman

30 Days Free Trial

Use "Permi-tite" Sashes 30 days free of cost. If you do not then consider them the biggest value and the only sashes to use, return them at our expense.

POST YOURSELF ON ALL THE FACTS ABOUT GREENHOUSES—INSIDE AND OUT!

The best testimonial that we can offer anyone is to refer them to those whom we have done work for.

This is but one of a long list we have to submit, both from professional growers and those who grow for pleasure.

Tamaqua, Pa.

To whom it may concern:—

We recommend S. Jacobs & Sons for greenhouse construction work.

First, because of the superior quality of their materials, and second, because of their reasonableness in price.

The first and second greenhouses shown to the right of the photograph we purchased from the above mentioned firm in 1911, and the third house on the left in 1913. Everything for this entire range was bought from them.

Their heating apparatus has given us exceptional satisfaction. We had an outside temperature of 12° below zero just the other year, yet in spite of this we were able, under ordinary heating, to keep up a temperature of 60° in the houses.

Very truly yours,

F. W. BECKER.

We know all the facts about Greenhouses, inside and out. At it almost half a century.

We go anywhere to submit plans and prices.

Why you NEED the "Permi-tite" Hotbed Sash

—the Sash with Racine Puttyless Glazing

"Permi-tite" Sash is made of clear cypress, blind mortised, dipped in pure linseed oil. No paint to cover imperfections. It cannot rot.

"Permi-tite" glazing with lead strips—no putty—saves you money because it outlasts any other sash on the market. Glass cannot slip or blow out. No reputtying.

Single or double glazed—practically air and water tight, and stays so.

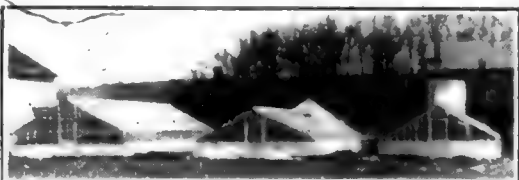

To better convince you of "Permi-tite" superiority, we offer any responsible Florist or Nurseryman

30 Days Free Trial

Use "Permi-tite" Sashes 30 days free of cost. If you do not then consider them the biggest value and the only sashes to use, return them at our expense.

See letter of Swain Nelson & Sons Co., page 100 Review of July 15, and write us how many you can use.

Racine Puttyless Window Co., RACINE, WISCONSIN

POST YOURSELF ON ALL THE FACTS ABOUT GREEN- HOUSES--INSIDE AND OUT!

The best testimonial that we can offer anyone is to refer them to those whom we have done work for.

This is but one of a long list we have to submit, both from professional growers and those who grow for pleasure.

Tamaqua, Pa.

To whom it may concern:—

We recommend S. Jacobs & Sons for greenhouse construction work.

First, because of the superior quality of their materials, and second, because of their reasonableness in price.

The first and second greenhouses shown to the right of the photograph we purchased from the above mentioned firm in 1911, and the third house on the left in 1913. Everything for this entire range was bought from them.

Their heating apparatus has given us exceptional satisfaction. We had an outside temperature of 12° below zero just the other year, yet in spite of this we were able, under ordinary heating, to keep up a temperature of 60° in the houses.

Very truly yours,

F. W. BECKER.

We know all the facts about Greenhouses, inside and out. At it almost half a century.

We go anywhere to submit plans and prices.

Chicago, Illinois.

Dear Sirs:

There are four big points in favor of the "Korkstone Floor" you laid in my store last September. They are:

First: The "Korkstone Floor" is light in color and sets off the flowers and fixtures to advantage.

Second: It is easy on the feet, having a "give" to it not found in marble, mosaic or tile floors.

Third: Does not become slippery when wet, dries very quickly and is easily mopped clean.

Fourth: A "Korkstone Floor" is easily laid over old wooden floors, is inexpensive and does not crack or chip.

Very truly yours,

George C. Weiland

on "Korkstone Floors"

—the original German plastic flooring.

To retail store florists, "Korkstone Composition Floors" afford economy, service and quality vastly superior to either marble, mosaic, tile or hardwood floors.

WHY THEY WIN

- ☞ They are inexpensive.
- ☞ Easily installed.
- ☞ Sanitary and fireproof.
- ☞ Guaranteed to "make good."

Now's the time to install your "Korkstone Floor."

GREENHOUSES: HINSDALE AND GREGGS, ILL.

Establishment of John Graeber Sons, Springfield, Ohio.—Dietsch Construction.

LONG experience in designing and manufacturing greenhouses enables us to give absolutely the best in materials and service. We cannot charge for the service, as it consists of the knowledge we have gained in our many years in business, but it amounts to a great saving in dollars to you. We will delight in solving your building problems for you.

Material is different. We charge you for the material and the work in turning it out. It is the best that can be secured and you get an honest value in every stick you buy from us.

If you intend to build this season send us your ideas and get our estimate. We will be prompt.

For a practical house the Dietsch is best.

Some Bulb Growing Results That Ought to Make You Take Notice

If rain is good for every growing thing, then the Skinner System of Irrigation is good for everything that grows.

Take bulbs for example: T. E. Barnes, of Spencer, Ind., writes that his "bulbs irrigated with the Skinner System averaged three times the bulk of those grown under the old method of watering; and five times the bulk of those grown without any irrigation."

SPECIAL OFFER

The most convincing of all convince-ment is to convince yourself; all yourself.

The easiest and cheapest way of doing that very thing with the Skinner System is to send us $11.75 and we will promptly ship, freight prepaid east of the Mississippi, one of our 50-foot Complete Portable Lines, that will water 2500 square feet.

The pipe will be all equipped with Silver Stream nozzles, quick acting connections and turning union, all ready to be set up.

100-foot line costs $23.00. One acre, $125.00.

In selling carnation plants, we have your interest in mind, as much and more so, than the growers'. Unless the grower has good plants, we are not obliged to sell them, and that is something decidedly in your favor in placing your order for carnation plants with us.

Place your order for plants now. We will reserve them for you until you are ready for them.

IT IS HARD TO "KICK AGAINST THE PRICKS"

Seems as if contractors in Greenhouse construction would learn better than to try to "stem the flood." Several have tried in late years to use a cheaper wood than Cypress—and some of them have come to grief. Others have not attained to the prosperity their energy and vigilance would seem to deserve. If they would but use the one specially created and certified long-life wood, Cypress, their experience might be different; but to "buck" Cypress in Greenhouse construction spells disaster to the contractor and ruin to the man who pays for the job.

To correct a common error it must be said, and now's a good time to say it, that these substitute woods are all cheaper to buy than is "Tank Grade" Cypress. Reliable greenhouse contractors and supply men use the very best product of the Cypress industry. They are not hunting for something "cheap." They buy the best grade of the best lumber for their business. And for such racking employment as "staying put" in a greenhouse, the best is none too good—and is the real cheapest in the long run.

And Cypress is IT.

Of course you want PECKY CYPRESS, however, for your benches. And that is cheap enough to suit anybody—and for such homely uses lasts longer than grades costing more.

ASK US TO "PASS THE GRAVY"

Make yourself free with our Cypress Pocket Library, it was printed for you. Vol. 1 treats of Cypress in general, including the report of the U. S. Govt. on the uses to which the wood is adapted. Vol. 3 is entitled "The Only Greenhouse Wood;" and Vol. 2 (almost ready) is very interesting to the profession, for it treats of "Pecky" Cypress, the kind so much used for benches and standards. They are free for the asking; get busy and ask. Vol. 4 is the Barn Book; Vol. 5 is the new Silo Book.

The Greenhouse Builder's Test

WHAT a greenhouse builder has done in the past, what he is doing now, and what he is reputed to be capable of doing, these things constitute the only valid test of a builder's capabilities and claims.

Where an owner makes his selection of a builder on the above basis, the Metropolitan Material Co. organization can stand the test in a fashion which will make choosing easy.

Forty-four years at greenhouse construction has made us experts.

We flourish by comparison.

Put your greenhouse problems up to us. Let us submit plans and prices. We go anywhere in the U. S. A.

IT IS HARD TO "KICK AGAINST THE PRICKS"

Seems as if contractors in Greenhouse construction would learn better than to try to "stem the flood." Several have tried in late years to use a cheaper wood than Cypress—and some of them have come to grief. Others have not attained to the prosperity their energy and vigilance would seem to deserve. If they would but use the one specially created and certified long-life wood, Cypress, their experience might be different; but to "buck" Cypress in Greenhouse construction spells disaster to the contractor and ruin to the man who pays for the job.

To correct a common error it must be said, and now's a good time to say it, that these substitute woods are all cheaper to buy than is "Tank Grade" Cypress. Reliable greenhouse contractors and supply men use the very best product of the Cypress industry. They are not hunting for something "cheap." They buy the best grade of the best lumber for their business. And for such racking employment as "staying put" in a greenhouse, the best is none too good—and is the real cheapest in the long run.

And Cypress is IT.

Of course you want PECKY CYPRESS, however, for your benches. And that is cheap enough to suit anybody—and for such homely uses lasts longer than grades costing more.

ASK US TO "PASS THE GRAVY"

Make yourself free with our Cypress Pocket Library, it was printed for you. Vol. 1 treats of Cypress in general, including the report of the U. S. Govt. on the uses to which the wood is adapted. Vol. 3 is entitled "The Only Greenhouse Wood;" and Vol. 2 (almost ready) is very interesting to the profession, for it treats of "Pecky" Cypress, the kind so much used for benches and standards. They are free for the asking; get busy and ask. Vol. 4 is the Barn Book; Vol. 37 is the new Silo Book.

The Greenhouse Builder's Test

WHAT a greenhouse builder has done in the past, what he is doing now, and what he is reputed to be capable of doing, these things constitute the only valid test of a builder's capabilities and claims.

Where an owner makes his selection of a builder on the above basis, the Metropolitan Material Co. organization can stand the test in a fashion which will make choosing easy.

Forty-four years at greenhouse construction has made us experts.

We flourish by comparison.

Henry Ford Builds Four Moninger Houses...

This is Mr. Ford.

WHEN Henry Ford wanted to build greenhouses at his estate in Dearborn, Mich., he consulted his architect in charge of the building work being done on the place and with his landscape architect. Then he went to see different houses. When he saw one of the Moninger houses out at Lake Forest, Ill., he was convinced. The result was we were given the order to build four steel frame houses and several cold frames and hot beds.

Henry Ford decided on the right firm. He knew a good job when he saw it.

You can't do better than buy your next house of us.
